Deputy United States Marsha. Lyons, armed with a warrant for the arrest of Dr. W. W. Paling, of this city, called at his office this morning for the purpose of taking him into custody, but found that he had hied himself to parts unknown, and although he presecuted a vigorous search all day long, failed to discover his whereabouts. It seem that Paling has long been suspected as the party who has been running a species of plackmail upon some of the dining room girls of the Capitat hotel, and that at last sufficient proof has been found to warrant his arrest. Paling's game was to address a letter to some one of the girls and warm her that he was "55 to her racket," and that unless she left the hotel he would expose her, evidently hoping in this way to get her into his power. The break was so fre-quent upon the part of the despicable wretch that it not only became annoying but dis-tressing, and Mr. Roggen's attention was called to the matter. He began a watch that led to the conviction that Paling was the man, and item by item proof has been added that leaves but little doubt of the truthfulness of what was at first a mere suspicion.

Paling got wind of his intended arrest and lit-out, where, none of his friends seem to know. Lyons, however, will continue his search until there is no reasonable doubt that he is beyond reach. Dick Johnson run an attachment on Paling's worldly posses-sions, which goes to show that he was not square with the world when he made his run for future liberty. THE NORFOLK TRAGEDY.

The board of public lands and buildings comprising Secretary of State Laws, Treasurer Hill, Attorney General Leese and Commissioner Steon, started for Norfolk at 2:30 o'clock to-day to investigate the late asylum scandal and tragedy at that place, While the board was very reticent concerning its purpose in the matter, public opinion is very outspoken here. In the language of a prom-inent citizen: "It is time to wash the state of such man as Dr. Kelley and his conferees in this horrible affair, if they don't know the difference between a woman with a tumor and in condition for criminal abortion. The state cannot hazard the future of the curable insane in the hands of such men or set of men. The findings of the coroner's jury on the case are too gauzy to down. There has been a frightful crime committed at Norfolk, and in my judgment a proper investigation will de-velop the fact. Dr. Kelley, if the skillfur physician and surgeon he is claimed to be, must have known the unfortunate condition of that poor girl before he commenced the pretended delicate operation. The investiga-tion attempted by the board can not be too exacting, I care not what the findings of the jury may have been."

Will They Be Compelled to Wear Knee-Breeches?

Since the origin of the species, dudeiom never received such an overpowering shock as it did last week, says the New York Morning Journal.

It has come to the knowledge of the outside world that seven young men, possessing unlimited wealth, not quite so much intellect, but plenty of ambition, have formed themselves into a powerful organization for the sole purpose of revolutionizing the present standard of evening dress.

The brave seven, who call themselves the "Reformers," organized secretly in the cafe at Deimonico's two weeks ago. By-laws and all of the necessary rules petitting a body with such an important mission were drafted, and then each of the seven solemnly piedged himself to appear in future at all private balls and receptions in an evening dress consisting of black satin knickerbocker trousers, a velvet tailless coat and a watered silk vest. Black silk stockings, dancing pumps after the fashion of the old knickerbocker shoe, with buckles of burnished silver, complete the novel attire. Plain linen shirts, standing collars and white ties, the same as work with the "claw-hammer" suit, were made permissible, although three of the seven were in favor of the much-ruffled shirt of colonial days. The seven gentlemen who are at the bottom of the proposed revolution are John C. Furman, a down-town broker, who was elected president of the "Re formers;" Thomas Howard, a popular man about town, who was made chairman of the grievance committee; Worthington Whitehouse, secretary; S. S. Sands, jr., a broker and treasure of the "Reformers;" Robert Hargous James Waterbury and Edward C. Potter, who constitute the committee on tailors and new members.

Immediately after the organization of the Reformers, the committee on tailors, etc., journeyed to a Fifth avenue knight of the shears and left orders for seven suits of clothes after the style decided upon. These were finished last Monday and at a hastily called meeting of the reformers it was decided upon wearing them that night at the ball to be given at the home of Mrs. W. D. Sloane in honor of the debut of Miss Louise Shepard daughter of Colonel Elliott F. Shepard

