The Danebro society gave its eleventh annual masquerade at Masonic temple last evening. There was a large at-tendance and the occasion was a lively one. The costumes, as a rule, were the most grotesque seen at any masquerade here this season, and the maskers enjoyed themselves fully as much as did the spectators.

The beautiful broken column which appeared among the floral tributes at Dr. Stillman's funeral was prepared by L. A. Caspar, the florist. It was composed entirely of double white primroses. Other flowers were used in the trimmings about the column and about the base. It was one of the finest floral designs ever produced here, and was the tribute of his brother physicians of this city and Omaha.

The social and business public of Council Bluffs and Western Iowa generally, will be interested in learning that there has been a change in the management of the Consolidated Tank Line company's office in this city, and will regret to learn that the change consists of the retirement of the old manager, Mr. M. Buhler, or "Mike," as he is familiarly known over a territory big enough for an empire. The vacancy has been filled by Mr. Drake, son of S. J. Drake, the general western manager of the company at Omaha. Mr. Buhler's retirement from the business here will be very generally regretted. Mr. Buhler was preparing to sell his Omaha property and erect an elegant residence on this side of the river, but it is hardly probable that the change

Dr. Montgomery who attended him thinks that enough of the acid slipped down his throat to inflame

Salvation Walker Makes a Serious Charge Against a Fallen Brother

-A Wrecked Home-The Day In Court.

A Mock Marriage. A girl giving the name of Mary Sutton appeared at the office of County Attorney Organ Wednesday evening and entered a complaint against one Jack Smith and Samuel Andrews, charging them with inveigling her into a mock marriage. The girl, who is an orphan, has been living for several months with her uncle, James T. Lane, near the Northwestern roundhouse. About three months ago, it is said. Brown began to visit her, and continued his visits, although the girl was advised to have nothing to do with him. Matters con-tinuek in this way until Tuesday evening, when Brown invited the girl to take a walk. They left the house, and the girl did not return until the following morning, when she stated that she was married on previous evening to Brown. Her story of the marriage was that they entered a room on the second floor of a block on Main street, over a saloon known as the Red Front, and were there met by a stranger to her, but who was evidently acquainted with Brown. He was introduced to her as Samuel Anderson, a justice of the peace. The marriage ceremony was quickly performed, the only words being "I pronounce you two husband and wife." The bogus justice soon departed. Brown disapproceed early in the morning and the peared early in the morning, and the girl returned to her uncle's house. She told her story to Mr. Lane, and he told her that she had been duped. She be-came convinced of it, and filed a complaint as above stated. Warrants were ssued and both men were soon arrested by Sheriff O'Neil. Brown was found at Lane's house in the evening, and Andrews, alias Anderson, was arrested at the Merriam block, where he was at work as a roofer. Miss Sutton is about twenty-two years of age, and has always been a quiet, well behaved young woman. She has been compelled to work for a living, and has been engaged as a domestic in several places in the city. The case was presented to the grand jury yester-day. The two prisoners are still con-fined in the county jail, no bail having been fixed for their appearance. Brown is apparently forty years of age, but might appear several years younger if properly washed. He bears anything but an enviable reputation. Andrews is a young man of about twenty-five, and seems to treat the whole affair as a huge joke. He denies any criminal action. Miss Sutton visited the fail twice yesterday to see Brown, but her visits were of short duration. Mr. Lane states that his niece has been "all right, only in a rush to get married, and now she has made a pretty mess

A Brutal Assault.

Charles Cox was arrested Wednesday evening by Deputy Sheriff M. T. O'Conner, and lodged in jail on the charge of assaulting the ten-year-old daughter of "Salvation" Walker, about six weeks ago. The father of the child stated that Cox, who has been acquainted with the family for some time, visited the house at the time stated. The children were the only ones at home, and Cox took advantage of this fact, although two younger brothers beat him with a poker and sticks of wood. Cox then disappeared, and his whereabouts were unknown until Wednesday, when he was arrested while returning to the farm of

J. A. Murphy, where he is employed. Walker says that he said nothing of the matter before, as the fellow had gone, and he waited to locate him. The little girl tells a similar story, and gives a very clear account of the whole disgusting affair. Dr. M. J. Bellenger was summoned to make an examination of the child Wednesday, and he states that there is every reason to believe the girl's story.

