district court yesterday morning. The case was submitted to the jury a few minutes before 12, and they came in with a verdict of guilty about fifteen minutes later. The prisoner was charged with the larceny of several small articles from the store of D. W. Bushnell. The case might have been disposed of in the lower court, but the prisoner was bound over to the grand jury. The jury was dismissed until Monday morning at 8 o'clock. No busi-

The Gas Charter.

It seems probable that the council will not take any further action at present in regard to repealing the charter of the gas company. The charter will expire next February, and then the matter will receive attention. It is feared that if an attempt is made at present to repeal the charter the company would take the case into court and the city would be enjoined from taking further steps in the matter until that was settled. If the case was delayed a year or two the city could do nothing but submit. It is but three months until the charter expires, and veterans here are minus a leg or an arm, but they are the most respectable looking body of men you would see in a good while. The home is three stories, with three wings, and faces the south.

The Iowa river runs within 250 yards of the rear. It is surrounded on the north, east and west with beautiful oak and other forest trees. To the east of the front is a large fountain, circular in form, with spout fountain in the center.

done by steam, The washing stands have two faucets, by which you can turn on cold or hot water. The basins are of marble. The home is built on most improved and modern plans. The ventilation and drainage are perfect.

I cannot describe them in one letter if I was to try. The rooms are eighteen or twenty feet high, lighted with win-dows fourteen feet high, and some of them are double windows. The home is, in fact, a village in itself. There is a chapel where religious services are held once a week; also a concert and lecture hall. We had a lecture since f have been here. It was on the manu-factore of glass and was quite interesting. I said all cooking was ood. E. E. Mayne, 619 Broadway, Rev. Henry Delong took out building permits for three new frame cottages to te erected on Pierce street, between Lincoln and Franklin avenues. They will cost $500 each.

The funeral of Harry, the three-yearold son of E. H. Benton, took place at 2 n'clock yesterday alternoon and was largely attended. The remains were interred in Fairview cemetery.

The Omaha and Council Bluffs Bridge company will to-day receive the first of six mills voted them by this city. The amount is nearly $30,000 and was due when the bridge was completed according to contract.

The trustees for the institution for the deaf and domb were in session yesterday. Routine business occupied most of the time. Settlement was made with contractors who have been making various improvements and turnishing supplies.

The Washington avenue school grounds are being graded to conform with the new building. The exterior work on the structure is almost completed, and the building shows up very handsomely. It is a credit to the architect and to the city.

The work of tearing down the Pacific house will be completed to-day, and it will be but a short time until the walls of the new Eiseman block will be rising in its place. The plans for the new building are completea, but the contracts are not yet let.

A new time card will go into effect on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific tomorrow noon. The evening express will leave lifty minutes earlier, at 6:07 instead of 6:57 as at present. The evening train will arrive at 6:38 instead of 6:43, five minutes earlier.

Business in the superior court is dragging even more than usual during the present term. None of the cases on the docket are ready for trial, and the probability is that the greatest part of them will go over to the December term, which convenes on the 15th of next month.

The electric motor company secured two more motor cars yesterday, making the twelve ordered. There are four more coaches yet to be received to fully equip the line. There will then be twelve motor cars and ten coaches, allowing a five minute service, giving each train an hour for a round trip.

The roller skating rink will be in full blast after the first of next week. The management has laid a new floor and put in a new stock of skates, the patronage of last season clearly demonstrating that the craze had by no means died out. The rink will be kept open for skating five evenings in the week, and a dance on the other.

Three plats of new additions and subdivisions were filed with the county recorder yesterday. They were Fitch's sub, comprising north half of block 5, of Benson's second addition; Alexan-der's sub, consisting of blocks A. B. C. D and E. in Potter & Cobb's addition. and Webster's sub, consisting of two

The annual uncasiness in the police force is again manifesting itself. There are numerous jealousies, and no little irritation. The force does not seem to be working in harmony, and hence cannot do as effective service for the city as would otherwise be the case. It is said that some of the men are a little sensitive about not being properly credited on the books for the arrests they make. Most of the prisoners are now brought in by the patrol wagon, and when two or more officer, chance to share in an arrest, or in taking the man to the station, one man will sometimes be given the credit, to the exclusion, perhaps, of the very one who made the arrest and turned in the call.

Another chestnutty complaint is that each man works for himself. It is said that notices received from elsewhere, offering rewards for capturing persons described therein, are not given to all the force, but a favored few have the inside track. There is, in fact, a repetition of the little causes of challing and jealousy that caused trouble with their predecessors. The complications seem to be increasing, and the prediction is common that quite a lively sort of a rumpus will soon follow, unless there is oil thrown upon the troubled waters. Chief Lucas is pretty steady-handed, and his wisdom may devise some anodyne.

visitors or patrons into an elegantly furnished drawing room, decorated with rare bric-a-brac and choice paintings. the person who keeps it, for the pro-prietor is a woman, is dressed in the latest style, and receives her customer as if a guest. It is not until after the usual exchange of morning salutations that she asks:

"What can I do for madame thi morning?"

