

HAYDEN BROTHERS OPENING.

Five Great Floors Overflowing With Elegant Wares.

Crowds of Omaha People Attend the Opening of the Greatest Store in Omaha—Hayden's.

A queer little telegram appeared in THE BEE last Wednesday evening. It was addressed to Hayden Bros. dry goods, Sixth and Broadway, and stated that Santa Claus would be in Omaha to attend their opening Thursday evening, at 7 o'clock, and entertain the children of the city. Presently on time a fireman reported to the store, eager as any of the children, to know what Santa Claus was going to put in his half horse. Although on time it seemed late for everybody in Omaha appeared, and here we just met the children of the city with their five great floors literally swarmed with men, women and children, all enjoying the brilliant scene. Every one of the scores of departments were beautifully arranged and decorated and the ladies and gentlemen in charge gave their visitors a most hearty welcome. Finding every other avenue closed by the great stream of human beings THE BEE man had recourse to the freight elevator to reach the third floor, where to the north of the North was holding high carnival with the children. When the door opened upon this department the scene was an animated one. Crowds of people thronged the aisles between the piles of toys and beautiful gifts, screams of happy children floated here and there, wild with delight when the tinkling bells announced the approach of Santa Claus. This floor is 70x100 feet and is devoted entirely to the display of the latest novelties. The variety is simply astonishing, and as to quantity the tables and counters and underneath the counters, the walls and even the ceilings are piled, covered and hung over with goods in this line. Their line of toys is the most complete ever opened in the city and embraces everything from the A B C and picture blocks, child's kitchen sets, miniature kitchens and stoves. There are children's chairs and seats and wagons. Everything a child could want. The doll department is the little girl's paradise. The stock is simply immense and still there is more to follow. No matter what you want in the doll line, you can find it here. Another part of the floor is devoted to choice perfume, cosmetics and toilet articles. Just across from these goods we find a beautiful line of children's gift books. With these may be found a full line of the latest novelties at astonishing prices. The elegant line of plush goods upon this floor excited marked attention both in regard to the magnitude of the display and the excellent variety. These goods are strictly first class and embrace some of the most unique and beautiful designs ever opened in the west.

The showing of albums was most creditable, nothing old or out of date in the entire exhibit. In the northwest corner of this holiday paradise was an exquisite display of Christmas and New Years cards. This part of the exhibit must be seen to be appreciated. No matter what you want it is here. The ladies' department is a complete clothing department, conducted by the genial Max Hamberger; a cloak department, under the direction of Mr. J. C. Miller, and a millinery department under the experienced management of Miss Sadie Hayden. Every one of these departments is complete in itself, and is enjoying a splendid patronage. Once more on board the handsome passenger elevator the descent is made to the first floor, which is the dry goods department. Here one finds a floor which in quality and quantity of goods, artistic arrangements and prices, is not surpassed in the west. The flannel blanket, linen and domestic department is the special charge of Mr. Harry Honecius, who is a most fashionable trimmer, and to whose good taste and hard work is due in no small measure the elegant appearance of the departments on this floor. The ladies' furnishing department and heavy department is cared for by Mr. G. Jamieson and his young lady aids, and would space allow much could justly be said of the beautiful display made in this department. The gentlemen's furnishing goods are the special care of Mr. Mr. S. A. Samishis who knows just what you need and makes the prices right. The dress goods department is in charge of Mr. Johnson, a man of large experience in the line of his business, and is a great aid to his customers. Mr. Matthews presides over the silks and black goods counter. The laces and embroidery are in charge of Mr. A. Roos, whose ability is only equalled by his gentlemanly bearing. Miss Thelma is the efficient lady in charge of the ribbon department. Just opposite the front entrance is a well stocked jewelry department, which is in charge of Mr. Ed Langdon, whose low prices on his elegant stocks are a great aid to his customers. And yet there is one more; a well stocked shoe department on this floor, which is under the management of Mr. H. L. Bromm. Mr. H. C. Madison is floor walker and Mr. H. J. Madison Hayden cashier for the floor. Descending to the basement, another surprise awaits us. The candy counter is presided over by Miss Fisher. There is more crockery and dishware in sight than can be found in any other establishment west of Chicago. Upon the counters, under the counters, against the walls, everywhere are piles and stacks of crockery, dinner sets, chamber sets, glassware, lamps, woodenware, tinware, everything in the house, including hanging line, and still there were vast crates unpacked. There is also a well supplied and well patronized grocery department in the basement. The prices in this department are the talk of the town. Where the buyers have chosen this store first opened its doors about eighteen months ago, you will be prepared to realize the phenomenal success which has attended their efforts. There was no boastful advertisements. They use printers' ink liberally, but only to note prices. But they have been tireless in their efforts to please their customers, and to this end they have bought for them to select from a stock which in volume, quality and variety has no equal in the west, and in selecting help they have chosen ladies and gentlemen whose efficiency in their particular lines and courteous

