JULES FERRY'S POOR SHOT.

The Opportunist Leader Did Not Effect a Capture.

THE EXTREME LEFT AND RIGHT.

For Once the Conservatives and Radicals Find Themselves on Common Ground-The Fight Over Religion and Instruction.

An Echo of Gambetta.

[Copyright 1889 by James Gordon Bennett.] Panis, June 9.—[New York Herald Cable -Special to THE BEE.] - "Between two stools one comes to the ground," is the vulgar proverb which is applicable to Jules Ferry and the opportunist party at this moment. Ferry sought in his speech in the chamber Thursday to satisfy both the extreme left and right, and offended both more deeply than ever, De Mun and Clemenceau being as one in rejecting the overtures he made to the respective parties.

The opportunist leader, it will be remembered, concluded his speech by an appeal for religious peace; but, as we have pointed out, in the previous article, there was a flagrant contradiction between this appeal and the subject matter of the first portion of his discourse. "The opportunists," he declared at the outset, "neither regretted nor wished to retract any part of their past policy, so far as the education laws and religious questions were concerned."

Now this policy was based upon the idea conveyed in the words of Gambetta: "le clericalism ec'est l'ennemie," and had for its outcome, "Article 7," the dissolution of religious orders, laicisation of schools and hospitals and the expurgation of magistrates and functionaries accused of clericalism, often on the sole ground that they went to church Sundays, or that their wives were assiduous in the practice of religious duties, or that they placed their children in schools conducted by Catholes. All this was recalled by Comte De Mun in eloquent and forcible language, and from it the inference is drawn that the conservatives could not possibly place any reliance upon Ferry's words in respect to his desires for religious peace; more particularly as the opportunists, far from regretting the past, declared their intention of continuing to enforce the education laws, and the laicisation of schools and hospitals. While the conservatives on the one hand rejected Ferry's advances, the radicals, on the other, protested in strong terms against the language and attitude of the opportunist party. According to Clemencea the extreme left is averse to making any concessions in favor of religious peace, and his followers are prepared to go to the bitter end rather than retract one step in the line of march they had marked out for themselves. Clemenceau diameterically opposed the measure and declared conciliation out of question in any case.

Ferry's advances have been unfortunate for himself and his party. He has neither inspired the right with confidence in his professions, nor modified the anti-religious passions of the extreme left. This failure is, in a great measure, due to the fact that the position of the opportunists is both false and equivocal; instead of taking a definite, open stand, they have cringed to both moderates and radicals, with the usual result, that they we offended both. The opportunists have delivered themselves up, bound hand and foot, into the power of the radicals, who, as usual, will reap the old rewards.

The Beatrice Chautauqua. HEATRICE, Nob., June 9 .-- | Special to THE Bez |- At the first inception of the Chautaugus scheme, many doubted its practic ability. This allusion has been happily disyelled, bowever, and the success of the first of a series of Chaufauqua assemblies at Beatrice is assured. The best Chautauqua talent in the country has been procured, and the programme in all its details is a magnificent one. The fact that ninety acres of the most attractive suburban property, Riverside park, has been taken from the market and devoted under a ten year lease for Chautauquia purposes exclusively, is a sufficient guaranty of its permanancy. Riverside park is located within the corporation limits of the city on the south side of the Blue river, and is one of the prettiest and most finely shaded parks in the west. The grove consists largely of young trees, ash maple and elm, and coursing through it is a small creek bordered with stately elm, oak and walnut. Charming driveways have been laid out and graded, and one fine road borders the river, affording glimpses of the beautiful blue along the eastern front of the assembly grounds. The river is also provided with abundant boats for rowing purposes, and a stretch of smooth water for over three miles is afforded.

The great tabernacle, 92x132 feet, is now completed and is one of the most specious.