Then madame displays a set of jewelry, diamonds, perhaps, or bric-a-brac, on which she wishes a toan. Sometimes a note is given at the rate of 15 or 20 per cent. These notes, however, seldom go to protest, for the givers do not care to have these transactions known to their husbands: but, apart from that, they care but little, as it is generally under stood that a woman frequently exceeds her allowance and makes it up on the next, while the obliging broker makes a good profit from the necessities of fashionable women. The "duplicate" gift woman who calls at the handsome "brown front" house just after a fashionable wedding, is known to the neighbors, who see her de-scend from a carriage or barouche, only as a caller, but she makes quite a living in buying up the duplicate gifts. Every-one knows that the wedding gifts of a eason run in grooves, and that most brides, on looking over their possessions. find a large proportion of their gifts duplicated. The bride who went herself ill on finding that she had seven butter dishes, every one alike, with a cow on the cover, had not the advantage of the bride of to-day, who calls to her aid the buyer of such duplicates.

One of the popular brides of last season found among her 700 wedding presents 15 silver-plated candlesticks, 3 bronze busts of Shakespeare, 4 etchings of Millet's "Angelus," 10 silver hand mirrors, 3 engravings of one picture, 5 6sh knives, 23 pickle and olive forks, 16 fans: 14 jewel boxes, 8 bon bon boxes and 7 table crumb knives. What did she do with them? The exchange women came to her aid and took most of the duplicates off her hands. Of course they were disposed of at a sacrifice and the young bride worried for weeks for fear the transaction would leak out, but what could she do? She Broadway. I think it would be a good idea, when one is sending out invitations for a fashionable wedding, to add to each what one is desired to present, our choice. or else do away with gifts by saying: "Gifts not desired." Hazen, dentist, opera house block. $3.000. Whooping Cough on Street Cars. New York Mail and Express: "Will you please stop this car, sir; I want to get off at once," said a weil-dressed lady to a conductor on a Broadway car yesterday. "I can't stop here, madam; but will at the next corner," responded the conductor. "But I insist," she replied, emerging from the car onto the back platform and drawing her wraps to one side, exhibiting a little biby scarcely four months old. The obliging conductor rang the bell, and the car came to a standstill in the middle of the block, but not C. E. BELL. before the woman had informed him that a little girl in the car was afflicted with the whooping cough, and she did not propose to run any risk by remaining there with her infant. She added forcibly that persons who allowed their children to frequent the cars, knowing that they had the whooping cough, ought to be arrested. In conversation with the conductor a Mail and Exsress reporter learned that it is not infrequent that ill-advised mothers will board the cars with chil lren who are affected with the dreaded malady. He said as far as he knew there was no law to prevent it, consejuently he was powerless to act in the matter. Doctors assert that whooping cough is contagious, and can be carried in the clothes, as it often is, to the homes of those who are leastable to stand sick-ness, let alone pay a doctor's bill. Whooping cough among the young at this time of the year seems to be quite epidemic in this city, and if the health authorities have any desire to crush out the opportunities for the spreading of it they should at once issue an order pro-republicans as well as democrats on his success in the race, and re-election as justice of the peace. He has served most acceptably, especially to the business men, and no justice has a stronger hold on the confidence of the community. Now that the cruel war is over. even his political opponents express themselves as grateful that he is retained in the position he has tilled so faithfully.

'Squire Hendricks has not decided where he will locate his office when he enters upon his duties as justice of the Until 'Squire Biggs moved peace. down onto Main street all the justices were on Broadway, which had enjoyed this monopoly for years. Main street should have one of the justice shops, and 'Squire Hendricks will find a pressure brought to bear on him to accommodate the people by locating south of Broadway.

The Union Pacific ferry train will be discontinued next week until spring, so it is reported. This move is causing considerable comment, as it was commonly supposed that the ferry train would be better patronized in cold than in warm weather, as the drive over the bottom is not a particularly pleasant one in midwinter, as the wind gets a terri-ble sweep across there. If the ferry is discontinued the new bridge will come in for nearly all of the travel between the two cities.

The board of county supervisors yes-terday opened the bids for the erection of a new bridge over Indian creek on Brondway. There were but two bidders: Mr. Campbell of this city and the Sievers Bridge company of Oskaloosa. The contract will be awarded to-day, as Supervisor Underwood was not present vesterterday and the matter was postponed until his arrival. The business transacted consisted mainly of allowing bills. The session will be completed to-day, and the board will adjourn this evening until the December meeting.

The time of starting up the electric motor line is still unknown to the public, and considerable speculation is indulged in on that question. The management says that not a single wheel shall be started until the whole plant is in order to work. It was expected that the cars would be started Monday, but the car men say that but very few of the cars will be ready by that time, so it is difficult to say when the line will be put in operation. But little information can be secured on the subject, and the pub lie is forced to be content and wait until "everything is ready."
