

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS. OFFICE, NO 12 PEARL STREET.

Delivered by carrier in Any Part of the City a Twenty Cents Per Week.

BUSINESS OFFICE NO. 4. NIGHT EDITOR, NO. 28.

MINOR MENTION. The P. E. O. society met yesterday with Mrs. Dr. Hanchett on Fourth street.

There will be a special meeting of the Elksman hose team Wednesday evening at No. 4 fire house.

The ladies of the Acme club have in preparation two farces, which will be presented in the Masonic temple hall May 1.

The ladies of the Acme club have in preparation two farces, which will be presented in the Masonic temple hall May 1.

The grand jury adjourned yesterday Monday. No indictments have as yet been returned in court, although much work has been done.

For $25.00—The N. Y. Plumbing Co. will put a lead service pipe and hydrant in your yard; also 50 feet extra hose.

Buildings loans. Odell Bros. & Co. Can Soon Go to Manawa.

The Manawa hotel and the Manawa motor line are to be opened for the season at the same time.

Blank books made to order. Can furnish patent binding for parties wishing the same.

Mark Matthews, formerly city clerk, and now of Manilla, was in the Bluffs yesterday.

John Allen, formerly proprietor of the Europa restaurant, leaves to-day for Washington territory.

Lizzie, the little daughter of Mr. E. W. Haines, is suffering from a severe attack of tonsillitis.

Henry Ames and fifteen other Mormon missionaries arrived in the city yesterday from Salt Lake.

Picturesque Europe, Guizo's History of France, Longfellow's poems, Century, Harper, St. Nicholas, Youths' Companion and all magazines, bound neatly and durable, at Morhouse & Co's, Pearl street, near Broadway.

Ask your dealer for a Santo Rosa. The best 10c cigar made.

Sale—Beginning Monday morning, April 15, and continuing until all is sold at private sale, household goods, carpets, bedroom sets, kitchen utensils, etc., etc. Mrs. R. J. FISHER, 140 Grant st.

Smoke Santo Rosa cigar.

ATTRACTION BARGAINS FOR MONDAY.

At Eisenman's People's Store—For Hat or Sunshine.

800 ladies' rubber circulars at 37c, worth $1.50; 175 gold and oxidized silver head silk umbrellas at $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 each, worth more than double the money; these umbrellas can be seen to-day in our show windows exhibited.

SATEEN LAWN AND WHITE GOODS—BARGAINS FOR MONDAY.

100 pieces American satteens, 5c per yard; 150 pieces Challey's elegant new patterns, 5c per yard; 3 cases staple gingham, at 5c per yard; 2 cases cotton warp dress goods, 5c per yard; 3 bales Lawrence L. L. sheetings, yard wide, 5c per yard; 1 case short lengths, Lonsdale make, bleached muslin, at 5c per yard; 2 bales extra road chevilles, at 5c per yard; 5 papers English pins for 5c; 12 spools basting spool cotton for 5c; 12 spools best Clark's thread for 10c; Best Corticelli sewing silk, 100 yds for 5c.

Best Goff's skirt braid for 5c roll.

Two cases English satteens exhibited in show window, to-day, 15c per yard. Sold everywhere at 25c.

2 cases ladies' Jersey, ribbed vests at 10c each.

1 case fine check nansook at 5c per yd. 50 pcs. Victoria lawns at 5c per yd. 75 pcs. India lawns at 5c per yd.

The above bargains ought to bring every wide-awake buyer out, as the powerful love of self-interest is at stake. Call early Monday, get your share of these bargains, and look out for Tuesday morning's papers for further bargains in other departments. Mail orders solicited.

HENRY EISENMAN & CO., PEOPLE'S STORE, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

WAS HINKLE MURDERED?

The Body of the Missing Man Found By Fishermen.

Important Court Decisions—The Catholic Property—The Bluffs Well Pictured—Common Carriers Rounded Up.

