RAMPANT DISUNIONIST

Driven Out of Kansas by Loyal Union Men and Hidden by Bushwhackers Near Rushville. Mo.

A Matter of Record.

A few days ago a promment merchant, who formerly resided in Missouri, returned from a visit to his old home. In talking about the incidents of his trip he remarked : "I was very much amused over a talk I had with some rampant old confeds near Rushville. One of them asked whether Isaac S. Hascall was still on deck at Omaha, and when I told him that he was, he said:

"'He's a staunch old democrat, and a man we admire.' ' "Why, he's a stalwart republican, and has just been nominated by the republicans for the state senate." "'You're joking, ain't you? Why. Hascall was one of our wheel-horses. He fought against the Freesoilers, and finally shot one of these Lincolnites over in Kansas. He got away across the river, and we hid him down

This reminiscence of Hascall as related by the Omaha merchant was promptly followed up by THE BEE and a reliable correspondent at Atchison was directed to interview the old settlers at Atchison and Rushville and report what he could learn with reference to Hascall s life on the Missouri-Kansas border. Following is the report:

BORDER RUPPIAN LAWYER. Atomison, Kas., Oct. 30 .- | Special to THE BEE. |-Judge S. H. Glenn, one of the oldes: settlers in Atchison, was called on and asked if he had ever known Isaac S. Hascall, and what he knew of his early reputation, he

"I came here in 1859. Isaac S. Hascall was here then engaged in the law business with another pro-slavery man by the name of Hereford, the style of the firm being Here-Sord & Hascall. He was a rabid secessionist, and loudly boasted that he was a rebel of the deepest dye. On the sign, hung outside Ms office, were the words, Border Ruffian Lawyer.' The associates he seemed to cultivate were men of that class, the bushwhackers from Missouri, with whom he always endeavored to stand in. Hascall, I believe, came originally from New York state, and avowed himself as a democrat. In '61 he was the democratic candidate for the mayoralty of Atchison, and had for an opponent Captain George H. Fairchilds About this time a large number of democrats from the north came in, who were "free soilers" or nothing. Hascali was universally despised by all free soil democrats in the vicuaity, to say nothing of the republican element, and Hascall was overwhelmingly defeated by the joined forces. At this time there was a South Carolina pro-slavery law firm named Carr & Headley doing business here, who had come out to endeavor to make Kansas a slave state. These men Hascall with others of his ilk, including a large mot of Missourians, joined forces with, and one day early in '61 the loyal inhabitants armed themselves, and drove Hascalt and his gang out of the state. Hascall's property was confiscated. The house, a brick structure, still stands on Second street in this city. I believe though Hascall afterwards got a small sum of money out of it. Hascall was personally one of the most offensive men I ever met. His legal attainments were of the "police court rustler" stamp, and that was about looking out for Hascall first." Major Crowell, who was an United States postoffice inspector in Kansas and Missouri in earlydays, was seen and asked if he had known Hascall in 1859 and 1860. He replied:

all the practice he had here. I never heard of his shooting anyone in this part of the country; in fact, he was too cowardly to do any-actual fighting for the south; all the fighting he cared to do was with his mouth. So he is a republican now. Well, it only bears out my constant opinion of the man. Entirely without principle, deceitful, and always

"Yes, I distinctly remember Hascall. We drove him out of this country at the point of the revolver. He was a great blownard in his views on the slavery question; a rank rebel, and always shouting it. I never heard of his shooting anyone down here; it might have occurred back somewhere in the state. if he did so, as I know of everyone who was killed along the river during those troublous times. You see Hascall was hand and with a pretty hard crowd of sympathizers, and although a northern democrat, was as rabid as any southerner in the mob of bushwhackers who came across the river. So in '61 we determined to clear them all off Kansas soil. Any man who would not shout 'Hurrah for Lincoln' had to go. They didn't want to but they saw we meant business, and they went,

Your correspondent went to Rushville, Mo., a town of about six hundred inhabitants, and met some of the old settlers. Rushville, during the war, was a rebel hot-bed and was a bushwhacker headquarters. To this day the sentiments of the men who were slaveholders before the war are distinctly rebellious. A letter of introduction to Uncle Billy Wells, as he is called, paved the way to further introductions. Mr. Wells was asked if he knew Hascall:

"Know him! I should say I did! When he left Kansas he came over to us, and lived for six months or more in that little house on the hill," and he pointed to an unpretentious house not far away.

