

A CHECK IN HIS CAREER.

Sudden Disappearance of a Clerk Who Had Stood Well.

HE HAD SOME PAPER CASHED.

The Method By Which He Did This Has Been Called Into Serious Question By His Employers.

Hayes Made a Mistake.

The fact became known yesterday that E. J. Hayes, cashier and bookkeeper for the Crane manufacturing company, suddenly disappeared Tuesday morning and has not since been heard of. Discrepancies in some of his financial transactions, are said to have been the direct cause of his unaccounted absence, and it is thought his accounts are several hundred dollars short. On Monday, Manager Lally had the attention called to a check for something like $100, that had been cashed for Crane Bros. on Hayes' endorsement at the Nebraska National bank and registered in the name of the company. Hayes had no authority to endorse checks. Several months ago, it seems, Hayes was empowered to do this, but Mr. Lally says that the authority has been recently taken from him. The bank people claim that they had not been given any notice to that effect and cashed the check without question, as they had done many times before. The firm has no knowledge yet as to how the money was obtained. It is supposed he had cashed at several of the banks. When the one in question was discovered to be a check, it was immediately returned to him for cashing. He went to the office Tuesday morning, worked half the day, and then he and hat, walked out, and that is the last anyone in Omaha remembers of having seen him. He formerly resided at 514 North Sixteenth street.

Mr. Lally, manager of the Crane Bros. Manufacturing company, said last night that Hayes had never been given authority to endorse checks in the name of the company. While they have always done their banking with the Merchants National, Hayes had taken these checks to the Nebraska National, knowing very well that they would not be cashed at the bank at which the company transacted its business. Mr. Lally said that Hayes was absent, being in Chicago, when Hayes had the check cashed, but that since the denouncement he had learned that some of the officials of the Nebraska National questioned the validity of the check and sent over to the company's office and made Hayes refund the money. The first instance Mr. Lally received of any irregularity, was through Cashier Woods of the Merchants National who had heard of the affair. Mr. Woods sent a messenger to Crane Bros' office requesting Mr. Lally to call at the bank. Hayes received the message and delivered it to Mr. Lally. When Mr. Lally returned, Hayes had disappeared, but he suspected that his misbehavior had been discovered, had disappeared and hasn't been seen since by his former employer or about the streets.

Mr. Lally says that he does not think the company will lose any money by Hayes' default, as he is of the opinion that he can hold the bank for the amount of the check. An effort will be made to find the delinquent one and bring him to justice. Hayes, before he became connected with Crane Bros., was employed at the Nebraska National bank. He has a mother, sister and brother residing in the city, who feel the disgrace of their son's conduct. Mr. Lally said that he had always considered Hayes an exemplary young man, but that since his disappearance he has learned that he was in the habit of spending money lavishly and had habits inconsistent with a good moral character.

A reporter called on Mr. Henry Yates, president of the Nebraska National, and that gentleman said he believed the trouble would be straightened out satisfactory to everybody. His theory is that Hayes' money has gone on a spree, and when he gets sober will return. A rumor to the effect that Mr. Richardson, teller of the bank, had been disgraced for accepting and cashing the notorious check is without foundation. Within two hours after taking it he went to Hayes and got the money. He had cashed something like $400, instead of $100, as first reported, and when Richardson demanded the return of the cash from Hayes he had the money. The money was borrowed that amount from his brother in order to make the account good.

Swept by the Tide of Popularity

To the utmost pinnacle of success. Hostesses of the St. Louis Exposition, the force of proven fact, can attain. The North and South American continents, Europe, Australia, the Pacific, and the West Indies, Mexico have all contributed wide patronage and testimony of the most favorable kind— but unhesitatingly—swept the reputation of this fair city. Among the many things for which the most convincing public and professional testimony proves that it is a genuine curative for rheumatism, neuralgia, kidney and bladder complaints. It mitigates the most distressing cases of rheumatism, has a tendency to prevent ill consequences from exposure and exhaustion. Persons of sedentary habits and laborious occupations will find it an ever useful tonic.

Meeting of Butchers.

The retail butchers' union of Omaha held its annual meeting last night in Metz hall, on South Tenth street. The only business of importance transacted was the reception of bids for the furnishing of ice for the coming summer, and the lowest bidder got the contract. Just who he or the firm was could not be learned. It is believed, however, that the bid was pretty low, otherwise figures and the name of the contractor would have been given out. It was incidentally stated that the dealers will furnish the butchers with frozen chunks of water at a lower rate than ever before.

A New Train.

