LINCOLN BURRAU OF THE OMAGA BEE.

1029 P STREET, LINCOLN, May 11, This morning the Hon. S. M. Chapman en tered his court loaded for game. In the big municipal fight, which has been disquieting the spirits of the local politicians ever since the special election of April 22, THE BEE has already stated W. S. Hamilton cleverly ousted N. J. Cooper from his seat in the city council, (Fourth ward). Judge Chapman heard testimony and speeches pro and con In the mandamus suit, which followed the refusal of the city council to confer a certificate of election upon Mr. Cooper. The subject matter has been judicially cogitated during the week, and the result was laid open this morning. Judge Chapman says that the mandamus proceeding is something that should be carefully considered before a writ is issued—the court should be satisfi that there is right in the relator; that the writ will give him proper relief and at the third parties case at bar W. J. Cooper sought to compel the respondents, the city council of Lincoln, to give to him a certificate of election to the council from the Fourth ward. The evidence adduced showed that that Robert B. Graham was contemplating be-coming a candidate for the office of mayor of oln at the general city election, on April 2. There was an anticipation that he would resign his place as councilman from the Fourth ward, and on this anticipation the republican electors of the Fourth ward placed the relator in nomination to fill the expected vacancy. There was a meeting of the city council on April 1, when Graham tendered his resignation. A portion of the council objected to its acceptance, and the question was referred to the council's standing com-mittee on elections. Thus Graham continued to hold his office—he had not resigned, his resignation had not been accepted, and he continued to perform the duties of his office, for the evidence showed him to have been present at the meeting of the council of the 6th of April, taking part in the proceed ings, when the vote cast at the election of April 2 was canvassed, and with the excep-tion of the councilman for the short term from the Fourth ward (Cooper having been elected to that office following upon his reelected to that office following upon his re-publican nomination) the persons securing the majority of the votes for the offices to be filled at the election were deciared duly elected. The tellers in charge of the can-vass, indeed, had counted and reported the number of votes cast for the relator, Cooper, but no further action was taken by the hoard of canvassers. They seemed, indeed, to have considered that there was no vacancy of the office to which the relator had been of the office to which the relator had been elected. The meeting was followed by a meeting on April 8, when the committee, who had in charge the tendered resignation of Graham (who, in the meantime, had been elected mayor of Lincoln) reported the subject back to the council. The resignation of Graham was the council. The resignation of Graham was then accepted, and a special election to fill the vancy of councilmen for the short term in the Fourth ward, was fixed for the 23d of April. On that day the people had before them as contestants W. J. Cooper and W. S. them as contestants W. J. Cooper and W. S. Hamilton, the latter receiving a large number of the votes cast, and he being subsequently declared by the city council duly elected. Hamilton qualified and is now performing the duties and enjoying the rights, privileges and emoluments of the office. The ludge said those were the facts with which he had to deal, and out of them arose a material issue between the relator, the respondents and a third party, W. S. Hamilton. The question was this: Did Graham's resignation became operative on April 1 or April 81

ELECTED OR NOT ELECTED. If it came into effect on April 8, then there was no vacancy in the office he filled at the election of April 2. If the resignation by its acceptance dated from April 8, then the relator would have no right to be declared elected at the election occurring, or to have a certificate of election de-livered to him, and, in addition to this, there is the serious question, which becomes an issue between the relator and W. S. Hamilton, as to whether the Lincoln city council had authority to order the special election of April 22. He had it before him in evidence that there is pending in the court a proceed ing in the nature of a quo warranto, in which the relator seeks to have Hamilton ousted from his office as councilman and that office vested in him. The weight of authoriy in the country in the relator office vested in him. The weight of authoriy in the country is in favor in cases like this of quo warranto preceedings rather than mandamus. Under the quo warranto action, the rights of the relator and of his adversary can be fully settled, whereas if a writ were now issued it would only compet the respondents to perform the ministerial duty of giving a certificate of election to the relator, to which the court was not quite clear that to which the court was not quite clear that he is entitled. The substantial right of Ham ilton, if any he had, would not be tested, but these rights might be compromised, provided that upon the trial of the que-warranto it should be found that he is entitled to the seat. Further, the certificate of election is not necessary to the relator, to maintain his action of quo-warranto; and in well con-sidered cases it has been held when, in doubtful cases, a certificate has been issued, doubtul cases, a certificate has been issued, mandamus will not lie to compel the issuance of a second certificate, especially when such issuance would merely shift the burden of proof, or would render substantial aid or final relief. The judge referred to Mages vs Supervisors, 10 Cal., 376; Sherburn vs Hern, 45 Mich., 160, and People vs Cove, 5 Ill., 100, and said that in his opinion the case at bar made a stranger case for the refusal of the writ of mandamus than the cases of the writ of mandamus than the cases cited. In this case an action by quo-warranto would afford a speedy and complete relief to the relator, and there would be no prejudice to the third party. The court had not in this matter deemed it necessary finally to decide. not in this matter declared to decide. As to the legality of the elections of April 2 and April 22, which matter would be best tested at the hearing on the quowarranto. He considered it best for the in-terest of all concerned to leave, until then the parties in their present status; and for all these reasons the writ of mandamus was refused with costs.

