menting Pender and the new county of Thurston, of which this town aspires to be come the county seat, and a brief visit with Pender's business people fully convinces your correspondent that her aspirations are not in vain.

In order, however, to give an idea of this now and much talked of county, it is necessary to give a brief history of its origin, location, etc.

In the early days and settlement of Nebraska, a tract of land containing 300,000 acres was set apart by Uncle Sam as a reservation for the Omaha and Winnebago Indians, which for a number of years was recorded and recognized on the maps as Blackbird county. This tract of land borders on the Missouri river on the east, and is di-rectly south of Dakota county. By the natural course of the Missouri river, this is made the northeast county of the state. About nine years ago the Chicago, St. Paul,

Minneapolis & Omaha railway crossed the reservation (now Thurston county) from north to south. This line is now known as the Sioux City & Omaha division of the Chi-cago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha rail-

Thurston county contains 413 square miles of as rich land as was ever turned up by plow. The same county that but a few short years ago was the tramping ground of the noble red man, the retreat of the prairie wolf and coyote, the grazing spot of the bison and antelope, is to day dotted all over with commodious and comfortable farm houses, which are surrounded by herds of cattle, horses and stock of every kind that is profit-able to the wise and thrifty farmer.

After defeat in 1887 the advocates of the new county were compelled to wait until the convening of the last legislature, and among the first "on the ground" were W. E. Peebles H. C. Abbott, both of whom remained at Lincoln with their families until the bill creating the new county had passed both houses and become a law.

He also put Alice Harrison, Billy Emerson and Frank Cush-Last Saturday they returned to their homes with papers creating Thurston county, the appointment of T. H. Graves, John D. man on the stage. Emerson and Cushman were errand boys in his Chestnut Street theater, Philadelphia, at $4 a week. They finally got an apportunity to satisfy their young ambitions, by going on in-black face and doing a small part in some of the places. Then their pay was raised to $$ per week, "Subsequently I have handed over to Billy Freese and James Whitcomb as commis sioners thereof and A. C. Abbott as clerk and designating the town of Pender as the county seat. On Monday of this week, the new board of commissioners met and estabhew board of commissioners not and estab-lished six voting precincts in the new county, to be known as follows: Omaha, Winnebago, Thayer, Pender, Perry and Blackbird. The commissioners also called an election for Monday, May 6, 1889, for the purpose of electing a full set of county offi-cers and location the county seat Emerson, as his carnings in my house for six days, as much as $3,000." now is for the success and advancement of his star, Cora Tanner. With the new play she has made considerable reputation, though purpose of electing a full set of county offi-cers and locating the county seat. Now, to return to Pender, the town seek-ing to become the seat of the new county, it is but justice to say that this place is en-titled to the honor. Pender has a population of about five hundred. This population is made up of bright, intelligent and wide awake public-spirited American citizens. They are all ready at a moment's warning to is to be congratulated on his determination to maintain the excellence and beauty of the drama by engaging the very best people in the profession. He believes that his star will not only be able to hold her own with with not only be able to how to much better advantage her ability. "I don't want Miss Tanner to become a one-part actress, and for that reason will not keep "Fascination" on the road longer than next season under any circumstances." She is a very charming They are all ready at a moment's warning to contribute their mite to advancing the interests of the town in which they live. The place has a good start, considering its age It is located on the Chicago, St. Paul, Min neapolis & Omaha rallway, forty miles southwest of Sioux City, and about eighty miles north of Omaha. Among its im-portant enterprises might be men-tioned the Logan Valley back, the Bank of Pender, the Logan Valley Times, the solics miles and several others "The associations, held Thursday night, the follow the roller mills, and several others. The town has one church and a large, substan-tial school house. Only one saloon is run in ing officers were elected : C.C. Valentine, president; A. C. Van Sant, first vice president; the place, which costs the proprietors $1,000 Miss Hattie Duncan, second vice president; with which this firm regards the law is a happy contrast between the rum business in Thurston county and the adjoining county of Dakota, especially when the town of Covingaldered. The town site of Pender could not be improved by mortal man. The ground upon which the town proper stands is a slightly elevated plateau, overlooking the beautiful and fertile valley of the Logan, which stretches away as far as the eye can reach in The town will be just four years old next Sunday, its official birth being the 7th day of April, 1889. It was named after the Hon. John Pender, of London. The country surrounding the town is a natural stock raising and farming country, and no richer could be asked for or found. The main question that agitates the people at present is: "Where will the county seat be located?" In Thurston county see two tribes of In-dians, the Omahas and Winebagos. The two tribes will number somewhere in the neighborhood of thirty-five hundred, the lat being some four hundred the stronger ter The Omahas are almost all republicans to a man, while the Winnebagos are equally as firm on the other side of the house. It is the vote of these fellows that the white men now look to for solution. If Pender can control a part of the Winnebago vote, then she is sure of the county seat; if not, she is not sure. One Fontonell, it is said, who is a half breed, stands away up in these parts just now, be cause he is considered an influential Indian. It is claimed that a daughter of Fontonelle. It is claimed that a daughter of Fontonelle, pow married to a white man named John Lemon, owns quite a tract of fine land some five miles from this place, and that she will make a vigorous fight to have the county seat located on her land, and she is univers-ally regarded as a power among the red-skins, the location of the county seat of Thurston is looked upon by competent judges as being a dangerous thing to bet on, just now At present it is a very difficult matter to may which political party is stronger, and a fierce struggle for supremacy in the new-born county must soon commence. Both parties claim to be able to carry the county, but it is claimed by unbiased men that the republicans have much the best show of suc-cess. Were it not for the Winnebago Indians, the county would be republican by so large a cess. Were it not for the Winnebago Inclans, the county would be republican by so large a majority that it would be absolutely useless for the opposition to place a county ticket in the field at all, and it is predicted by well-posted men that the political faith of the Winnebagos is due to the influence exer-cised over them by Colonel Warner, under whose control they have been since the com-mencement of Cleveland's administration, and a material change in their political comand a material change in their political com plexion may be looked for when the colone steps down and out," "steps down and out." It is now understood, however, that both parties will unite on the 6th of next month and pull together for the location of the county seat at this place, in which event Pender will doubtless secure the coveted ital of Thurston county.

