A telegram received in this city yes-terday announced the death, at Atlantic, of Mark Porterfield, a young man well known in this city, where his parents reside. The deceased had been visiting a brother at Atlantic for over a month, and was expected to return to this city very shortly. The arrangements are not yet completed for the funeral, which will be held in this city. NA deed was yesterday filed in the office of the county recorder, convey-ing fifteen lots in Riddle's sub-division to the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad company. The grantor is the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad company. The lots are on the line of the Rock Island, just north of their passenger depot. The considera-tion was $4,794. It is supposed that the Rock Island will utilize the newly acquired ground for sidetrack purposes.

Mayor Rohrer Thinks the Bookkeeping Is All Right.

ANOTHER BIG DEAL IN DIRT.

The Saloons and Bawdy Houses Not Paying Fines Very Promptly-A Few Offenders In Court-Personals.

Another Big Deal.

The Minneapolis Syndicate closed another $10,000 cash land deal vesterday. This tract lays, with the other purchases of this company, along the projected boulevard and Union Pacific motor line.

The extent of these deals, and the confidence of those interested in the increase of values in that part of the city has aroused no little stir and speculation as to the result as well as the purposes of these deals. It is rumored that the Union Pacific road is backing these deals, and in conjunction with the Minneapolis company will make such improvements there as will create an active demand for the property lying between the city and Lake Manawa. What form these improvements will ake are, as yet matters of speculation, but it is known that the work of developing that section will begin as soon as the weather will permit. The same company and others are also becoming largely interested, financially, in Lake Manawa property, and it is stated upon good authority that before the season opens that popular resort will receive such improvements as will completely transform it. These matters are being watched with no little interest by the people of both cities.

Not Many Pines.

The city clerk has not been called ipon to issue many receipts this month. The saloon men do nat pay their fines because they "don't have to," at least that is what the majority of them seem to think, and as a consequence very few of them have dropped in to see the clerk and deposit $25 for "appearance," or what might be more correctly called, their no inappearance. The mayor is rigidly adhering to the maxim, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again," and the budge dispensers have received no-tifications to "please call and settle," but they fail to do so. The fines from the prostitutes also show a remarkable falling off, but this is hardly due to the good resolutions formed on the first of the year. Many of the women of easy virtue have changed their locations and the police are unable to find them to enforce the payment. It is stated that many of them have left the city, and are contributing their mites to Omaha's treasury. However this may be, it is certain that they are not paying their fines in this city at the present time.

The Special Assessment.

Mayor Rohrer objects to the criticism of Deputy County Treasurer Bowman regarding the city's method of handling special assessments, and claims that the system now in vogue is as nearly perfect as it can be made. He states that a citizen who desires to pay his full assessment for grading, or other improvents has ample time to do so before the bonds are issued, which is thirteen days after the first publication, and if they fail to do so they must pay as the bonds fall due. The city executive claims that a spe-cial assessment certificate is not sufficient for the property owners to hold but that he should present it at the ofuce of the county treasurer and secure a tax receipt. As to the matter of carting all of the books to the court house, there is no alternative. The city has no proper receptacle for such articles, and they must be stored there until a new building is erected. The prospect of its immediate erection is not brilliant.

Preparing For the Bazaar.

In response to the call about fifty of the prominent ladies of the city met vesterday afternoon to arrange for a pazaar to be given Easter week for the benefit of St. Bernard's hospital. The officers selected are Mrs. J. J. Brown, president; Mrs. Dr. Macrae, vice president; Miss Kate Wickham, secretary;

The Coyle Assault.

The case of Roland and Dwyer was heard by Squire Hendricks. The prisoners were accused of an assault on James Coyle, with intent to kill. They were previously tried by Squire Biggs, and bound over to the grand jury, which failed to indict them. They were held in jail, and the case came up again. A motion for their discharge on account of the previous trial was argued, and taken under advisement. The status of the case seems to be that the prosecution desires to have them held as important witnesses in another case, and this is the means by which it is sought to ef-

POTTAWATTAMIE.

Quick. On Friday evening, 25th inst., a small company of young people assembled at the home of G. E. McMahon, for the purpose of organizing a singing class, which is to meet every Friday evening, at the home of some mem-ber of the class. None are expected to at-tend these meetings save those who are anx ious to learn to sing. There is much talent lying dormant, and it is hoped that the result of these meetings will be the awakening of this talent, till we shall be able to boast of a choir second to none in the country. Miss Etta McMahon, one of the Council

Bluffs school teachers, came into the country

Friday evening to spend Saturday and Sun-day with her brother and sister. Miss Carrie Johnson, of Green township, spent several days this week visiting in the family of Mr. Henry Thomas. Miss J. is an old and successful teacher. Her school at present is not in session, having been closed by the board of health, on account of the small pox in that vicinity. The quarantine will be raised on the 29th inst., and it is sup posed that the teachers will then resume their work. However, a question has arisen as to whether they can draw wages for the time that their schools have been closed. This will be settled at the next meeting of

PATTI'S GORGEOUS ROBES.

