A NO-ACCOUNT GERMAN COUNT

Selling Under An Assumed Name in Lincoln.

HOW HE MADE AN HONEST LIVING.

He Worked in a Butcher Shop, and Uttered Forged Checks on the Side—His Mother's Anxious Inquiry.

LINCOLN BUREAU OF THE OMAHA BEE, 1029 P STREET, LINCOLN, MAY 18.

Men of the noble lineage sometimes go wrong, as well as the common mortals of earth. This is true at least in the case of Charles Thomas, the young man recently found guilty in the district court of having uttered forged paper to the amount of $97, and who now awaits sentence for his crime. It has just been learned that he has been living under an assumed name, but why will probably never be known. The young man came to Lincoln nearly two years ago, and shortly afterward engaged with Hubbard Bros. of this city, and went to work at the butchers' trade. From the first, however, it seems that he had a penchant for evil doing, for he had worked for the firm but a short time until he got into trouble and had to be helped out to escape the penalty of the law. This firm did under promise of a better life. But, it seems, he soon forgot his plod, and his employers were compelled to set him adrift, or run the chance of base betrayal at his hands. Readers of this Bee are acquainted with the episode at the Capital, where he was arrested, and attempted to pass a forged check for $97, and his subsequent arrest by Officer Pound at Sterling. For this crime he was tried and convicted, and must soon suffer the sentence of the court. The following translated letter addressed to Hubbard Bros., will explain something of the antecedents of the wayward young man:

"HONORABLE MEN POLICE, Pommern, Germany, April 18, 1889.—Honored Sirs:—You will kindly pardon my request, and as well fulfill it. So give me an account of my son, Werner von Manteloff, known to you by the name of Charles Thomas—employed by you as a butcher. My son wrote the last time to me on the 28th of last September after having been badly hurt on the 24th by a beef falling on his right arm. He soon he was nearly recovered and hoped soon to be able to take up his work again. Each month since, till February, I wrote long letters to him, requesting his answers. In my growing anguish because of his last silence, I wrote to him that if he would let me know where he was, I would write to you, sir, as his master, and entreat of you to let me know what had become of him. Now I feel obliged to keep my word. My afflicted and sorrowful heart in asking you, sir, to be so kind as to tell me the whole truth about my son, and God grant that not a greater amount of hard affliction may fall upon us through my unhappy, yet still beloved son. Truly send me word soon. Respectfully yours, "Augusta Von Manteloff."

During the day this Bee's representative took occasion to investigate this matter carefully, and the assurance is conclusive that Charles Thomas, so-called, is a son of Governor Von Manteloff, deceased, of the province of Alsace Lorraine, and a grandson of General Von Manteloff, who became so famous in the Franco-German war. If the oldest son, he is pretty entitled to wear the name of count, while his mother is the Countess of Lorraine.

A New Vitrified Brick Plant.
May 20th is the day fixed upon by the Beatrice Paving and Building Brick company to commence business, and it continues thereafter fifty years. The object and purpose of the corporation is to manufacture and sell paving bricks and any and all other articles pertaining to the business. Article 4 fixes the capital stock at $100,000, which is divided into 1,000 shares of $100 each.

THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Mr. Mahoney's Report on the Records of the Various Officials.

According to instructions from the board of county commissioners, County Attorney Mahoney submitted a lengthy report to the board at yesterday afternoon's meeting in regard to quarterly reports of county officials. The attorney stated that all officers of the county had made reports for the quarter ending April 1, 1889, except the sheriff. All the reports, in the opinion of the county legal advisor, were in accordance with law except that of the county clerk and the register of deeds. In these reports, while the amounts reported for fees were regular, they were charged to the number of instruments and found correct. The county attorney says this had been the custom of the officials in keeping the records as far back as he went. He had a consultation with both the county clerk and the register of deeds, and both assured him that in the future the records would be kept so as to show by whom fees were paid, and that they would comply with the statutory provisions in making out their reports. The jail records had been examined and found correct.

Relative to the resolution of Mr. Anderson in regard to charging $1 for filing certain instruments, and giving the county credit for 25 cents therefor, the attorney said he had been unable to find any cause upon which to base an action, either criminal or civil. The report of the clerk in regard to the sale of the district court, which was prepared at the clerical work performed for outside parties was paid for by the clerk. Advertisements for the sale of the district court, which was prepared at the work, accompanied the communication. They were ordered filed, as was also the opinion of S. J. Pope & Co. presented a bill, accompanied by the third estimate in the plumbing contract for the county hospital, asking for $3,570.00. It was approved.

Chief of Police Mahoney's bill for $1,794.75 for fees during the February term of court, it was referred. Several small bills were allowed. The county attorney made propositions for settlement of the question as to the lots on which the present poor house is located, which were purchased by Judge Haswell. The first proposition provides for the county executing a deed for the premises to him according to the contract, and the second provides for the county reserving the right to remove the buildings from the lots at any time before a specified day. The second provides for the county securing the title to the buildings, and the third is for the county leasing the buildings of Haswell, but names no figures therefor. The propositions were referred to the finance committee.

Clerk Webb was instructed to notify the workmen on the new county hospital to stop work until the changes ordered are approved.

Journeyman Plumbers Anticipate the Bosses' Action.

A WALKOUT IN MANY SHOPS.

The Carpenters' Co-operative Store About Assured—Printers Sign Contracts—Other Labor Notes.

Duncan and the Plumbers.
The journeymen plumbers are after the scalp of Plumbing Inspector Duncan, and intend to leave no stone unturned to secure his removal from office. They claim that Duncan has done everything he can to bring about their defeat in the struggle between them and the master plumbers, and that he has used his official position to accomplish this end. They assert that his recent, belligerent attitude toward W. H. Spelman, a due alone to the fact that Spelman has been and refused to stand by the masters' association in its intention to order a lockout, and that in passing his opinion upon the matter of the men from other unions, and to take such action as it shall deem necessary to accomplish the desired end. Resolutions were adopted at the meeting, and the matter was laid before the central labor union at a meeting held in Green's hall last night, by a committee from the plumbers' union, and as a result a committee was appointed to take such action as it shall deem necessary to accomplish the desired end. Waiting Plumber.
The journeymen plumbers' walkout during the past week has affected, to some extent, every building trades union in the city. The walkout is due to the declaration made by the master plumbers at a meeting held Saturday night, that they would order a lockout the following Wednesday. The journeymen did not wait for this, but walked out of their own accord, Monday morning, without parley. In three shops only have they remained at work. These are Strang & Clark's, W. H. Spelman's and Weisman & McEwan's. The men are still out and there is nothing to indicate a speedy adjustment of the differences between masters and journeymen. The whole trouble arose from the refusal of the Master's association to recognize the union. The journeymen have a meeting held upon the Hussey & Day company, under contract to do the plumbing in a new Beer building. This firm has been unable to secure journeymen since the walkout, but instead secured the services of five or six members of the master's association and persuaded them to do overalls and go to soldering. This precipitated more trouble. The journeymen declared that unless these men, "scabs," as they called them, were sent off the work they would induce all the painters, carpenters, tile layers, and in fact all the workmen on the building, to leave it. The plasterers were induced to lay down their trowels and quit early in the week. All of the various unions affected met in special session Friday, and determined to stick to the plumbers to the end and to leave work upon their request. Under this decision, twenty of carpenters walked out yesterday, and the others say they will follow if an amicable adjustment of the difficulties is not made by next Tuesday.