Some Old Fashions Revived.

There is at present a revival of old fashions going steadily on. Popular favor has returned to many of the customs of early times and our homes are rapidly assuming the air of the past. There is a reason for this revival.

Our ancestors were of the substantial kind and their tastes were accordingly marked.

They looked to their personal comfort and when it was attained they stopped. Fashion's foibles had no charms for them and in mind and person they were the equal of any people the world has vet seen.

Quick in perception and accurate in judgment, they soon detected the cause of any physical discomfort and as quickly applied the proper means for the removal of it.

Conspicuous among some of the old fashions recently revived has been the reproduction of some of our grand-mother's early time home cures, which are now holding a deserved position in gave b to-day. popular favor, under the name of War-ner's Log Cabin remedies, and include a sarsaparilla for the blood, hops and buchu for the stomach and system cough remedy for colds, extract for ex-tornal or internal pain, hair tonic, rose cream for catarrh, plasters and pills.

For purity, simplicity and for their genuine beneficial properties they are unequalled and are worthy of our good old grandmothers who first produced them.

Jackson streets, to which place the previous meeting had been adjourned. J. C. Wilcox was selected to preside. Committee reports were then received, and the meeting mani-rested its satisfaction with the work of the Seasonable talk; about spring. From your ancestors you inherited the idea that you need principal committee by approving the same and giving the committee full power to act to the best of its judgment in securing lighta blood cleansing in the spring. Right. But there's just as to the best of its judgment in securing light-ning transportation. The following resolution, introduced by Mr. Redfield, was unanimously adopted: Resolved, That this meeting of property owners, who contributed largely to the cost of constructing the South Sixteenth street viaduct, respectfully requests the city council, in drafting its ordinance giving the right of waw to charge the molor railway company much, probably more, need of a nerve strengthener.

With a happy combination we supply your need. The whole story in a nutshell is that Paine's Celery Compound will cleanse your blood and strengthen your nerves; tone up the digestive organs, and make you hungry.
