WILLIS WAS BADLY RATTLED

He and the Umpire Succeed in Losing the Game to Omaha.

WILD THROWS AND RANK RULINGS

One of the Poorest Exhibitions o Ball Playing Ever Seen on the Omaha Grounds

-Other Sports.

Des Moines 12, Omaha 3. Licked, and by a lot of old hollyhocks from Des Moines. That is the size of yesterday afternoon's game at the ball park. It was a burning shame, and the 500, spec tators sighed disgustedly as the last man went out and that old relic of the stone age. Dicky Phelan, cried exultingly, "I told you so. The Omahas pranced around upon the tender green grass in preliminary practice like a lot of young colts at play. They knew they had a soap, and they romped over the field in fiendish glee. The Prohibitionists were quiet and sub-

The Probibitionists were quiet and sub-dued, yet there was a defiant and very wicked look in their eyes.

It was no bluff, either, for they gave the white socks a most humiliating threshing. Think of it! Des Moines 12; Omaha 3.

Wasn't that a cuckoo! It was a bad day for ball players, however, especially Omaha players. They batted like a lot of school girls and ran bases like so Many saddle rocks.
Young Mr. Willis, too, was in an entirely too kind a mood. His generosity, in fact, amounted aimost to prodigality.
Why, he gave nine men bases on balls,

Why, he gave nine men bases on banks, forcing two runs across the plate, and was milder than one of those steeds we read about on Meric's boundless plains. In a word, he was rattled. But the best of them get that way once in a while, and there's no kick coming. Usually he is a heady, clever little twirier, and will round to all O. K. when his turn comes again.

Nobody dreamed that Omaha could lose after her magnificent work of the past ten days, and everyoody looked to her to knock out another victory big enough to eat hay.

But lightning, you know, doesn't always strike six or seven times in the same place. So the audience, who have become entirely too gay and flossy of late, didn't do any very too gay and flossy of late, didn't do any very startling amount of cheering. Even Dr. Hanchett failed to emit his customary war whoop. There was no end of the "beefing," however, in the grand stand, and Umpire Kelley was unmercifully roasted. He was fairly burned at the stake, and even threatened to have a couple of tumultuous partisans in the grand stand fired. But it isn't half Kelley's fault. The best umpire in the land couldn't have saved that game.

The result was something like a just retri bution, for the audience made fun of the little boys from Des Moines the moment they came on the grounds. But they got square with a vengeance, for the game was their's all the way through, and the laugh was on their side. Joe Strauss walked right up to the plate in the first inning and banged Mr. Emmerke for a single without half trying.

The President followed with a similar hit, but the French count was a little too kittenish and in trying to make third on the stroke he was put out.

The man with the silvery jaw was out for s picnic, too, so he just cracked out a single likewise, sending Cleveland round to third. But that settled it. We didn't get a run. Andrews and Cooney were both neatly thrown out at first.

The Prohibitionists suffered a still worse fate, for they were extinguished in one, two three order. A couple of marvelous balls, however, on the part of Cleveland, was the potent factor in this result.

It was another cipher for the white socks in the second, Macullar making a grand one hand catch of a hot high liner from Cana van's bat.

Right here Willis opened his heart and gave old man Phelan his base for nothing.

Then he actually stole second, and, ye gods, third, too.

It took the people's breath to see a man run so in such an advanced stage of senility. But this was just the beginning of Willis' charitable work. Straightway he presented String Smith his base on four more wide balls, then he capped the climax with an untamed pitch and Grandpapa Phelan reached the plate on a wild throw by Nagle over third. Gracious! What a groan there was at that. Smith made third on this same disastrous pitch, but was doubled up a moment later

A hearty cheer went up at this.

But it was nipped right in the midst of its Hart sent a hot one way out into left for two bags, and Traffley and Emmerke fol-lowed with three sackers, and all three crossed the rubber, the latter on another horribly wild pitch Four runs! Murder! That was awful! Patton struck out and Des Moines took the

But they didn't stay there long, for al-though Willis got to first on a fumble by Macullar, he was quickly doubled up with Strauss, and Cleveland retired from pitch to The Prohibitionists also drew a blank, and oo did Omaha again in the fourth. They couldn't hit a little bit, and a small boy on the bleachers advised them to "get a For the Iowans, Conneil futiley banged

For the Iowans, Conneil futiley banged the wind, and it was blowing, you can bet, great guns all the afternoon, and may have had something to do with Mr. Willis' rosy performance. Hope so, anyway.

