Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Whittlesey celebrated their wooden wedding at their home on Fifth avenue Tuesday evening. There was a large number of friends present, and the presents were very numerous and useful. The occasion was highly enjoyed by those present.

The sleighs were out in force yesterday, and the sleighing by evening was very good indeed in the central portion of the city, al-though the fall did not exceed five inches. The snow did not visibly effect the working of the motor cars, and all trips were made as

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gilmore entertained twenty-nine little boys and girls at a Christmas dinner Tuesday afternoon. The little ones were those who would otherwise have fared rather shabbify, and they fully appreciated the entertainment. The kind host and hostess enjoyed the giving fully as much as did the guests.

Charles Locke was arrested vesterday in a Lower Broadway bagnio, where he was maltreating one of the inmates. It is said that Locke has been in the habit of beating the women there for the past three weeks, unless they turned over to him all of their earnings. He was too drunk when arrested to make any statement of his case.

Holiday social at the Broadway Methodist church this evening. A musical and iterary programme will be rendered in the audience room, after which adjournment to the parlors will be in order, where refreshments will be served and social intercourse enjoyed. No charge for refreshments, but a thank offering box will be in readiness, giving an opportunity to express gratitude for the blessings of the year. Admission to the entertainment 10 cents. entertainment 10 cents.

Mr. Baetens' sight-singing class will meet to-night at the residence of W. W. Chapman, 717 First avenue. All members are re-quested to be in attendance, as Mr. Baetens wishes to get a well trained chorus together at the earliest possible date, in order to begin the rehearsal of some good work. Mr. Bactons is a musician and director of great experience and has gained a national reputa-tion in connection with the college of music in Cincinnati. The young people should not miss this opportunity to secure a musical training under so thorough a musician.

Mr. Owen Ford, of Omaha, representing the Edisun Electric Light company, was in the city yesterday, for the purpose of look-ing over the ground and the situation here, preparatory of submitting and orinance for the consideration of the council. Mr. r'ord stated that his company would put their wires underground in the central part of the city if they could secure subscribers for over $,000 lights. The plan of the Edison company is to subscribe their stock among local capitalists, reserving twenty-five per cent for themselves. Mr. Ford will immediately make a canvass of the business men, for the purpose of subscribing this stock. An ordinance will be prepared and submitted at the next meeting, January 7.

The Play of the Passions. The Grovier-McNulty alleged rape case came to an end yesterday. After hearing the testimony Squire Schurz discharged the defendant, stating that the case was undoubtedly one of malicious presecution. The case has engendered a great deal of hard feeling between the neighbors, and pande-monlum reigned in the court room for a short time. The defendant became offended at some of the statements made by Mr. Seabrook, the attorney for the plaintiff, and as soon as the case was decided he started for the attorney to get satisfaction. The neighbors joined in the general melec to settle their private scores, and there was a lively "scrap" for a few minutes. Order was re-stored as quickly as possible, and the defendant was led weeping to his corner. No one was seriously disfigured. Although the rape case is at an end, there will now follow arrests for disturbing the peace, and assault

The District Court. District court reconvened yesterday morning, after a four days recess. The arguments in the ejectment case of Hannon vs Marr were resumed, and the case submitted to the jury at 13 o'clock. During the aftersoon but little business was transacted. It is expected that the term will end this week, as there are but few more cases for trial this term. There are several interesting cases to come up next term before Judge Thornell, and the court room will undoubtedly attract

HOLIDAY FESTIVITIES.

Dr. Jekyll's Sidewalk Show.

