

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS.

OFFICE, NO. 12 PEARL STREET.

Delivered by carrier in any part of the city at Twenty Cents Per Week.

H. W. TILTON, TELEPHONE 151. MANAGER.

Business Office No. 43. Night Editor, No. 21.

MINOR MENTION.

N. Y. Plumbing company. Coal and wood. E. E. Mayne, 619 B'way. Tickets and reserved seats for the Drummer Boy on sale at Camp & Ellis's drug store.

Clear the sidewalks of the barrels, boxes and rubbish allowed to accumulate along business thoroughfares.

The new stoves will be put into the motor cars as soon as possible, which will probably be within two or three days.

Owing to the street that accumulated on the electric wires last night the Electric Motor company had two trains running all night, so as to keep the wires clear.

There will be a meeting of the ladies' committee engaged in preparing for the Dodge Light Guards bazaar at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the armory. All members are requested to be present. Mrs. J. C. Bixby, chairman.

The contract for furnishing the iron work for the new Elsieann block was awarded to the Ogden Iron works of this city. Competitors from Chicago, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Omaha were among the bidders.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to W. L. Ryan and Mrs. Ella Baker, both of Sioux City. The knot was tied by Squire Hendricks, it being his first act of the kind since his re-election to the office of justice of the peace.

The supervisors did not transact any business yesterday, as they are awaiting a report of the board of health on the small-pox question. As soon as that report is submitted the county board will take some action in the matter and then adjourn for the January term.

The Dodge Light Guards public drill at their armory last evening was witnessed by a large number of spectators. The boys are doing finely, and the "awkward squad" is breaking in rapidly. A detachment was selected for the exhibition drill to be given at Dohany's to-morrow evening.

Preaching services will be held in the Bethany Baptist church every evening this week except Wednesday and Saturday evenings. They will begin in each case with a half-hour service of song. Gospel hymns will be provided for all, but those who have copies of the edition with notes would do well to bring them. Time, 7:30 p. m. sharp.

Baldwin, Hardin & Co. have just negotiated a real estate deal, by which Ira Platter and wife convey to Charles T. Braslan, of Minneapolis, a tract of sixty acres, lying between this city and Manawa. The consideration was $12,000 cash. Mr. Braslan is quite extensively interested in real estate in the vicinity of Manawa, and closed another $12,000 deal there but a few weeks since.

All members of the G. A. R. may obtain reserved seat tickets for the entertainment to be given at the opera house to-morrow evening by Major Henderson, under the auspices of the ladies of the Presbyterian church, at the rate of 35 cents each, by applying to Colonel John Fox, at the office of Squire Hendricks. If not secured of him the full price will be charged. This offer applies to members of the G. A. R. and Union Veterans legion.

Mrs. M. H. Tinley, yesterday telegraphed her family in this city of the death of her sister, Mrs. Dan Farrell, of Galesburg, Ill., which occurred there Sunday. Mrs. Farrell was well known to many in this city, from frequently having visited her sister here, and made many acquaintances and warm friends. Mrs. Tinley has been at her bedside some three weeks during her recent sickness, which was a relapse from a former severe illness, when, also, Mrs. Tinley was there.

Ex-County Attorney J. J. Shen states that THE BEE does him an injustice, as he gave no orders for any blanks for five months previous to the expiration of his term of office. He declares that the printing of the blanks was not his business, but that of the printer, and that the printer, previously referred to in these columns, must have been the result of a mistake on somebody's part, as he did not order them and does not know anything about them. "They may take all the blame for Mr. Shen's shoulders, but it does not make it any more agreeable for the taxpayers to pay for property that can be of no service to them whatever. The question that remains to be answered is why were these blanks ever printed?"

The statement in THE BEE a few days since that the grocery stock, recently owned by Durbin Bros., had been attached by creditors, was incorrect. The attachment was issued against certain property received by Durbin Bros. in payment for that stock, including real estate. The attachments were in favor of the following parties: J. R. Snyder, $157.78; Consolidated Coal, two bills, $25.00 and $19.89; Dean, Armstrong & Co., $87.50; Groneweg & Schoentgen, $727.06. The property levied on is lot 5, block 1, Williams' subdivision, and lot 3, block 20, Cochran's addition. The grocery stock is in the hands of E. E. Henry, and is not subject to any sheriff's claims and his business is not disturbed thereby, or in any way affected.