The great tabernacle, $22x133 feet, is now completed and is one of the most spacious, durable and handsome structures of the kind in the country. It is located on a beautiful plateau about the center of the park. The study halls, various headquarter buildings and many handsome and artistic cottages are scattered throughout the grounds. Several boarding halls have been provided for, one by the ladies of the M. E. church and others by other denominations.

Those attending the Beatrice Chautauqua assembly, at Riverside park, June 28 to July 9 inclusive, are offered:

A Thriving Two-Year-Old. Rogens, Neb., June 9 .- [Special to THE BEE.]-Crops in this vicinity are the most promising condition they have been for years. Small grain is looking fine. An unusually large acreage was sown. A large amount of breaking has been done. The majority of the cattle have been shipped, all going to the Omaha market. Sches ter & Falkner have shipped within the last month, forty-seven cars of hay, thirteen of cattle, eight of hogs and five of corn. P. J. Murphy shipped six loads of hogs and five of corn. Many farmers have shipped their own cattle. George Thrush, the most extensive feeder, shipped seven cars of cattle to Chicago yesterday. This is a total of 108 cars of stock, corn and hay that Rogers has exported in the last month. Yet the place is not two years old, the population is about one hundred and eighty-five. It has one general merchandise store, a hardware, a grocery and a drug store, livery barn, blacksmith shop, hotel, butcher shop and saloon.

A good doctor could make money by locating here. There is no business overdone here.

Enterprise at Stockham. STOCKHAM, Neb., June 9 .- [Special to THE Bee.] -- Among the new enterprises in this thriving town is the Stockham creamery, Although it has only been in operation about six weeks, it is now making about 1,000 pounds to a churning. With the latest butter-making machinery, the product it turns out grades with the best in the eastern market. With the large acreage of flax grown and the excellent water power which the Blue furnishes, there is an excellent opening for a flax mill. The impetus lately given to this subject by the agricultural department at Washington and the new machinery which makes the handling of the flax fiber easy and economical, renders this a very fa-vorable time to embark in such an enter prise. A site and water power can be had here for a nominal sum, and the materials are at hand for the success of such an enter-

The Sioux Commission's Work. ROSEBUD, via Valentine, June 9.-[Speci relegram to THE BEE.]-The stamped begun Friday continued yesterday, thoug in slightly diminished numbers. The table were placed in the council room of th agent's official headquarters, and were sur rounded by groups of Indians waiting the turn to touch the pen, which constitutes th signing, clerks being present to perform th manual act of inscribing the name. The council where the commission met th objectors and made a final effort to explaaway any misconception of the bill was hel yesterday afternoon. After some prelim nary remarks, the Indian orator, Hollo Horn Bear, as the representative of the ol jectors, addressed the commission in abou this language: "We are here to talk to th commission in a spirit of friendship, but w want to say what is in our mind. W know that the white men are crowd ng upon us, and our land is go ing away from us. The Indian mu go to the earth. Soon he will have only lar enough for his grave, and the white man w want that. Yesterday you, Three Star called me a woman. I am glad I am like voman. Yesterday I was there in counci and then I was like a woman. I had nothin sharp hanging from my belt or I might have been a man. Now I say, like yesterday, ge all these agencies here and talk, and the sign or not, as we decide. Last night th half-bloods talked cross to me, and I did n like that, for I was a friend to all Indians at white men."

Yellow Hair, who has always opposed the treaty, then said: "I want to be a white man and work like a white man, as my great father asks me to. I want, when I father asks me to. I want, when I work, to get good pay for it, and to learn to be a blacksmith, carpenter and so forth. When I was in Washington the great father took me around and was a friend to me. He promised me many things, but we did not get them. Why did they lie to us? Some white men come here and are good to us and are our friends. We are glad when such men come here and are their friends. I shake hands with you with a good heart. You give me rations and with a good heart. You give me rations and I am glad. We must learn to work and know how to make a living. We want the Indians and half-bloods to be employed at the agency, then the money will stay here and not go east, like now, when the white men do the