Her Magnificent Costumes for the Part of Juliet. Tha dresser-an artist in her waytook me into the illustrious singer's wardrobe room, writes Labogehere in the course of an account of a visit to Mme. Patti, and first called my attention to three pairs of tiny shoes ranged in a row on the mantelpiece. "Snoes and stockings," quoth she, "are of such importance on the stage. Mme Patti gives no trouble about them, her feet being, as you see from the unstretched state of the uppers, so small. She wears rather high heels. Mmc. Krause was a pest to her shoemaker, because she was, feet and all, a woman built on a large scale. If the shoe was tight she walked badly. If it was loose her feet looked too large. The matter was finally settled by the adoption of a kind of silk stuff woven like stocking hose, and strong without being thick. It stretched with the foot, and was at once tight and easy. At the sides of the uppers, where they were stitched on the soles, there was a stiff lining to keep the anatomy of the foot from being prominent. The heels were of being prominent. The heels were of alternate layers of leather and of India rubber, and so they did not 'pound.'

You see that there are here three sets of shoes---they are si mignons are they One was in white and silver, another was in peach blossom, with seed pearls embroidered on the uppers, and the third pair was in pinkish lilac silk, with a white bow.

The dresses were then taken down from the pegs on which they hung in a closet. The one for the ball scene was made of white satin. It was open at the sides, and showed an under-skirt of peach blossom, over which was a net-work of pearls. A flat tablier made in a single piece, and forming a the whole front of the dress, and, as it was also in peach blossom, with a pearl net-work, it chimed in with the lateral

The next dress was white epingle velvet. It used long ago to be called terry velvet. The one that goes with some of the finest gems in Patti's casket was of white epingle velvet, with the kind of sheen the feathers on angels' wings might be expected to give out. It was heavy with silver embroidery, and must have been a fearful load to bear. When Juliet wears it she leans a good deal on Capulet's arm, and so is not worried to death by its weight. A court mantle, also in white and silver, forms a part of this dress.

"This is my favorite," said the dresser, as she showed me the costume worn in the grand act. It was in white silk crepe sver a lilac of a strong hue. The sleeves, open the whole way, reached to the ground. All the white crepe was pleated by machinery before it was made to overlie the pinkish-lilac silk robe. The body and skirt of the pleated white overall of silk crepe expanded where the corsage widened, and was tinged with color from beneath, though at the waist it was a dense mass of white. The skirt fell in, I dare say, a thousand pleats, through which, as they

COUNTERFEIT PILLS.

Millions of Bougus Liver Stimulants in Finch's Mint.

It is Raided on the Complaint of the Carter Medicine Company-Big Swindle on the Bilious Public.

A manufacturing druggist named Luzon J. Finch is under bail charged with a stupendous fraud upon the public. Finch lives at No. 310 Pleasant avenue, and runs a drug factory at No. 36 Gold street. On the strength of evidence to the effect that he has been imitating trade marks and flooding the market with bogus pills, the grand jury has found a true bill against him. Yesterday Recorder Smyth issued a warrant for his arrest, which Detective Kiernan executed.

"My business is ruined!" exclaimed Finch, throwing up his hands when Kiernan made him his prisoner. "My business is ruined!" repeated the unhappy man, as tears rolled down his cheeks, "and I'm a ruined man!"

Armed with a search warrant which had also been issued by Recorder Smyth, Detective von Geriethen and assistants raided the pill factory in Gold street. Here different samples of over ten thousand fraudulent imitations of a trade mark were found. These with enough pills to restore the shattered nerves of a nation were seized by the searching party and stored away in the receiving vaults under the district attorney's office.

The story of the alleged fraud is this: Mr. Brent Good of No. 57 Murray street is manager of the Carter Medicine company, a corporation formed under the general law of the state of New York. The company owns a trade mark which is affixed to a valuable manufacture known as "Carter's Little Liver Pills." This trade mark was originally adopted in 1874 by Dr. Carter, a well-known physician in his day. Wishing to retire from business, Dr. Carter sold the trade mark and good will and full right to manufacture his specialty to persons who in 1880 sold out their interest in the concern to the corporation known as the "Carter Medicine company." Over $1,000,000 have been spent by the present concern in advertising their business.

