Disagreement in the Ham Case

-An Heir to Millions.

"Czar," the phenomenal three-year-old winner of the California Derby, died Monday, at Union Driving park, in this city. The borse belonged to the stable of Theodore Winters, which stopped here Friday, to rest, while en route to St. Louis, Chicago and the east. He contracted a severe cold soon after leaving San Francisco, and was very sick when he reached here. His condition Saturday was much improved, and Mr. McCormick, who has charge of the stable, thought he was on the high road to recovery, but he died of pneumonia. He recovery, but he died of pneumonia. He was valued at $25,000, and the owner had refused an offer of $15,000. He was one of the most promising colts in the country, and great things were expected of him.

"Keep pounding away about a new city iall," said Alderman Knepher to The Bek, yesterday morning, "and it will not be long until the matter will settle itself. Get the idea properly before the people, let them understand the situation thoroughly, and they will see that a new building is an absolute necessity. Agitate the question and get the citizens to discussing it among themselves. A special election can be called whenever we are ready, and the matter can be settled very quickly, when once we get to work in

"We don't want to spring the question be-fore the public is ready for it, but as soon as an opportunity has been given for the case to be well and thoroughly canvassed, we will undoubtedly call an election. The council, as a body, favors the idea, and nearly every alderman is really anxious to see work commeuced on a new structure. The question of a site is a secondary consideration, and can come up after it is decided to erect the building, but agitation is what we want now, my boy, and the louder The Bee buzzes about it the better."

Sears, John Lindt, J. J. Steadman, Ion. George Carson. A Disagreeable Jury.

"Well, we had a tough old fight and did the best we could, but we couldn't possibly win and had to give it up," was the remark made yesterday by one of the jurors who sat on the Foresheimer-Stewart case in the district court last week.

"What seemed to be the trouble!" asked the inquisitive reporter, who sniffed an item that might be of interest.

"A man sees lots of things in the jury room, and he can't help but notice which way the wind blows. Those fellows would agree to do almost anything, but when it came to the scratch they invariably backed out. You know about that telegram that out. You know about that telegram that was introduced in evidence? Well, they agreed to vote for the defendant if that was ruled out, but they falled to keep their promise when the time came. We stayed with 'em for fifty-three hours, but we saw that it was no use, and gave it up. We might have tried it a while longer, but those other fellows were determined to 'hang' the jury, and I candidly believe that if we could have waited so long, the resurrection day would have found us still 'hanging.' We didn't want to put the case through the courts again, but there was no help for it."

A Heavy Inheritance. William Dachtler, a German, who keeps a small grocery store on Upper Broadway, is congratulating himself on a prospective million or more of good, hard dollars. He has just received official notice from the authorities of Wurtemburg, Germany, to apply as an heir of the late Rapp, who was the founder of the colony called Zoar, sixteen miles west of Pittsburg, on the Chicago & Ft. Wayne railroad. It seems that Rapp was a brother Dachtler's grandmether, and came to Pittsburg in 1804, where he obtained possession, with forty others, of a large tract of land, which was converted into an earthly

The laws of the colony forbade marriage and no women were tolerated. The colony, deprived of natural increase, could not exist and Rapp, the leader of them all, died some time ago. The value of the property is some-thing over $80,000,000, but several millions were donated by the colony to the state of Pernsylvania. The remainder goes to rel-atives of the founders, and Dachtler expects to come in for a goodly share to come in for a goodly share.

The following self-explanatory resolutions were adopted at the last meeting of the Retail Merchants association:

Resolved, By the retail merchants of the Resolved. By the retail merchants of the city of Council Bluffs, and members of the Council Bluffs branch of the Retail Merchants' association, of Iowa, that the manufacturers of this city, and others employing help, be requested to aid the retail merchants of Council Bluffs, by insisting that their employes pay their honest debts contracted while in their employ, unless prevented by such circumstances as relieve such employes such circumstances as relieve such employe of responsibility for their neglect, and that a willful neglect to pay such honest debts, shall be good cause for discharge from the employ of such manufacturers.

Resolved. That the newspapers of the city be requested to give this resolution of the retail merchants a place in their columns in the interest of the members of our organiza-

of which was to effect a final disposition of this matter. Ex-City Clerk Burke was not present, but he sent the Council a communication transferring to the city the title to his house and lot on Washington avenue, between Sixth and Seventh streets, in full payment of all mortages resulting from the pec-ulations of his deputy. The shortage, as reported by the commit-tee appointed by the council to examine the books, was $2,500, but the friends of the exofficial claim that the actual amount missing was less than half this sum. The reparation has been fully made, and the city is none the loser, but it is a matter of deep regret that the venerable gentleman who has occupied a responsible position in the city gov-ernment for over twenty years should be obliged, after reaching the age of seventy-five years, to give up his homestead. It is hoped that all city officials will manifest an equal readiness to stey out of office with the books as evenly balanced.

Wrestling for Rates.

