The Presbyterians Duly Dedicate Their New Church.

THE PETITIONS FOR REFORM.

Will the City Officials Enforce All the Laws?-Street Scenes-Few Accidents - Personals.

A Church Dedication.

At the Presbyterian church yesterday was a day of rejoicing. It marked the completion of that beautiful edifice and its formal dedication. This would be cause sufficient for thanksgiving, but when at the close of the morning service more than $10,000 was pledged to free the structure from all debt rejoicings and congratulations were mingled with the profoundest thanksgiving. This amount, with what will hereafter be secured to the same end, will be ample to extinguish the outstanding indebtedness of every kind and nature.

The rooms were beautifully embellished by the addition of natural flowers. The altar was a veritable garden of loveliness, and every niche and corner of the structure bore some type of the simplicity, purity and beauty of the christian life. In the arch between the main rooms was suspended a large bell, made of immortelles, a suggestive addition to the types presented in the other decorations.

At the evening service the new and beautiful rooms now complete were thrown open and added 300 sittings to the capacity of the main auditorium.

The Congregationalist, First Baptist, Bethany Baptist, Berean Baptist and Scandinavian Bantist churches kindly gave up their Sabbath evening services and joined with the Presbyterians in their dedication. The house was filled. The pastors of these other various churches assisted in the services. Rev. Mr. Thickstun reading the scriptures, and Rev. Messrs. Cooley and Crofts leading in the prayers. The visiting pastors also gave kindly words of greeting and congratulation to the Presbyterians in thus successfully enlarging their house of worship. Mr. Will Thickston presided at the organ in a manner most creditable. The Congregational choir assisted in the musical part of the services.

Some of the grand old hymns, such as "Coronation," "I Love to Tell the Story," and "In the Cross of Christ I were sung with great earnestness by the large congregation. The paster, Rev. Stephen Phelps, then preached the sermon, a little synopsis of which is here given:

Text, I. Cor. ii-2: "Jesus Christ and Him Crucified." Moses told the children of Israel that after they had entered the promised land God would choose, out of all their tribes, one place and put His name there. When,450 years later, Solomon was dedicating the temple, he prayed that that might be the place where God would cause His name to dwell. After the prayer God appeared to Solomon and assured him that He had beard his supplications and had hallowed the place, and had put His name there.

God does not now have only one earthly temple, but many. Among the many, He has evidently already put His name in this place, which we have builded for Him, This He has done in all our worship for Him here, but nota-bly, in three meetings, which it is proper I should mention. The first was the closing meeting of the series conducted by the evangelists, who were recently blessed of Him to this city. It was pronounced by many as the most powerful meeting ever held in the city, and by others, even of large experience, as the most remarkable meeting they had ever attended. The second was that of last Sabbath morning, when so many stood here and publicly confessed Christ, and many of them were baptized. There was a period in that meeting when I felt the presence of God in such power as I think I never felt before. The third was the meeting of this morning, when, in answer to prayer, Goa moved so powerfully upon the congregation present and they made that magnificent contribution of $11,000, which provided for all the large debt which these people had incurred in these recent improvements. These hallowing scenes owed their power to the one great fact stated in the text, the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. But for that peculiar and propitiatory death, such power to bless would never have been felt in any earthly meeting. The hallowing of the old temple was in connection with the immense offering of Solomon and the people of hundreds of thousands of sheep and oxen in sac-rifice. But the hallowing of this building is because of an infinitely greater sacrifice-Jesus Christ and Him crucified. This then shall, and ought to be, the theme of its dedication. The preacher then spoke of the pul-pit as a tower in the Zion of our day; a tower of strength, of defense, a watch tower and a monumental tower. As such, it has its theme, as the Bartholdi statue, or Bunker Hill monument, or Arch of Titus, or Egyptian pyramids have each their themes. Its theme is Jesus Christ and Him crucified. He then presented reasons why the pulpit should be consecrated to this great theme.