Reilroad Equalization. The board of equalization, with the exception of the governor, is again at home. It is learned that the Elkhorn system of roads was completely rounded up during the week Every mile of road, 1.018 in number, was traversed and the property carefully listed. One of the members of the board informed THE BEE representative to-day that "lots of property was discovered" that the authori-ties of the road had failed to give in. This however, will be considered when the assess-ments are made. "The road will make noth ing by its attempt to secret its property,' pointedly said the member. The board will continue its ride and work on next Thurs day. It is understood that the property of the Chicago, Kansas & Nebraska railroad company will next be traversrd and in spected. The sentiment is strong here that he action of the board in seeking to inspect the railroad property of the state is a wise

Fourteen car loads of these urbane and gentlemanly fellows will pass through Lincoln to-morrow morning, on route for Junction in the morning at 4:45, and will reach here about 8 o'clock. The train will be in charge of Conductors Waldron, Secor and Harding. It is said that the boys expect to have a great time, and hope to reach Denver so that they can have a day's rest before ommencing the work of the convention.

City News and Notes. Judge Stewart to-day ordered Francis Pennington sent to the reform school at Kearney. This ends the chapter in the lives of the would-be gypsy girls so far as it concerns their late escapade. Forty odd Lincolnites returned to-day from the festivities attending the opening of the Paddock hotel at Beatrice. One and all pronounce it an elegant affair. Mine Host Criley evidently did himself honor. Fitzsimmons, the murderer of Read at Waverly, and Taylor Curtis and Mrs. Woods, the alleged murderers of Bob Woods, will commence next week. Fitzsimmons' case is set for Tuesday, and the trial of the alleged murderers of Woods will follow immediately.

Judge Stewart to-day issued the following marriage licenses: Watson G. Woodward and Miss Amelia M. Horney; Thomas F McMahon and Miss Agnes Groark, all o Lincoln, Lancaster county. W. J. Price, a wholesale cigar dealer, failed to-day. Chattel mortgages amounting to $7,500 were entered against him this afteroon, and other liabilities will probably bring the amount up to nearly $15,000; assets

BIG CHANCE FOR AN INVENTOR.

Immense Wealth Realized By Separa

ting Gold from Loose Dirt. The fortune that awaits the inventor of a successful dry-placer machine, or any method by which the gold in the loose dirt on the hills and mountains of Nevada can be separated. says the Virginia City Enterprise, will make the present wealthy men of the world have, by comparison, dismal anticipations of the poor house. The experiment has often been tried, and as often the result has been only partially successful, often sufficiently encourag-ing to induce continued effort, but never so far has a profitable working test been made. Owing to the specific gravity of gold which enables us to collect it by the use of water, wind will probably be the chief agent of separation. The numerous contrivances for that purpose now in existence depend more or less upon the principle by which grain is separated from chaff, and the experimenters have usually directed their at tention to modifications of the form and structure of the familiar winnowing

The several methods of utilizing the air have at times been combined with amalgamating plates and with a moderate use of water which is made to do continuous service. The failure in the sense of profitably working has usually been due to the relatively small quan tity of metal saved-that is, the returns have not justified the outlay. There is no question as to the feasi-bitity of making the weight of particles of gold operate in collecting themselves in a district mass; it is and always has been only the ratio between value received and value expended that must be overcome by the successful dry separator. Heretofore the wind has been supplied by artificial means and its application has necessarily been limited. Some time the natural motion of the air will be applied on a large scale and in such a manner that by repeated fanning the dry earth may be blown away from the heavier metal. Great air concentrators will be devised that can be operated at an expense merely nominal, and the problem will be practically solved. When this is ac complished the wind, which, like the poor, we have always with us, will blow

TRAVELING MEN IN CLOVER. Beatrice a Scene of Splendor-A Grand Banquet and Ball-

Who Were There-The Hotel.