When the moment arrived to assert the purpose of the Reformers a few of members became afflicted with a faintness in the vicinity of the heart This was especially noted to be the case with Broker Sands, whose form is some what attenuated and whose 'calves fol-low suit. He was, however, convinced of the error of his ways by fat and jolly Bobby Hargous, who whis pered something that sounded like "Cotton—you know." As others, with the exception of the president, "Tom" Howard, are all well up in avoirdupois no further objections were heard. "Tom" is tall, slim and fair, but when he appeared on the glistening ball room floor clad in the clothes of the reformers and ready to lead the cotillion with Miss Shephard, the circumference of his black silk stockings just below the knee measured as much as any of his brother "Reformers." Of course the unique attire of the seven men was one of the features of the evening, conversationally and otherwise. Worthington Whitehouse, who is at present a social hon and hero, having saved the lives of two boys who fell through the ice while skating recently near Tarrytown, is a big, athletically built young fellow, and it was acknowledged that the "Reformers'" attire received its best recommendation when placed on his back. "Jack" Furnam one of the handsomest and most popular men in the city, and one of the finest dancers pushed him closely, however, and was given a good second in the estimation of the girls. All of the seven men are skillful cotillion leaders, which means that they are among the best dancers in town, and all but two of them, Messrs. Waterbury and Sands, are bachelors still in the twenties.

The next day, when the courageous move of the reformers became known in the swell uptown clubs and in the cafes of the leading hoteis, it was a question what the exact intention o the innovation could be. One gentle man, who had just purchased a $125 clawhammer dress suit, asked breathlessly whether it meant that the timeworn fashion of evening dress was to be forsaken entirely. Another gentles man, who tipped the scales somewhere in the vicinity of 113 pounds, but who gave little thought to money matters, having none to give, said:

"My Lawd, it's weally tewwible. Do they weally mean to keep the thing up?" and he gazed repreachfully at the place his calf ought to be. An athletically-built young fellow answered: "It looks like it.

"Several attempts have been made during the past two years to do away with the funereal-looking dress suit now in vogue," he continued, "and from time to time some of the boys have attended private receptions attired in knickerbockers. The change never seemed to take and then an attempt was made to introduce a tailless coat to be worn with trousers of ordinary length. This also proved a failure, but from the letermined way the reformers went at it I think the existing form of evening ress is doomed. I also think that it is the first step toward revolutionizing the dress of men. Five years from now, if I am not mistaken, you will see men at-tending balls attired as fantastically as women. Plush coats, jeweled buttons, satin waist-coats and knee breeches, in every hue imaginable will be the correct thing then.' A pretty girl said to the Journal re-

"The men have no business to dress that way. Let them keep to the regulation black dress suit, which was adopted solely for the benefit of the ladies wearing elegant gowns. A black dress suit gives a woman a good opportunity to show off a handsome dress, but if men were to wear colors like girls, they would attract all the attention away from the ladies, which would be very impolite on their part.

The Pacific Funding Bill Taken Up In the Senate.

MITCHELL MOVES TO RECOMMIT

Filibustering Tactics Adopted By Certain Members to Prevent Consideration of the Measure in the House.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 .- In the senate this morning the credentials of Mr. Manderson for his new senatorial term were presented, read and placed on file.

Mr. Allison, from the committee on appro priations, reported back the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill and the house joint resolution for the payment to the legal representatives of James B. Eads, and gave notice that he would to-morrow call them up for action.

Mr. Evarts reported the testimony taken in the Texas election investigation, with a resolution directing the committee on privi leges and elections to revise carefully the existing laws regulating the election of mem-bers of congress with a view of voting for more complete protection in the exercise of the elective franchise and for the punishment of offenders against it. The testimony was ordered printed and the resolution was placed on the calendar.

The senate bill in relation to dead and fallen timber on Indian lands was taken from the calendar and passed.

The senate resumed consideration of the bill "To declare unlawful trusts and combinations in restraint of trade and produc tion," Mr. Frye giving notice that at 2 o'clock he would ask the senate to take up the Pacific funding bill. Mr. Sherman offered a resolution, which was referred to the committee on library, instructing the committee to inquire into the stadt's picture (now in the executive mansion of the "Yellowstone Falls," "Yellowstone Park," "Giant Geyser," and "The Yosemite in Winter," Then after an argument on the criticism of the trust bill by Mr. George, of Mississippi, the Pacific funding bill was

As the pill was read, the date July 1, 1888, as that up to which calculations should be made, was changed, wherever it occurred conform to that change.

Mr. Mitchell gave notice that he would, at the proper time, move to commit the bill, with instructions to include legislation in reference to the Pacific railrond company.