A Mysterious Death. Nearly three months ago, on the evening of January 23, Martin Hinkle, a coal-heaver employed as a night man at the yards of the Northwestern Railroad company in this city, disappeared and has never been seen alive by his friends since that time.

His disappearance was advertised in the city papers, but nothing was heard of him. Foul play was suspected, but there was nothing to prove it and the affair was branded "mysterious disappearance," and speedily forgotten by all but intimate friends.

On Sunday morning some fishermen in raising their net at a point several miles below, on this side of the river, were startled to find a "floater" entangled in its meshes. The body was held for identification and after learning of the occurrence went to Bellevue and identified the remains as those of her husband by means of a pair of mittens, a handkerchief, pocket-book and a pipe.

The body was in such an advanced stage of decomposition that the railroad companies would not receive it, and it was taken to the residence of Mr. Hinkle and returned, laid to rest in a wagon. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon from his late residence, corner of Ninth street and Avenue Q.

The question now open for solution is: How did Hinkle get into the river? Two theories are advanced—accidental death and murder. In support of the first it is stated that the deceased was a poor man and had nothing to tempt a footpad or highway robber.

He was intoxicated when last seen alive on the evening of his disappearance. About 12 o'clock that night he parted company with Mr. E. Foidich, at the residence of the latter, on Fourteenth street. Hinkle passed on to the south, but should have gone north. Foidich called to him that he was going in the wrong direction, but Hinkle said he knew what he was about, and passed on out of sight to the south.

It now develops that there is a dark side to the case.

It will be remembered that on the night of February 3, a fine of ten dollars was levied against a party for breaking open cars in the Northwestern yards. Their stealings had extended over a period of several months. Several of the parties were followed by Hinkle, and he had been approached by them and invited to share in their nefarious work. He refused, and was severely beaten by one of the ruffians, and threatened with death if he ever interfered in their affairs or breathed a word of what he knew about them. His death followed shortly afterwards.

These are the facts in the case, and they call for a most rigid and thorough investigation.

Try a Santo Rosa cigar.

Money loaned at L. B. Craft's & Co.'s loan office on furniture, pianos, horses, wagons, personal property of all kinds, and all other articles of value without removal. All business strictly confidential.

Notice the beautiful finish given collars, cuffs and shirts by Cascade Laundry company.

Important Rulings. Yesterday was motion day in the district court. During the morning session Judge Deemer ruled on several cases, and rendered decisions on matters which he had held under advisement for some time.

Among the latter was that of Younez vs Cosgrove. This case involves the ownership of a fifty-foot lot just south of the Merriam block, between Main and Pearl streets. It seems that the defendant, who is the bishop of the Catholic diocese of Iowa, represents St. Francis Xavier's parish, of this city, which claims to own the property in question.

The original "Catholic church property" embraced a tract between Main and Pearl streets, and extending 200 feet south from Willow avenue. It transpired that there was 230 feet in the tract in question, and the Catholic people claimed the extra 30 feet. The plaintiff alleges that they are only entitled to the 200 feet called for by their deed. The court decided in favor of the plaintiff.

The defendant who is represented by Messrs. Ware & Burke, has identified his intention of appealing the case. D. C. Bloomer, esq., has been appointed to represent the plaintiff. The court ruled upon the application of Robert Wilson for temporary alimony, pending the result of the Wilson-Wilson divorce case. The court stated that he did not think that the affiant Wilson should complain of his board, as he ate at the same table as the rest of the family, and on the account of the divorce. However, it was ordered that the defendant, Mrs. Alice Wilson, pay $400 to the clerk of the court, $300 for the fees of affiant Bloomer, and the remainder to be also at their disposal for the purpose of securing evidence. The attorneys of Mrs. Wilson took exception to the ruling.

In the divorce case of Nicholas vs Nicholas, the decree was granted as prayed for. Decrees of divorce were also granted in the cases of Brunon vs Brunon, and Bean vs Bean.

