Brooks' Mistress Still Here. The following appeared yesterday morning in the Council Bluffs department of the Omaha Herald:

A morning paper yesterday affirmed its alleged interview with the mistress of Thomas Brooks, the murderer of De Good. It also takes occasion to condemn the police for alleged lack of duty. The police, from Chief Lucas down, are indignant, and in consideration of their inability to locate the woman since the night of the murder, and Tuy Bye's excellent detective, achievement. The Ben's excellent detective achievement, Chief Lucas has authorized the Herald to offer The Bee reporter a reward of $100 if he can prove that he interviewed the Melville woman Wednesday afternoon.

The facts are that Ida Melville was seen to cross the Broadway bridge at 8 o'clock on the night of the murder, and since that time she has not been in the city. The chief hus taken every precaution to guard against a secret return of the woman, and had she returned the police would have most certainly known it.

This is "dead easy" and Chief Lucas could not possibly put his $100 where he would lose it more quickly than in this very way. The only trouble is that the cash was not put up, and the Herald's "authorized offer" is not worth the paper on which it was

The chief has already squealed, and says that he did not know that he had made any such offer. The Herald says that he did make the offer, and this dispute will also have to be settled. The alleged indignation of the police "from Chief Lucas down" is all a myth, as the majority of the patrolmen are personally aware of the truth of what ap-peared in The Ber, and have seen the woman several times in this city since Tuesday evening, when it is stated by the Herald that she crossed the Broadway bridge. The facts are not as stated by the Herald, but as previously stated by The Beg. The Melville woman has been in this city every day since the murder, and The Beg can produce at an hour's notice a dozen witnesses who will swear to the truth of this statement. It can also be shown that no inquiry or search for the woman was made at the place where she made her home in this city by any policeman for over thirty-six hours after the murder. This talk about the great precautions taken by the chief to prevent the return of the woman is all buncombe. She was taken to the station about 1 o'clock yesterday morning. County Attorney Organ stated that he did not care to have her held as a witness in the Brooks case, and she was accordingly charged with vagrancy. She was released by Judge Aylesworth, and called at the city clerk's office in the afterneon and paid her monthly fine as a prostitute. She said that she had not been out of the city a whole day since the murder, and announced her inten-tion of staying here.

MOREHOUSE & Co.

Too Much Courting.

"There ought to be a change in our judici ary system here," remarked a prominent attorney yesterday. "The terms of court are altogether too long and that is why our court business drags so. One term is hardly over before another commences, and the attorneys are so tired out that they have no energy or ambition to push their cases to trial or to try them when they are are set for trial. There should be a recess of two or three weeks be-tween terms and the terms should also be shorter than they are at present. A three weeks term is plenty long enough and more business could be transacted in a term of that length, with the recesses of which I that length, with the recesses of which I have spoken, than is now ground out in these nine weeks terms. This county should be set apart in a judicial district of its own. This would have been done some time ago had it not been for political reasons. This is a democratic county and it would have given us democratic judges. Although I am a strong republican I think it should have been done. This is a branch where politics should not be allowed to interfere. We need goed men on the bench regardless of politics. I am not complaining of those now on the bench, but I think the amount of business here demands a separate district. Polk county has three judges and we are larger and have as many inhabitants as that county. If we can't have the smaller district let us at least have shorter terms and more regular at least have shorter terms and more regula

Ripe Old Age. The Decatur (Ill.) Morning Review of the 8th inst. announces the death of Mr. Richard Addis, of that city, at 2 o'clock Thursday morning, at the advanced age of eighty-three years. Mr. Addis came from a long lived years. Mr. Addis came from a long lived family, and was the last of seven children. His sister died in New Jersey a short time ago, aged nintey-eight, and his mother died at the age of ninety-four. The deceased was born in Warren county, New Jersey, in 1806, and removed to Hilmois in 1826, where he remained until 1868, when he moved to Omaha. He remained in the latter city until January, 1888, when he went back to Illinois to reside 1888, when he went back to Illinois to reside with a son. During his twenty years' residence in Omaha he made many friends, both there and in this city. He was the father of eleven children, five of whom survive him, among them being H. C.