1. Because of the nature of the theme There is no other theme with a scope like this. There is no other so pure, so lofty, so broad, so deep; none so acceptable, so appropriate, so profitable, so powerful, or so greatly blessed of

Because of its relation to God, the Father, to the Son, and the Holy Ghost; and also to all true worship.

3. Because of its relation to man, and its power over man. 4. Because it is the theme of the Scriptures.

5. Because it embraces the whole gos These points were dwelt upon at length and fully illustrated.

Will the Officials Act? The matter of petitioning the city authorities for a complete and impartial administration and execution of the state laws and city ordinances respecting saloons, gambling and bawdy houses, was taken up at the Congregational, Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist churches yesterday morning. Petitions were presented at the conclusion of each service. These being read, the congregations were asked to express by a rising vote their wishes in the matter. The responses were liberal, and make this demand of the authorities.

Committees were selected from each church, numbering from five to eight fully one thousand persons voted to persons, to present these petitions at the next meeting of the city council, which convenes on the 26th inst. At the Methodist church the work began one week ago, was continued, and quite a large number of names were added to the already long list. In the presentation of these petitions probably two thousand or more persons will join in this demand. What reception it will have and what will be the final disposition of the matter can only be conjectured, for so far as known, neither the mayor nor any member of the council has given any expression of their personal views or probable action.

The petition is one which should have great weight with the officials. It could have been made stronger and more signatures secured had framers not taken such pains to de-nounce the reputation of the city as a The claim that Council Bluffs has the reputation of being the most lawless city in Iowa does not add strength to the petition. Those who do not believe this to be the case cannot consistently sign such an article of faith, however much they desire the present evils speedily reformed. The officials should bear in mind that there are many besides the signers of this petition who are heartily in favor of reaching the same result at which it aims. There is a strong reformatory feeling here. The officials should recognize it, and not wait for petitions to force them to do their duty.

On the Streets.

The merry jingle of the sleigh bells was to be heard all day yesterday as the fast-flying cutters whirled up and down the streets of the city. The sleighing was very fair, although the fall of two or three inches more snow is necessary to put it in first-class condition. That already on the ground is finely packed, and would make a splendid foundation for another light dressing. Yesterday's sleighing might be termed the first of of the season, as comparatively few.had previously attempted it.

It is surely an unusual winter in this section when no sleighs appear until after the middle of January, but such is the fact regarding the winter of 1888-89. Everybody who could secure any kind of motive power and a pair of runners was to be seen on the streets vesterday. and all of them were out for "a spin on the boulevard." Many of them headed Many of them headed for lower Broadway, but were disap-pointed. They expected to find there a wide, beaten track, presenting excel-lent attractions, but the wind had inter-

The snow was wanting in a very large legree, and the Omahans who visited the Bluffs found it "pretty tough sled-ding." The business portion of the city offered the finest sleighing to the pleasure seekers, and until dark its thoroughfares were crowded.

It is not to be supposed that such day and such a crowd could pass without an accident, and there were several, although none of them resulted seri-The majority of them were simously. ple collisions, from which no harm resulted, and a few runaways, in which a good supply of kindling wood was prepared without the use of the axe.

The most serious accident occurred on Washington avenue. Mr. F. Sperling and daughter were driving along, and the horse became frightened at boys who were coasting on North Second street. As the coasters flew down the hill toward the corner of Washington avenue, the animal shied, overturning the sleigh, and throwing out the occupants. The lady was not injured, but the old gentleman sustained several painful bruises, and it was with some difficulty that he walked to his home on Oakland avenue. The horse ran away but was stopped after going several blocks, before much damage was done.