The case was presented to the grand jury, and that body yesterday returned an indictment against Cox.

Patching a Wrecked Home. Among the cases considered by the grand jury was one against E. A. Raymond. It seems that some time ago Silas A. and Sarah L. Robinson lived happily together as man and wife, and there was no legal reason why they should not do so. However, after a while there was a change, and the happy home was broken up. The wife had gone with a handsomer man, who is the defendant in the case just insti-tuted. Raymond and the Robinson woman, it is asserted, have been living together for some time on East Pierce street, and there was not the slightest indication of an approaching storm. Wednesday Mr. Robinson came to this city from Omaha, and quite by accident met his wife. She stated that she had been anxious to return to him for some time, but was deterred by fear of Ray-mond. The couple visited the court house, and the husband preferred a charge against Raymond. The case charge against Raymond. The case was laid before the grand jury, and Raymond was taken into custody. The prisoner could not give bonds.

A WONDERFUL SKATER.

The Great Record Made by an American Boy in Europe. An American boy, Joseph P. Donoghue, has lately been winning laurels for himself and his country by his wonderful skating in Holland and Germany. His home is in Newburg, N. Y., and he is but a lad of seventeen. He went to Europe under the charge of President Sachs of the Manhattan Athletic club of New York, and has met and conquered the champion skaters of Europe and Amsterdam and Hamburg. His portrait, which appeared in the last Frank Leslie's Iliustrated Weekly, was accompanied by a Holland, on the 10th inst. Donoghue won the third match in the international championship skating competi-Dohoghue covered two miles in 6 min, 24 sec; Von Panschin, the Russian, was second in 6 min, 31 sec. The championship of the world could not be decided, as Von Panschin, who won the first and second events, failed to secure the third. Donoghue's time, 6 min 24 sec. beats the world's record for distance by 21 seconds. The previous best amateur record was 6 min 561-5 sec, by Alexander Paulsen. The previous best professional record was 6 min 45 sec, by Hugh McCormick. On the 13th inst., at Amsterdam, Van Panschin beat Donoghue by one-fifth of a second in the mile, making the fastest time on record, 2 min 57 sec. The young American then hastened to Hamburg, arriving there just in time to take part in the race for the Hamburg cup, on the 15th. Though greatly fatigued from his long journey, he won the race and the prize. defeating all the German champions. The day following he won the ladies' gold cup, skating five miles, making the fastest time on rec-This news was jubilantly received at the young cham-pion's home in Newberg, and he will have a grand reception upon his return. The boy has never before been in races when his closest friends have not been present, and now, in a strange land and without an acquaint-ance except the gentleman who went over with him, his work is considered marvelous. It is all the more so because he had no ice, and consequently no practice, when the first contest with von Panschin took place. The Spirit of the Times publishes an extract from a private letter from Timothy Donoghue, sr., himself an old-time champion skater, in which he says of his boy; "As far as we have now heard, Joe's trip sums up as follows: He has won three races and lost three. He has beaten the champions of England, Holland, Sweden and Germany, and has won all his races at distances of one mile. He has been beaten only at half a mile and a mile, and only by one skater, the Russian champion. I think we have no reason to be ashamed of our boy, and I have only this to say: If Joe does not beat von Panschin at a mile this winter I will send him to Christistay there until he gets all the practice he wants, and then send him to St. Petersburg and have him try Mr. Von Panschin at home. The following shows how Chamberlain's Cough Remedy stands where it has been sold for years and its intrinsic value is well known. THE LAWYER BLUSHED.

His Client's Sisters, Cousins and Aunts Insisted Upon Kissing Hjm. Ex-Judge John Henry McCarthy, he who was recently elected to congress had a novel experience yesterday in the city court, says the New York World. He had been defending a client, John Rivket, against a $10,000 suit for breach of promise preferred by a Miss Sarah Langman, a buxom young lady of 200 pounds weigh. It was proved that. Rivket had promised to marry the girl, but she could not swear he had ever refused to keep his promise. On this basis the case fell through and was dis-

"Oh! ah! you deah, good man!" ex-claimed the elated defendant as he made a bee-line towards his counsel, and before the nervous congressmen knew what was coming he was clasped in a pair of masculine arms and—smack smack! smack!-he received three kisses right on the check.