Mr. Frye stated that the Central Pacific had not been included in the bill because the atterneys who had appeared for that com pany had not seemed to manifest any great desire for a settlement, and because there was no parallelism between the cases of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific. The question of the Central Pacific had been again raised by its president, Mr. Huntington, who had appeared before the committee and had presented the bill which had been introduced by Mr. Mitchell as a substitute for the pending bill, adding ten or twelve sections for settlement with the Central Pacific. It seemed to him that those mat-ters could be settled in separate bills a good deal better than they could be in one bill. He recognized that there was an immense difference between the situation of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific, and that much more leniency must be granted to the Cen-tral Pacific than to the Union Pacific. If the government expected to get its debt paid by the Central Pacific, that company should have a very long time to make paym The report of the committee was then sent to the clerk's desk and read. Mr. Mitchell made a motion, of which he had given notice, to recommit the bill, and gave the reason why he thought the motion should prevail. He spoke of the enormous amount that would be due by the Pacific rail road companies to the government at the Any legislation having for its purpose the payment of that most fabulous sum had to be regarded as of the very utmost importance. It was not his purpose to discuss the merits or demerits of the pending bill. It was his purpose, however, to attract the attion, and imaggirate an inquiry as to the propriety and justice of proceeding to a con-sideration of the pending bill while itomitted to include matters relating to at least half of the whole controversy.

Mr. Frye-I ought to say, in justice to the Central Pacific, that during the last month that company has shown a disposition and a very great desire to make some settlement and adjustment of its debt with the United States, and there is now pending before the committee an amended bill, which the committee is called to consider to-morrow morning.

Mr. Mitchell—That is all right; that shows a disposition on the part of the committee to do that which it had omitted. I insist that it is not wise to have roads forked at that stage of the game, and to proceed with one branch of the controversy, leaving the other branch untouched and unconsident of the other branch untouched and unconsidered the other branch untouched the the other branch untouched and unconsidered. If any part of it was to be postponed it should have been the Union Pacific part.
At this point Mr. Michell yielded for a mo tion to adjourn.

A conference was ordered on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, and Messrs. Hale Allison and Cockrell appointed conferees on the part of the senate. Adjourned.

House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.-In the house, the speaker having proceeded to call the states for the introduction and reference of bills, filibustering was inaugurated by Mr. Payson of Illinois, who sent to the clerk's desk and demanded the reading of a long bill to establish a court of appeal. His opposition is directed to the Union Pacific funding bill, and upon his desk rests a stack of bills, the reading of which will consume the entire day, unless he receives assurances that no effort will be made to pass the measure under suspension of the rules. The court of appeals bill having been duly read and referred, Mr. Payson brought for ward for reading and reference a bankruptey bill, which, owing to its length, is a favorite reapon of filibusters who desire to kil

Mr. Payson stated that his opposition to the Union Pacific bill is not directed against consideration of the measure under the ordinary rules of parliamentary procedure, but against its consideration under suspension of e rules, when but a limited time for debate and no opportunity for amendment is pre

A break in the monotony was made by Mr Crisp of Georgia, who, stating that it was apparent that nothing would be done under suspension of the rules, called up as a matter merce act. The points upon which the con forces have been unable to come to any agreement relate to the transportation of oil in barrels and in tank cars, and to conferring concurrent jurisdiction upon state courts near and determine questions arising undethe net. The amendment gave rise to some discussion, Mr. Bayne of Pennsylvania making a motion that the house recede from the amendment.

The motion was lost, the conference report agreed to, and a further conference ordered. The senate amendments to the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill were nonmourred in and a conference ordered. Mr. Clardy of Missouri then called up the conference report on the Nicaraguan canal bill. He stated that the conferees on the part of the house had receded from the house amendments requiring the company to print upon its obligations a provision reliev-ing the United States from any hability on account of the company.

Pending action on the report, the house took a recess, the evening session to be for the consideration of bills reported from the committee on Indian affairs.

Aimost the entire evening was consumed in consideration of the bill to divide a portion of the Sioux Indian reservation in Daketa into separate reservations and to secure the relinquishment of the Indian title to the remainder, about eleven million acres. After a lengthy debate Mr. Peel of Arkansas, in charge of the bill, finding that it would be impossible to secure final action, withdrew it from consideration of the house. Bills were passed for the allot ment of lands in severalty to the Oneida In dians in Wisconsin, and to the United Peories and Miamis in Indian territory.