The court ruled in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Bloomer, administrator, vs Ellis, and issued a decree of foreclosure. This case is a veritable chestnut, and has worn out one set of attorneys. Flickinger Bros. formerly represented the plaintiff, but have given way to Stone & Sims. Major Stone looks after the defendant's interests. The case involves payment for a lot of hams sold by the defendant.

Money loaned on furniture, pianos, diamonds, horses, buggies or anything of value at low rates of interest. No publicity. Fair and honorable dealing. A. A. Clark & Co., office cor. Broadway and Main, and American express.

Dr. C. C. Hazen, dentist, Opera house block.

The Bluffs Well Pictured. Council Bluffs has been beautifully illustrated and graphically described in the souvenir volume just published under the auspices of the board of trade. The publication is really a work of art, and as it is not defaced by a single advertisement, and is devoid of all "boom" features, it will meet with a welcome everywhere. It will be perused carefully, because its representations are reliable. It will be preserved by every recipient because it is full of facts and of valuable information concerning the city. The advantages of the city were never before presented so clever and attractive a manner. The publishers, Dunbar & Co. may feel justly proud of the work. The descriptive portion was prepared by F. L. Hayden, of the Council Bluffs office of The Bee. Altogether the publication will prove a valuable aid in enlightening the public as to the advantages and attractions of Council Bluffs.

Santo Rosa. Best 10c cigar extant.

The Common Carriers. The city marshal and his deputies made a descent on the common carriers of the city yesterday morning, on account of the frequent violation of the ordinance relative to the license of such individuals and the numbering of their vehicles. Some of the parties had neglected to secure a license and others

SLAIN BY ELEPHANTS.

Tragic Death of Seven Men in an African Desert.

In Captain Wissman's new book describing his trip across Africa is a very striking picture representing two elephants chasing hunters, black and white, through the tall grass. The only hope of the hunters is to gain the bank of a river near at hand and strike out for the other shore. The enraged brutes, with trunk and tails aloft, are tearing through the grass at the top of their speed, and they are about the ugliest customers one could meet. The story of a very tragical elephant hunt has just been told by Captain Brosseland of the French army, who served awhile ago on the commission which determined the boundary between French Senegambia and Portuguese New Guinea.

Arriving on the banks of the Rio Grande Captain Brosseland requested the natives to take him on an elephant hunt. They promised to do so as soon as elephants were reported in the neighborhood. A few days later some natives came rushing into the village and said they had seen the tracks of a young elephant, and as they saw no other tracks they thought the rest of the herd must be on the other side of the little Koliba river. Their experience told them that the young elephant would not remain long away from the rest of the herd. Captain Brosseland happened to be absent from the village and the hunters could not await their return. So eight of them set out after their prey, and the fact that Brosseland was left behind was the luckiest incident of this life.

The eight hunters had plenty of powder and ball and big English muskets which they could load to the muzzle. Through the tangle of vines and thickets they traveled until they struck the trail. Suddenly they came upon a clearing where they saw the animal, almost a baby elephant, before them. They were astonished that its companions had left it alone. The young brute scenting danger, began to make tracks for the forest. Several shots were fired at it, and the sorely wounded animal's loud cries of distress echoed far through the forest.

The hunters started toward the elephant, keeping, however, in the edge of the timber, where they could be seen by the animal, but not by the enemy. All of a sudden they heard cries responding to those of the young elephant. The hunters at once comprehended that they were in danger. The other elephants were near at hand, and were running in answer to the cries of their comrade. The blacks immediately abandoned their victim, which had fallen to the ground. They could hear behind them the cracking of the undergrowth as the ponderous animals hastened to the scene.

Unfortunately for the hunters they ran into a thicket of thorny shrubs, through which they could not force their way. After a desperate effort to get through they were compelled to bleed limbs, to turn back and seek some better route. They had gone but a few steps when they saw five elephants rushing toward them. Further flight was impossible, and so with their eight guns they blazed away at the enemy. The bullets hit the mark, but an elephant is hard to kill by a front shot, and the animals with redoubled fury rushed upon the helplessness.