The little congressman was dazed and Judge Ehrlich looked tickled.
"Um!-u-r-r! u-r-r! y-u-m!" ejaculated a pretty little woman with pink cheeks and flossy hair and lots of sparkle in her eye as she threw her arms around the astonished congressman's neck and planted half a dozen perfumed kisses right where they belonged. The little congressman looked pained, and silently appealed to the court for protection, but got none. This little woman was Rivket's sister, Um! (kiss) 0-0-0-0-1! (kiss) yum! (kiss.

kiss), you (kiss) dear (kiss) sweet (kiss), pretty (kiss, kiss), good (kiss) man!

The little congressman had now gained his second wind, lost his painful blush and decided to go in for all the fun to be had. Two more pretty girls sidled up to the smiling legal gentleman and planted. miling legal gentleman and planted their offerings on his pink lips. Then two aunts and one cousin joined the procession and tried to hug and kiss him all at once. Then he yelled for help, and Court Officer Levy, who had been an inter-ested witness, rushed to his rescue as he saw Rivket pere approaching with his withered lips puckered into an un-plucked kiss. Levy was kissed for his trouble. Some one yelled, "Break away!" and with a bound the congressman beat a hasty retreat. Then there were some more indiscriminately aimed cisses, which caught the court officers

By this time Judge Ehrlich had recovered his own and the court's dignity and rapped for order, which was at last restored, but not until the actors in the little farce had been roundly applauded.

"Does your mother know you're out," said a boy to his little brother. "Yes, she does," was the answer, "for one bottle of Dr. Bull's cough syrup has knocked my cold into a cocked but, you bet." A few applications of Salvation oil will instantly relieve stiffness in the neck and toints, 25 cents.

The Money All Invested South of Dodge Street.

JOBBER'S STRONG POINTS.

He Shows Conclusively that Some of the Square Boomers' Claims Are Foolish and Without a Shadow of Foundation.

Farnam the Business Center. We have no means of determining abso lutely, but a fair estimate of the amount of money invested in stocks of goods for merchandising in Omaha is $30,000,000. Of that amount I should say that about $2,000,000 is carried in North Omaha and the balance ($28,000,000) in the southern portion of the "When you speak of North and South Omaha what do you mean?"

that divides the city north and south. The figures given are on that basis." "Can you give the actual number of business houses north of Dodge street and the actual number south of that thoroughfare?" "Not without a great deal of labor. You could figure it out yourself as quickly and accurately as we could. There are no large business establishments north of Dodge street, excepting the barb wire works, a few warehouses and the Woodman Linseed Oil Works. The latter has come down to the business center to do business and now occupies a suit of rooms in the First National bank building. The streets north devoted to business are confined to three, while the are too numerous to name off-hand." The participants in this conversation were a prominent Omaha attache of Dun's commercial agency and a BEE representative in quest of city hall information.

"Take the business streets north and south, and let us see what they are," continued the commercial man. "With Dodge as the dividing line we have North Sixteenth street as far as Nicholas, Cuming from Sixteenth to Twenty-Iourth, and Twenty-Iourth north until business ends with the straggling stores on the outskirts. Against these three stores on the outskirts. Against those three streets on the south of Dodge is the actual business center of the city, bounded by Dodge on the north, Howard on the south, Ninth street on the east, and Twentieth street on the west. St. Mary's avenue is a business thoroughfare as far west as Twentieth, and at the upex of the hill is another business community extending from Phil Sheridan street to Park avenue. Sixteenth south is a business thoroughfare, four three-story brick business buildings having been completed and occupied within the present month. Twentieth street is also well represented. Thirteenth street south is a business ther-oughfare, studded on the west side with stores until you reach Center street, and more or less used by business houses until you reach Sixteenth and Vinton streets. Tenth street is business of the liveliest description from Farham street to the depot. In the vicinity of Tenth and Leavenworth streets are centralized all the immense jobbing houses of Onaha. After you cross the tracks and turn to the east on Pacific street you will see looming up some of the largest agricultural wareup some of the largest agricultural warehouses in the country, extending down to the Missouri river. My avocation brings me in contact with the business men of Omaha, great and small, every day of the year. I go out among them and talk with them, Fourteen-fifteenths of the annual business of the city is down between Dodge street and the Union Pacific track and the same urothe Union Pacific track, and the same proportion of business men want the city hall erected on the present site."

During the conversation a leading whole-sale merchant entered in search of informa-tion furnished it's subscribers by Dun's agency. He joined in and listened to the facts as related above.