BEATRICE, Neb., May 11 .- | Special to THE

BEE.]-Beatrice, bidding for the third place

among Nebraska's busy and enterprising cities, can now say without boasting that we have the finest hotel in the state outside of Omalm, and in point of furnishings and architectural beauty the peer of any. Brilliantly illuminated last night, "The Paddock" presented a scene of dazzling splendor, such as has rarely been witnessed in the west, for beauty and chivairy had gathered there. Fully a thousand sparkling faces were to be seen "here and there and everywhere," in repousse to the generous invitation of Mr. Criley, through the Traveling Men's club, to attend the grand opening. They gave animation to the decorations within, which were as beautiful as cultured tastes could conceive, and the spirit manifest on every hand was that of honor to the builder and the enterprising genius of the city that the new four story hotel does so much credit. The dedication of "The Paddock" was the great social event of the history of Beatrice, and her citizens seemed to appreciate the fact. They vied with each other in making the stranger feel that he was one o them. The recettion was in keeping with the true spirit of hospitality. It was all that would be asked by the throng that gathered from the four quarters of the union. No act of kindly interest or gentility was forgotten.

Words would fall to picture the beauty of Words would fail to picture the beauty of the floral decorations. Festoons of flowers hung from the ceilings and walls. Great wreaths and potted plants transformed every room from office to ordinary, into bowers of beauty. Colors were blended with match less taste. Indeed, they were in such per-fect keeping that contrasts gave back answering smiles. There was no dashing, and it need only be said, that all within was symmetrically beautiful. This, in a word, is all that a pen-picture can do in description.

The banquet and ball of the Traveling Men's club, which was projected by the proprietors of the hotel, to fittingly celebrate its formal opening, was also perfect in its way. The banquet was served in the ele-gantly furnished dining rooms and ordina-ries. No sound came back from the couples as they came to, and west from, the tables laden with every delicacy of the season. The silk-velvet carpets did not intend it should be so. Cheery voices alone gave evidence of confusion. But to linger here is to prolong a story that every guest will bear The Ber out in saying: "There has been nothing like it in all Nebraska the past year." The ball was given in the opera house, a portion of the magnificent Paddock that will be formally dedicated to the drama some time during the month of next September, and it is presumable that the dedication will be upon a scale of equal plane. But. con-cluding, the parquet was fitted on a level with the stage, and ternsichorean revellers indulged to heart's content. Though incomplete, the opera nouse presented a handsome appearance, and in perspective gave evidence of the elegant and commodious "temple of the drama" Beatrice will have when the interior

But, the opening of "The Paddock is now a part of the history of Beatrice, and it means vastly more than what appears on the surface. The city has a hotel commensurate with every need. It is not only a credit to the city, but to the whole state. It is beyond to-day and bids for a progressive future. Senator Paddock must have had faith in the possibilities when he ventured $160,000 to build the hotel that bears his name, and in which every citizen of the place takes a just degree of pride. It is not only a in every sense. There is nothing paradoxical in this. The ball, the banquet and the general social pleasures of the evening would have been lacking without the customary toast. Mr. C. O. Bates welcomed the guests in a few well chosen words. He was felicitous in his remarks to the traveling men and provoked applause in contrasting their reprovoked appliause in contrasting their re-sponsibilities. Mr. A. J. Conlee, president of the Traveling Men's club, addressed the gathering in behalf of the fraternity he rep-resents. Colonel Ashby also responded "In favor of the Paddock," and was roundly ap-plauded in his concluding sentence: "In the name of the Traveling Men's Social club, of Beatrice, I thank you for your attendance here to-night."

SOUTH OMAHA NEWS.

The City Council. Mayor Sloan and Councilmen Fenno, l'owle, Burke, Johnston, McMillan and Rafferty were present when the council convened, Saturday night. Peter McCaffrey's bill for $52 was reported favorably. 'The viaduct, street and alley committee reported in favor of paying the King Bridge company $5,000, and a warrant on the viaduct fund was ordered drawn. Ordinance No. 186, relating to building inspection, and repealing ordinance No. 98, was read and referred. Special ordinance No. 10, relating to levying a tax for sidewalks, was read and re-

The petition of J. F. Burt, for a plumber's license was granted. The Milwaukee Bridge and Iron company's communication, offering to use English Portland cement for the concrete for the two west piers of the L street viaduct, without additional cost to the city, was read and permission given.

J. A. L. Waddell's report on the L street viaduct was read and referred to the committee on viaducts, streets and alleys. R. N. Lawrence's request to have the causes of his removal or suspension made known, was read and on motion the request was granted. The motion, however, was reconsidered and lost. The inspector's report on sidewalks was referred to the ordinance committee. The mayor appointed George H. Lawrence city engineer, but the appointment was rejected by a vote of 5 to 1. A resolution was offered to have John B. Morris take charge of the city work and in-spect the viaduct works. The resolution was tabled and finally expunged The city attorney was directed to draw a cound ordinance. Messrs, Burke, Fenno and Rafferty were appointed a special committee on Mud creek.

At the salmon season this rock proved a favorite resort for bears; and for a good reason. Having an especial taste for salmon, the bears would watch at the pot-hole, and as the salmon, dashing up the fall, were frequently thrown over into it, the bears would fish them out without difficulty.