There was war on Broadway yesterday. Trouble among the members of the "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" company was what led to it. The company has been playing to empty seats, and the exchequer was about exhausted. J. Frank Bowen, the manager, claimed that he had been advancing money out of his own pocket to pay expenses, and demanded a settlement. For some reason or other Mr. Edwin Tanner, the star, decided that he wanted a new manager, and accordingly "fired" Mr. Bowen and appointed Mr. B. Wilkes. That was the cause of the racket. Mr. Bowen objected to being "fired," and Mr. Wilkes insisted on assuming the honors of the position. Verbal arguments could not convince either of the error of his position, and the Marquis of Queensbury manual was consuited. These rules failed to settle the case, and a rough and tumble followed. The sidewalk in front of the Bechtele was the battle ground. The other Mr. Edwin Tanner, the star, decided tumble followed. The sidewalk in front of the Bechtele was the battle ground. The company 'had it in' for the old manager, and sided in with the new. Bowen was too much for the whole company, and knocked out the last man as landsomely as he did the first. He announced his intention of staying with the company, and he will doubtless keep his word. The management of the Bechtele had another claim that was unsatisfied and had another claim that was unsatisfied, and that was for board. The baggage of the com-pany was held until the bill could be liqui-dated. Mr. Tanner disappeared, but shortly "made a raise," and reappeared to secure the release of his baggage. The company then got out of town on the first train. Bowen went along, but Wilkes is the future mana-ger. All differences were apparently made up, and it is presumed that they will "live happily ever after."

Enthusiasm ran high, Tuesday evening, at the Christmas exercises of the Bethany Baptist church and Sunday school. The ladies had wrought with a will and the results were eminently gratifying. The "little church" as the members affectionately call the modest edifice where they hold their services, was beautifully decorated with sprays of holy whose ruddy berries glowed amid festoons and wrenths of evergreen. After a programme of recitations and songs by the children, pronounced by many to be as good as they had ever witnessed, two little ones, Carrie and Eddie Peynuck, tastefully dressed to represent supposed children or grandchildren of Santa Claus, handed out to each member of the Sunday school a pretty each member of the Sunday school a pretty decorated box of goodles from a large and profusely ornamented tree. Then came presents from teachers to scholars and from scholars to teachers. The pastor, Rev. E.N. Harris, was the recipient of an elegant Hagster's bible from the Sunday school. Through the kindness of Mrs. H. J. Bublits, a rich, cushed plush settee or divan, was presented to the church for the pulpit, also a large bible for the desk, and to the pastor a large bible for the desk, and to the pastor a leather bound, gilt edged "Gospel hymns consolidated." Deacon C. A. Loucks responded in behalf of the church, and the pastor, in his own behalf, with what few pastor, in his own behalf, with what few words his happy surprise and astonishment had left him. After heartily uniting in a closing song, the people, who had thronged the church to an overflow, dispersed to their homes, evidently weil pleased with the evening's entertainment.

A word as to the Sunday school. Some must have been surprised to see so many children present. But the growth of the school has been remarkable. In less than two months the attendance has increased from twenty to over 120 and the membership is about 150. Under these circumstances the enthusiasm manifest is scarcely to be won

From Turkey to Turnkey.

The Christmas grist in police court yesterday morning was a varied one, but the effects of budge were noticeable in nearly every case. Christmas whisky had knocked out Christmas turkey, and the unfortunate victims were for the most part sorry looking spectacles. The plain boozers were first called out, and assessed as follows: John Flynn, Lawrence Frey, E. W. McCordy, J. Moonstone and George Stallfer, $5.10 cach; Jerry Sullivan, $7.60.

Thomas Burch was charged with the larceny of coal from the railroad yards, and pleaded guilty. He was fined $15 and costs. J. Carr was booked for assault and bat-ery. He had disfigured the anatomy of Jessie Allen, who objected to such treatment and lodged an information against him. He was given a receipt for $9.60. Charles Littlepage had been taken in out of the storm, and given shelter for the night. He denied being a vag, and was allowed to Henry Johnson and Charles Curtis were found clinched in a deadly embrace, engaged in a vain attempt to poison each other with their whisky tainted breath. Johnson pleaded guilty, and said that he was to blame for the fracas. He was fined $9.60, and the case against Curtis was allowed to stand Julius Lund and D. Thomas were also booked for disturbing the peace. Each had put up $10 to secure his appearance in court, but Thomas failed to materialize, and his cash was declared forfeited. The cases of cach will come up to morrow morning.