"What were his politics then !"

"He was a good democrat, sir, and a ferwent pro-slavery man, as we all were. He ent with me to the Lecempton convention and helped frame the constitution."

At this juncture Al. Fenton, an old settle: and a man of considerable means, strolled up whittling a pine stick, and listened to the

"Did you know of Hascall's ever having killed a man in Kansas in 1861, Mr. Wells!" "Yes,"broke in Mr. Fenton, "it was claimed that he was the man who shot old man Hart-

Uncle Billy was much annoyed at this in terruption, and excitedly denied this. Mr. Fenton saw he had made a mistake, and nervously expectorated into the road.

"No, sir," thundered Uncle Billy, "I regard Mr. Hascall as a high-minded, hightoned gentleman, and when he was among us he was very popular." "Did Hascall avow himself to be a rebel, Mr. Wells"

Yes, sir, he did. It wasn't very healthy in Rushville for a union man at that time." By this time a crowd of village loafers and lank Missourians, with a pig and a couple of yellow dogs, gathered about Uncle Billy and the reporter, and the conversation became general. Many of the older men remembered Hascall, and they all expressed admiration for the man's noble qualities and his demo-eratic principles. When told that he was a republican, their disgust was manifest. One cold gentleman said: "Well, Fil be gosh darned!" and wandered off, vagging his head sadly. On the Missouri side of the giver the people who had known Hascall all apoke highly of him until informed of his resublicantam.

After this letter had reached Tax BEE of-RUFFIAN, nee a reporter was directed to interview Hascall personally and get his side of the fice a reporter was directed to interview The Mystery Surrounding It Cleared

In one of his haunts on Farnam street Hascall, surrounded by a crowd of thirsty councilmen and politicians, was purchasing round after round of beer. He was called to one side and asked. Were you in Kansas or Missouri in 1859 or father was a staunch democrat, but I have always been a republican." "Did you ever profess sympathy with the south before or during the war!" "No sir. I was a union man and true one, sir.' "Did you have anything to do with killing man by the name of Hartman in 1861. Mr Hascall!" bluntly asked the reporter.

"Nothing whatever, sir, I'll tell you about that case. You see Hartman committed suicide at St. Joe. He was a noted jaybawker and horse thief, and was shot one night by a party, that's all." When asked about his "border rufflan law-

"What were your politics in those days

"I was a republican then as now,

"Yes," he replied, "I was."

yer" sign, he laughed and said it was merely a joke. "The same, you know," he said, "as if some of my friends were to come up to me say, 'Hello, you old rascal.'" This simile was too much for the reporter, and he burst out laughing, in which Mr. Hascall joined. "Now, young man," he continued, "if you want to know anything of my antecedents I can refer you to a dozen men." He then called the names of two or three men who are known to be strong friends of his, with whom he has political connections. Hascall then joined Mr. party, but shortly returned, bringing with him a man of about thirty-five years of age, whom he said had known him all his life. He was introduced to the reporter, and said he was a farmer from Iowa. He immediately stated that he had known Hascall ad his life, and had known his father well. He was asked the political belief of Hascall's father. "He was a republican all his life, knew him well."

"You are sure he was a republican!" asked the reporter.

"Yes, I am sure of it; he was always a reoublican." This was somewhat of a shock to the reorter, as Hascall himself had said, but a few oments before, that his father had always been a democrat. "Did you ever know Hascall in Kansas!" e was asked.