Something About Amelie Rives. Epoch: Amelie Rives is essentially a pocket Venus. She is diminutive in stature and sylph-like in form, with bright, deep-set eyes, her eyes are blue, and she has a sweet smile that is a veritable Cupid's bow of a mouth. She speaks with a slight southern lisp, and is a most charming listener. Her painting is full of color as Astor's, and her rendering of Chopin is something to remember. She rides to hounds, and has thirty-one pet dogs, and she has taught her Scotch terrier to sing. She writes a copper-plate hand, and is proud of having invented her monogram in blood-red letters on a deep gray background than of having created "The Quick or the Dead." Her husband, John Armstrong, is a tall, lanky, and boyish looking fellow, with a prominent nose, and a retiring mustache, which he is always urging to come on. He is about twenty-eight and was educated at Rugby, where he picked up the "Quick or the Dead," which was with singular rapidity which he spoke on the subject of "The Quick or the Dead." He never attempts to speak while his wife has the floor. He is not dull, and he has been around the world. He is on good terms with his tailor, and he places implicit confidence in the husband of Amelie Rives.

FOUND. A Priceless Gift Recovered After Many Years. James Stribling, a Plaster by Trade, Residing at No. 2004 Patrick Street, Offers the Following for Publication. Mr. Stribling says: "I am an Englishman by birth and formerly lived at Richmond, England, at an early age, I had a severe attack of scarlet fever, the result of which was a chronic disease of the ears, they became inflamed and commenced to run a great deal, and emitted a most offensive odor. I consulted several physicians at London and Richmond, but without receiving much or any benefit. I heard of the success of Dr. C. M. Jordan at 210 and 211 Farnam Block, and although my trouble had existed twenty-six years, I decided to call on him. I commenced treatment and the result has more than exceeded my expectations, now my ears do not run, no suppuration, no ringing, in fact they feel perfectly natural in every way—and greatest of all, my hearing is restored, can hear better than ever before to my recollection. I can now hear the slightest whisper."

Dress Goods at Half Price on Monday.

We find our dress goods stock too heavy, and to reduce it we have made some great sacrifices. Our dress goods department being somewhat overstocked, we have decided to reduce it, and with that object in view we have made some great sacrifices, especially on broadcloths. Our $1.65 quality—steam-shrank cloth that we guarantee, will be sold at $1.02 1/2. 54 inches wide, will not spot nor wear rough. REMEMBER, FOR $1.02 1/2. Our regular $1.25 quality, also steamed, warranted not to wear rough. Will be sold for 75 CENTS.

Those of our customers that have seen this cloth know of its splendid value at $1.25. But on Monday at 78c it will be the rarest bargain ever offered. Also 54 inch dress goods, silks, velvets, lace, dress trimmings, ornaments and fancy articles. We own the goods low and will sell them low. Do not judge of the quality by the price at which we sell. We ask comparison with the first weaves and colors. We quote a few prices only: Double fold English sufers in all shades 12 1/2c, worth 35c; double fold French wale 14c, worth 40c; 36-inch French novelty suiting 20c, worth 30c; 36-inch satin cloth in all shades 29c, cost 40c; imported 42-inch camel hair suiting in plaid and mixtures 35c, sold everywhere at $1.00. Immense assortment of real Australian wool stripes, mixtures and combination suiting, all at 50c, worth 75c. 54 inch ladies' cloth 50c, worth $1. 54 inch Amazon and Venetian broadcloth, 95c and $1.25, cost $1.75 to $2.50 to import. We can sell French novelty combination suits at $9.75, $10, $10.50, $11, $11.50, $12, $12.50, $13, $13.50, $14, $14.50, $15, $15.50, $16, $16.50, $17, $17.50, $18, $18.50, $19,