Seven of the men were lifted high in the air and dashed to the ground, broken against the trees and crushed under foot. One man made his escape and hurried back to the village, whose people were horror-stricken at his recital. A street riot was set on foot on the scene of the tragedy. The seven victims were found so terribly mutilated that their own relatives could hardly recognize them. One of the five elephants was on the ground so seriously wounded that he could not move. The other elephant, whose cries had brought the comrades that so terribly avenged it, was dying and others had disappeared.

Steam Engine Against Devil Fish. A few days ago, at the end of the Naples wharf, a forty-foot pile of about one foot in diameter was loosely tied with one hundred feet of cable, says an exchange. The hands suddenly noticed the cable coming from the soil, and the monster, which was not a fish, but a pile and cable went moving rapidly to sea. A devil fish had got entangled in the cable. Boats were at once secured and started in pursuit, and after a two-mile race they captured the monster log, the monster being become loosened, with fact accounts for them being able to overtake it. When we consider that three thousand to five thousand pounds, and strength to correspond, this is not astonishing.

Some months ago the passengers of the Fearless harpooned one of these fish steamers near San Carlos bay, and after towing the steamer for some time, the engine being reversed, and pulling against him, they were compelled to cut the line to prevent being carried on the Sannibel bar.

Remember C. B. Judd represents no company, but sells his own property. Houses and lots on monthly payments. See the Santo Rosa's big ad.

Rooms to rent in the Merriam block. S. B. Wadsworth & Co., 230 Main street.

Remember! The blue ice wagon sells pure river ice. Your orders solicited. Satisfaction guaranteed. Telephone 162. Office 502 1st ave., under Citizens' bank.

Instructions on Insanity. It now transpires that the instructions of Judge Groff, touching the insanity question, in the celebrated murder case against Miss Bleicher, were identical with those given by Judge Deemer of this district at the last trial of Jonathan Jones. It is claimed that the instructions were original in the latter case, and were so complete that Judge Groff incorporated them in the instance above referred to.

Houses built on your own lots on monthly payments by C. B. Judd, 606 Broadway.

To Owners, Trainers and Others. The rules will be enforced against all owners, trainers and their horses who either harbor or employ the colored lad, Alongo Stockton, in any capacity, he being under engagement to us. JOHN L. STEWART & SON.

Two Colored Centenarians. Greenville, S. C., has two colored curiosities. One is a colored woman who was twelve years of age when George Washington was inaugurated as first president, and the other, an aged man, makes the following statement: "I am the father of nineteen children. I have a sister who has a family of twenty-four children. My mother and father had thirty-one. I had thirty brothers and sisters."

Have our wagon call for your soiled clothes. Cascade Laundry Co.

J. G. Tipton, real estate, 527 B'dway

Headquarters for builders' hardware, Odell & Bryant, 513 Main street.

Real estate loans, F. J. Day, 39 Pearl.

Want for the modern millinery display of patterns, hair and bonnets April 17, 18 and 19, at Mrs. Pfeiffer's, 202 Upper Broadway, and No. 14 Main street.

How Ward McAllister Dresses. How does "the most fashionable man in New York," in fact the boss of New York's fashionable people, dress? His overcoat and trousers are snuff-colored, according to the New York World. His intimates say he has a waiter for snuff-colored garments. His gaiters are of a heavy gray and naturally inoffensive tint, fastened over a small foot by large pea buttons. Some of these buttons, it is said, are begged by those in outer social darkness to be set into scarf pins. His hat is tolerable, not distinctly in need of a new one, but yet as delicately muffed as Beau Brummel's used to be when he wore, as he is always did, a new one for the first time on a showery day to take the shine off. His clothes are of New York, not London make. They set him well and slender black silk umbrella sets off the fit of a red dog-skin street glove. Where is the greatest man socially in New York going? To his office, his factory? No, by a jingo! He is going to sample some Burgundy for the Centennial ball. He's a fair judge of wine and he enjoys a good bottle. He has no shop or factory. He is dressed in a work of art, and as it is never very vigorously, and has done one thing at all at it for years. Where did he get his money? Well, as many a good fellow has done—from his wife.