The connecting link between Nebraska and Kansas has just been placed in service by the Union Pacific railway. This train leaves Council Bluffs daily at 4:45 a. m.; leaves Omaha at 5:05 a. m., through the rough country, through Manhattan, Kan., making direct connections there with the Kansas division of the Union Pacific railway for all points in Kansas and Colorado westward, and for Topeka, Lawrence, Kansas City and points east and south via Kansas City. Returning, train leaves Manhattan at 2:25 p. m.; arriving at Beatrice at 6:25 p. m.; Lincoln at 7:50 p. m.; and Omaha at 11:20 p. m. Connections at Omaha are made with the direct connection with Kansas division trains from Kansas City, Lawrence, Topeka and the east, and from Denver, Salina, Abeline and all points west, enabling passengers to visit the principal points in Kansas and Nebraska at the shortest possible time. These trains have first-class equipment, consisting of smoking cars and first-class day coaches of the latest pattern. The new train will fill a long felt want, and is bound to be popular.

Brought From Baltimore.

The remains of Samuel P. Martin, the South Omaha man who died from asphyxiation at a hotel in Baltimore a few days ago, were received at Desmet & Maule's undertaking establishment yesterday. The body will be buried Sunday afternoon at Bellevue. Mr. Martin was forty-seven years of age. He went to Washington to attend the inaugural proceedings. Failing to get needed accommodations he went to Baltimore. Upon returning he blew out the gas. The next morning he was found dead in his room. Martin was quite a man, owning 800 or 400 acres south of South Omaha. He had no family.

A UNION DEPOT.

Omaha is to Secure a Structure Valued at $1,500,000.

For some time past the Union Pacific has been taking steps toward the construction of a union depot in Omaha. Plans and profiles have repeatedly been drawn for this, thus far, mythical structure, but, on each occasion, have the hopes of the projectors been blasted. However, that a movement toward a depot, of which something may be expected, is now progressing, is admitted, but, aside from the project on paper, nothing has as yet been consummated. For the past five months the Burlington and the Union Pacific have been endeavoring to agree upon a plan for a union depot at this place. Owing to the existing circumstances on a preliminary work to be done before any definite movement could be made. One of the most important of the preliminary arrangements was the disposition of the earnings, a large percentage of which would arise from the crossing of the Union Pacific bridge by trains on the Iowa side. The Burlington not only wanted to secure a percentage of the income from the depot proper, but also demanded that a certain percentage of the other be granted. After a thorough consideration, it is stated that the Union Pacific agreed to the Burlington's demand. Both companies then drafted plans for a depot, siting the passenger depot on the Burlington grounds at 1,500,000. The site for the building in both instances was the ground now occupied by the passenger depot on the Union Pacific and Burlington tracks on South Tenth street. The Union Pacific plans provide for a building on the site of the present depot, that company with a ground surface of 305 feet in length, east and west, and 88 feet wide, north and south. The shell which is now being used is that of the average freight depot, but the interior is to be entirely new, of brick with stone facing, and to be of gothic design with twenty-eight-foot posts, making it the largest of the average freight depot. It will also be adorned with a tower which will extend thirty feet above the roof. In connection with the building, the Burlington portion will be used as ticket office, waiting-rooms, baggage rooms and express office. The Burlington portion will be used for vehicles and pedestrians, and will be on a level with the street. The Burlington portion is to be defrayed by the city of Omaha. The Union Pacific plans also provide for an entry and delivery of all passengers and baggage on the north side of the building.

AN OPEN QUESTION.

Is Harrison a Descendant of Pocahontas?

It is popularly believed that President Harrison is descended from Pocahontas and her mate, John Rolfe. A military officer and regicide General Thomas Harrison, who was executed in 1690, Pocahontas, daughter of Powhatan, manifested a friendliness for the early white settlers of Virginia when she saved the life of Captain John Smith, who had been captured and condemned to death by her father—is well known to all acquainted with the early history of America. Her subsequent marriage with John Rolfe, a settler, was the cause of her removal to England where a son was born, from whom numerous wealthy families of Virginia claim descent—is the basis of the opinion that President Harrison is one of her descendants.

The name of Harrison is already indelibly written upon the pages of American history, for General William Henry Harrison—the ninth president of the United States—was the grandfather of General Ben. Harrison, the Burlington man. The inauguration of another member of the Harrison family is but another proof of the disposition of the public to return to a healthy administration of public affairs so characteristic of earlier years. A similar desire has been manifested for a revival of early customs in various ways, of which mention can be made of the prevailing demand for those old time preparations which were so successfully employed in the prevention and cure of the illness which frequented the early log cabin homes.

After much inquiry a noted manufacturer has procured the original methods used in their preparation and again under the name of Warner's Log Cabin Balm, the public is presented with those well-known preparations for the cure of coughs, colds, consumption in its early stages, blood disorders, catarrh, dyspepsia, debility, and other common disorders of the system.

OUTSIDE COUNSEL.

Will It Be Used in the Prosecution of Miss Beecher?