Hart made a two-bagger, but Billy Traffley struck out, and it didn't look much like a run. But that was where looks were do a train. But that was where looks were do waish, then Willis gave Macullar and old man Phelan their base in succession, forcing Hart and Traffley across the plate in spite of

This was considered the quintesence of ichness, and the crowd yelled derisively. Willis looked as if he wished he was far from the madding crowd.

Two more runs.

Again it was one, two, three for the white socks in the fifth, and again Des Moines came in and piled up four more runs. It was too easy. They simply lined the ball out for a single, a double and a triple, and Willis accomplished the rest with a brace of bases on balls and a pair of lovely with nitches. on balls, and a pair of lovely wild pitches. The Omahas finally managed to break seir run of bad luck in the seventh. Andrews got his base on balls and was driver home on Cleveland's three-barger, the latter scoring on Nagle's hit.

Des Moines also made one in this inning, as she did also in the sixth. Then she quit.

Omaha made one more tally in the eighth, and that was the last, so it was the old song, one, two, three in the ninth. Then the people filed sadly out of the Frounds.

The Widespread Storm. FAIRPIELD, Neb., May 7 .- | Special to THE Ber. |-About 7 p. m., yesterday, a severe windstorm, accompanied by rain and lightning, swept over this place, doing considerable damage. The storm had threatened for several hours, and many people had taken refuge in cellars and caves. At 7 o'clock it burst upon the town in all its fury and in fifteen minutes had done its work and gone When the inhabitants crawled out of their noles and looked around they found that the damage done was not as great as was ex pected. One small dwelling house was com pletely demolished and scattered over quarter section of territory. Many small barns and outbuildings were overturned and torn to pieces. One-half the roof of the St. Joseph & Grand Island freight depot was taken off and several freight cars on the side track were overturned. It is not improbable that the loss in the country is considerable.

MADISON, Neb., May 7.—[Special to THE BEE.]—The wind which had been blowing very hard yesterday, filling the air with sand and dust, terminated in a storm last night that was little short of a cyclone. The storm struck here about 8:30 p. m., overturning outhouses, unroofing and moving barns an obstructing the sidewalks with fallen trees More fences were laid low than the "cow with the crumpled horn" could have done in twice that time. The two west chimneys on the court house were blown off.

Halting Railroad Enterprise. NIOBRARA, Neb., May 7 .- [Special to THE BRE. |-In 1880 the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway graded from Niobrara to a point about fourteen miles on Verdigris creek, securing besides a cheap right-of-way, a very desirable and valuable river front and depot franchise. Since that time the company has kept its taxes paid on the grade. but has done no other work. Niobrara has, year after year, waited for the Milwaukee company to push out from here, only to be annually disappointed, Last fall the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad company extended its Niobrara line to within one-half mile of the Milwaukee company's grade and for the present rests.

The citizens of this place, now that the Sioux reservation is about to be opened to settlement, feel that it is high time that some-thing should be done either to induce the Elkhorn Valley road to extend its line, in accordance with its artisles of incorporation, "to the Missouri river at or near the mouth of the Niobrara river," or force the Milwaukee road to make use of the grade. Complaint has been made to Attorney-General Loese citing this as a parallel case with that of the Republican Valley & Wyoming railroad, and it is hoped that something will come of it.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION. Bussey's Interpretation of "the Line of Daty." WASHINGTON, May 7 .- Assistant Secretary Bussey to-day rendered an important decision in the pension case of Mary E. McNeil widow of Alexander McNeil, late private Company D, One Hundred and Nineteenth Illinois volunteers. The case involves the important question of "the line of duty," and Assistant Secretary Bussey's in terpretation of the law with respect to it, is even broader and more liberal than in other cases. The former dicision is reversed, and the commissioner of pensions is directed to place the name of the widow on the pension rolls. In speaking of the decision, Assistant Secretary Bussey said to-day, ne was of the settled opinion that a soldier is in "the line of duty," within the meaning of the pension laws, when he is not engaged in vio-lating any order, army rule, or regulation, or violating any instructions of his superior officer for the police regulation of the camp Dakota Crops Benefited By Rain. DRESS REFORM.

