COLONEL L. A. CAIN, Auctioneer.

His Room Was Ready for Him. As Jailer Galvin was sitting in front of the city jail, last night, a stranger in a state of double-jointed intoxication happened along, barely manful, with the greatest exertion, to confine himself within the limits of the street. "Ten to one that fellow tries to break in here," remarked the jailer, watching the pilgrim's painful attempts at locomotion. Sure enough, the fellow passed on into the station, oblivious of the little group outside, and demanded a bed. It was furnished him, after he had given the name of J. Wilson, and a few seconds later J. Wilson was booked on the police register as a drunk. In the column where the name of the officer making the arrest should have been, the words, "Walked in." It is the first case of the kind recorded there. Jailer Galvin lists that the fellow knew he would get landed in the hole sooner or later, and preferred walking in by himself to paying extra for a ride in the patrol wagon.

HANSEN JULY EXONERATED.

The Jury Says He Killed Madison In Self-Defense.

The News in the Courts—The Fire Lads Fixing for the Races—Items of General Interest.

The Jury Did Not Censure. The coroner's jury investigating the death of Walter Madison returned a verdict yesterday afternoon to the effect that the "deceased came to his death from a bullet fired from a revolver by Peter Hansen while defending himself from an assault made upon him by a number of persons, of whom the deceased was one."

As will be seen from the verdict the testimony almost wholly went to show that the homicide was acting in self-defense when he fired the shot that robbed a fellow man of his life. This, however, does not effectually dispose of the case, as Hansen will yet be put upon trial for his life for murder in the first degree. The time has not yet been fixed for his trial, but it will be determined by the attorneys, J. P. Organ for the state, and G. A. Holmes for the defense.

In the testimony introduced at the request the names of several parties were given as having been with the deceased when he created the disturbance at the dance hall. At an attempt was made to discover the identity of the entire party, but it was not successful. Witnesses testified that one McClelland, Thomas, Brown, Robert, the son of the deceased, was one of the party, but those witnesses denied it.

The HER made certain investigations outside and learned that for years a tough crowd, known as "The Dirty Dozen," has existed in the southern part of the city. Lately the crowd has been known as "The Gang," and has been engaged in a variety of disreputable transactions in that locality. "The Gang" is composed of a number of young men who make it an object to render life as wretched as possible for the Danes in the southern part of the city, and numerous complaints have been made to the police concerning the Danes and the children strictly forbidden to leave home. Men have been engaged to kill all the stray dogs in town.

Epidemic of Hydrophobia. MINNEAPOLIS, May 21.—The Journal's Red Wing, Minn., special says a disease, supposed to be hydrophobia, is epidemic at Trimbell, Wis. More Boats For Manawa. Mr. O. C. Schwirn, proprietor of the Star boat house at Cat-Off lake, has announced himself in partnership with Mr. Vroeland, and effected a forty foot frontage on Lake Manawa, just south of Omaha, resting on the purpose of erecting a boat house and dock. The new firm will put twenty-five row boats and five sailboats on the lake, and let them at reasonable prices. The building was now being built by them in Omaha, Mr. Schwirn being a practical boat builder, and it is promised that the lake will surpass any of the boats now on the lake and will be in progress, and hung around the entrance, including every lady who appeared in the popular feeling is in sympathy with the verdict rendered by the coroner's jury, and the general expression, while regretting that a murder had been committed, that the shooting was in a manner justifiable, and the victim deserved the dues of a worthless life. It is hoped that the lawless companions of the dead man will take warning from the fate of their unfortunate brother, and conduct themselves more becomingly in the future.

Pets of the Police. The effects of red eye were conspicuous in police court yesterday morning. A bigger batch of boozers had been collected during the preceding twenty-four hours than for a long time previous. Perry Knight was the first victim hauled up, and he had carried his gun to the extent of dumping his whole family. As none of them appeared against him he was let off with a fine of $8.10.

Frank Spencer was assessed $7.00 for intimate acquaintance with the cheating cup. Mollie Christin and Mattie Roberts, two depraved females, were charged with fighting and otherwise disturbing the peace of "Hotten Row." They were fined $8.10 and sent up stairs to board it out.

W. H. Williams, Pat Feely and James Melvin, three ladies' suitcases from away back, were likewise assessed individual taxes of $8.10, and in default were required to remain in custody until they were taken to the pound.

Ten turpentine tourists, who were rounded up in a car in the Northwestern yards, were each fined $15.10 for vagrancy, and turned over to Officer Tyson for ten days to work it out.

These Teams to Visit Nebraska. It is now decided that both the Eisenman and John N. Baldwin, Jr. horse teams will visit Nebraska city next Saturday, to take part in the races there. Liberal prizes are offered, and the Bluffs boys propose to rattle the greatest part of them in their pockets on the way home. The rate offered, one fare for the round trip, will induce a large number of Council Bluffs citizens to accompany them. Both teams are in good condition, having a great deal of hard training lately, and will make all the races in which they start very lively ones. This is probably the last time the two Council Bluffs teams will appear together on the track until the tournament, and they will each do some pretty running. For the credit of the city, it is hoped that the Eisenman team will not appear in the same costume as they did at the grand procession at the exhibition at the driving park on the 26th ult. They ran very creditably, but their costume was altogether too "raw" for this enlightened age.

Electric Light Companies Lawing. PITTSBURG, May 21.—The suit of the Westinghouse Consolidated Light company against the McKeesport or Edison Electric company, was taken up in the United States court today before Justice Bradley of the United States supreme court.