Messrs. George F. Wright, P. Lacy and D. A. Farrell are in Des Moines, where they went to confer with the railway commissioners regarding rates for the tournament. Superintendent Brown, of the Iowa lines of the "Q," made a proposition to carry all companies of volunteer firemen along their lines free of charge to the tournament and return, and a single fare for the round trip for all other visitors, provided the rail-way commissioners could allow it without hampering them in the future on account of it. It was to ascertain the feeling of the it. It was to ascertain the feeling of the board regarding this that the committee went to Des Moines. A favorable answer is hoped for, in which case the rates for the tournament will be the most favorable ever given, and will insure the largest gathering ver seen in the city. It is expected that a elegram will be received from Des Moines this morning, announcing the result of the labors of the committee.

A Quiet Wedding. At 8 o'clock, last evening, Mr. Edward W. Hart and Miss Mary C. Haas were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs Samuel Haus, on South Sixth street, in the presence of the immediate relatives only. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. H. Cleland, of Springfield, Mo., a former pastor of the bride. The newly wedded couple left immediately for the east, and will spend a couple of weeks visiting the relatives of the groom at New Bedford, Mass., after which they will return to Council Bluffs and commence housekeep ing in the cozily furnished home awaiting them at the corner of Seventh street and Sixth avenue.

Gault, manager of the Omaha & St. outs railway, left yesterday for a brief Chicago trip. Rev. John Whiting, of Canton, Ill., has cago house, was yesterday greeting the friends of his old home here. T. O. Carlisle, postmaster at Missouri Valley, and General Baggagemaster Whit-tlesey, of the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad, were in the city yesterday. Attorney Paul Seabrook left yesterday afternoon for New York City and vicinity, and it is reported that he is going on business that is quite important to himself. Those who profess to know a thing or two say that he will return as one, but that one will be a double one.

IN THE JAWS OF A WHALE.

Remarkable Experience of An American Sailor In the North Pacific. George Leonard, an acting master in the United States navy during the civil war, and stationed on the gunboat Katahdin. West Gulf blockading squadron, in 1863, told a story of neromism and exhibited marks on his body that corroborated his words, says a letter in the Philadelphia Press. The year 1850 found Leonard as one of the crew of the ship Enterprise, a whaler, in the North Pacific. One day he was stationed in the bow of a whale-boat a long distance from the ship with a brave crew, who had sighted a whale and made for the monster with all possible dispatch. When within proper distance Leonard threw his harpoon, striking the fish hard and deep. In some manner the line, as it was running out, caught the body of one of the men in such a way as to throw him overboard. The suddenly sank, whereupon Leonard transferred his line to a boatmate and sprang into the ocean in aid of the drowning sailor.

The whale, now maddened by his fastflowing blood, made a rush for the boat. Remarkable and horrible to relate Leonard's friend had managed to regain the boat, while he himself was caught by the whale between its jaws, his position being inside the monster's mouth, with nothing protruding but one of his arms. In this manner the man was in reality within the jawsof death itself. The whale instantly plunged down into the deep, and, in the words of Leonard himself, "the fish seemed to be going down, down into eternity itself."

The imprisoned man, after all of this, had not lost his presence of mind. He mustered his entire bodily strengthand he was a powerful man-actually bracing himself in such a position as to compel the fish to spread its jaws; at the same time, with his arm that was free, he grabbed the sheath-knife out of its socket, cutting right and left. No sooner was there a sufficient opening made than Leonard forced his body out-

Up to the surface he swam, when, most strange to say, he found himself within an arm's length of his boat. He was saved. The marks of the whale's violence and the dents of its teeth were very plainly visible on Leonard's arms, and he was always pointed out by his brother naval officers as "The Second

Ex-Governor Pierce, of Dakota, tells of a member of the legislature of that territory who takes an interest in pubic affairs, and when he makes a speech talks right out in meeting. Not many months ago Governor Church, who has een at a dead-lock with the legislature all winter, sent in the nomination of a one-legged man for a prominent office, and it became the duty of the legislature to consider whether to confirm it or not. The statesman to whom Colonel Pierce alludes took the floor and made brief but effective speech.

"Gentlemen of the legislature," said he, "let us look at the situation of the fully in the face and see if we can stand this sort of a nincompoop in the office to which he has been in the offic nominated. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely baldneaded; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head, and shoulders being the worst. The white scales fell constantly from my head, shoulders, and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was ounced incurable. I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using two bottles CUTICURA

RESOLVENT, I could see a change; and after I had taken four bottles, I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of Cuticuna Resolvent and one box of Cuticuna, and one cake of Cuticuna Soar, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I thought the disease would leave a very deep scar, but the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured it without any scars. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I feel it my dusy to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight. I know of a number of different persons who have used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and all have received great benefit from their use. MRS. ROSA KELLY, Rockwell City, Calhoun Co., Iowa. I cannot say enough in praise of the Cuticuna Remedies. My boy, when one year of age, was so bad with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions, which the doctor said was scald head, and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians, I began the use of the Curreura Remedies, and, I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid, and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the Cuticura Remedies to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children, and feel that every mother will thank me for so doing.