"I am surprised at the foolish claims set an surprised at the bolish cambis set up by the Jefferson square advocates," he said. "They say that the square is the business center of the city. I live north and traverse Sixteenth street two or three cach seme time we have had two banking houses on that thoroughfare—the Bank of Com-merce on Sixteenth and California and the Douglas County bank on Sixteenth and Chicago streets in the Estabrook block, directly opposite the square. If Jefferson square is the business center of the city why is the Douglas County bank going to vacate the Estabrook building and move south into the Kirkendall building on the southeast corner of Sixteenth and Dodge: If Jefferson square is the business center of the city why did the Barker Bros., who are heavy stock-holders of the Bank of Commerce, creet that magnificent bank building on the corner of Fifteenth and Farnam streets, move their banking business away from the business center and leave nothing behind them but a mere branch institution, where deposits are received and checks cashed for the 'conven-ience' of Sixteenth street retailers? Jeffer son-Square-Boomer-County-Treasurer Henry Bolla is a director of the Bank of Commerce, Perhaps he can explain it. Banks never move away from the business center. "Another claim they set up is a ridiculous one." he proceeded. "They urge the erection of the city hall on Jefferson square and the parking and ornamention of the the unoccupied ground for a recreation place for people. Now, mine has been a and varied commercial career. I am well along in years now but in my younger days I worked in many of the leading cities of the country. I was employed in a large commercial house in New York city during the Tweed regime, when the city hall was erected there. My employer's house was on Vandewater street, on the cast side and it Vandewater street on the east side, and it was my duty each day to make several trips acress town and transact some business with houses located along the North river. city hall park in New York city was inten for a resort for the people who live huddled together in the crowded business district be-tween Canai street and the Battery, out they never use it. It is occupied day and night by the riff-raff and scum of society. Re-spectability never resorts to it for fear of the polluting presence of the bums and vermin-covered vagrants who sleep 'between drinks' as it were, on the benches, while the park policeman is making his rounds. If a re-spectable family wants to enjoy a few hours of fresh air, instead of going to the city hall park they take the elevated road and in a few minutes are whirled ont to Central park. The same result will obtain here if the city hall is erected on Jefferson square. The park surrounding it will be the rendezvous of the low elements of society. The police court loafers and bums will ren-der it obnoxious by day, and during the night it will be the trysting-place for prostitutes and faithless wives—a regular assigna-tion resort. That has been the result in every city I know of where the public build-ngs are similarly located."

"Auother point I wish to call your attention to. It is the general impression among the property owners in the immediate vicin-ity of the square that the location of the ity of the square that the location of the city hall there is going to run the value of their holdings up until the market price will equal that of property facing on Dodge, Farnam, Douglas or Harney streets. I will admit it will increase the value of their property some, but just the difference between the value of property for residence purposes and its value as sites for low groggeries and shyster holice court lawyers! purposes and its value as sites for low groggeries and shyster police court lawyers' offices. You can't get the heavy business men up there, nor can you get tenants for office buildings if they are erected there.
The city hall in itself is not a sufficient inducement. The Farnam street site is quite different. Property in that vicinity
now has a market value firmly established, which procludes the possibility of erecting anything but the highest class of buildings.
There is no danger there of having the city hall surrounded by dives and groggeries, for the rents will be so high they could not make both ends meet. The men who will erect buildings there will be careful with regard to the character of the men they lease to,
and hence only desirable business and professional men will be the immediate neighbors of the city and county officials."

"I am loaded with objections, young man,"
he said, addressing The Hee representative, he said, addressing Tue Bee representative, "and if you will hear me out on one move, I am through for the present. I am opposed to locating the city hall on Jefferson square on account of the close proximity of the railroad tracks. Before the construction of the Belt line it was not so bad, but since it has run its tracks within one block I fear there will be further encroachments. The Belt line strikes California street at Twelfth and continnes up that thoroughfare as far as Fourteenth. There it cuts diagonally across block 8, reaches Fifteenth street and continues on north and west out of the city. On Califor-nia street a spur runs from Fourteenth to Fifteenth. The northeast corner of Jefferson square is Cass and Fifteenth streets, just one block away from the Belt road's main track. Did you ever know of a railroad smain track. Did you ever know of a railroad hesitating a moment when it came to the conclusion that it wanted to acquire more ground for side-tracks or yard purposes? Some day the Belt line here will cover block 25, and when it wants it it will get it. That will bring them directly across the street from the square, and what a medly of discordant sounds will greet the ears of our city officials when the engines toot, the bells clang and the cars bump together. Farnam street has one advantage, at least-the railroads will never encroach on that terr

tory."

