

COPPERS ARE TOO EAGER.

Often Nabbing the Innocent and Sometimes the Guilty.

THE FOOT RACE CONTINUES.

Steps Being Taken to Provide For Paving and Sewers—The Rev. Thain's Friends Greet Him.

The Police Too Fresh.

"What made you think of going over the police records, and finding out that the police judge declared eighty out of every 100 persons arrested were innocent?"

"Well, I happened to know of two or three good business men from other cities who were here on business and had to spend the night in jail with a lot of thieves, thugs and prostitutes through the stupidity of the police."

"One was a Dubuque merchant, who came over on the 10 o'clock train, and was arrested before he got to Harney street. He stands high in the mercantile world, and asked the officer to come with him into any hotel and he would prove it, but that would spoil a record and he spent the night in a cell."

"Then there are people who are here here. One who the papers talk about who had never been a night away from home in her life, was rushed off in the patrol wagon and found with a lot of prostitutes, she was hysterical all night, and never has been the same girl since, for like others, she thought that she was arrested—without cause."

"I know of others, and when the police records show that eight out of ten persons arrested are innocent, I think there is something wrong in the way the police do their work, and one day it was the 12th I think—there were twenty-seven arrests and twenty-five were discharged. For the month, without including the prostitutes that had monthly fines, I figured that five innocent people were arrested to one that was found guilty and fined."

The Walking Contest.

The tireless feet still continue to pound tan-bark at the Colosseum. The attendance last night was about the same as the night before. Out of the twelve starters but five were now upon the track. Cartwright, Bennett, Hourihan, Engledrum and Greig. Much additional interest was infused in the race last night by an offer from Lord Booth to give the man who breaks the four-hour, six-day record, which is 18 3/4 miles, $100.

Next to the leaders, the struggle for fifth place, which will take a piece of the money, quite probable that both men will break the record. They are going at an extraordinary pace, and each seems as fresh as on the opening night. Booth appears to be the favorite with the spectators, and every sport he makes evinces the most enthusiastic applause. He is determined, and many are of the opinion that he will get beat Cartwright.

Manager Prince is expecting a much larger attendance this evening, and has again generously concluded to make a race of six days before the race, which began from this week, and the Musical Union is making an enviable reputation for itself. Every man is a skilled musician, and under the able supervision of Julius Meyer a high degree of perfection is inevitable.

The Musical Union band rendered another charming program last night, and it is a question which is the greatest attraction, the race, or the music. Director Harry Irvine is outdoing himself in his selection this week, and the Musical Union is making an enviable reputation for itself. Every man is a skilled musician, and under the able supervision of Julius Meyer a high degree of perfection is inevitable.

Following is the score of last night's race: Miles. Laps. Cartwright.....119 4 Bennett.....117 4 Hourihan.....117 10 Engledrum.....111 8 Greig.....105 6 Hynes.....94 7 Homessier.....87 7

On the first day of April the eight-hour six-day race, Buffalo Hills and Lord Booth's Mustangs, twenty in number, against three professional wheelmen, who are to be named six days before the race, will begin. This event will be the crowning one of the season. The stakes are $1,000 a side, and 65 and 25 of the sale.

Wilbur F. Knapp was rescued from Denver. The lady "bykers" ten in number, will reach here to-day, and immediately go into training at the Colosseum. Their six-day race begins on the 15th.

Last night the natives of Ohio met in the office of Estabrook for the purpose of forming a genuine Buckeye club. The Hon. George F. Brown was chairman, and Charles E. Clapp secretary. The first thing done was to appoint an organization, and the Hon. George B. Lake, Albion Dwyer, W. F. Bechell, E. Rosewater and W. W. Slayback were given charge of the business. It was understood that the membership should not be restricted to natives alone, but to all who had spent any considerable portion of their lives in that state, and considered themselves as being Ohioans. The committee was further instructed to secure a suitable place of meeting for next Thursday night, and to give notice of the time and place in the city papers, and then the meeting adjourned.

He Was Insured. D. M. Connell, who died recently, and whose body was shipped to Plymouth, N. H., was in better circumstances financially than at first thought. He had a $1,000 policy on his life in the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, and the money was payable to Mr. Connell's brother, Congressman W. J. Connell. The dead man has a wife and three children.

He Was Angry. J. P. Taylor, a gardener, expressed his disgust at getting arrested last night, by scattering a handful of mud on the sidewalk. Part of it was lost to him forever, but he had 45 in his inside pocket.

Panellites In a Fluster. LONDON, March 7.—The Panellites are in a fluster of excitement over the approaching close of the Times case. Sir Charles Russell is ready to make an elaborate opening address for the Panellites. He is determined not to risk adverse decision on any grounds. Most of the witnesses subpoenaed from Ireland have promised that a service free.

A Sepuaguarian Brute. RUSHVILLE, Ind., March 7.—Perry Bennett, seventy-two years old, assaulted his wife with a hatchet this morning, crushing her skull and inflicting other injuries from which she cannot recover. Great excitement has been caused by the tragedy, and lynching is highly probable.

Passed Through the Panama Canal. ASPENWALL, March 7.—The British vessel Eborado, 270 tons burden, passed through the Panama canal from Aspinwall to Chagres, a distance of fifteen miles. This is the first foreign vessel that has passed through the canal from one port to another.