The entire police force of the agency then ranged themselves in a line, while their cap-tain, Little Dog, addressed the commission, asking for better provision for the police, and praised the agent for his friendship to them, after which Major Warner explained the law in regard to the conflict between this treaty and that of 1868, this being no abroga-tion of the former but, simply adding to that treaty and that of 1905, this being he deroga-tion of the former but simply adding to that. Hollow Horn Bear then called upon Three Stars to talk to them, which he did in a very fine speech, in which he spoke of his exper-iences among the Apaches, and his sorrow that the Sioux were not progressing as rapidly. The general further continued: "After being away from you for eleven years come back. I think you ought to treat me better, when I come up to your council to ex-plain the law to you. I was told you understood the matter. Now you come here and say you do not understand. I think it is not right to treat a friend in this way." Alludright to treat a triend in this way." Alludto the scarcity of population east of the Missouri river in 1855, the general said that the white men were like birds, and hatched out brood after brood who, for want of room, were crowding westward more rapidly than was expected at the time of the treaty. was expected at the time of the treaty. "Last year I did not think the price enough, now, I think, we offer you enough; and as your friend I advise you to accept this offer. Do you not know I am your friend by my acts! To do you good costs us money and time, and trouble, as well as much thought, and by this you may know I am your friend." Speaking of Hollow Horn Hear, the general said that with his brains. Bear, the general said that with his brains and oratory he could become the most prom-inent man on the reservation. Here Hollow Horn Bear interrupted and remarked that when the man became a chief a bullet might burst on his head. Spotted Tail was given as an instance of this, his slayer, Crow Dog, being present to hear the talk.

being present to hear the tank.

Major Warner also made a warm appeal to them to leave their idle habits and become citizens and civilized. Two Strikes made a speech in which he asked for additional price for the land, though he had been often told by the commissioners that they had no power to grant it. An invitation being again ex-tended to the Indians to sign, many came for ward and touched the pen,

There has been no regular council to-day, but there were a number of small ones, both among the opposition and friends of the bill, those of the opposition, largely predominatthose of the opposition largely predominating. The Indians have been coming in Slowly, but steadily, all day and signing. Up to this time about seven hundred have touched the pen. Hollow Horn Bear, who delivered his great speech yesterday in op-position to the bill, and which created a profound sensation at the time among both factions, after a long consultation with his band and relatives last night is of greatly changed views to-day, and intimate friends state em-phatically that in the end he will sign. If this is so it will be a big strike in the right direction.

The three most prominent chiefs now on the opposition are Yellow Hair, Spotted Tail and Quick Bear, chief of the Whasians. These two men have a strong following and a large portion of it will be difficult to change, so set are they in their views. The total number of voters over eighteen who are allowed to vote is 1,383; the requisite to the product of the legal votes to number, three fourths of the legal votes to adopt the bill will be, 1,038, and this does not include the reservation of white men incorporated with the Indians by marriage, as heretofore described. Now that the rush of the friends of the bill is over, one can more fully realize the work and difficulty yet to be done, and prejudices to overcome, before the bill is brought to a successful issue, and it will take stupendous work to secure the last hundred votes.

There is no doubt that if General Crook was not with the commission its efforts would be a signal failure. But the Indians know him and trust and believe in him. Governor Foster and Major Warner, while extremely able men, have had no intercourse with the Indians except in the councils. Many Indians, who were strongly opposed to the bill, have gone to General Crook and asked him for his word if the bill were right; and when he told them he believed it was, they have gone and signed it. There is another thing here, which is only known to the initiated, that of little wheels within wheels for there is no doubt the gore was wheels, for there is no doubt there are par-ties high in agency circles here, who for personal gams and importance have endeav-ored to clog the work of the commission for their own particular benefit. So when the coup d'etate comes, they will be on the winning side and magnify their influence. None know this more fully than the commission, who have too long heads to be fooled in the

A Favorable Report.