Order in Chambers. County Clerk Chambers evidently believes that order is heaven's first law, and is applying that idea to the workings of his office. The result cannot but be satisfactory to the public. All books and papers are being properly classified, and by the end of the week there will be "a place for everything and everything in its place." Written notices are posted, requesting all parties referring to the city officials, to take them to their proper places. Parties having business at the office readily see the advantage of the new system and cheerfully comply with the new order of things.

Board Committees. The following committees have been appointed by the board of trade to solicit membership for the year ending December 31, 1899: Main Street—William Moore, E. W. Hart and George F. Wright. Upper Broadway—William Sieden-topf, L. A. Casper and C. A. Beebe. Lower Broadway—George Metcalf, Sol H. Foster and F. J. Day.

Looking at Lightning.

Last evening was the time appointed for the city council to visit the institution for the deaf and dumb, to inspect the building, and especially the workings of the new electric light plant. Aldermen Lacey, Metcalf and Knepper accepted the invitation, and took in the sights at the D. and D., accompanied by representatives of several of the city papers. Superintendent Rothery entertained the party very hospitably, and regaled his guests with a fine supper. The trip was very satisfactory and interesting, and the aldermen learned several things regarding electric lighting that will be of some material benefit in assisting them to secure a plant to light the city. In consequence of this trip the meeting of the council at the city building was postponed until some later date.

All persons having accounts with Harkness Bros. are requested to call and settle the same. Mrs. Watts is authorized to receive money and can be found at THE BEE office for the present. J. E. HARKNESS.

Sleigh bells, sleds and skates at cost to close out.

All water rents must be paid at the office of this company by January 21 or water will be turned off without further notice.

Improvement at Manawa.

It seems that the Manawa improvement scheme is not quite dead, neither is it slumbering. The committee is quietly at work, and a report will be submitted in a few days. Mr. Hathaway, the bridge and dam builder for the Union Pacific, has looked over the ground, and will make a full report regarding what is needed and the best method of making the necessary improvements. Mr. McConnell, chairman of the committee, is devoting considerable time to the matter, and expects to soon be ready to take some definite steps toward effecting the proposed changes.

It is conceded by all interested parties that something must be done, and the majority of them are willing to help, but have been waiting for some one to take the initiative. The changes to be made will be extensive and will convert the lake into a very popular summer resort. The Omahans are extensively interested in the matter, and will give material assistance. The Omaha Boat club has expressed a willingness to do their part, if they can be assured that the improvements will prove lasting. The Pacific coast is also looking into the matter with a view of becoming quite extensively interested.

Just what their intentions are it is impossible to ascertain, but a meeting is to be held in a few days that will have to do with the matter. It is stated that this company is desirous of securing a line to the lake for the coming season, and if they cannot purchase or lease the Manawa motor line, they will build a new one from the east end of their bridge to the lake. As the latter move would give a direct line from Omaha to the lake, it would undoubtedly cut off all Omaha patronage from the electric motor and Manawa motor lines, and confine the latter to local traffic.

It is evident to all that there is an abundance of money to be made at the lake if it is properly improved and conducted, and it is not probable that the opportunity will be allowed to pass unimproved. There is a desire on the part of certain interested parties who own real estate at the lake to have all unite in a stock company, improve the lake, conduct all business through a board of directors and general manager, and in that manner develop and improve the lake for the benefit of the company. There are so many schemes about that it is not probable that what will be done, but it is certain that the lake will not be allowed to fill up.

The Blue Coats' Round-up.

The usual mixed assemblage turned up in police court yesterday morning. Ben Woolfall, Sam Grell and Lons Nelson were each fined $7.00 for getting too full for utterance or another drink. Sam paid a similar fine Saturday morning, at which time he had $95.18, but when arrested the second time his roll was reduced to 55 cents. He had managed to "blow it" very nicely in twenty-four hours with the assistance of his fellow prohibitionists.

James Jones was sent to the county jail for five days. He was battling vigorously with a bottle of alcohol when arrested, but the alcohol had him "down" in a double sense, and was filling his boots with mud and "snakes." He was a sorry looking specimen as he answered roll call. The alcohol was declared contraband and confiscated, while Jones was declared drunk and relegated to the county cylinder.

Edith Holding and Lillie Mills, two artistically striped chromos from the "row," were arraigned as vagrants and fined $10.00 each. The luckless creatures were in arrears with their "fines," and were remorselessly juggled by the officers. The city ordinance declares that every prostitute is a vagrant, and on conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $10.00, and shall be put to work on public improvements as provided by the council. According to the custom followed by the city officials, the prostitute is required to pay a license (generally spoken of, however, as a "fine," out of regard for the sensitive feelings of the officials), amounting to $5 per month, and is allowed to follow her depraved calling unmolested. The report that she allows her "fine" to become delinquent she becomes a vagrant and is promptly rounded upon and locked up. Such is the manner in which the city ordinances are misinterpreted and then enforced.