"Oh, yes; I knew him at Ashton," he re pried.

"Don't you mean Atchison!" "No. I think it was Ashton." The gentleman had evidently not been thoroughly posted before he was brought in to be interviewed, and this was so palpable that the reporter wasted no further time on him, and he was bidden "good day." A FLAT CONTRADICTION. A party who knew Hascall's father during the war stated last night that he was not only a rank copperhead and rebel sympathizer, but had been accused of organizing a lodge of the Knights of the Golden Circle. These knights in New York, as in Indiana and in the northern border states, were like the tories of the revolution, disloyal and plotting against the government. TREASONABLE TALK.

An old resident of Omaha, who was interviewed by the reporter, said in substance: "When Hascall came here he had letters of introduction from Missouri rebel sympathisers to J. M. Woolworth, James G. Megeath and others as a man who was entitled to help from staunch democrats. He was appointed probate judge at the instance of leading democrats, and was outspoken in his disloyalty. The idea of Mascall pretending that he was a union man! I heard a great many secesion and copperhead speakers both north and south at the outbreak of the war, but never in all my life did I hear such ve lignant and treasonable talk as I heard Hascall make in the first speech he delivered at the old Douglas county court house. He denounced Lincoln and the great leaders of the union in terms that were so shocking and depraved that I could not bear to listen to them, and left the hall with many others indignant and disgusted.

THE STORY CONFIRMED. A very intimate and close friend of Hascall's, whose name is withheld by request, was next seen, and told the story of Hascall's life in Kansas and Missouri. It confirmed the story of his career as a pro-slavery border ruffian leader. It told of the flight into Missouri, and the residence there for six months. The bushwhackers of Missouri were in Atchison constantly, and Hascall is said to have been with them night after night, neglecting his wife and home. The night Hartman was shot it is claimed that Hartman was in the party, but whether he himself shot the man is not known. The statement that Hascall, with other treasonplotters, were driven out of Atchison finally by the union element of the population, was also confirmed, and his denial refuted beyond a reasonable doubt.

THE MURCHISON LETTER.

Up at Last. Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 2.-The Times of this city, the paper that first printed Lord Sackville's letter to the Pomona inquirer, publishes what the editor claims are the real facts connected with the Murchison-West correspondence. Save the Times

"Information has been gathered directly from the few persons who are on the inside and possessed of all the facts in the case. The idea of writing a letter to Minister West originated with Murchison himself in the latter part of August or early in September. He is a reputable citizen of Pomona, of this county, and is of English parentage. The conception of the letter was his. He consulted a confidential friend in its preparation. Murchison said on the outset, and before sending the letter, that the object was not to perpetrate a joke or gratify curi-osity, but to get Minister West's, opinion osity, but to get Minister West's opinion on the topic embraced in the letter. Murchison's letter was dated September 4 and West's answer Septembr 13. The minister's letter was received at Pomons on September 20, and kept by the recipient till October 19, a full month, when it was brought to Los Angeles by W. A. Bell, an attorney of Pomona, and laid before W. P. Fitzgerald, manufactor of the transpillars. member of the republican state committee Henry J. Gage, delegate at large at the Chi cago convention; Harrison Grey Otis, editor of the Los Angeles Times, and one other man, a local candidate. They saw the importance of West's letter from a political point of view, and it was unanimously deter mined by the persons present to make the letter public without delay, which was done, the date of the first publication here being October 2

GEN. THAYER IN THE WARDS.

The Governor Facing the Voters of the State's Metropolis.

DENOUNCING THE ENEMY'S LIES.

The Disciples of His Antagonist Make Final Arrangements for Their Great Pyrotechnic Display, To-Night.

