The continuation of the preliminary exami-The continuation of the preliminary exami-nation of Thomat Brooks, for murder, did not take place yesterday, as Colonel Dailey, attorney for the defense, was not ready, and desired a little more time in which to secure his witnesses. Agitate For Reform.

"Keep on pounding for a reduction of expenses in the fire department," said an alderman to THE BEE yesterday. "I see the Globe is opposed to it, but that makes no difference, for it is a move in the right difference, for it is a move in the right direction. I am a democrat, but I maintain that it is a uscless and foolish waste of money to keep that big truck in active service. It takes at the least calculation $2,000 a year to support the thing, and there is absolutely no sense in it, as no benefit whatever is derived from it. If it is positively essential that the money shall be spent, it can be expended in other channels where it will be productive of some good. There is another thing that I wish you would keep touching up, and that is the filthiness of the alleys, especially in the central part of the city. Punch the board of health, and that body will be compelied to take some action in the matter. Of course, I am a member of the board of health, but the complaint will do more good coming through the papers, as the press is supposed to voice the scattiment of the people, and we can do no less as public servants than to obey the mandates of the dear people. It will also give us a string on the marshal. We will say that there is a terrible nowi about it, and spur him up to clean up the ash piles and filthy heaps of rubbish that now almost block some of the alleys. The vags have done excellent work cleaning the streets, and now we need to have the reform extended to the alleys and the change will be complete." direction. I am a democrat, but I maintain

A School For Manawa.

The question of a public school at Manawa is being agitated. There are about fifteen scholars there, and the residents think they are entitled to a school. The nearest school building is a mile and a half away. It has been reported that steps are to be taken to establish a church there, but the residents think that a school would be far prefer-able just at present. If a building can be erected it could be used for both purposes.