A Merited Promotion.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. M. B. Brown, manager of the Western Union telegraph company's office in this city, received notification of his promotion to the superintendency of the Salt Lake office. This announcement is naturally gratifying to Mr. Brown, as the new position is more lucrative and responsible. It will also be gratifying to his many friends here, who wish him well in all things. It is regretted, however, that the new honors necessitate a change of residence. The business circles will regret to lose him, but doubtless a worthy successor will take his place here. The name of this successor is announced as Mr. Richard, chief operator of the Omaha office. Mr. Brown has been here for fourteen years. The business of the office has increased greatly during that time. He has conducted it very satisfactorily to the company and its patrons. He leaves for his new position Wednesday, but his family will remain here temporarily.

Petitioning the Officials.

At the monthly conference of ministers of this city, held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms yesterday morning, it was voted to urge all the churches to join in presenting a petition to the mayor and council asking an enforcement of the laws against saloons and against gambling houses and houses of prostitution. Dr. Phelps was appointed to act as part of a joint committee for presenting it to the council. It was intended that the churches be given a large degree of liberty in the matter of ratifying the petition, it being left to them whether they should do so by a rising vote of their congregations, or by securing the signatures of those favoring the petition.

Expressions of Sympathy.

Whereas, It was seen fit by the creator of all things in his wisdom to call home the wife of our beloved comrade, ex-Adjutant E. J. Abbott, and Whereas, We are deeply sensible of the severe affliction that results from severing the ties of a dutiful and loving wife, and of the breach of the family circle, leaving a loving husband and fond children to mourn the loss. And, Whereas, We recognize in the deceased a kind friend and a faithful supporter of every worthy cause, and soldier. Therefore be it

Resolved, That by the death of the much respected and loved lady, we have lost a kind friend and sympathizer and the community a worthy and devoted member and one whose life was fraught with acts of charity.

Resolved, By the members of the Lincoln Post, No. 29, G. A. R., that our heartfelt sympathies be extended to E. J. Abbott and his family in their great affliction. And be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to Comrade Abbott and to his family, and that they be spread on the records of the post.

Attested by the commander and adjutant that also a copy thereof be published in the daily papers of Council Bluffs.

The Fool and His Money.

Saturday night Annie Burke, a cyprian who rooms on Lower Broadway, relieved one of her "callers" of $140 in cold cash while the latter was sleeping off the effects of numerous deep potations, and skipped out with the booty. The victim reported the matter to the police, and Officer Oleson was detailed to work up the case. It seems that the stranger, whose name is unknown, had $100 in his pocketbook, but Annie left him $20 to soothe his ruffled feelings, and to allow him to purchase himself another drink. Officer Oleson went to Omaha yesterday and found the thief, but the money was gone. She had invested the greater part of it in clothing, and the officer confiscated all he could find. There were two dresses costing $36 and $38 respectively, a $9 hat and an $18 set of fur. These were brought back to this city. No arrests were made, as the victim is unwilling to appear in court against the woman. About a year ago several members of the law were implicated in the robbery of Thomas Hux and the Burke woman was one of them. Officer Oleson is entitled to much credit for running down the culprit so quickly and securing the greater part of the property. The victim, however, is entitled to no consideration whatever, and has only his lucky star to thank for the $20 that still remains to him. If his lesson is thoroughly learned, $140 is not an exorbitant price for him to pay for it.

Hard Times With the Demi-Monde.

Minnie Williams, another Madison street "dressmaker," whose "fines" are in arrears, was towed into police headquarters last evening by Captain Dyer. On arriving at the station she found the money, and was allowed to depart. The captain of police is authority for the statement that the number of prostitutes in the city is less than last month ago. At that time, on the occasion of his monthly roundup, he found forty-three of the brazen creatures within a stone's throw of the Methodist church.

In houses where there were three, four or five "girls," there are now but two, and in some cases the "landlady" lives alone. The number is reduced from forty to about half that number. The gallant captain now carries a list of twenty-three delinquents, and as fast as they are found, they are arrested. The majority manage to raise the cash, but all plead "hard times" and business dull. As this does not help the city treasury, the unfortunate creatures are dragged into court as vagrants unless they can find a "friend" to "put up" for them.

Personal Paragraphs.

