Don't forget the Washington centennial memorial union meeting this morning at the Presbyterian church, at 9 o'clock. A most interesting programme has been prepared, consisting of music, addresses and selections from Washington's inaugural address.

In this issue the J. Mueller Music company announces its grand opening. The rooms have been put in magnificent shape. One of the largest stock of planos ever brought west is being received and a fine musical pro-gramme will be rendered. Notice the ad. in another column.

Last evening at 8:30 o'clock Mr. W. J. Byrnes of Omaha and Letia M. Coffeen of Knoxville, Tenn., were married by Rev. G. W. Crofts. The ceremony was private, in the parlors at the Congregational parsonage, and was witnessed by a few friends of the contracting parties.

Division No. 12, uniform rang, K. of P., of Omaha, made their brethren in the Bluffs a right royal visit last evening. They came in a train chartered for that purpose, They were met by the Sir Knights on their arrival and escorted to the hall, where a banquet was spread. The evening passed right pleasantly for all participating.

N. M. Pusey got a brief respite from his arduous duties as attorney, by having a welf hunt on his farm, near the city. Yesterday he brought into the county auditor's office three wolves, rather small and young, but still big enough and old enough to warrant the usual bounty. The crop of wolves seems pretty fair this spring, the bounties being paid amounting to from $5 to $10 u day.

Some of the counters and desks in the new court house are showing up very poorly. Even the short time since they were put in place has caused joints to shrink, until there are very unseemly seams and gaps. Some of the ornamental pieces were so poorly fastened on that they dropped off, apparently by their own weight. Considerable patching

The temperance meeting at the Congress. tional church promises to be one of real interest. The topics to be discussed are: "The Progress of the Temporance Sentiment in the Church During the Last 100 -Years," Rev. Mr. Harris. "The Teachings of Sci-ence on the Drink Question," Rev. S. Phelps. "The Advance in Methods of Temperance Work," Rev. D. C. Franklin.

The condition of Patrick McCann, the dis abled old soldier who was stricken with paralysis some months ago, grows constantly worse. It is conceded he will never be better. He is receiving, as his support, the munificent sum of $2 a month as pension from the government. An effort is being made to secure an increase in the amount to a sum sufficient to maintain him comfortably during his last days—which will be but few

The local camp of Modern Woodmen is negotiating with the Chautauqua managers for a lot upon which to erect a log cabin to be occupied by the order as headquarters for woodmen from other parts of the country during the session of the assembly. An effort is being made to secure the co-operation of the Omaha camp and put the matter in shape so the "Woodmen's Log Cabin" will be one of the permanent things on the Chautauqua There is every prospect of success in both efforts.

A change is to be made at the court house. The board of trane, which now occupies the library room, between the two court rooms, is to change its quarters. It will occupy the present clerk's office on the first floor, and the clerk will move up stairs into the library room. The change will not be made until after the present term of court. It is thought that the change will make it more convenient for the clerk, and those who have business with him and the court.

Articles of incorporation were filed vesterfor the Avoca Building and Loan asso on. The new organization is quite simi lar to the one which has run here so long and successfully. T. J. Evans is having considerable trouble in the erection of his building on Main street. He secured a permit, let the contract and started on the excavation. Then came an official injunction issued on the ground that there was refuse upon the lot and the city scavenger had been given the contract to remove it. Mr. Evans cannot get it through his bend that he has no rights in handling his own property which the city scavenger is bound to respect. He proposes to not up his highly no its the same to put up his building just the same.

Washington's Centennial. This morning at 9 o'clock there will be a union meeting at the Presbyterian church, at which time and place the following programme will be carried out:

Westcott.

A hundred years have passed and gone,
Thou glorious land of Washington,
Since he the noble, true and great
Commanded first the ship of state; A hundred years of storm and shine
Upon the dark and heaving brine;
A hundred years of onward sweep
Against the giants of the deep.

Beloved land of Washington, Child of the cloudless morning sun, Thy birth, thy glorious birth, we sing, Accept, O God, our offering.

Thou land where freedom lights the way To pilgrims of a better day;
A beacon to the nations where
The soul is mantled with despair; A land where hope in beauty blooms Above a thousand mossy tombs; We lift our hearts to Him who gave This land unto the free and brave.

O, land by all the patriot blood That stains the soil, that dyes the flood; O land to tho't and labor given The treasures of the highest heaven; Protected be thy hills and plams By Him who still in mercy reigns, Protected be thy flag unfurled, The ensign of a rising world.

AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

The exercises here will be of special interest. The service used will be the same as that used in St. Paul's church, New one hundred years ago. The rector, Rev. T. J. Money loaned at L. B. Craft's & Co.'s loan office on furniture, pianos, horses, wagons, personal property of all kinds, and all other articles of value, without removal. All business strictly confidential

A Sure Test.

"Confidence in Council Bluffs?" remarked one of the home freeholders. "Well, yes, I've got lots of it. I've always had, but what does me most good is the confidence others are showing. Let me give you just a little pointer. Last year I had a notion that I wanted to build a house in Beer's addition I had four lots, free and clear, and I offered to give a mortgage on all of them, and on the cuse, if I could get $1,200 of a loan with which to build. I couldn't get it. This year I have been offered money enough to but up a house, and all that is wanted for security a noise, and all that is wanted for security is a mortrage on the house and the one lot on which it stands. It simply shows that those who have money to lend have a good deal more confidence in the stability of property than they had last year. Those who own lots can borrow what money is necessary to improve them."

Advice to Jurymen. Judge Heemer yesterday impanelled a jury and made ready to try the numerous cases of law. His honor-sustained his reputation of "business is business." He gave a short, clean-cut address to the listening jurymen. He told them that he expected they would be occupied in court most of the time for the next six weeks. He would have occasion from time to time to speak to them about several matters, but for the present there were two themes which he desired to speak upon briefly. The first of these was concern ing the use of intoxicating drinks. If there were any among the jurymen who were in were any among the jurymen who were in the habit of indulging, he would warn them at the start that they must not indulgate any extent. He had been under the necessity lately of reversing two cases on account of the drunkenness of jurors, and he did not want to be under any such necessity again.

Another matter, to which he called special attention, was the necessity of the jurymen being in attendance at all hours when the court was in session. He did not want them wandering about the city, loafing and hunging about pleasure resorts. If any were absent when wanted he should order the clerk sent when wanted he should orde: the clerk to stop their pay.

As Seen By the Stars. Yesterday afternoon a crook by the name of Mullen turned up in the city. He had recently completed a three years' term in the Michigan penitentiary, and was so delighted with life inside the walls that he hastened to repeat the dose in Iowa. He went into No. 331 North Main street, and finding a coat and pair of shoes without an occupant, he proceeded to possess himself of them. He was caught before he had got very far away and run into the hole. He will answer to the charge of burglary.

J. A. Kattell, hailing from Omaha directly, and having his home in his hat, was put off the motor train on Lower Broadway on account of the state of beastly intoxication he was in. He had two tin bread boxes, in which were a lot of truck used by the ordinary country snap peddler. The patrol brought him in for a night's rest.

N. D. Lames was taken to take for oversis.

N. D. James was taken to task for exercising the rights of scavenger without having procured the necessary license. He it was who attempted to clean the lot of T. J. Evans, preparatory to excavating for the erection of a building. The case will be tried next Saturday. The others will be heard this morning.

There was a ruction on "the Row" late Sun tay night. Everybody in that locality seemed to be in it. Calls were turned in for backs, wagons and policemen. The latter only re-sponded and Officers Casick and Mullen gathered Jim Maher and Venie Perry into their arms and laid them away to cool. Yes-terday morning they answered to roll call and came to the center with $7.60 each. Frank Goodell, a horseman, found some-thing in a bottle Sunday afternoon and tarried at the nozzle until only the bottle re-mained. The judge charged him for his ride in the "come quick" in addition to the costs of the regulation drunk, $8.10.

A couple of vags went out of court and tackled the hoe and shovel.

City Council Proceedings. A special session of the city council was convened last evening to transact general business. In the absence of the mayor, President Lacy presided. A full board of aldermen, except Bellinger, was present. Minutes of the meetings since March 19 were read and approved. The reading took nearly two hours. The councilmen napped, the spectators went out for a walk, while the reporters slept the sleep of the just. Finally the books closed and everybody woke up. At 10 o'ctock regular business was taken up and Alderman Billinger came in.

The Prosecutor Not Ready. The case of the State vs McCampbell was called in Justice Barnett's court yesterday afternoon. The defendant was ready for trial, but Harris, the prosecuting witness on the part of the state, was not ready. The court dismissed the case and charged the costs to Harris. The squire said this practice of backing out and leaving the state to pay the costs was altogether too common and he proposed to put a stop to it. So he made the prosecutor foot the bills. Harris took this method to secure more time. He filed another information charging the same offense as was alleged in the first one. No date has been fixed for the second case.
