Every 16-page BEE requires two cents, and under the postal rules, we cannot forward the BEES or return them, even when we know the sender. "Say there, you Beez man," said Fred Pickens, the competent chief clerk of streets and D. R. McFadden, both of Omaha, found the body of a dead man in the southeastern part of the city of South Omaha in the winter at Fourteenth and T streets. The attention was called to the body by a dog. The body lay where some Marie Lee had been and was slightly burned. On examination a bullet hole was found in the back of his head above and behind the right ear. On his person were found letters identifying him as Robert Lee, who lived in the neighborhood near where the body was found. In his clothes was found $21. Coroner Drexel was notified and his deputy Mike Maul on arriving in the city had the body removed to Hefner & Heffey's undertakers at the corner of Twelfth and Kountze. The coroner adjourned the hearing till yesterday noon at 10 o'clock.

After the inquest many citizens viewed the body and several recognized him. Mr. Kohli was about thirty years of age and was most likely married. He had evidently been dead several days.

Among the letters found on his person was directed to Emil Borthschen, Harrison, Sioux county, Neb., signed George H. R. Marshall. Another letter was addressed to Wm. March, a salaried employee of the Kohli, Omaha, Neb. Another came from some point in Switzerland, which was in the Swiss language, and was signed by Rosa Kohli. From the nature of the wound many are of the opinion he was murdered.

At 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon Acting Coroner M. O. Maul, in the presence of the Pres. Board of Trade, Louisville, Ky.: "Severe cold in the neck. St. Jacobs Oil cured me."