Frank Hunter, United States commissioner and clerk of the United States district court, leaves to-morrow for Keokuk to attend a session of the federal court.

Mr. Leonard Everett left the city Sunday evening for Boston, where he will join his mother and brothers. He expects to be absent about a month.

Dr. J. C. Gleason, a prominent merchant of Villisca, is in the city, and was an interested spectator of last evening's drill of the Guards. He complimented the boys very highly, and is of the opinion that company A is the banner company of the Fifth regiment.

Mr. J. C. Gleason, brother of Dr. E. Gleason, left yesterday for his semi-annual trip on the road in the interest of the Kilpatrick-Koch dry goods house, of Omaha, after spending a month with relatives in this city. He will travel through Wyoming, Utah and Idaho and will return to the Bluffs to lay in his supply of Fourth of July firecrackers.

In District Court.

Judge Carson held a session of court yesterday. He rendered a decision in the Byrd case, overruling the motion for a new trial, and sentenced the prisoner to one year in the penitentiary for grand larceny. This was the last case occupying the attention of Colonel Dailey, and County Attorney Organ has full swing in all cases. The prison case against a recent escapee, defendant Herald company was heard, and it was ordered that the books of the company be introduced in court. The case will go over until next term.

Not at Being Dunned.

George Wicks was taken before Squire Hendricks yesterday, charged with assaulting Mrs. Phoebe A. Gilmore with a knife with intent to kill. Wicks is a tenant of Mr. Gilmore, and is in arrears for his rent. He objected to a dupe from Mrs. Gilmore, and became demonstrative. Several witnesses were examined and the case was continued until the 17th inst. at the request of the defendant in order that he might have time to secure the attendance of an important witness.

"A Public Office is a Public Trust."

New York Times—A great deal has been written at one time or another during the past four years, and particularly at the last four months, upon the assumption that President Cleveland was the originator and sole owner of the maxim, "Public office is a public trust." The president's enemies have been unusually active in this regard, even to a class of persons to whom detection of Mr. Cleveland is meat and drink, in their effort to show that he is not in fact the originator of the phrase, and that it was used by Lord Loughborough, Lord John Russell, by a member of the president, Mr. Justice Field, in 1894; in the democratic platform of 1876; by Judge Cooley in 1877; by Dorman B. Eaton in 1882, and in 1891 by the National Association of the students of this interesting subject has taken the trouble to find out when, if ever, Mr. Cleveland made use of the maxim, or if he ever did use it, what letter, message, state paper, or speech the words occurred as having been used by him. The phrase has been a good one upon campaign banners and in campaign speeches, and will probably not be challenged as unsound, even though it is not a maxim of Mr. Cleveland's name is explained.

The fact is that Mr. Cleveland never used the words in writing, print or speech. It was not until after his nomination as president that the phrase began to be repeated as one emanating from him. Just after the Chicago convention had completed its work, and before either the national democratic committee or the New York state democratic committee had begun campaign operations, some of the democrats at Albany undertook the compilation of a campaign document that was intended to enlighten the public about the personal and official career of Grover Cleveland. The book was to be printed at the Argus office, and the forms were made up there, the proofs were read by some of the governor's friends. When the last form was nearly ready, it was found that little part was needed. Johnson, of the Argus establishment, applied to Colonel D. S. Lamont to supply the needed copy. The private secretary made a draft of a title, but when it was read it was found to be somewhat redundant, crowding the page that was partly occupied by a portrait of the candidate. A few changes were made by which some words were got rid of. Then it appeared that the page still needed a text line, something that would attract attention at once, at the same time that it would be characterized of the subject of the book. Colonel Lamont, without recalling Lord Loughborough or Justice Field or Judge Cooley, made a quick calculation of the numbers needed and the best words to be chosen to meet the emergency, and wrote down "Public office is a public trust." He looked at the line for a while and then, handing the page over, expressed the opinion that he thought it would "go." The page was set up and the phrase in the title was not seen by Governor Cleveland until the work was completed and ready for distribution.

Colonel Lamont was correct in his opinion that the phrase "would go." Without stopping to inquire, and probably because the phrase as applied to Mr. Cleveland's official career was so universally accepted as fitting, it was assumed that somewhere, at some time, Mr. Cleveland had used the expression, and that its authorship ought to be attributed to him. It was used more frequently on banners and transparencies and flags in the campaign of 1884 than all the other party mottoes together. The president has never laid claim to it as his personal property. The truthful historian will have to concede that he gave greater significance to the long-neglected maxim than did Lord Loughborough or Justice Field and Cooley.