Rosenup, June 9 .- At the council last night Hollow Horn Bear withdrew from the opposition, and this morning High Hawk signified his agreement, and both will sign.

This breaks up the unfriendly element and assures the acceptance of the terms offered by the government, so far as this agency is concerned. The commission will remain a few days longer, in order to obtain the signatures of Indians living at distant points, and will then go to the Pine Ridge agency.

THE GUBERNATORIAL RACE. Iowa Democrats Leading Out Their

Prancing Steeds.

Des Moines, Ia., June 9.—[Special to The Brg. |-The canvass for the nomination for governor has so far been confined almost exclusively to republicans. The democrats are just beginning to show a little interest and are leading out several horses that they think might make the race. Among these are the following: General S. L. Glasgow, of Burlington, an able lawyer and an excellent cam; paigner; Colonel P. G. Ballingall, of Ot. tumwa, a rather light weight but a very popular democrat, who loves his party and spends his money freely for it; Hon. Horace Boies, of Waterleo, formerly a republican, but now as bourbon as the most; Senator Bolter, of Harrison county, who is quite popular with the old time "unterrified;" Hon. D. O. Finch, of this city, at present United States district attorney, a good lawyer and a fine speaker, and Hon. Jerry Murphy, formerly congressman from the Davenport district. There was a time when he had a great ambition to run for governor, but he is something of a back number now, and quite out of politics. Captain Merrill, of Clinton, is again discussed. He, too, was anxious to run for governor at one time, but his good soldier record wasn't a match for the old, fossilized politician from Monona county, and so Whiting was nominated and Merrill was left out. He isn't likely to be ambitious to lead a forlorn hope, after being snubbed four years ago. Hon. John H. Craig, mayor of Keokuk, has some reputation in having beaten Mayor Irwin on the issue of the enforcement of prohibition in Keckuk. He is supposed to be a candidate. The names of Colonel Charles A. Clark, of Cedar Rapids, and Fred Lehmann, of this city, are always brought up. Either would make a strong candidate, but neither would consent. Both are good lawyers, and can not afford to waste time or money in politics. So far there seems to be no drift of choice in candidates.

Soldiers' Monument Commission. DES MOINES, Ia., June 9 .- [Special to THE Bgg.]-Governor Larrabee has called a meeting of the soldiers' monument commis sion, at Iowa City, June 17. It is expected that the commission will be prepared then to make some definite recommendations to the legislature. The commission have found the work of greater magnitude than they had anticipated. The appropriation of $5,000 for getting the work started gave them little chance to figure on the ultimate cost, and they decided to spend a part of this money in offering cash prizes for designs. They are nearly swamped with the result of the competition, so many excellent models and designs have been submitted. Some of the old soldiers are trying to work up a feeling in favor of a memorial hall instead of a monument. They think that a suitable and beautiful building could be erected that would serve as a kind of de-pository of war relies, battle flags, regi-mental records, etc., and afford a place where the old soldiers could hold their an-nual reunions. The plan meets with some favor and some opposition. It will be decided by the next legislature. But the commissioners are strongly opposed to anything in the way of a building, and they think that the original idea of an imposing and beautiful shaft or statue should be carried out, and they will so recommend to the legislature. The commissioners are very competent men. and well fitted by study, travel and genera culture to act wisely for the interest of the state. Governor Larrabee is ex-officio a member of the commission and chairman Other members are ex-Governor Kirkwood, Iowa City; Hon, D. N. Richardson, editor Davenport Demograt; Hon. James Harlan, of Mount Pleasant, and ex-Senator George G. Wright, of this city.

