HANSEN'S STATEMENT.

Mark Hansen, the gentleman who insisted crookedness in the school board in conversation with a reporter for the Bee, stated that the article published in a morning paper purporting to have come from Ernst Stihl, concerning his reasons for making the statement, is false and unjust. As to the "venue" referred to, he stated that he agreed to read a portion of it, and the school board the rest. He complied with his agreement, but the latter has not yet called a session. In speaking of his wanting the dirt that was removed for the purpose of grading his own lots, as stated by Morris Morrison, he says that this is not true. Hansen says that he has more dirt than what he could dispose of for his own use, without getting any from the school board.

A promissory note was given and a check was cashed upon the ground that an understanding had been entered into between plaintiffs and defendant whereby it was agreed that Froitsche and Workum were to be paid a sum in excess of the composition agreed on between the debtor and his creditors. From Ex-Governor Carpenter, of Iowa. FT. DODGE, Ia., Feb. 13, '86. I have read Judge Johnson's Universal Cyclopedic, and to some extent compared it with Appleton's, a copy of which I have owned for several years, and I have no hesitation in saying that I believe Johnson's is the most complete, correct and up-to-date work of the kind ever published. When these facts are considered in connection with the fact that it can be obtained at less than half the cost of Appleton's, it seems to me that persons desiring to buy a cyclopedic will do well to obtain a copy of Johnson's. As evidence of my appreciation of the work, I have arranged to exchange Appleton's for Johnson's.

C. C. CARPENTER. In response to inquiry, he writes to the agent at this place, under date of Dec. 14, 1888: W. P. Hunnicutt, Esq., Omaha, Neb.—Dear Sir: I very cheerfully say that after having Johnson's Revised Cyclopedic in my library for over two years, and having used it for reference during that time, the opinion which I expressed concerning it while you were at Fort Dodge, has not only been confirmed, but my appreciation of the work has been greatly increased.

Yours very truly, C. C. CARPENTER.

Leave your head behind. So ran the dire warning which Dante read on the portraits of the Inferno. So runs the cruel verdict of your friends if you are overtaken by the first symptoms of that terrible disease, consumption. "Leave your head behind" for ten days are numbered! And the struggle against death is given up in despair. But while there is life, there is hope! Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured hundreds of cases worse than yours; and it will cure yours if taken in time. But delay is dangerous. No power can restore a wasted lung; the "Golden Medical Discovery," however, can and will arrest the disease.

REV. DR. DURVEA.

A Tribute to the Zeal and Learning of the Congregational Divine. Dr. Durvea, the new pastor of the First Congregational church, is expected to arrive in town to-day, and assumes the duties of his position on Sunday next. In this connection the Bee publishes the following tribute paid to him by a writer over the initials of "M. G. A."

I have read with interest the many complimentary items in the several papers of the city concerning Dr. Durvea and his choice of Omaha as his future field of labor.

I wish to add a few words, not that I feel competent to pass a fitting eulogy upon this great man, but that number who have had the privilege of his scholarship, his culture, his influence and noble manhood, his magnanimous christian teaching, and the gracious influence of his life to become a power for good in this, our western city.

It was my rare good fortune, while in Boston, to be in lecture room under the instruction of Dr. Durvea, and of all the teachers under whom it has been my privilege to sit, he seemed to me the greatest. Possessing an almost inexhaustible fund of knowledge, he was apt in imparting the same, as well as excelling in that happy faculty which he won the confidence and respect of his every hearer, and inspired the mind with a deeper love of knowledge. He is a natural and efficient teacher, either in his own class-room, or in the lecture hall. His rich endowments and earnest efforts are to be added to this enterprising, magnificent young city. Such wealth as Dr. Durvea can bring to us is more needed, and a greater acquisition than that of the Goulds or Vanderbilts.

Recent papers have commented upon the probable results of the doctor transplanting his metaphysical mind from that hotbed of culture to the untrodden wilds of the great west. It is not to be feared, however, because the doctor's learning is not indolence to the salt and chilly clime of "The Hub," but a strength of general, individual, and typical dependence upon intellectual, spiritual or sectarian limitations. Neither do our western friends need stand in awe of the doctor's intellect, for he is not a metaphysician, who deals only with cold abstractions or far away soarings into the immensity of nothingness after the unknown. On the contrary, his is the true philosophical method by which reason and wisdom are made important factors in the development of a real world, peopled by mortal beings.

Heavy Motors. The Omaha Motor company yesterday morning put a force of men at work at the Eleventh street intersection of Douglas, where they made connection between the end of that line and the end of the horse railway track.

The road, when it is finished, will have a double track on Douglas to Fourteenth street, which up to Eleventh street may be used jointly by both the Omaha motor and horse railway companies.

The latter company has been anxious, it is claimed, to have the line of their cars run around its loop on Douglas, Eleventh, Tenth and Ninth streets. It is stated that it offered to pull the motor trains around the loop with horse power.

From the Council Bluffs Daily Globe, January 26, 1882: M. A. McPike, editor of the Cambria (Ebensburg, Pa.) Freeman, has been the person who has been called the friend of Mr. Clark of the Nonpareil. He has been unfortunate in the fact that his family was ravaged with diphtheria and greatly distressed. Clark, having knowledge of this calamity, sent him some of Dr. Jeffrey's Diphtheria Cure. It was used at once, and the lives of the three of his children saved. Letters from Mr. McPike are unbounded in their expressions of gratitude for finding some means of averting the loss of his whole family. He writes: "I am the father of five of Mr. McPike's children out of eight died from diphtheria before he had an opportunity of using Dr. Jeffrey's remedy. Price of remedy $1. Address Dr. Theo.
