The entertainment to be given by Mrs. L. V. Anderson at Y. M. C. A. hall Tuesday evening will undoubtedly be of great merit. Miss Anderson is a trained elocationist who has recently located in Omaha. WHAT PEOPLE TALK ABOUT. Views and Interviews Caught In Hotel Corridors and Elsewhere. Church Howe sat in the Paxton office a long time yesterday afternoon explaining the manner in which the submission bill passed the legislature, and holding out hopes for its defeat at the polls. It seems that the supreme court has been asked to give an on on the constitutionality of the measure, in its present shape, and everybody is now waiting anxiously for its de-cision. This led to considerable discussion in which several parties joined, as to what in which several parties joined, as to what course the legislature is likely to pursue, should the court decide the present bill unconstitutional. One of the talkers asserted that a new bill can be introduced. Howe thought not. "Any way," said he, "theve are only nine more days in which bills can be introduced this term." At the beginning of the session a resolution was adonted to the effect that a resolution was adopted to the effect that all bills must be in at the expiration of forty days, so that the remaining twenty might be given up to their consideration and dispo-sition. It is doubtful whether the court will give its decision early enough to get another submission enactment prepared within the prescribed time."

Mr. Howe returned to Lincoln on the 8 o'clock train last night. Among other things he said: "I propose to have some fun at Frank Ransom's expense in the senate to morrow. My attention has been called to a newspaper squib which reports that he proposes to file his certificate at once as a member of the next legislature. I am going to get the floor and demand an investigation into this matter and ascertain whether the people want Mr. Ransom there another term. He and I are the only men who have any fun in the present body.

Among Sunday's arrivals at the Millard was Frank W. Hull, a smiling real estate agent of Kearney, and one of the first things he did after registering was to let it be known ing was to let it be known that his town has a boom, and said he, "It has been on all winter.'

"What have you got there to make a boom?"
"Our water power. You stould see it, my dear boy. It is the greatest thing in Ne-braska."

With this outburst he drew a map from his inside pocket and began to explain. He traced the canal from a point sixteen miles west, where it taps the Platte river, to a lake, forty acres in extent, at the edge of town, showing that it will furnish a power for operating machinery greater than Minneap-olis can boast of. This canal holds a stream ten feet deep by fifty wide, and such a body of water rushing over an abrupt fall seventy-one feet high, as it does, is estimated to be equal to a thousand horse power. Already, they have a large foundry, big starch factory, immense flowering mill and several small manufacturing concerns, all of which are furnished with electric power from a plant run by the water.

tinued Mr. Hull, "and investing their money. This spring we expect a paper mill and a woolen mill, that New England parties propose to erect. The town is full of people. You can hardly rent a room and the cheapest kind of board shanties are grabbed up at

That big, jolly and widely known grand senior warden of Nebraska Masonry, R. E. French, of Kearney, came in last evening to attend a "school of instruction," which Grand Lecturer Lee of instruction," which Grand Lecturer Lee P. Gillett, of Beatrice, will open in this city to-day, for the benefit of Omaha lodges. Like Mr. Hull, French is also very enthusi-astic over the phenomenal boom his town is having. To hear these two worthies talk one might imagine that Kearney would be-come the Lowell of the west in about one year. Mr. Hull was modest enough, how-ever, to suggest that they were far enough removed from Comba to get along without removed from Omaha to get along without conflicting with or injuring the latter's in-

THE BEE man met George Moore, of Norfolk, again yesterday, and held him up for another installment of information on the Doctors Kelley and Bear sensation. Said he: "Dr. Bear was acquitted, which fact, in my opinion, virtually breaks the case down, and both men will go clear. This is the only new feature about it."

Two solidly built men lounged in the Millard office yesterday morning, and on the register was written George LeBlanch and Charles Gleason. They were professional sluggers, en route to San Francisco, where Gleason is to meet Charley Mitchell. An effort was made to draw them into conversa-tion, but neither could be induced to talk. They arrived at 7 o'clock, and left on the Union Pacific flyer at noon.

tween Chicago and Denver. The trains on all the roads communicating direct with Omaha arrived and departed on time on the new schedule which took effect yesterday. As is customary, that class of individuals accustomed to travel but little were in some instances late for the train, while in other instances, where the hour of departure extended later into the day than usual, the passenger with the proverbial car-pet bag for a grip, and a consignment of homespun provisions for diet was 'on time' and spent his weary moments awaiting his train. One of this category who was destrain. One of this enterory who was des-timed for Lincoln arrived at the Burington depot just as the Chicago express, west bound, leaving here at 9.15 a. m., was round-ing the Eleventh street curve on its way out. Rushing up to the depot officer he exclaimed: "Is that there train going to Lincoln!"

