Irishmen's Valued Products. Boston Globe: Among the various textile products of Irish manufacturing skill the most extensive and known is the justly celebrated Irish frieze.

Nothing but washed wool of the largest and strongest fiber is used. It is first dyed, and afterward, when spun, is doubled so as to resemble the yarn—in fact, it is a softly spun woolen yarn which has not been treated by acids in any manner, so that the whole natural strength of the wool fiber remains unimpaired.

The board of trade met last evening. In the absence of President Wells, Mr. F. H. Hill occupied the chair.

There being barely a quorum present, it was the sense of the board that the organization should not elect its officers for the ensuing year so small an attendance, and it was laid over until a subsequent meeting.

The matter of devising some method of securing a larger membership of the board, and a larger attendance at the meetings, was discussed at length.

over the other goods imported from Europe.

That Irish frieze is becoming the leading fashionable material for the Cotha More—overcoats and ulsters—is quite evident from the many imitations of it which the markets are flooded with.