The prospects are very favorable for Elizabeth Beecher, the fair slayer of Harry King, being put on trial for the murder of the young man. The lawyers think they will be ready to proceed with the case by that time. The woman has repeatedly expressed her anxiety to have the matter over, that she may know her fate as soon as possible. The life in jail and its attendant expectations as to the result are becoming irksome and causing the fair prisoner to give evidence of failure both in body and spirits. It is difficult to predict just what course will be pursued in the trial until Henry King, or his father or mother, decide whether he will personally assist the state by employing additional counsel for the prosecution. On the other hand, the employment of a special attorney to assist County Attorney Mahoney. It is understood that, within the past month, Mr. King retained several lawyers, and it is believed would do more than merely furnish the state with such information and evidence as it might require of him, though he is to definitely decline to prosecute this week. Since the day of her arraignment, which was the first time since committing the crime that she had been brought into the presence of a crowd, Miss Beecher has been more eager than she was before to face the prosecution and have her story told to the court.

Claimed by Two Parties.

Little Fred Hoffman has been returned to the Clarkson Memorial hospital oblivious of the legal contest for his possession. Freddie is suffering with hip disease, and since the death of his mother has been cared for by his grandmother, Mrs. Brant. Later his father, a farmer, took him to the Clarkson Memorial hospital for treatment. Recently the grandmother was taken seriously ill, and thinking she was about to die, asked to see Freddie. He went to her, and she said, "and since then she has recovered and refused to give up the little fellow. The father was finally forced to get out a writ of habeas corpus to get the child back again, so as to have him taken to the hospital for further treatment.

The Weaver's Strike Extending.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 14.—The weavers still present an unbroken front. The shut down of the King Phillip and American mills has added 2,000 to the number of idle operatives outside of the weavers. There was a meeting in the evening attended by 4,000 strikers, who manifested much enthusiasm. Agents of the mills in Rhode Island and other states are here engaging some of the operatives.

Lonsdale Is Not Starving.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 14.—A Winnepeg special says that the rumor that Lord Lonsdale, who is exploring British Columbia, has starved to death is a pure invention, as no unfavorable reports have been received from him.

Caused by Wilful Negligence.

HASTED, Conn., March 14.—The coroner, in his report on the recent Park Central hotel disaster, in which twenty-three people lost their lives, finds that the explosion was caused by the wilful negligence of Engineers Thur and Rives.

The Dawson Murder Case.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 14.—A jury of inquest in the Dawson murder case found a verdict to-day that Dr. McDev was guilty of feloniously killing, and that his colored butler was accessory.

JUST SIX DAYS FOR DRINKS.

On the Seventh, All Omaha Saloons & Must Close.

FOR MR. BROATCH HAS SAID IT.

His Honor Orders Chief Seavey to See That the Law is Enforced and Gives Reasons.

Must Close Sunday.

The following order was issued this morning by Mayor Broatch to Chief Seavey, and will readily explain itself: MAYOR'S OFFICE, Omaha, Neb., March 14, 1890. Mr. W. S. Seavey, Chief of Police, City—Dear Sir: It is my policy to bring about a gradual compliance with laws which were not enforced, and in a manner which would produce the least friction. In my treatment of the saloon system I have been conservative and trusted to the good sense of those engaged in that business to promote their own interest by a cheerful and voluntary compliance with the laws. The propositions for an amendment to the constitution either for prohibiting or high license are to be submitted for the voice of the people a year from next fall. I am personally in favor of high license and am well aware of the disadvantages to which the prohibition of the sale of liquor would be subjected. I have been the advocate of prohibition able to point to Omaha (as they would do and have done in other states) as a glaring example of the prohibition of the sale of liquor. Because it is the law and is right, you will please notify all saloonkeepers to close their places of business hereafter on Sunday, beginning Saturday, 14th inst. at 12 o'clock. Upon receiving the above, Chief Seavey, immediately issued an order to the following effect: That Sergeant Sigwart and Officer Palskiare detailed to notify all saloonkeepers and innkeepers that next Sunday and every subsequent Sunday the saloons and places of business must be closed from 12 o'clock Saturday night until 4 o'clock Monday morning. All the officers of the force are instructed to take the names and addresses of all persons not complying with this order, but are not to arrest offenders.

The Mayor Interviewed.

"I intend to exact a conservative enforcement of the law and do not wish to do anything harsh," said Mayor Broatch last night, but I feel that it is in the interest of saloonkeepers generally to give a cheerful compliance to the law as it is laid down. My idea all through has been to educate the people to a gradual compliance with the requirements of the law, and I have endeavored to do this, although at times the work seemed difficult. Omaha has been in a model of high license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom they paid a monthly license of $10. Of course I at once wrote a contradiction. He said that he would accomplish this by license city, and I have received numerous letters as to how the system worked. I received one from Pennsylvania the other day, in which the writer stated that he had been saying that the only way saloonkeepers could raise their license was by running a gambling saloon open to prostitutes for whom