"That town is on its circuit, and the train generally stops at all villages of any import-

But upon the whole but few irregularities existed in connection with the change of time. Last night two trains pulled out in opposite directions at Council Bluffs at the same time. One was on the Northwestern, bound for Chicago, and the other was on the Union Pacific, bound for Denver. These are the the trains that will hereafter ply between Chicago and Denver under the combination of the Union Pacific and the Northwest-ern. On the return trip the trains will meet at Benton, Neb. But the Burlington has undermined this deal by restoring its train circuit to Omaha, and also by making fifty-five minutes faster time also by making fifty-five minutes faster time than the combination train. The Burlington will depart from Denver twenty-five minutes later than the combination train and will arrive in Chicago thirty minutes before its competitor. It is thought that in view of this the Union Pacific and Northwestern will alter the present schedule, and if possible remedy the matter by arranging faster time. At all hazards a lively time is expected, resulting from the combine, and it is intimated that it will eventually result in rate cutting. rate cutting.

CONREID CAME DOWN.

How An Opera Singer Cinched Her Cold Blooded Manager.

After the performance at Boyd's Saturday night an officer appeared on the stage and attached the baggage of Conreid's opera company to satisfy a claim presented by Miss Georgia Conalline for $175. It seems that the young woman who, by the way, is the wife of an Omaha business man, was engaged by Courcid to sing in the "King's Feel," but according to the lady's story he has never paid her anything for the service she gave him. As she is not singing for glory, exclusively, it was thought advisable to act while here among friends and make the little manager produce. He refused to settle peacefully, consequently Miss Con-alline went before a justice and took out an attachment on the company ward-robe. Conreid fumed and bluffed, but could not get himself out of the soup without coming to the front. Therefore, yesterday morning he deposited $350 to satisfy any judgment that the fair vocalist might obtain against him.

A Terrible Misfortune.

It is a calamity of the direct kind to feel that one's physical energies are failing in the prime of life—to feel more nervoless, more dispirited, weaker every day. Yet this is the unhappy lot of hundreds who surround us. A source of renewed strength which science approves, in behalf of which multitudes of the debilitated have and are every day testifying, and which, in countless instances has built an executivities. less instances, has built up constitutions sapped by weakness and infirmity and long unbenefitted by other means, surely commends itself to all who used a tonic. Hos-tetter's Stomach Bitters is such a medicine -pure, batonic, soothing to the nerves, pro motive of digestion and a fertilizer of plood. Dyspepsia and nervousness, the first a cause, the second a consequence of lack of stamina—depart when a course of the bit tres is tried. All forms of malarial disease, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, constipation and billiousness are annihilated by this standard family medicine.

STATE BOILER INSPECTION. Joseph Standeven Tells Why Such a Board Should Be Established.

"By the way, there is another thing," said Boiler Inspector Standeven, yesterday, "but it comes before the legislature. We want a state board of boiler inspection. Eastern manufacturers are apt to send second-class boilers out west, especially when they go out with threshers or other farming machines, and, once in a while, you get an item where some one has been killed. It's hard to place the blame where it should be placed, but, with the boilers thoroughly inspected, and the engineers pronounced competent by a state board, the danger would be reduced to a minimum. Just to show you what the effects of state supervision would be, I will cite what the National Board of Inspection has done. Prior to 1872 there was no supervision or inspection, but, on account of the frequency of boiler explosions on steamboats a national board was formed. At that time the records show that there was one life lost the records show that there was one life lost out of every 55,714 passengers carried. Tha law then went into force, and in 1882—ten years later—with the number of steambouts carrying passengers greatly increased, the fatalities were one to each 1,726,825 passengers carried. That speaks for itself, but Nebraska has no steam-boats and the United States law does not reach her case. She has hundreds of boilers reach her case. She has hundreds of boilers nceding inspection, and almost as many men taking care of them, that don't understand sense. I went to the trouble of having a bill drafted, covering these points, and took it down to Lincoln myself. There was nothing in it for me, but I thought it was needed. The list of explosions from March, 1870, to March, 1887—a period of eighteen years— snows that there were 2,267 explosions, which killed 4,067 persons and wounded 4,710 others. Of these explosions 801 were of threshing machines and saw mills, and they killed 1,470 and wounded 1.122. I paid all the expenses of the bill myself, and gave it to one of the Douglas county delegation to present to the honse, but it has been pigeonholed."

History of Omaha. The history of Omaha, from the pioneer days to the present time, by Mr. Alfred Sorenson, is a volume of nearly four hundred pages, which every citizen of the "Gate city of the West" will cordially appreciate. Mr Sorenson is peculiarly fitted by long resi dence and professional experience to write a history of this kind, and the work, which bears the authority of his name, attests his familiarity with the subject and his care in presenting it. The history of Omaha from the beginning is carefully traced, and no incident that has the slightest bearing upon the growth of Nebraska's metropolis is overlooked. It need hardly be said that it is a most interesting history replete with remantic incidents and furnish ing examples of life in this section, which have the authority of actual experience. Mr save the authority of actual experience. Mr. Sorenson has been careful to verify all his statements, so far as it was possible to do this, so that his record is perfectly trustworthy, and consequently Omahans can refer to it with entire confidence. It is elaborately illustrated, and so far as the pertraits of individuals are concerned they are with hardly an exception ommendable.
