Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to William H. Mann, of Omaha, and Miss Karl Young, of this city, and Andy Mahoney, of South Omaha, and Miss Lizzie Leutinger, of this city.

The teachers of the institution for the deaf and dumb took a day's vacation Friday.
They improved the opportunity of visiting the Nebraska institution across the river, to note what they could of helpfulness to their work here.

Ben Marks, of this city, was called upon the other day to give a quit claim deed to land on which Fort Sheridan, near Chicago, is located. Mr. Marks was born there, and the land belonged to his father. In clearing up the title it became necessary to secure his signature.

The new entrance from Graham avenue to Fairmount Park is nearly completed and may now be used. The park commissioners, accompanied by chairman Underwood, of the board of county supervisors, drove over the ground yesterday and found that the change will be of immense benefit to those visiting the park. Visitors to-day will find the driveway widened, the hill having been cut down considerably and the road put in splendid condition.

Some enterprising (3) citizen has become impressed with the idea that hay is a very good place in which to pasture his cows, and accordingly turned them in there yesterday morning. The animals apparently enjoyed the change, but not so the citizens in that part of the city, who immediately arose in their might and drove out the inter-loping bovines. It is hardly probable that the move will be repeated.

The finishing touches were put on the current wires of the electric motor line yesterday, and the foreman informed that the last evening that the work on the line track was entirely finished. Everything inside the power house is also ready, and as soon as the Pullman men have completed their work on the cars, all will be in readiness for a start, which will probably be made inside of seventy-two hours.

The small pox still confined to the two houses previously mentioned. The Foreman house is in the extreme eastern part of the city and the Carter residence in the western part. There are four cases at the Foreman residence, all members of the Foreman family, and three cases at the latter. The quarantine is being strictly enforced and the disease will probably be confined to the members of the two afflicted families.

Mr. H. C. Adair, of the Council Bluffs Investment company, ordered a new suit of clothes a short time ago and had it made at his tailor's. He is now wearing it and is very much pleased with the result. The tailor had but one pattern that would do, but the quantity was rather short, so the light of the scissors manifested tured the vest from another piece. "Ad" donned the suit in time, taking pleasure in pointing the advantages of having it all made from one piece. Finally, after waiting two days, a friend ventured to point out the deception, and the wearer's grief was painful to witness. He insists that the boys bribed the tailor, and refuse to be comforted.

See W. C. Stacy's ad.

We do not intend to include any except articles of merit, but we take pleasure in referring by any in the world. Sold exclusively by F. C.

ALL ABOUT COUNCIL BLUFFS.

A Sewing Machine Man With Too Many Wives on His Hands.

THE SUICIDE OF A FRAIL ONE.

The Spiritual Menu For the Day—An Insane Tourist—The Neola Bargers Sentenced—The

He Loved Two Unlawfully.
The White sewing machine is without a local representative, for the manager, J. M.
Brown, has vacated the position of manager.
With his going hangs a tale. Dollie Armstrong and Mattie Jones, two young girls whose employment has been in the hotels of this city, went with him. The girls were last in employ at the Scott house, but were brought on account of illness of the "thirteenth," etc. Monday and Tuesday night the three, Brown and the girls, put up at Neumeier's hotel, and Wednesday night they left the city. Friday evening they returned and appeared at the Scott house, where Brown claimed he had married the Armstrong girl. The other girl acted in the role of a companion to the pair and stated that they lived as man and wife. Come here in the city, and at St. Louis no one other "St." the pair were married. Mr. Scott told Brown what the results of his action would be and the fellow nearly fainted away. He claimed he did not know he was doing anything illegal, and when this interview ended the couple left by a back street for the Broadway depot, and went to Omaha, where it is supposed they have are.

Brown was married about three years ago to a daughter of J. A. Sylvester, a most worthy gentleman who lives about two and a half miles from the city, and this marriage has never been annulled. The family of Mrs. Brown No. 1 are seeking for the resistant husband, and in the search the police force is being employed. Should he be found, which now seems more than probable, he will answer to the charge of bigamy—so say the family. Brown came here from Atlantic, Ia., about September 1, and it is said by the relatives of the wife that charges of forgery and selling mortgaged stock are lodged against him and he would have been arrested on these charges if his whereabouts had been ascertained. When Brown and his wife arrived here they were in destitute circumstances—for he did not stand upon the order of leaving Atlantic, and he took his wife to his father's home, at which place she now is. In the former place he was agent for "Household" and "Range," and it is said that company are looking for him on one of the above charges.

This escapade is surely not the action of a man of his laborer. It is said that he is crazy, and this is surely the most characteristic of the case. It is understood that Brown explained to his last companions that he had not lived with his wife for two years, and that he had commenced divorce proceedings. When informed that the mere commencement of a divorce did not warrant his remarrying he seemed greatly shocked.

Brown is known as a very temperate man, and second to almost no business in a satisfactory manner, the Omaha office of which this was a branch, having no intimation that anything was wrong until Brown disappeared. His conduct is so much strange as to be almost unaccountable, except on the theory of insanity.

One More Unfortunate
Last evening the body of Ethel Morgan was borne away by a few friends who had known her during life and sent on its journey to a sister who resides in Ringold county, Iowa. Her death was the usual close of the life of the scarlet woman—suicide. She died Friday evening at her rooms over No. 709 Broadway.

From those conversant with all the circumstances the following facts are learned: For several months she had been known as the wife of the pianist, Tommy Brooks. Stories of abuse, beatings, etc., are told by those who know the deceased and her relations with "her man," and this is generally assigned as the immediate cause of the rash act.

Anne Barker, a roomer at the same place, was with the deceased during her last hours, and gives the following account: "Ethel was in and out of my rooms all day. She was in her usual spirits. She took the dose about 5 o'clock. It was a mixture of strychnine and morphine. A little before 6 she came and asked me for the loan of a scuttle of coal.
She said she would pay me in the morning.
In a little while she called me into her room.
I found her sitting in a chair, rubbing her hands and face. I knew she had taken something, for that is the way most of the girls go. I asked her if she hadn't, and she said no, but she was awful sick. I helped her onto the bed and loosened her clothes, and in a little while Brooks came in from his work.
He was terribly scared and rushed across the street for Dr. Heilinger. I asked her what she had taken and she told me. She was afraid she would die, and pleaded with me to save her. I told her I would do all I could.
The doctor came and gave her the remedies usual in such cases, but it was no use. She went into spasms, and although conscious at times, she never spoke again." When asked with reference to the reports mentioned above she said: "Of course I could tell you lots of things about that, but it is of no use. She is dead, poor girl, and please don't say anything harsh about her.
She is better off lying in there dead, and please let her sins be buried with her."