DES MOINES, June 9 .- | Special to THE BEE. !-Governor Larrabce is working up the subject of prison referm, if there be any need of it in Iowa, and is having a set of blanks sent out to the different sheriffs of the state. The following questions are asked:

1. How many prisoners can be kept properly and with safety! (Referring to the county jails.)

2. Is the building free from dampness?

3. What is the condition of its sewerage? Are there proper facilities for ventilation!

5. Are provisions made for the employment of prisoners.

6. What was the whole number of prisoners, March 1, 1889!
7. Number of native born; number of foreign born? Number of males; number of females!

Number serving out sentences and for what offences? It is expected that he will embody the result of the information obtained in some suggestions in his message to the legislature.

Nine Tenths of the Laborers Voluntarily Kept On at Their Task Yesterday-Little Fear of An Epidemic.

Sunday Among the Dead. Johnstows, Pa., June 9 .- To-day is the tenth day since the disaster occurred, and the extent of the fatality can be appreciated when it is known that bodies are still being found wherever men are at work. Fiftyeight bodies were recovered to-day. The remains that are now being removed from the drift are far advanced in decomposition, and the physicians in charge are advocating cremation as fast as found, as it is almost impossible to handle them sately. The work of clearing away the debris is progress. ing encouragingly. The workmen were not required to work to-day, but nine-tenths of them volunteered to continue. As a result a large inroad was made on the drift in the central portion of the city. Main street, which is the principal thoroughfare and one of the worst blockaded, is now about cleared.

At the wreckage above the stone bridge work is going on rather slowly. The force is small and the difficulties great.

Religious services were held at many points to-day. Most of the suburban towns where church buildings remained had regular services. In Johnstown open-air meetings were held at different points. This being the hottest day since the disaster, the weather is telling on the workmen. With the fires constantly kept going, burning up rubbish, and the hot sun, many of them were exhausted before evening. The hot sun beating down on the wreckage above the bridge has developed the fact that many bodies of animals and probably of human beings are yet in the ruins. The stench arising from this pile has been more offensive to-day than at any time yet.

Governor Beaver arrived this morning. He spent the day in visiting the ruined portions of the city and in driving up the Cone-maugh valley. He had a conference this afternoon with the committee heretofore in charge, and as a result will assume control Wednesday morning. He left this evening for Philadelphia. The Western Union is pushing forward its

The Associated press will also secure quarters in the city proper, to-morrow, and the whole newspaper force will be transferred from the west side bridge to what was the business portion of Johnstown.

The only present danger is from people being frightened into sickness by sensational reports.

Last night a number of cars containing supplies were broken into and the contents carried off. What the thieves could not steal they trampled and ruined. The Ma-sonic relief car was also entered and robbed. Twelve men were arrested for stealing to-day, but were released upon returning the goods. The were released upon returning the goods. Miss Walk and Miss Ely, of the Northern home for friendless children, returned to Philadelphia yesterday and took with them the Hoffman family of nine children. William Ferguson walked down from South Fork to-day, following the line of the Pennsylvania road. He said that all the railroads from South Fork to the viaduct were swept away. The old Portage viaduct is gone. Part of the road known as the deep cut is half filled with earth and sand, and the tracks are lost. The mile and a half of tracks from Mineral Point to the cut is lost. A trestle work is being built where the deep cut bridge once stood. From the viaduct to South Fork he said was six miles. It will be three weeks before it will be open for travel, and months before it will be restored to its former stability.

The work of registration is going steadily on. Up to this evening there is about 21,000 registered and the list is still increasing.

The number of lost is placed now at 5,000 by those who held it would reach 10,000 a week ago. The conservative estimate is between 3,500 and 4,000. Up to date there have been 1,500 bodies discovered.

