Water Cuts Money. Thirteen dollars three days ago for delinquent patrons of the water company expired, and on next Monday Inspector Hagenman, armed with a water cut, will commence to shut off their water supply. About one-fourth of the patrons are in arrears.

Law Violators. B. Johnson, an ex-bootblack, who has been making a comfortable living of late stealing coal from the Omaha Coal, Coke and Lime company, and selling it to houses of prostitution, was caught playing this new occupation and was sentenced to twenty-five days, six on bread and water.

Pulaski's Band. Chief Seavey admits that he clerk, Officer Pulaski, made an error in his report that there were 720 Bohemians arrested last year. Frank Kaspar, who went over the reports, found that there were only sixty-one Bohemians arrested. The chief's report is accordingly printed the mistake will be corrected.

Counterfeits. A counterfeit dollar that came into Chief Seavey's possession was traced back to Jim Stevenson, who substituted a good silver dollar for it. Jim says that his hackman had taken in a great many counterfeit dollars at night of late, and he had a number of them. Another counterfeit dollar was handed to the chief by Frank Roth, who says the coin was given to him by an unknown brakeman.

Destitution. Mr. Ziegler and family, living at the rear of 1206 Cass street, are in a destitute circumstances. Mr. Ziegler is reputed to be an honest, hard-working man, but has been prostrated with sickness of late, and when found by Officer Fisher Thursday the family was without fuel or food, Ziegler being too proud to ask the usual help. The officer bought some coal for the family and reported the affair to the chief of police. A number of other families in the immediate neighborhood are said to be also in a destitute condition.

Billy Moran to Hunt For Gore. "Billy" Moran seems to be as wild and irrational out at North Platte as he was here. Yesterday Richard Phoenix, the man at whose house he has lived for a long time, received a telegram from Billy, giving him particular facts for having talked to the newspaper reporters at North Platte, and saying that Phoenix a pretty hard name, he says that on his return the people of Omaha will be treated to a sensational murder. It was rumored that the county commissioner had received a dispatch from the young man this morning, resigning his position as clerk of the board, to take effect to-morrow.

A Bloody Affray. It is reported that two men were assaulted by a couple of negroes on the corner of Seventeenth and Cumings streets about 11:30 Thursday evening. One of the negroes had a knife and the other an iron bar, and robbery was their apparent intention. One of the men received a cut on the face extending from the corner of the mouth diagonally to the neck, severing an artery. He bled profusely, but fought gallantly until the two thugs, highwaymen were finally put to flight. A carriage was called and the two men were taken to Fourteenth and Davenport, where the wounded man's injuries were dressed. Just after the highwaymen had fled, Officer Leo happened on the scene, and it is said that he neglected to report the affair at headquarters and give the night detectives a chance to follow the matter up.

Yesterday the iron bar carried by one of the highwaymen was picked up near the scene of the encounter, while the sidewalk was spattered with blood.

Would Not Grant It. The license board yesterday afternoon continued hearing testimony in the case of L. G. Johnson, applicant for a license to sell liquor. John Bassett, R. H. Walker and others were examined. The mayor at the outset informed the attorney for Johnson that cross-examination of witnesses would not hereafter be permitted in the case, and that the board would ask all the questions necessary. This ruling by the board was objected to by the attorney, but his objection was overruled. The testimony was of a nature similar to that already reported in this column, and a few of them, and that the signatures to the petition had been obtained by another person. He admitted that he only knew a few of them, and that the signatures to the petition had been obtained by another person. The board, after some discussion, held that a petition so prepared did not show any great desire on the part of the property owners to have a saloon in their midst, while on the other there was a vigorous protest. They therefore decided not to grant a license.

Mrs. Susie M. Burr, president of the Woman's Syndicate of California, will be pleased to meet all ladies interested in business at the lecture room of the Y. M. C. A. at 8 p. m. to-day. All are cordially invited to be present.

DR. DURVEA INSTALLED.

Interesting Services With Eloquent and Powerful Addresses. Eight o'clock Thursday night saw the auditorium of the First Congregational church filled with members of the congregation over which Dr. Durvea has been called to preside.

Proceedings were commenced by the reading of the minutes of the council, followed by a scripture lesson, read by W. L. Demer, set of Grand Island. All joined in singing a hymn. The Rev. G. G. Rice offered a prayer of invocation.

The Rev. Frank Gonsolvas had been selected to preach, and chose for his text part of verses 19-21, St. John 19. Referring to the fact that the inscription placed upon the cross had been written in "Greek and Hebrew and Latin," he spoke eloquently upon the power of language, and pointed out that Pilate had inadvertently, or by divine inspiration, chosen the languages that were the three great streams of civilization. The language of Greece, representing the gigantic power of thought that distinguished the Greeks; the Hebrew, the power to feel, and the Roman, the power to act.

He never lost sight of the fact that these languages stood for the three powers that go to make the complete man—intellect, sensibility and feeling. All had crept to the foot of the cross and climbed to the top of it, and human thought, heart and will found their sovereign.

He might an excellent discourse to a close with some practical applications, and once more the congregation joined in singing. Rev. G. W. Crofts then offered the prayer of installation, and Rev. Dr. Durvea, seated on the right hand of fellowship to Dr. Durvea.

In addressing the congregation and telling of his journey to Omaha he said: "The west was new to me when I came here six years ago, but you made me feel as if I had known you all, and from then until now, you have been my home. I never felt that I ever came and impossible for me to leave. To-night you are rounding your first generation. You have lived thirty-three years. The annals of the church show that in 1856, May 4, and at 3 p. m., Rev. Ransom Gaylord organized the first congregation in Omaha and in Nebraska there were thirty-nine members in that congregation, two of them coming from Michigan, two from Illinois and five from Iowa. Eight of the nine were Congregationalists, and the other a Free Will Baptist. From Michigan came one who had been governor, or at least lieutenant governor, and with him went the children, some of them being with you to-night. This gave station, intelligence and influence to the congregation that has ever since made itself felt. From Iowa came one who was a great sea sailor across the ocean or suffered the privations and hardships that attend the carrying of the gospel to the heathen. One of the others came from Illinois. And so, they went in and you are to represent them. You have rounded your first generation and are now to represent it. Be ye true to the honor, your present forceful, your future must be brilliant.

Referring to the time when, as a college boy, he had first heard of Dr. Durvea at Princeton, he cited several instances of the reverend gentleman's early fame, and continuing said: "We are here to-night, the one of whom they said—when the venerable president had passed away—the candidate is referred to as 'Dr. Durvea.' It matters to him, gather round him, make him a place. A man of superior physique, with the best mind in New England, and with a glow of love in his eyes, he was a man of God. Turning to Dr. Durvea he said: "Brethren, when I came to this city my hand was heavy. I had a heavy heart. I went all night and half way around it again. The first morning I was in Omaha I was called up by telephone, and the brother said, 'I only want to refer to you as 'Dr. Durvea.' It matters to him, gather round him, make him a place.