SLAIN BY ELEPHANTS.

Tragic Death of Seven Men in an African Desert.

In Captain Wissman's new book describing his trip across Africa is a very striking picture representing two elephants chasing hunters, black and white, through the tall grass. The only hope of the hunters is to gain the bank of a river near at hand and strike out for the other shore. The enraged brutes, with trunk and tails aloft, are tearing through the grass at the top of their speed, and they are about the ugliest customers one could meet. The story of a very tragical elephant hunt has just been told by Captain Brosseland of the French army, who served awhile ago on the commission which determined the boundary between French Senegambia and Portuguese New Guinea.

Arriving on the banks of the Rio Grande Captain Brosseland requested the natives to take him on an elephant hunt. They promised to do so as soon as elephants were reported in the neighborhood. A few days later some natives came rushing into the village and said they had seen the tracks of a young elephant, and as they saw no other tracks they thought the rest of the herd must be on the other side of the little Koliba river. Their experience told them that the young elephant would not remain long away from the rest of the herd. Captain Brosseland happened to be absent from the village and the hunters could not await their return. So eight of them set out after their prey, and the fact that Brosseland was left behind was the luckiest incident of this life.

The eight hunters had plenty of powder and ball and big English muskets which they could load to the muzzle. Through the tangle of vines and thickets they traveled until they struck the trail. Suddenly they came upon a clearing where they saw the animal, almost a baby elephant, before them. They were astonished that its companions had left it alone. The young brute scenting danger, began to make tracks for the forest. Several shots were fired at it, and the sorely wounded animal's loud cries of distress echoed far through the forest.

The hunters started toward the elephant, keeping, however, in the edge of the timber, where they could be seen by the animal, but not by the enemy. All of a sudden they heard cries responding to those of the young elephant. The hunters at once comprehended that they were in danger. The other elephants were near at hand, and were running in answer to the cries of their comrade. The blacks immediately abandoned their victim, which had fallen to the ground. They could hear behind them the cracking of the undergrowth as the ponderous animals hastened to the scene.

Unfortunately for the hunters they ran into a thicket of thorny shrubs, through which they could not force their way. After a desperate effort to get through they were compelled to bleed limbs, to turn back and seek some better route. They had gone but a few steps when they saw five elephants rushing toward them. Further flight was impossible, and so with their eight guns they blazed away at the enemy. The bullets hit the mark, but an elephant is hard to kill by a front shot, and the animals with redoubled fury rushed upon the helplessness.

Seven of the men were lifted high in the air and dashed to the ground, broken against the trees and crushed under foot. One man made his escape and hurried back to the village, whose people were horror-stricken at his recital. A street riot was set on foot on the scene of the tragedy. The seven victims were found so terribly mutilated that their own relatives could hardly recognize them. One of the five elephants was on the ground so seriously wounded that he could not move. The other elephant, whose cries had brought the comrades that so terribly avenged it, was dying and others had disappeared.

Steam Engine Against Devil Fish. A few days ago, at the end of the Naples wharf, a forty-foot pile of about one foot in diameter was loosely tied with one hundred feet of cable, says an exchange. The hands suddenly noticed the cable coming from the soil, and the monster, which was not a fish, but a pile and cable went moving rapidly to sea. A devil fish had got entangled in the cable. Boats were at once secured and started in pursuit, and after a two-mile race they captured the monster log, the monster being become loosened, with fact accounts for them being able to overtake it. When we consider that three thousand to five thousand pounds, and strength to correspond, this is not astonishing.

Some months ago the passengers of the Fearless harpooned one of these fish steamers near San Carlos bay, and after towing the steamer for some time, the engine being reversed, and pulling against him, they were compelled to cut the line to prevent being carried on the Sannibel bar.

Remember C. B. Judd represents no company, but sells his own property. Houses and lots on monthly payments. See the Santo Rosa's big ad.