It was condemned and danger signals placed near it, but as a matter of safety the authorities ordered it demolished. At an important meeting here this afternoon, at which Governor Beaver, Adjutant-General Hastings and others were present, a general discussion of the situation was had. Chinn McCreery, of the relief committee, said he thought it was time the relief committee were relieved of the work of clearing away the debris, by the state. The governor said that all necessary morey could be raised; that there were 200 men who would become responsible for $5,000 each; that he would give his bond to the state treasurer for $1,000,000 with those of the 200 men as his bondsmen, and the of the 200 men as his bondsmen, and the state treasurer would then pay out $1,000,000 for necessary work. When the legislature met the money withdrawn from the treasury could be appropriated. He said the money already subscribed should be entirely used for the said the money already subscribed should be entirely used. already subscribed should be entirely used for the relief of the sufferers, and the money from the state treasurer would be used for storing the vicinity to its condition before the flood. The governor has $240,000 in his hands now for the relief fund. CHIEF ARTHUR EXPLAINS.

He Says He Has Been Misrepresented by the Associated Press. Boston, Mass., June 9.- | Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-A large secret meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was held this evening, with delegates present from all the New England sections. Other delegates were present also from New York and New Jersey. Chief Arthur presided. While all proceedings were secret, it is known that it was very lively, and no sooner had it been called to order than a dozen delegates were on their feet demanding of Mr. Arthur the reason of his alleged speech made in Chicago, asserting that emphatically that he ever said such a thing, claiming that the Associated press has pur-posely misrepresented him throughout the country. This announcement was received with cheers. The men on the numerous roads leading from Boston are greatly dis satisfied with both their time and pay. tremendous heavy suburban passenger and general freight business makes the former very excessive. They will shortly demand a number of concessions from all the eight roads leading from Boston, and it looks as if a big strike is threatened.

The removal of the canvas covering the statue was the signal for deafening cheers. The ceremonies were witnessed by the syndic of Rome, the government officials and large numbers of senators and deputies Deputy Bovio, in an oration, culogized the martyr, and declared there was now a religion of free thought and a liberty of con-science which would be worse for the papacy than its loss of temporal power. The ceedings throughout were orderly. The memory of Garibaldi was honored with imposing ceremony at the capitol to-day.

A BAD MISTAKE. The Gory and Slashed Clothing Was

Not Cronin's. CHICAGO, June 9 .- A bad mistake seems to have been made by the police and other interested persons regarding the bloody clothes reported last night as those worn by Dr Cronin when he last left his office. The fact is now proved that the slashed and gory gar ments were not Cronin's at all, but belong to Albert Herzog, a barber who committed sui-cide about five weeks ago. After the under-taker cut the clothes off the corpse he threw them into an ash barrel, where they were found by a scavenger.

AN AMNESTY PROCLAMATION.

Pardon Soon Expected For All Army Deserters.

WHAT CAN THE MATTER BE?

The Annual Loss to the Service Almost Beyond Belief-Changes Expected in the Treasury Department.

WASHINGTON BUREAU, THE OMAHA BRE, 513 FOURTEENTS STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., June 9.

There seems to be good reasons for the benef that President Harrison will shortly issue a second "general amnesty" proclamation, granting pardon to all deserters from the army. The annual loss to the service from this cause is almost beyond belief, and the best minds at headquarters are constantly trying to formulate some plan which will bring the number of deserters down to the minimum. Referring to the subject, Colonel H. R. Misener, Seventeenth infantry, commanding the post at Fort D. A. Russell, savs:

"Good soldiers do not desert the service, and no better soldiers can be found than in this command. Old soldiers very rarely desert, desertions being generally confined recruits. With all the comforts, recreations and indulgencies in this garrison there have been nine desertions from this command this month, all without just cause. All the talk about young men being disgusted by the brutality or the coarseness of the old soldiers is simply rot. As a rule, old soldiers give the new ones their first lessons in decency. The youngest men are proverbially the worst."