The little party separated, The Ber re-porter was satisfied with city half facts for that sitting.

OF THE SAME OPINION.

The Balance of Board of Trade Mem bers Agree With the Majority. The following completes the list of mem 'Dodge street is now and has been for bers of the board of trade who have been years the legal and generally accepted line seen in reference to the city hall location: W. A. L. Gibbon-That question will be settled February 5 by a vote of the people, and I shall feel satisfied with their verdict. I regret that the subject appears to be drifting into too much personality, as every one has a right to his opinion, and I recognize that some of our best and most worthy citizens are to be found on both sides. I have an abid-ing faith in Omaha's future greatness, and when we have 300,000 population, seven-eighths of that population will reside west of Twentieth street. I believe that we will reach that point within ten years. The large botels, theaters, and retail business houses will naturally follow the population on some great central thoroughfare running east and west. In the erection of costry public build ings some reasonable estimates should be made of the future. To place the city hall cast of Sixteenth would be a retrograde streets south utilized for the same purpose movement for Omaha. The entire bunch of land east of the hills or bluffs, and between the Union Pacific tracks and Florence, con tains less than six square miles, the most o which in time must be used for railroads, factories and business houses, and a square mile with a family of five on every fifty-foot lot will accommodate only 15,000 people. So it requires no extra wisdom to foretell where the great mass of our population must locate, and I believe the people will so decide and locate the city half on Farnam street.

E. E. French—I favor the Farnam street site for the reason that much money has been spent there for a foundation, and it is more nearly central. Then, too, such people as the New York Life insurance company and Mr. Rosewater have invested money in and Mr. Rosewater have invested money up there in good faith and with our assurances that the city hall was to be located there, and I think we should go ahead and fulfill our promises. Further, I object to Jefferson square being used for building purposes, but think it should be retained as a public park, as we have few enough of them now. All my property interests are north, and I would derive more benefit from the hall being located at Jefferson square.

Louis Mendelsshon—I don't wish to say what I think, but I have arrived at a decision.

I may say, however, that having just arrived from the east, where I have seen greater developements in art and improvements than we possess, I should hate very much to see our parks built over. Although they be small they might be beautified, and would act as they might be beautified, and would act as breatling spaces for the city.

F. E. Winning—I prefer the Farnam street site. Some of the finest building in the city have been erected in that vicinity because of the location there of the city hall.

William J. Welshaus—I am in favor of the Farnam street site every time. John F. Behm—On the old site by all means, as it would be an imposition on pro-ple who have been induced to put up costly buildings on Farnam street with the under-standing that the building was to be located there. This baby act they are trying to play has already hurt the city among Chicago capitalists.

Clement Chase—Why, great heavens, the old site, principally because of the conven-ience to lawyers and business men afforded by its proximity to the county building. some good statistician, like General Test, should make a computation of the cost to sole leather worn out by people having to run between the county building and Jefferson square it would be simply enormous.

M. S. Lindsay—I favor Parnam street. I believe in centralizing the public buildings of any city as a matter of convenience to the public patrons. There are numerous instances where a person has business which necessitates the visiting of both the city and county buildings, and for this reason they should be located closely together. Charles Lobeck—I have already sanctioned the site of the city hall on Farnam street, and am in favor of that location, or any-where in that vicinity. It is more conven-ient to the public than that of Jefferson square. W. G.,Shriver—Eighteenth and Farnam is

Daniel H. Wheeler—The Farnam site is nearer the heart of the city than Jefferson square, and the city hall ought to be on that Thomas J. Rogers—The Farnam street site is the most central of any site that can now be found. I shall do everything honorable that is in my power to secure that location.

George C. Towle—The city hall should be in the immediate vicinity of the court house.
Lorenzo B. Williams—If I were to consult my own interests I would vote for Jefferson square, but the interests of the people remire that the building should remain on its quire that the building should remain on its present site. S. Schleamger—I think it should be built where they started it, and so save the money aircady spent. It is close to the county buildings, as it should be.