Meeting the Voters of Omaha. The republicans had a rousing meeting Thursday night at Forest hall, corner of Sixth and Piercestreets, and gave Governor Thayer an enthusiastic reception. Paul Hersh was chosen chairman, and introduced the governor with a few appropriate remarks. Governor Thayer began his speech with

he statement that it was a pleasure for him

o call upon the people of Omaba, for, as an nvariable rule, he was given a cordial, a nearty reception. He said he was not a par-dele slarmed when he discovered the waging of a personal war against him. He wished his whole life to be inspected, carefully and fully. He was aware that Mr. McShane wa the originator of the calumniating that had been started against him. He had invited Mr. McShane to meet him in public discus-sion, but instead of replying. McShane had been sending out printed matter filled with cowardly slander, and had numerous clerks doing the same thing. Mr. McSnane has had several hundred thousand slips with his name written on, to paste over the head of republican tickets in place of that of the present governor of the state. Not only this, but McShane has gone further and had bogus tickets printed and set afloat. When emocrats tried to carry an election by fraudulent means, he, the governor, proposed to see that they were punished. McSnane knows that he can't be elected by honest means—nor by fraud. If a man is honest he has no use or need of dishonest means. I had a right to demand that John A. Mc-Shane stand up and meet me in public. In failing to do so he has proclaimed himself a coward, and in locking himself up with clerks and devoting himself to sending out fraudulent tickets has placed himself liable o criminal prosecution under the statutes of Nebraska. The governor referred to Mc Shane's buying up newspapers throughout the state with campaign boodle, and showed up various instances of fraud. When McShane was in the legislature he voted against a maximum rate of railroad charges; against a bill making it a state offence to sell diseased animals; against one providing that all citizens were to be pro-tected in their individual rights. McShane voted against a bill to reimburse employes of railroad companies for injuries sustained while in discharge of their duty. The speaker said that it was strange that the democrats were pitching into him for signing the prison labor bill when three-fourths of the democratic legislators voted for the bill and could have passed it easily over his veto.

The governor's speech was followed by remarks from Messrs. William Gurley, candidate for county atterney: Henry Estabrook, I. S. Hascall, Gustave Andreen, George M.

I. S. Hascall, Gustave Andreen, George M. O'Brien, and others.

Last night Governor Thayer addressed the Sixth and Eight ward republican clubs at their respective headquarters, and in both instances he was greeted with large and enthusiastic audiences. Quite a number of ladies were present and apparently took a deep interest in his remarks, which were necessarily brief. He was accompanied by the republican glee club and a numrepublican glee club and a number of leading local politicians. Major Clarkson spoke at some length and predicted a sweeping republican majority for the state on election day. Ho compared the merits of the two candidates for covernor and distributed Covernor. for governor, and dictured Governor Thayer as being still in the harness and endeavoring to educate the people up to the true standard of citizenship, while his opponent has not once been heard from even in his own defense. He warned them against carelessivallowing democratic candidates for the legislature to step into office and thus sending a democratic sending a Membership sending a democratic senator to Washington, and made the statement that the democratic county committee had at present four persons, bound by oath to four persons, bound by oath to secreey, employed in preparing fraudulent republican tickets, to be issued to alection day with the names of Thayer on election day with the names of Thayer and Connell scratched for McShane and Morton. He said that 12,000 had been so prepared for the county and 12,000 for the ongressional district. Governor Thayer referred to the rapid growth of Nebraska under republican rule, and the difficulties the party had met with in bringing it through the dark days of the war times, to the exalted position it held in 1884. He spoke of John A. McShane's record in the legislature, when he voted against various bills brought before the house in the interests of the workingmen, and when he voted "no" to the bill asking that the volunteers who avenged the Blue river massacre be granted a regular discharge. They had not asked for compensa-tion for their services, but merely a record that they had done their duty faithfully and bravely, but John A. was unwilling to grant the recognition they deserved. Many of them were still alive, and they would not be found among McShane's supporters on election day. In the face of the record he had shown them, and which the state journals would prove, he asked those present if they could conscientiously support such a man. The policy of the republican party was a good one and had been for the good of the country while they were in power, and he asked them once more to endorse it by their votes on election day. All present were requested to take part in Monday night's demonstration, and the meeting adjourned. TO-NIGHT'S PARADE. Democracy Preparing to Perform Its Officers of Election. The duty of receiving ballots at Tuesday's election is involved in more or less doubt and confusion. Judges and clerks of election were chosen at the election a year ago in some precincts and not in others. The city of Omaha was especially neglectful. A number of the officers elected a year ago qualified but recently. The question arose: Could they legally qualify at this late date! The county attorney gave his opinion unoffi-cially, that they could, and the county com-missioners will probably act on that opinion. Following is a list of the officials in ques-