AMONG THE FARRIES.

How Their Dreamland is Worked By Art's Appliances.

It was a gay and fascinating fairy, with yellow hair, sylph-like form, ruby lips, dark blue eyes and light tread that invited a fire man to accompany her on a tour through the land of dreams and demons at the Boyd last night.

In real life this particular being lives, looks and acts like ordinary mortals, but when lost in the realistic presiding over by an all-powerful queen, she appears and vanishes at the wave of a magic wand. Said she: "My name is Lena, and I have a lover called Arthur. You must see, before we go far on our journey, however, that Zama-lie, king of hades, is passionately in love with me, and makes my existence miserable."

While the fairy and the newspaper man were talking, Zamaliet and two of his imps suddenly darted from the gaping jaws of a dark cavern and bore Lena away into an uninviting spot, which they said was "Hag's Retreat." They were scarcely out of sight when the queen, flooded in, bringing Arthur with her, whose despair at the loss of his sweetheart was dreadful to behold. But the queen gave him great encouragement to win her back.

"My name is 'Fantasma,' and I will help you." "You rule her?" inquired Lena's earthly visitor. "This is my kingdom, and I must be obeyed. Just see how Satan and his cohorts tremble to my racket!" As the imperial creature uttered these words her golden rod described two circles and almost instantly the scene of midnight gloom and horror changed to one of gorgeous splendor, revealing a great family of lovely fairies, with Lena and Arthur again united in their midst, as happy as they could be. After a short season of hilarity there more trouble came to the wanderers. They were led into dens inhabited by witches, chambers haunted by ghosts, places where human skeletons held high carnival, and finally a place occupied by bears. At the end of the journey, however, the fair Lena and Arthur were sorely troubled in their efforts to save the hands of the queen. Zamaliet succeeded and consigned him to the depths of his own volcano. It was a desperate struggle though. Both Lena and Arthur were alternately in Zamaliet's power, and with their queen they finally were united for eternity in heaven.

It is "Fantasma," as arranged and operated on the Boyd stage. The thousands who see it from the front have no idea of the magnitude and mechanism of this attraction. It is undoubtedly the most perfect and complete of the kind ever undertaken. Including the scenery, trick business and trappings, over one thousand articles or pieces are required to make the perfect production. The scene could be filled in describing them. Aside from those who take part in the performance, fifty people find employment in handling the properties. Away up in the fly loft a dozen men manipulate the drop curtains and below as many more work in connection with them to make the quick transformation scenes which are the surprise and wonder of every audience. All those green monsters, dragons, snakes, skeletons, trappings and self-moving objects are worked by ropes, wires and springs fastened above and below in such position that each drops into its place at the time and in the manner desired. The crystal fountain in which Lena is shown to be above all women, forms a very striking feature of the scene in which it plays a part. Lena reaches her high stand by means of a step ladder and is strapped to a box of iron, which prevents her from falling. Lena and Zamaliet have been playing the fairy for five years. She says it is harder to do than any speaking character on the stage. Watch her motions closely and you can easily detect their meaning, and accurately, artistically are they worked. Fantasma is also a clever little woman, who has a stupendous ambition to some day become a manager and direct her own company. Her intentions are more wonderful than the front performance.

PAVEMENT AND SEWER.

Steps Being Taken to Start Both Improvements.

Yesterday afternoon the board of public works, under the leadership of Clerk Southard, copy of the ordinance passed at the last meeting of the city council, instructing them to advertise for the necessary bids for paving, grading and sewerage for 1889. This is equivalent to an official notification and the board will at once proceed to advertise.

The bids for paving will be opened April 5, and they call for prices on paving with Colorado stone, Sioux Falls granite, granite, phalium, cedar block, cypress block or brick. This is the first time that brick has been specified as a paving material. The contracts will be let in the year and the money for paving in any one of the above named materials will receive all the work in that class for the year. The time for opening bids is set for two weeks later than a year ago, but that is owing to the council being a little slow in passing the necessary ordinances. Last year about eighteen miles of streets were paved at a cost of about $1,000,000, but this year only one-half of that amount is considered necessary.

For grading purposes, the ordinance calls for an expenditure of $150,000, against $100,000 last year. Some unfinished work has been over from last year, notably that on Twenty-second street, between Davenport and California.

J. B. Smith & Co. were the contractors, and their work in that line owing to their understanding with the property owners in that vicinity. Probably the bids will be advertised to-day.

SOUTH OMAHA.

The Street Railway Ordinance.

"But that street railway charter ordinance is not yet passed," significantly said a man as he contemptuously referred to the proceedings of the council, yesterday. With a string of profanity as long as a list of the sixty-one South Omaha saloons and as venomous as a run-away buzz saw, he said, "we now have one of that kind of ordinances that was saddled on the city by all kinds of questionable means and considerable bodice on encouragement, and I don't think that we will have another. Why, just think of it, a network of ordinances covering every street we will see that that ordinance is killed. I know the gang behind it and they haven't got a dollar. They only want it to sell out to the highest bidder. I do not see how a member of the council can have the cheek to present such an ordinance, nor why the council will receive it. But we will see that this hydra-headed monster is smothered with kisses and hugged to death."