It is also announced that he is at the bottom of a project to vote repeaters in the Fifth and Sixth wards, and that the Jefferson square boomers have se-lected the Fifth and Sixth wards as their battleground and that in these two wards a vast amount of fraudulent voting has been outlined by Jim Creighton and his henchmen. But in view of such developments the authorities have provided for the issue and will promptly fail every man that attempts to perpetrate a fraud of this character. Mer who are familiar with the face of nearly every voter in these wards will be at the polls, sworn in as detectives, and the "repeater" that attempts to carry out the nefar ious work outlined by Jim Creighten and his ringsters will undoubtedly find himself in the environs of the law.

An amusing and at the same time very serious collision between the police and and the Bureau of Encumbrances occurred within a stone's throw of police headquarters, between 5:30 and 6 o'clock last evening, when the men of the former department undertook to remove what they supposed was a dis-used pole, says the New York World. It seems that wires of the police depart ment's telegraph line were strung on the pole, and by order of Inspector Dorman, Carl K. Schick, of the central office squad, went to the scene to prevent further action. Schick arrived just as lineman, Thomas Ahearn, in the employ of the pole removers, was about to ascend the pole for the purpose of severing more wires. The officer ordered him to stop, but Lineman Ahearn, a strapping big fellow, advised him to go where it was warmer than on the Bowery, and started up the pole. Officer Schick jumped for him and got a good grip on the lineman's ollar. There he hung, but the lineman slowly continued going up, hand over hand, sinking the spurs deep into the pote at every step. The crowd. which was momentarily being augmented, cheered until the din could be heard at the Mulberry street station, whence a detachment of police was quickly despatched. The spurred Her-cules continued to climb, handicapped as he was by 180 pounds of policeman, and many a shout went up from the crowd, such as: "Hang on, Dutcy!" "Don't be afraid, Fatty!" and "Keep her a-going, Spurs!" until the pair could look into the second-story windows of the building on the corner.

The lineman tired at this point, let go his hold on the pole, and he and Doorman Schick came down in an inextricable pile. In the fall the under dog was the policeman, whose face was badly lacerated and his coat torn by the line man's climbing frons. He was unhurt in other respects. Ahearn, who was only slightly bruised, was quickly seized by half a dozen policemen, who guided him to police headquarters and locked him up. Later at night he was released on bail

The rosy-checked maiden gave Thomas an approving ned and smile. Thomas waved his hand, lost his grip and fell to the ground. He was picked up unconscious with a deer gash in his head, several teeth knocked out and his chin cut. The reason for not being killed outright was probably due to striking telephone wires in the

She Dropped Him.

A gallant youth, who is remarkably diminutive in size, surrendered his seat in a horsecar to a very pretty young lady at York one day last week says the Philadelphia Record. Acknowledging the courtesy, and supposing him to be a child, she took him on her lap and kissed him square on the mouth as a reward. Then she asked him his age. "I was eighteen years old last Decemer." was the reply.

The pretty young lady took a good ook at him, and then did like the boy who picked up a piece of red-hot iron in a blacksmith shop--put him down without being told, and with her face suffused with blushes stopped the car and alighted, while the other passengers vainly strove to suppress their mirth.

** KIDNEY and URINARY complaints, Gleet,

F. D. CLARKE, M. D., 186 So. Clark St., CHICAGO, ILL.

You take cold very easy, do you not? Your nose stops up, and you have a watery discharge from it. Your throat fills with pillerm, and you are continually homming and spitting, sometimes the discharge is thick and yellow, and you feel a fulness over the bridge of the nose. Why is it? Simply this; That you have a chronic in flammation of the liming of the nose and throat;

is it? Simply this; That you have a chronic inflammation of the linning of the nose and throat;
every change of temp rature, eliter makes it feel better when it is warm, or worse when it is cold. After a cold the membrane is left congested. It desart get entirely well, and a fresh cold is therefore easier to take. A mucous membrane, when inflamed, always secretes more than normal, and more blood rushes to the part,
which swells the parts, and in the nostrils, closes them up more closely.

CAN IT BE CURED AND HOW?
To cure catarrh, pecsagnily bearies treatment, It went get won of itself. The treatment muss be judicious, not haphazard. It is often relieved by many of the patent preparations en the market, but only temporarily. They do not remove the deep scated conditions, but only lessen the discharge, and fresh cold is just as easy to take as before. Now isn't it unwise to dilly-daily with these nostrums? Isn't it a better plan to put your case in the hands of a physician, who understands it and cures it?
Isn't it cheaper in the end? We assure you a good treatment, treatment that is directed to your individual case no matter how severe it is,
We charge but little for what we do, less than the general run of physicians. Our reliability in treating Catarrh, Astlma, Bronchitis etc. the general run of physicians. Our reliability in treating Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis etc