No Workingman's Ticket. T. J. McArdle, the secretary of the joint labor associations, reports that an adjourned meeting of the same was held at G. A. R. hall Thursday evening to hear the report of a committee appointed at Sunday's meeting. The committee recommended that no labor ticket distinctly representing organized labor be put in the field at this time, and warns all workingmen that if such appears, it is not authorized. The only parties recognized are the democratic, republican and the union labor. These being national parties, regularly organized, and having their tickets in the field, workingmen are advised to use their best judgment as to the merits of the candidates on either of these three tickets. This action is thought necessary, as it is ru-mored that irresponsible individuals are preparing to have a so-called labor ticket at the polls on election day. The recommendation was adopted.

HARRISON RELICS.

Enthusiasts Carry Off the Picke Fence and Pavement. INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 2.-General Harrison passed yesterday in his library at home, receiving the usual number of visitors. Among his callers was D. L. Brown of Kansas, who presented the general with a mallet made from the stump of a whig pole erected at Mount Tip, Athens county, Ohio, September

Several weeks ago General Harrison suffered the loss of a picket fence at the hands of the visiting Chicago drummers and others, who had made a nocturnal visit to the premises and carefully pried off all the sound pickets. Every little article about the yard has mysteriously disappeared, and it seemed as though no material had been left upon which the zealous relic hunter of the future could work. But one loose brick in the general's well-paved sidewalk proved fatal to this theory. It furnished the starting point, and now the gen-eral is threatened with a loss of his pavement, serious inroads having already

"That Miss Jones is a nice-looking girl, isn't she?" "Yes, and she'd be the belle of the town if it wasn't for one thing." "What's that? "She has catarrh so bad it is unpleasant to be near her. She has tried a dozen things and nothing helps her. I am sorry, for I like her, but that doesn't make it any less disagreeable for one to be around her.

Now if she had used Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, there would have been nothing of the kind said, for it will cure catarrh every time.

T. P. O'Connor's Views. LONDON, Nov. 2 .- The Star, T. P. O'Connor's paper, says that Lord Salisbury is not likely to listen to the demand for the dismissal of Phelps, United states minister, in re taliation for the treatment received by Lord Sackville from America. Such a step might do much harm and could do no good. All are agreed. it says, that Bayard's courtesy is scant, but we must not forget that ho is technically right. Lord Sackville's indiscretion warranted the demand for his recall if Lord Salisbury's reply to the demand amounted to a refusal. There is a good deal more to be said for the action of America than Englishmen are just now inclined to Metropolitan Club Papas Defeat the Boys at Base Ball.

About fifty handsome lady members of the Metropolitan club were highly interested in a spicy game at the ball ground Friday afternoon, which was a contest between the married and single men of the club. The daddies beat the boys shockingly by a score of 31 to 16. Before leaving the grounds some of the single boys declared they would get married, so as not to be included in the defeated nine that will play the return game. An Underhand Game.

Open rivalry is honorable. But any effort to trade upon the reputation of peerless SOZODONT, by forcing upon the public, dentifrices represented as similar or superior to it, is an under-hand game. Block it by demanding SOZODONT only.