E. D. Collins was arraigned for larceny.

He had boarded an electric car, and when he left he took with him everything of a mova-ble nature. During the night he stole the clothes from his fellow prisoners, and when turned out of the cage in the morning he had four hats, three overcoats, an extra pair of pants and two pairs of shoes, that he had renoved from the other inmates of the cage while they were asleep.

The court adjuged him insane, and ordered him turned over to his brother, Matt Collins, of this city. The prisoner has been employed in Omaha, and was on his way to Sioux City. His trouble is said to be temporary mental abject and the said to be temporary mental abject at the contract of the rary mental abberration, and it is thought that he will soon be restored to his normal

The Mayor's Signature.

The mayor comes in for an occasional scorng at the hands of the contractors because of the slowness attendant on the issue of city bonds in payment for work performed for the city. It is alleged that the sole cause of the delay is the mayor's well-known fondness for "investigations." After the bonds are ordered issued by the council they are prepared by the forces of the clerk's auditor's offices, and then await

BEE. | THE NEWS IN COUNCIL BLUFFS | the signature of the executive. weeks pass by before tho bonds are in shape to be turned over to the waiting contractor, who was entitled to his pay when ordered by

who was entitled to his pay when ordered by the council.

It is a common complaint that "the mayor hasn't signed the bonds." It may be that the work might be sooner executed, still few people have any idea of the amount of time required to sign these improvement bonds. The mayor's name has to be signed five times for each lot along which any work has been done, whether grading, paving, sewerage or sidewalk. The executive writes his autograph 500 times, and then finds that he has sone barely half a mile on the paving bonds, with all of the others to follow. It is a rather with all of the others to follow. It is a rather discouraging job, and the question is as to where the more patience is required, on the part of the contractor or on the part of the mayor.

Wanted, a City Hall.

Mayor Robrer has made arrangements with the county officials for the use of one of the vaults at the county court house for the purpose of storing some of the more important books and papers belonging to the city, especially those of the city treasurer and city auditor. Such a move as this has been imperative for some time. The need of a vault or other suitable place for the storage of city papers and records is readily apparent to everyone. A fire at the city building would almost ruin the city, as no protection whatever is afforded the books and records. They are stored beautiful and everyone in ever is afforded the books and records. They are stored here, there and everywhere, in whatever place an empty corner can be found, and there is nothing to prevent their being stolen or defaced, even if not threatened with total destruction by a fire. The need of a new city building is becoming more and more urgent, as none of the offices afforded the city officials are as commediates. forded the city officials are as commodious as they should be. Quarters are rented for the city engineer in the Brown building, and the mayor has no office at all. The demand for a new city building has grown to an absolute need, and it is time that the matter received some consideration at the hands of the citi-

Beath of Mrs. E. J. Abbott. At 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning, Mrs. Sarah E. Abbott, wife of E. J. Abbott, passed away from this life, aged 45 years months and 22 days. The deceased had been a resident of this city for nearly eighteen years, and had a wide circle of acquaintances and friends. She had been troubled for some time with chronic catarrhal enteretis, which was finally the cause of her death.

Sarah E. Packer was born in Elvria, Lo Sarah E. Packer was born in Elyria, Lorain county, Ohio, April 4, 1843. On reaching mature years she was wedded to Edwin J. Abbott, and in 1871 removed with him to this city, where they have since resided.

Four children were born to them, two of whom, Mrs. Craignille and Mrs. James R. Barrett, are now living and reside in this city. The deceased was highly esteemed by the many friends who had known her for almost a score of years as well as by those almost a score of years as well as by those whose acquaintance was of more recent ori-gin. During her last illness loving hands yied in furnishing those little attentions that make the lot of the invalid more comforta-ble.
