One of Them Talks About the Inter-"Yes, the bricklayers and stonemasons are getting things in shape for the coming season," said one of the former, "and they will go about the way this week's international convention will direct. The convention was sitting last week, and represented Canada as well as the United States, but I guess it didn't make many radical changes. Each subordinate union is entitled to a representation of three delegates in the convention Several members are required to form a local union, and if the membership exceeds three hundred an additional delegate is al lowed for each 500 members in excess of 300. If one delegate from a local union only is present he is entitled to three votes. Two members are entitled to a vote and a half each, so that each union having one delegate present has equal weight in the conference There is one thing, however, they have de-termined upon, and that is if a man is expelled for cause, he will have to stay ex-pelled. There was one of that kind named pelled. There was one of that kind hamed Matthews-Dick Matthews-who was expelled from a New York union for non-pay-ment of dues. He had lots of friends and they made a fight to have him reinstalled by the convention, but it was found that within a few days after his expulsion he was offered a chance to join again on payment of his dues or without them. payment He got He got his spunk up and would not do it, declaring that he would 'bust up' the union. Ten thousand dollars would be no inducement to No. 7 to readmit him now. His name is Dennis, and so will every other man be christened that bucks the union this year.'

"I don't think we will have any trouble this year in Omaha," he added, "for both bosses and men understand what the losses will be to themselves and each other. There will be no foolish strikes, but the men will see that every right they are entitled to, will

"MAGGIE THE TRAMP." A Pecu iar Specimen of the Female Type Now in Omaha.

"Who are you, and where are you going?" "I'm 'Maggie the Tramp,' and I'm on an endless pilgrimage."

The above conversation took place between an officer at the Union Pacific depot and a slovenly appearing woman about forty-five years of age, Friday near the hour of midnight. The woman arrived at the depot from Council Bluffs on the 7:15 dummy, and carried in her arms a babe of about twelve months. She entered the ladies waiting room at the depot, and took up quarters in an obscure corner of the room Thinking that she was awaiting the arrival of friends the employes at the depot paid but little at tention to her until the hour for closing the depot arrived An officer then approached her, when the above conversation ensued At first the latter thought to call up the pa trol and send his impromptu guest to the po lice station, and undoubtedly would have lone so had not another of the attaches ar rived on the scene and at once recognized er as the female who is known as "Margie the Tramp' between the two oceans, the British possessions and the Gulf of Mexico. It is stated that for the past twelve years this woman has been traveling from one point to another on the charity of the public and when private contributions fail, she im-mediately repairs to the county commission ers, and, it is said, invariably succeeds in ob aining aid and transportation to another point, where the same thing is repeated. As to her motives for doing this, several theories are advanced. The opinion is that she is but half-witted, and therefore travels about the country in this man-ner. Another theory is that the woman is traveling under the garb of a pauper, but is in reality a female detective. Just what weight can be attached to the latter theory remains to be solved, as there is no instance wherein the woman is known to have been connected with the arrest of any one. She has on two different occasions made a tour of the Union Pacific to the coast and is thought to be on a third tour. How ever, at her earnest solicitation she was allowed to pas the night in the depot, and yesterday morning she took her babe and started about the city, and nothing has been

The Request of the School Board For More Money. The finance committee of the city council met last night at the council chamber to consider the tax levy of 1889. They were visited by a delegation of the board of education, consisting of President Clark and Messrs Goodman, Millard, Sholes and Secretary Piper. This committee desired the council to give the board of education a school levy of 1 mill for the sinking fund and 5 mills for the general fund. This was based on an estimate on the needs of the school board and above the jncome from all licenses and fines from the police court. The council committee did not take any action in the premises, but the prevailing disposition was o cut the school levy down to a minimum as the levy for city purposes is already very high, and in the opinion of the council com-mittee the school board can get along with the income already at its disposal.

NORRIS & WILCOX, 1517 Douglas street.

Deserved Success The well known firm of Chamberlain. Anderson & O'Connell, of 208 and 210 North Sixteenth street, have for the past six years occupied a prominent place among the business firms of this popular street. Their trade has been very satisfactory to them and has grown to such proportions as to necessitate ampler quarters. They have secured the large store room just south, thus making them one of the finest sales rooms in Omaha. Their large stock occupying three large double floors. In rank they are third among furniture houses in the city, and carry a stock which in style, quality and finish, will compare most favorably with any stock kept in the city. They have just ordered a magnificent stock of spring goods, which will arrive in due time, mong which, in addition to a complete line of furniture, will be found a hand-some stock of baby cabs of the very latest patterns. These gentlemen study the wants of their customers, and wil spare no pains to make their store in he future as it has been in the past, the most popular furniture house in Omaha.

THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS. Reforms Suggested at Their Meeting

in Lincoln Last Week. If the suggestions made at the convention of county commissioners in Lincoln last week, are carried out by the legislature, it will make a marked change in the future taxation of the state. One of the changes, and perhaps the most important, is that sug gesting that all taxable property be assessed at its full value. This, it is thought, will place the finances of the state in a more intelligible position in eastern money markets. It will not effect the amount of taxes paid by each taxpayer, but it will nominally reduce the percentage as published. That is Omaha at present is paying 71% per ceat on a reduced valuation, whereas, if it was as-sessed at its full value, from 1 to 2 per cent would be sufficient, and yet the amount of taxes received would be the same. This would put it in a much more favorable light with eastern capitalists, who are often leterred by what seems to them ar exhorbicant taxation, while in reality, it is no more than they are called upon to pay in the east. exhorbitant

Another suggestion made was that the state board of equalization be enlarged, and that in addition to the governor, state and tor and state treasurer, each district judge be empowered to name one person to act for his district. It would be left to this board to equalize the state assessment, as among counties, and it is intended that when one county would tax itself heavily for local im-provements, it should not be compelled to ony a state tax in the same proportion. The poard would also have the power of equalizing in bulk, as between counties, all assessible stock, live stock and improvements-a for example, where the assessors of two ad-joining counties put a totally different valuation upon horses—in the one county $25 apiece, and in the other $75—the board would e empowered to reduce the $75 or merease the $25 (for state taxation) which at presen Still another suggestion was that of making the office of assessor either elective, or appointive by the district judges, the appointment to be approved by the county commissioners, and of having only one assessor in the county instead of the numberess officials who at present spend a portion of the year in drawing salary. Other alterations and amendments were talked of, and finally Chairman Anderson appointed Messrs. Shubert, of Lancaster county, Todd, of Cass county, and O'Keeffe, of Douglas, a committee to draft the necessary bill, and present it to the legislature for consideration. They will meet in Lincoln at 10 a. m. Tuesday morning, and in the mean time General Cowin will outline a measure covering the above, and other points. The Police Court.