The greater part of the runaways took place on upper Broadway, as the result of unlucky and reckless racing, and several driverless horses dashed eastward into the country on a dead run. No accidents were reported in that locality. On the motor line travel was unusually light for Sunday, but this was owing to the fact that the people preferred another kind of transportation, and not because they were not abroad. The day passed quietly and without disturbance. The patrolmen skirmished around at a lively rate to keep warm, but only suc-

How to Improve Manawa. It is reported on good authority that the board of trade will be asked to take up the Manawa improvement matter. and those members of that body who have thus far been heard to express themselves on the subject are very much in favor of it.

A short time ago a new organization was formed here known as the Young Men's Commercial club, having for its interests the business welfare of its members and the general prosperity of the city. To one of its committees, facetiously ter med the river and harbor committee, was referred the Manawa matter. This committee has already done considerable work in that direction, and seeks the co-operation of the board of trade. Several plans for the improvement of the lake have already been sub mitted, and the estimates given of the cost of the proposed changes range from that two different parties have agreed to give $1,000 each for this purpose One of them is the Minneapolis syndi cate that has recently purchased so much land between this city and the lake, and the other is not stated.

Colonel F. C. Reed, of the motor line, has agreed to give one-third of the whole amount necessary to improve the lake, whether that third is $1,000 or $15,000. With very few exceptions, all of those parties who are directly interested in the lake have expressed a willingness to do the fair thing, and con-tribute as much to the lake improvement fund as their circumstances and interests would justify. There are a few, however, who evince a disposition to squeal, and their cry is: "If the public wants the lake fixed up, let 'em fix In fact, a subscription paper for this purpose will shortly be circulated among the business men and citizens generally, asking their contributions toward this end. The indications are that it will not meet with a flattering reception. The public is willing to pat-ronize the lake liberally, but it is not willing to improve the lake at its own expense and then shell out watering place prices for the privilege of enjoying it. The amount of capital now in terested at the lake foots up a great many thousand dollars, and is suf-ficiently large to justify it in mak-ing all of the necessary improvements. The interested parties have already begun to look around to see what is the prospect for outside assistance, as it is evident that the coming season will not amount to much unless radical changes decided change in the situation is now manifest, and as these parties seem to have come to their senses, it is quite probable that several important steps will be taken in the near future.

A Dig in the Ribs.

When that region is sore and congested, pokes seem flendish. Look at a man's countenance ere you prod him under the ribs. If his skin and eyeballs have a sallow tinge, you may infer also that his tongue is furred, his breath apt to be sour, that he has pains not only beneath his ribs, but also under the right sibulder blade. Also, that his bowels are irregular and his digestion impaired. Instead of making a jocose demonstration on his ribs, recommend him to take, and steadily persist in taking, Hostetter's stomach ily persist in taking, Hostetter's stomacl bitters, the finest anti-bilious and alterative medicine extant. Steel Passenger Cars Tried. New York Herald: A trial trip has been made with the new fire-proof steel cars just completed for the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago railway. Th trip was made to Hammond, Ind. The car is in all respects a first-class coach. Above the trucks all is non combustible material. The usual sills and girders are faced with steel plates set on edge. Through these and extending across the car are heavy steel bolts, firmly secured. The framework of the car is attached to these sills, the ribs and posts, along with the raised deck, being bent without heat to the required form. The makers claim that the cars are safe from telescoping. Steel sheets cover the framework, making it comfortable both in winter and summer and absolutely fireproof. Lightness, strength, durability and resistance to

The New Albany road will soon put these cars in the regular service. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the pest and most reliable medicine in use for coughs, colds and croup. A Strange Sensation. Philadelphia Ledger: The workmen employed to raise the roof of the Ausonia (Conn.) electric car sheds suffered a strange experience a few days ago that was unpleasant but harmless. A guy rope connected with a derrick be came in some way connected with an electric current, which, as the rope was damp, was readily conducted away As a result of this, when one employe climbed a ladder and grasped an iron rod he screamed with pain, and shortly after when another picked up a hammer he quickly dropped it. It was soon learned that nearly everything in the establishment was charged, and the derrick had to be taken down before work could be continued.
