Creighton-Dougherty.

The most notable marriage that has, for years, taken place in catholic social circles in this city was solemnized last Wednesday at the church of the Holy Family, Eighteenth and Iard streets, Miss Clara Creighton being united to John M. Dougherty. The event had not been given great publicity, on the social standing of the contracting parties, their relatives and friends, attracted to the cozy little church an attendance which filled the sanctuary.

The bride party entered the church a few minutes before 9 o'clock. The ushers were George J. Paul and E. Taggart. Harry Burkley, one of the groomsmen, accompanied by the bridesmaids, Miss Katie Creighton and Miss Sadie Nash, preceded the bride, who entered leaning upon the father's arm. The sanctuary was met by the groom, who was attended by Charles Oeden. The party was provided with seats especially arranged in the nave of the church, the guests outside of the sanctuary, the gates of which were left open to permit of the passage of the bride and groom. The ceremony took place to the base of the altar, where stood the officiating clergyman. Over this entrance was a beautiful floral arch. The marriage was performed by Rev. R. A. Shafer, S. J., with all the ceremony of the catholic ritual, solemn nuptial high mass being sung. Rev. Joseph F. Kage, S. J., professor of chemistry in Creighton college, and Rev. F. Koopmans, S. J., assistant pastor of Holy Family church, acting respectively as deacon and sub-deacon.

The choir was augmented for the occasion, consisting of Mr. Brann, Mr. McCrory, J. Lombard, Misses O'Rourke, Misses O'Rourke, Hayes, Eber, Mrs. Dr. Webb, Miss Munchoff presiding at the organ. Farmer's mass in b was sung, the offertory solo being rendered by Miss O'Rourke, while Jules Lombard sang "O Salutaris."

The bride was attired in a cream colored gown of pearls and diamonds, with a corsage of moire, and square train. The veil was white, fell in folds over the face, and was fastened with a beautiful diamond crescent, which was a gift of the groom. The bridesmaids wore crease colored toilets with white hats. After mass, Father Shafer eloquently set forth the nature of the marital relation the parties had contracted, the importance attaching to it, and the steps necessary to conduct to the success of the union. He concluded by bestowing upon them the nuptial benediction of the church.

Leaving the church, the bride and groom followed by Miss Katie Creighton and Mr. Ogen, Miss Sadie Nash and Mr. Burkley, the father and mother of the bride and then the friends.

At the residence of the bride's parents, 1918 Cass street, a reception lasting till 10 p. m. followed the ceremony, during which the bride party received the congratulations of many friends, while at the same time a bounteous banquet was spread, which was on a scale of richness and magnificence, with the exception of the wedding feast, and even the ice cream was arranged in the most elaborate manner in the form of fruits, flowers and other fancy styles. The table was decorated in a very pleasing manner, the center being covered with a large mirror bedecked with flowers, while the wall behind it was decorated with garlands of flowers. The bride and groom were seated at the head of the table, and served the wedding guests, while an orchestra concealed in an ante room dispensed sweet music to aid the revelers. The bride and groom were seated at the head of the table, and served the wedding guests, while an orchestra concealed in an ante room dispensed sweet music to aid the revelers.

A collection of elegant presents had been sent in by friends of the young couple, which showed how highly the young people were appreciated in the city. The bride's trousseau, valued at $12,000, which, with a check for $5,000, was a gift from the bride's father, John D. Creighton. Another check for $3,000 was presented by the bride's uncle, John A. Creighton.

The bride is the eldest daughter of John D. Creighton, capitalist in this city, and one of the beautiful and most attractive young ladies in the city. She but recently graduated with the highest honors from the Sacred Heart convent, where she will long be remembered as an excellent scholar by the nuns and in charge.

Mr. Dougherty is the confidential clerk of John A. Creighton, and has been in the city for many years. He has always studiously considered the interests of his principal, as well as enjoyed the esteem of all his friends.

The bride and groom will remain in the city for a month on the Pacific coast. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty will be at home at their new residence on West Hamilton street.

Historic Events.

The historical program of the Academy of the Sacred Heart, still continued with increasing fidelity. This week the French reaction was the topic under discussion. The young essayists accomplished the difficult task of sketching in miniature the people of France, the tragic and crowded drama of the revolution and the Napoleonic empire. The hour-long drama was a dainty balance between the rapid and the slow, the serious and the comic, the dramatic and the realistic. The paper on the Franco-Prussian war was a thoughtful dissertation showing that even as a catalyst to France, and culminating in the horrors of the commune. The causes and the results of the vast changes brought about by the German victories over France were well told in other essays, which a glance at the present storm-tossed republic showed the patriotism of the people in the rapid march of the enormous war debt exacted as a condition of peace.

The music was of a choice character especially the vocal pieces. The majestic and religious music of Gounod's "Missa Solenne" was brought out by a quartette of beautiful and really cultivated voices.

Mrs. Patterson was assisted by Mrs. D. G. Neiswanger, of Kansas City; Mrs. W. F. Allen, of Omaha; Miss Mattie Buell, of St. Joseph, and Miss Zuliana Childs, of Kansas City. Pink German at the Kountze Mansion.

The Kountze mansion on South Tenth street—the most beautiful home in Omaha—was ablaze with light and alive with merry young society people on Tuesday evening. The cause of the party was a pink German given by Mrs. Kountze in honor of her daughter's guests, Miss May McCrory, of Pittsburg, Pa., and Miss Nellie Kideault, of San Francisco. All the ladies appeared in pink and white, and the affair was in every way an elegant one. Arthur Smith led the go-around. The favors consisted of bouquets instead of ribbons, a pretty and pleasing innovation.

Six direct and six indirect figures were danced. On the gentlemen's oxidized silver favors were engraved their names, and the initials of the ladies appeared on the silver penholders that found favor with them. The house was fairly inlaid with flowers, and in the fireplace of the large room in which the German was conducted was a bank of pink roses, and in front of the mirror above the bank hung a sash of moire pink silk. A dainty supper made its appearance at 12 o'clock, but carriages were called for before.

Among those present were Misses Kideault, of San Francisco; McCrory, of Pittsburg; Williams, Brockendrick, Chapman, Chubb, Horgan, Burns, Balcombe, Lindgren, Orchard, Underwood, Crosby, Hall, Shuebs, Brown, Dixon, King, Yates, Yates, Jordan; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Poppleton, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Peck, Lieutenant Wright, Messrs. Wm. Creary, Herbert Rogers, C. Hamilton, J. Faber, A. E. Patrick, A. C. Smith, A. Shiverick, Jordan, McCague, Keonig, J. C. Sharp, Wm. Wakley, McMillen, E. Hibbard, E. Garwood, H. Berger, Deaver, G. Berger, Denver, Dr. Wilcox.

A Masquerade Surprise.

When North Omaha people desire to have a good time they generally accomplish what they start out to do. The young people of that section of the city planned a masquerade surprise party on Friday night last on Mr. Otto Stuben, and it was most successfully carried out. The attendance was not confined to people in that vicinity. Many friends of the Stubens—and there are hundreds—attended from other parts of the city, several being present from near South Omaha. Between one and two hundred people attended, the dancing being kept up until long after midnight. The order to unmask at midnight brought forth many happy surprises. When the party broke up it was the unanimous sentiment of all present that a most pleasant evening had been spent, and that Mr. and Mrs. Stuben were the best of entertainers.
