

GREAT SURPLUS JUNE CLEARANCE SALE!

OPENS TO-MORROW MORNING.

WE PROPOSE TO CLOSE OUT ALL SURPLUS STOCK REGARDLESS OF COST.

Read this ad. carefully and bring your shopping list with you on Monday morning.

DRESS GOODS.

Only of the finest imported Pattern Suits...

Lace Curtains.

75 pairs Barr's No. 523 Nottingham Lace Curtains...

Linens.

NAPKINS. NAPKINS. NAPKINS. 45 dozen 58x58 Bleached Satin Damask Napkins...

White Goods.

A recent arrival of those 30-inch Satin Plaid Mulls...

WASH FABRICS.

30-inch Crazy Cloth in orange, rose, ecrú, lavender, cardinal and pink, 10c yard.

Prints.

Great bargains for the coming week in our Print Department.

Notions.

Dress Pearl-Buttons, 3 sizes, worth 1c dozen for 75c.

Lacons.

On visiting our store don't fail to examine our bargains in lace.

HOISERY.

'Til dance off to a lively tune, Barr's clearance sale the key-note.

Fans.

30 cases Palm Leaf Fans, worth 35c each, for 10c.

Black Goods.

We would call special attention to our new line of Silk Warp Paramattas...

SILKS.

Ladies' this is a glorious opportunity to buy your summer silks.

House Furnishings.

40 dozen Scrub Brushes at 6c each.

Art Department.

There is no place in Omaha where you will find such a complete stock of fancywork as you can find at Barr's.

MILLINERY.

With wings to the prices. Your choice of 50 Trimmings Hats $3 each.

Gloves.

Full line of Silk Mitts, in all shades and black, 50c, 40c and 30c.

Ribbons.

A great reduction on Satins this week.

Parasols.

Parasols of every style, Plain and Fancy Striped La Toresas at $1.00.

Collars and Cuffs.

50 dozen Ladies' linen Collars at 5c each, some are slightly soiled, but many are perfect and really worth 30c.

CLOAKS.

Nothing hurt but the prices. 10 beautifully made and finished, pleated Silk Waists, for $5 each.

Trimmings.

Ornamental Gimp, in colors, at 40c per yard. Tinsel Galloons at 25c per yard.

Handkerchiefs.

At Barr's Handkerchief Department on Monday will be seen some of the best values ever offered.

Gents' Furnishings.

The Gents' Furnishing Department at Barr's which has always been the pioneer of high class Furnishings at low prices, will offer some special inducements this week.

Country orders for goods or samples will receive prompt attention if addressed to the Wm. Barr Dry Goods Co., 16th and Douglas Streets, Omaha, Neb.

Great Central Dry Goods Store, fronting on 16th and Douglas, in the retail and street railroad center of Omaha.

A BROTHER'S AWFUL REVENGE

Wreaked on the Man Who Wrought His Sister's Ruin.

WATCHED HIM DIE BY INCHES.

How a Young Trapper Was Slowly Starved to Death By the Partner Whose Confidence He Had Betrayed.

Tragic Romance of a Mountain Man.

FORT ROBINSON, Neb., June 5.—[Special to THE BEE.]—I have often wished somebody would write the romantic incidents connected with the early history of Nebraska before they pass out of the minds of men now living and are forgotten forever.

Just above Julesburg, on the Platte River, is a rock, at the foot of which was enacted a tragedy many years ago, THE MERE RECITAL OF WHICH makes my blood run cold.

Many years ago two young men came from the east and ascending the Missouri from Council Bluffs far into Montana, engaged in the business of trapping and buying furs.

A FAIR SISTER WHO LIVED IN ST. LOUIS was one of the partners went every year to sell their furs. The girl, infatuated by the tales of adventure told by her brother, longed to visit the west and begged so hard to be allowed to accompany him to his mountain home.

