Sworn to before me and subscribed to in my presence this 15th day of June, 1890. N. P. FEIL, Notary Public.

An elastic trust has been formed. It certainly will have an elastic course.

Now for a free railroad bridge. Compared with it, all other enterprises are insignificant.

There are a few quarter sections left in Illinois which have not been annexed to Chicago. East St. Louis is yet beyond the pale.

The Chippewa outbreak in Minnesota promises a liberal harvest of good Indians. White lead possesses a feverish affection for redskins.

In Missouri a bank president has been jailed for receiving deposits after his bank was insolvent. Nebraska state bank officials should profit by this example.

Now let the property owners who were awaiting the location of the new postoffice carry out their promises by the immediate erection of palatial buildings.

Now that the negotiations between the northwestern railroads and the lake routes have fallen through, the railroad horizon is likely to be soon ablaze with a lurid war.

Next to the development of the Wyoming petroleum fields is a pipe line to Omaha. Within a decade the fuel problem will be permanently solved for this vicinity.

Some of our "finest" would earn the gratitude of our citizens if they would bag some of the burglars about the city instead of trying to trap liquor dealers into breaking the laws.

An establishment for the manufacture of electric appliances is promised to Omaha. Such a factory would have a large field before it and would be an important addition to our industries.

Massachusetts has the superintended of Indian schools, Rhode Island has the commissioner and the great west has the Indians. This is a settlement of the Indian question highly satisfactory to the east.

The Union Pacific bridge can be duplicated for six hundred thousand dollars. The construction of a free railroad bridge would add ten millions to the industrial prosperity of Omaha in less than three years.

The counties and towns of northern Nebraska are voting liberal subsidies for the proposed link between Yankeetown and Norfolk. What does Omaha intend to do in securing a direct railroad connection to the north.

This coal dealer of the city complains that the ordinance regulating the sale of coal is excessive and burdensome. But it is difficult to see how this can happen, unless it be so only by comparison with the weight of the average ton of coal sold.

The business men of Omaha have seen how easily thousands of visitors can be attracted by the success of the fireman's tournament at Council Bluffs. Now is the time to take an active interest in the preparations for the merchants' carnival this fall.

The recent expedition of Omaha capitalists to the Wyoming oil fields verifies the claims of THE BEE that their development will play an important part in the industrial evolution of the west.

SENATOR ALLISON'S return home indicates that for the present, at least, the senatorial committee investigating our relations with Canada has suspended the taking of testimony. The committee certainly needs a recess.

A FRIEND OF THE BANKS.

The new comptroller of the currency, Mr. Lacey, is a strong friend of the National banking system. He believes that the interests of both the people and the government require that the system shall be maintained, and he loses no opportunity to impress this view upon members of congress, and particularly those from the west.

The question of new legislation for the national banks will in all probability engage the attention of the next congress, but it can not be said at present with any degree of certainty what the dominating sentiment regarding them will be.

Now that the negotiations between the northwestern railroads and the lake routes have fallen through, the railroad horizon is likely to be soon ablaze with a lurid war.

THE SITE SELECTED.

The new federal building has been definitely located on the site that was originally designated for this purpose by Mrs. Grover Cleveland.

Now that improvements are so likely to get around the Planters' house square as the result of the site selected? Who will build anything worth looking at in that vicinity? Father-in-law Cronous may possibly expend five hundred dollars in fresh painting his block.

We expect, of course, that our contemporaries who oppose everything that THE BEE favors, no matter how beneficial to Omaha, will say that the selection of the site is a black eye to THE BEE.

time in getting to the new postoffice, when it is completed five or six years hence.

THE BRIDGE BLOCKADE.

The details of the failure of the Milwaukee road to obtain access to Omaha over the Union Pacific bridge, as published in THE BEE, are substantially correct. The information came from a reliable source. Denials are useless.

It is a notorious fact that the Milwaukee road has always been friendly to Omaha. It broke down the Iowa railroad combine and did more than any one agency to advance the interests of the Omaha stockyards.