Rooms to rent in the Merriam block. S. B. Wadsworth & Co., 230 Main street.

Remember! The blue ice wagon sells pure river ice. Your orders solicited. Satisfaction guaranteed. Telephone 162. Office 502 1st ave., under Citizens' bank.

Instructions on Insanity. It now transpires that the instructions of Judge Groff, touching the insanity question, in the celebrated murder case against Miss Bleicher, were identical with those given by Judge Deemer of this district at the last trial of Jonathan Jones. It is claimed that the instructions were original in the latter case, and were so complete that Judge Groff incorporated them in the instance above referred to.

Houses built on your own lots on monthly payments by C. B. Judd, 606 Broadway.

To Owners, Trainers and Others. The rules will be enforced against all owners, trainers and their horses who either harbor or employ the colored lad, Alongo Stockton, in any capacity, he being under engagement to us. JOHN L. STEWART & SON.

Two Colored Centenarians. Greenville, S. C., has two colored curiosities. One is a colored woman who was twelve years of age when George Washington was inaugurated as first president, and the other, an aged man, makes the following statement: "I am the father of nineteen children. I have a sister who has a family of twenty-four children. My mother and father had thirty-one. I had thirty brothers and sisters."

Have our wagon call for your soiled clothes. Cascade Laundry Co.

J. G. Tipton, real estate, 527 B'dway

Headquarters for builders' hardware, Odell & Bryant, 513 Main street.

Real estate loans, F. J. Day, 39 Pearl.

Want for the modern millinery display of patterns, hair and bonnets April 17, 18 and 19, at Mrs. Pfeiffer's, 202 Upper Broadway, and No. 14 Main street.

How Ward McAllister Dresses. How does "the most fashionable man in New York," in fact the boss of New York's fashionable people, dress? His overcoat and trousers are snuff-colored, according to the New York World. His intimates say he has a waiter for snuff-colored garments. His gaiters are of a heavy gray and naturally inoffensive tint, fastened over a small foot by large pea buttons. Some of these buttons, it is said, are begged by those in outer social darkness to be set into scarf pins. His hat is tolerable, not distinctly in need of a new one, but yet as delicately muffed as Beau Brummel's used to be when he wore, as he is always did, a new one for the first time on a showery day to take the shine off. His clothes are of New York, not London make. They set him well and slender black silk umbrella sets off the fit of a red dog-skin street glove. Where is the greatest man socially in New York going? To his office, his factory? No, by a jingo! He is going to sample some Burgundy for the Centennial ball. He's a fair judge of wine and he enjoys a good bottle. He has no shop or factory. He is dressed in a work of art, and as it is never very vigorously, and has done one thing at all at it for years. Where did he get his money? Well, as many a good fellow has done—from his wife.

P. & M. 1,500,000 P. & M. SANTO ROSA'S Smoked in 1888!

Our immense sales on this brand is convincing proof that it is the best known, and possesses the highest degree of excellence of any ten cent cigar in the market. If you have never smoked it, try it and be convinced that what we say is true. If present rate of sale is maintained more than 2,000,000 will be sold during 1889. We are sole proprietors for the entire west of the celebrated brands: Senora Cubana, Roman Senator, El Sello de Habana, Ten Cent Cubanas and Wild West. Smoke P. M.'s Stars, the best five cent cigar ever introduced, and enjoy lite.

PEREGOY & MOORE, Council Bluffs, Iowa. P. & M.

Advertisement for SAPP & KNOTT'S Fuel Merchants, No. 31 South Main St., and various other local businesses like 'The Long' and 'Money to Loan'.

Advertisement for THE RUSSELL London Tailor, featuring a check for $1.00 and a list of services.

Advertisement for THE RUSSELL Automatic Cut-off Engine, featuring an illustration of the engine and contact information for E. C. HARRIS, Agent.

Advertisement for BANKERS, featuring the name W. H. M. PUSEY and contact information.