BROKE HIS NECK. A Chicago Driver Stones a Street Car

and is Killed. CHICAGO, Nov. 2. -At a late hour last evening, as a car on the Garfield avenue line was passing Center street, John Miller, wearing a driver's badge of the North Chicago City railway company, threw a stone at the car, which crashed through the window after hitting the driver. An officer on the car jumped off and chased Miller, who refused to stop. The officer fired, hitting the man in the left leg. Just after the shot was fired the man disappeared and he was not found until an hour after, when he was discovered in a sole with his neck broken.

Thurman Again Broken Down. COLUMBMS, O., Nov. 2 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. |- Judge Thurman is feeling perceptibly the effects of his late campaigning, and is again quite feeble. He had ing, and is again quite feeble. He had braced himself up artificially in order to show his party that he was as "tough as a pine knot," as he put it. But the reaction has come, and it is hardly probable that he will be able to fill any more of his appointments after Saturday, and may not be able to keep that. He almost fainted while delivering his speech at Newark. Outdoor speaking has affected his voice also, and it is with difficulty that he can make himself with difficulty that he can make himself heard. He is broken down, but the exact truth as to his condition is jealously guarded by the managers of his party.

The Republicans of Des Moines Hold Their Last Rally of the Campaign - A Brakeman Fatally Injured.

An Iowa Cyclone.

LAPORTE, Ia., Nov. 2 .- [Special Telegram o THE BEE |-The first reports of pecuniary loss by the Laporte cyclone were exaggerated. The storm struck this place about 9 o'clock last night, wholly or partially destroying twelve stores, blew down Union hall, and demolished a house containing a family of five. The father, Sanders Walker, is injured internally, but not fatally, Mrs. Walker has a broken arm and collar bone, with minor bruises. The storm came from the southwest and continued three minutes, passing diagonally across the town. It then turned southeast and struck Mount Auburn, a station on the Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern railroad seven miles distant, where it unroofed houses, blew down the Methodist church, and buried a man named Albert Oppelt beneath the ruins of a stone house. The total loss is about $25,000.

The Des Moines Rally. DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 2 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-The republicans of Des Moines and central Iowa held their last rally of the campaign here to-day and to-night The "big four" of Iowa orators-Senator Allison, John A. Kasson, Colonel Hepburn and Congressman Conger-were the oratorical attractions. Four great meetings were held in the different opera houses. There was especial interest to hear Senator Allison, as it was his first appearance here since the Chicago convention, where he was a favorite candidate for the presidency. When he commenced to speak he was greeted with a great ovation, showing the estimation in which he is held by lowa people. His speech was largely devoted to the tariff and record of both parties upon it. He also discussed with great force and clearness the cussed with great force and clearness the question of the surplus, and sharply ar-raigned the administration for its conduct in regard to it. At night there was a great demonstration with a parade, fire works, illuminations, etc. The procession was two miles long, and included a large trades display by business men. The Deadly Flying Switch.

FOREST CITY, Ia., Nov. 2.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Last night, wi Jesse Butcher, a brakeman on the Burlington road was making a flying switch eight miles south of here, he fell from the car and was run over, receiving injuries from which he died this morning.

The Serious Charge Preferred Against a Well Known Beef Packer. CHICAGO, Nov. 2.-Robert D. Fowler, a well known board of trade member, and president of the Anglo-American Packing and Provision company, was held to the grand jury to-day on a charge of perjury. The charge grows out of a damage suit in which the plaintiff obtained a judgment against Fowler Brothers and the packing company for $7,500. Fowler claimed that the latter had been succeeded by a new company, and therefore was not liable. Subsequently, in another proceeding, he swore that the property always belonged to Fow-

McShane and His Pasters. GUIDE ROCK, Neb., Nov. 2. - [Special Telegram to THE BEE. !-All the Grand Army men in this vicinity have received the Joh A. McShano letter and pasters. The demos crats here are very indignant and say that it is a republican scheme. Several democrats here have expressed themselves and say that if these letters were sent by McShane they will cast their vote for General John M.