An Interesting Lecture on the Subject By Mrs. Jenness Miller. An audience of ladies that completely filled the lecture room of the Y. M. C. A. gave a cordial greeting, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, to Mrs. Jenness Miller, of New York, who appeared before them as an advocate of female dress reform. Mrs. Miller is a success as a speaker. She is decidedly handsome, after the Mrs. Cleveland type of beauty, is the picture of good health, possesses a full, rich voice, and knows how to use it. If her appearance is due to the ob-servance of the reform policy in dress which she advocates, she has an irrefutable argu-

Her address, yesterday afternoon, was upon the "Artistic in Dress." She said that she expected to be called a crank, as all advocates of reforms are, and to be compelled to run the gantlet of public opinion, as does every one who has the temerity to express the need of a reform. She desired to speak plainly, to call things by their right names, and went to the heart of her subject at once by showing the evils that arise from the present style of feminine wearing ap-parel. "Women wear burdens on their backs," said Mrs. Miller," that rob them of backs," said Mrs. Miler," that for them of health and that freedom of action that is necessary to successful physical develop-ment." She claims that a woman's dress should be so made that her legs would be separately covered, to the abolition of underskirts and petticoats. "And why not call a woman's legs by their right names!" said the fair speaker. "Do you suppose that the Almighty intended that only men should have legs!"

After expressing her disgust with overprudish people, Mrs. Miller proceeded to de scribe the wearing apparel that she advo-cates as a substitute for the present ultra fashionable, health-destroying style of femi nine wear. First, the bustle and the corset must go. The first is not artistic and the corset is positively cruelly hurtful. A woman who wears a corset, claimed the speaker, can not stand erect, can not sit properly, h freedom of movement, and unfits herself for the high mission she is born to perform. She does away with petticoats, underwaists and drawers, and supplants them with first a union garment in one piece, and over that second garment in one piece ending at the knee, which she calls a leglet. For some people a separate waist is required. In this manner she escapes all bands and ligatures around the waist. The advantages resulting from this style of apparel are the removal of all weight from the waist and shoulders, the proper covering of the limbs—or legs, as Mrs. Miller would say—and the great freedom of movement.

Mrs. Miller exhibited a number of different styles of dresses and explained the advantages of having them adapted to the reform

The Dentists. t DES MOINES, Ia., May 7.- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Iowa Dentists' association began here this morning with a large attendance. An address of welcome on be half of the city was made by Issac Brandt, representing the Commercial Exchange. Dr. L. B. Montfort, of Fairfield, president of the association, read the annual address, in which he urged the passage of a law increasing the requirements to enter the dental pro-fession. Some stir was created by a reference in his address to the dental department of the state university, criticising the action of the regents in the removals they had made, and saying that "the report of the legislative investigating committee reveals facts in the management of the department which are most disgraceful." Essays were read by Dr. George W. Miller, of Des Moines, and by Dr. J. P. Wilson, of Bur-

DES MOINES, Ia., May 6.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The railroad commissioners this afternoon made a ruling affecting the shipment of cattle for grazing purposes. A farmer who had cattle in Grundy county has heretofore shipped them to Palo Alto county to get cheap grazing during the summer. He paid heretofore $11 a car each way. The commissioners have made a rate of 75 per cent of the rate for fat cattle; so the railroad charges the man $17.25 per car and he complains. The commissioners reply that their rate is a max imum rate, and was fixed at the suggestion of many farmers and stockmen, and that the railroads are at liberty to go as much lower as they please. But the commissioners do not feel called upon to make any lower maximum rate.

A Mad Dog Excitement. DES MOINES, Ia., May 7 .- | Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-The state board of health has been advised of a mad dog excitement that has alarmed several communities. The local health officer at Dows, Wright county, reports the appearance of a mad dog "going north." The mayor of Colfax reports that a mad dog abpeared in that locality and bit a dog and a number of hogs belonging to William Downey; that these animals went mad and were all shot by the owner. A re-port comes from Valeria that the same dog continued his disastrous career through that place and bit a number of dogs, whose owners refuse to have them shot. The state board has replied that local health officers must shoot all dogs suspected of rabies or have