It is said that in spite of Colonel Miseiner's views and the fact that the army and navy are recruited from the same class of citizens, there are 90 per cent more desertions from the former than from the latter arm of the service. Desertion is the great curse of the army, and one of the most unpleasant fea-tures of the whole thing is that the fortures of the whole thing is that the foreign-born recruits stick more closely to their duties than the native American. At least three-fifths of the army are of foreign birth, but scarcely half of the descreters are. The question has puzzled the war department officials more than a little, but, so far, no remedy or, for that matter, no reason has been given why this state of affairs exists.
The president's proclamation will remove the cloud which now hangs over thousands of young men, but whether that will act as an incentive to more desertions is a question army officers are unable to answer.

army officers are unable to answer, A SINGULAR FATALITY. A SINGULAR FATALITY.

It is discovered that in the new revised army regulations, which the war department has been distributing, the payment of troops monthly has been omitted, a reform which Paymaster-General Rochester worked hard to secure and which he finally had adopted by the war department. It is said at the war department that the omission was due to the hurried manner in which the work was prepared, and the general dispowork was prepared, and the general disposition seems to be to throw all the blame on the government printing office. But as "no the government printing office. But as "no copy" of this important reform in the army was ever sent to the government printer, it is singular, to say the least, how any blame can be attached to him. A sort of fatality has attended the issuing of these regulations. It took a board of officers at least three years to get them in shape. They were approved by the war department and ordered to be printed and since them there has been noth. printed, and since then there has been nothing but a succession of blunders. Twice they were run through the press, only to he would never countenance another make the discovery that some important matter was left out and the matter had to be corrected accordingly.

CHANGES EXPECTED.

It is expected that there will be several important changes in the treasury depart-ment during the remaining days of the cur-rent menth, and that the president will aprent month, and that the president will announce several important appointments in this branch of the government service during the present week. One of the changes expected is the appointment of a successor of the present director of the mint, and the current opinion is that Director Kimball will be superseded by his present assistant, Captain Leach. The former director was Mr. Burchard, of Illinois. He held that under the law he could not be disturbed until under the law he could not be disturbed until the expiration of his term, which he asserted is fixed at six years, but the Cleveland ad-ministration took a contrary view, and there is no reason why President Harrison should not be equally prompt in finding a republican to fill the place. The democratic bureau chiefs still in the treasury dephrtment are Third Auditor Williams, Register Rosecrans, Director of the Mint Kimball, Superintendent Thorne, of the coast survey; Commissioner of Navigagation Morton, Mr. Bonnett, chief of the gation Morton, Mr. Bonnett, chief of the revenue marine division; Major Kritz, chief of the mail division, and Mr. Switzer, chief of the bureau of statistics. It is said that all of these gentlemen, with the possible exception of Third Auditor Williams, will be relieved by republicans by or before the 1st of July. Mr. Williams may retain his office for a longer term and may possibly not be disturbed at all because of his friendly relations with the president. There are now vacant with the president. There are now vacant two very important positions under the inter-state department caused by the resignation of Commissioners Stockslager and Oberly, of the land and Indian offices, respectively. It is thought both these places will be filled this week. Iowa expects to get the former and it is generally thought that the latter will ge to Rhode Island. PERRY S. HEATH.

A FEMALE HORSETHIEF.

Mrs. Laura Rose Developes an Illegal Equine Fancy.

St. Joseph, Mo., June 9 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. |- The second case in this part of the country, of horse stealing by a woman, occurred in St. Joseph a few days ago, when Mrs. Laura Rose, forty years of age, drove off a horse and buggy hitched in front of a store on one of the most prominent thoroughfares of the city, and got away as far as Weston, Mo., before it was known where she was. She was arrested in Sabetha, Kan., on Saturday on information furnished by the chief of the St. Joseph police, and is now lodged in jail here. She is a small woman, with an unnaturally deprayed looking face; and who gives, as her motive, a wish to have her history known to humanitarians. According to her state ment her life has been a succession of hard-ships, due to an unfortunate marriage, and she has been driven by sheer desperation to having her case put before the public by this escapade. The first case of this kind occurred in Kansas City, a short time ago, the culprit now being in the penitentiary.