Yellowstone, but he urged her to go directly down the Missouri with his partner, and not undertake so perilous and fatiguing a journey as to the Yellowstone route.

THE MACKINAC BOATS were well manned with friendly Indians and provided with every comfort the country afforded. When the little fleet sailed the brother struck out across the country for the Yellowstone where he arrived in due time but a very sick man.

In the fall the catch of furs had been so poor that the partner easily persuaded the brother to defer his trip east until spring and devote the whole winter to hunting and trapping.

ALTHOUGH DISAPPOINTED in not having the company of his sister in his lonely home during the summer, he consoled himself with the thought he should see her in the early winter and said he had done quite right to remain at home to care for their dear old mother.

What good, he reasoned, would it do him merely to shoot the man; he would not suffer much and might not even be able to know for what he was shot. No, he would torture him and grieve over his sufferings.

No Indian could devise a more cruel death than the trapper did for his victim. As he neared the camp on the Missouri his thirst for vengeance increased and it was a whole day before he could trust himself to enter the camp so great was his fear that at the sight of his partner his feelings would overcome him and he would kill the scoundrel on the spot.

THE PARTNER READILY ASSENTED, and after seeing their boats safely started down the Missouri they set out across the country for Laramie. They finally struck the oil overland trail and followed it down the Platte to Julesburg.

THE PARTNER READILY ASSENTED, and after seeing their boats safely started down the Missouri they set out across the country for Laramie. They finally struck the oil overland trail and followed it down the Platte to Julesburg.

What good, he reasoned, would it do him merely to shoot the man; he would not suffer much and might not even be able to know for what he was shot. No, he would torture him and grieve over his sufferings.

sufferer any food and only a very little drink. He would rest over to him the letter from the mother to her son informing him of his sister's ruin. The poor man begged hard to be killed at once, or to be released and he would marry the girl and make every restoration in his power for the wrong he had done. But the brother was deaf to all his entreaties. So it went on until the end came. After his victim was dead the brother went to St. Louis and found his sister well and in sound mind.

There he lived for ten years, never once again coming east, and was finally wounded by Indians while out hunting and died from the effects of his wounds. It was on his deathbed he related this story of his life to Muggins Taylor who told it to me on the Yellowstone by a camp fire one night in 1876, just before Custer was massacred.

THE PARTNER READILY ASSENTED, and after seeing their boats safely started down the Missouri they set out across the country for Laramie. They finally struck the oil overland trail and followed it down the Platte to Julesburg.

What good, he reasoned, would it do him merely to shoot the man; he would not suffer much and might not even be able to know for what he was shot. No, he would torture him and grieve over his sufferings.

THE WORLD OF ELECTRICITY

A Recent English Invention of Great Practical Value.

HOW THE PHONOPORE WORKS.

A German Professor's Plan for Transforming Mechanical Work into Electrical Energy—Printing Batteries for Incandescent Lighting.

The Phonopore.

An English electrician, Mr. Langdon Davies, has made and perfected an invention which promises to be of great advantage in the service of transmission by electricity, says the Boston Herald.

Primary Batteries for Incandescent Lighting. Primary batteries for incandescent lighting will oftentimes be called for in the home.

A New Source of Electricity. London Iron states that "a new source of electricity has been discovered by Prof. Braun, of Tubingen."

has found that nickel wires develop the strongest currents by winding it into a spiral, and connecting its ends with a delicate measuring apparatus (multiplier). The pointer of the multiplier deflected considerably according as the spiral was elongated or compressed.

Improving the Phonograph. It is said that the phonograph has been made now to register the sound of the beating of the human heart. Thus does science continually trample down all our notions of long ago, says Texas Sittings.

in existence, and very few persons have ever heard of the term before, yet it is the name of a trade, the members of which are well paid, and which in a few years will hold an important place in our industrial crafts.

Telephones in Sweden. In probably no country in the world, says an English exchange, "has the telephone come into more general use than Sweden."