About three months ago Manager Brent Good was informed that Luzon J Finch of Gold street was manufacturing pills in enormous quantities and putting them up in a style similar to that of the genuine pills of the Carter Medicine company---that he had, in fact, made a pill idendical in appearance to the "Carter Little Liver Pill," packed it in a similar bottle to that employed by the company, and wrapped both up in a label which was nothing more or less than an impudent imitation of the genuine one. "I furthermore learned;" explained Mr. Good, "that hundreds of druggists were being supplied by Finch with bogus Little Liver Pills, and that the fraud was becoming more general from the fact that the false manufacturer was in the habit of inserting in the label or wrapper the name of any retailer who might desire it to be done, and while the spurious article was being sold at ten cents a bottle the gen uine one cost twenty-five cents. Of course these retailers were parties to the fraud and are all liable to prosecu-We have their names. Over one hundred of them have drug stores in New York.

Joseph E. Moore, of No. 135 Newark avenue. Jersey City, is a retail drug-gist for many years in business. With several other gentlemen of his profession he has been subpænaed as a witness by Assistant District-Attorney John D. Lindsay, who is conducting the case for the Carter people.

Two New York druggists who will assist the prosecution are J. W. Linton. of Seventeenth street and Fourth avenue, and Frederick D. Brown, of No. 244 Sixth avenue. Finch sold Linton one gross of the bogus pills. A Jour-nal reporter saw the bill of sale and the goods themselves. Brown was supolied with 50,000 Lattle Liver Pills. Finch was accommodating enough to furnish printed wrappers telling Brown to save money and pack the pills him-

Assistant District Attorney John D. Lindsay explained the situation to the fournal reporter in this way:

"The Carter Medicine company is a lawfully organized corporation with its own valid trade mark acquired from its originator, Dr. Carter, who began to use it in 1876. The trade [mark was continuously used by the corporation and its predecessors to designate the precise kind of goods to which it is applied—namely the Little Liver Pills. "These pills have always been put up in wrappers similar in size, color, design and arrangement of words. At the time of its adoption no other person, persons, firm or corporation had such a wrapper in use for similar goods. "The trade mark and the wrapper or label bearing it have been fraudulently imitated by this man Finch and affixed to goods of the same general description as the genuine ones. The words on the wrapper are—to use a legal phrase—wholly or in part the same to the eye and in sound to the ear," as the words constituting the genuine trade mark which designates the genuine manufacture.

"The color of the wrapper, the printing thereon, and the general appearance of the false are the same as the genuine, as may be seen by comparison. A variety of clumsy devices have been resorted to by the pill counterfeiter in order to evade the law, the most notable being the substitution of the letter 'h' for the letter 'c' in the word 'Carter,' thus making Dr. Carter's Little Liver Pills read 'Dr. Harter's Little Liver Pills.' This, however, is only one instance out of several thousand. Finch's office we found a complete record of 10,000 differently designed imitations, only 175 of which, as far as we can ascertain, have been foisted upon the market during the last six months. "Finch has made himself amenable to the criminal law. The grand jury has indicted him of the crime of know ingly selling an article of merchandise to which was affixed an imitation of the trade mark of another without the lat-ter's consent. The evidence we have against him will enable us, if we wish to do so, to convict him of fraud on dif-ferent charges exactly 250 times. The punishment is imprisonment for not more than one year, or a fine of not more than $500, or both."

Before Recorder Smyth the prisoner pleaded "not guilty." Lawyer Ambrose Purdy, who represented him applied for bail, which was fixed at $1,000. Albert missed by the grand jury.

Finch was found by a Journal reporter yesterday afternoon at the pill factory. It is an unpretentious little red brick building, situated in the most squalid quarter of Gold street. The exterior is decidedly uninviting. The interior, however, furnishes an appearance of comfort even luxury, that is absolutely startling. The reporter informed Finch that any statement he wished to furnish The Journal in self-defence would be published.

"I'm not guilty." he replied, nervously. "I don't know what to say—that is, I don't know that I've anything to say; in fact I know I've nothing to say, Good day!"

A Tremendous Sensation would have been created one hundred years ago by the sight of one of our modern express trains whizzing along at the rate of sixty miles an hour. Jus think how our grandfathers would have stared at such a spectacle! It takes a good deal to astonish people now-a-days but some of the marvelous cures of consumption, wrought by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, have created widespread amazement, Consumption is at last acknowledged curable. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only known remedy for it. If taken at the right time-which, bear in mind, is not when the lungs are nearly gone-it will go right to the seat of the disease and accomplish its work as nothing else in the world can.