Does any reasonable man suppose that the Milwaukee company would undertake the construction of a bridge and purchase right-of-way into the heart of the city, involving an expenditure of at least three million dollars, if reasonable terms could be secured from the Union Pacific? The truth is that the Union Pacific bridge is responsible for the rainbow railroads which to-day menace the prosperity of Omaha on every side.

THE repair of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal apparently is more of a political than an industrial necessity. For years this ancient and obsolete waterway has been maintained more or less at the expense of the state, for the benefit of the German faction.

AND so it appears that the civil service commission is likely to swing around the circle and look into the management of the postoffices at Indianapolis, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Omaha and St. Louis. If it be the purpose of the commission to see to it that every postoffice be conducted with the closest reference to the spirit as well as the letter of the civil service law, there is going to be considerable work on hand clearing out the Augean stables.

OTHER LANDS THAN OURS.

The recent utterance of Lord Salisbury regarding the menacing outlook of affairs in Europe, although regarded as an exaggeration, finds some warrant from a close examination of the present aspect of political affairs.

SENATOR CULLUM, who is chairman of the senate committee investigating railway relations with Canada, states that he has made up his mind that ultimately Canada and the United States will have to inaugurate an arrangement corresponding to the present interstate law.

Now that improvements are so likely to get around the Planters' house square as the result of the site selected? Who will build anything worth looking at in that vicinity? Father-in-law Cronous may possibly expend five hundred dollars in fresh painting his block.

It has turned out that what was first put forward more in jest than in earnest has come to pass in Pennsylvania. The Johnstown disaster has put a serious damper upon the canvass in that state on the prohibition amendment to be submitted to the people on the 18th.

and the right of Prince Victor, and this new right of Don Carlos; of late, too, it has been hinted that there are rights in the family of Lucien Bonaparte, and nobody is ignorant of the right of General Boulanger. There is also a proper to remind one's self, a right of France which is now almost exactly one hundred years old.

Between Switzerland and Germany a marked coolness now exists. The German government, ever since the bomb explosion in Zurich, has been quite uneasy over the fact that so many German socialists are at large in Switzerland.

He was the oldest inhabitant of the island, having lived there from the time that the band was dispersed.

Judge Rucker, of Colorado, is again talking about Senator Jo Blackburn. He said to a New York reporter: "Blackburn, who was drunk when he made his attack upon me, afterward contradicted himself so palpably that he became my best witness. I have left him to the ridicule of the public."

Robert Louise Stevenson, the well-known novelist, who is at present in Honolulu Sandwich Islands, will start on another voyage to the South seas about the middle of the present month. The trading schooner Equator will visit Honolulu about June 15 and will sail with Mr. Stevenson direct to the Marshall islands in the South Pacific.

Al Brice will almost certainly be made chairman of the Democratic National Committee at its meeting to be held this week in New York. A leading democrat tells the New York World "Colonel Brice has assured him that Mr. Cleveland is his candidate for 1892, and they will make Brice chairman as a part of their programme."

Kinglake, the historian, author of "The History of the Invasion of the Crimea," is seriously ill, and his age precludes his recovery. Kinglake, who a young man, was a suitor for the hand of a Mrs. Howard, a rich London widow. The widow preferred to receive the attentions of Louis Napoleon Bonaparte, afterwards emperor of France.

WANTS HIS STAKES.

Parmelee's Victim, "Kid" Baker. The want of "Kid" Baker to recover $500 stake money from Groody Brucker, which was tried some months ago by Judge Shields, has been instituted anew in the district court.

On December 31 of last year, Baker shot Frank Parmelee a match of blue rocks on the Omaha Gun club grounds for $500 a side. Parmelee was declared the winner and Brucker, who had been chosen stake-holder, turned the money over to him. Baker claimed that he had been defrauded, and three days later made a demand of Brucker for his $500, but the latter refused to surrender the funds.

Frank Murray was the judge selected by Baker. He and Kennedy took John Petty for referee. Kennedy, being interested, continues the story, "fraudulently conspired with the referee to defraud and cheat plaintiff out of $500. During the progress of the shooting match when I was in the arena, I was misled by the referee, Kennedy and Petty, who had decided that he had hit it; but when Baker shot and Murray allowed it, unless the referee was in the way, Kennedy and Petty decided against him."
