The fire department was called to Tenth avenue and Sixteenth street yesterday morn-ing about 3:30 o'clock, to extinguish a fire in a small wooden building recently put up and occupied as a saloon. The building and contents were a total loss. Burglars attempted to enter the grocery peace disturbers appeared in police court yesterday morning, as the final send-off of the tournament. They had been having an immense amount of fun and took their antidote with very good grace. Nearly $100 dropped into the city treasury. Four men, living at the corner of Avenue A and Twelfth street, got into an altercation yesterday morning and indulged in a free-for-all fight, in which their clothes were nearly all torn from their bodies. They were a tough looking set when hauled before Judge Aylesworth, who assessed them $10.60 In the district court, yesterday, Judge Car-

It behooves property owners and citizens generally to remember that the garg of crooks attracted to the city by the tournament are still here, and are only waiting a favorable opportunity to turn the city upside down before taking their departure. The large number of special police put on during the tournament have been discharged, and the crooks will undoubtedly profit by it to right and left. Extreme vigilance is urged for several days.

E. S. Fagely was towed in yesterday morning for raising a disturbance on an electric motor train. He was drunk and the conductor refused to receive his fare. He was put off the train, but again climbed on, and was making it interesting, when Officer Beswick took a hand and the game was ended. Fagely was convicted of grand larceny in the district court a short time ago, and Judge Thornell released him on condition that he paid half of his wages to his wife. He agreed to do so, but has not kept his word, and is drinking as hard as ever.

THE DAILY BEE. ALL ARE GLAD IT IS OVER.

Points-Brief News

Allowed to Rob.

The firemen's tournament has come and gone, and only a few of the decorations are left to tell the story, and call attention to the fact that something of unusual importance has just transpired. Nearly all of the visiting firemen have gone home, but a few still remain to finish up their sight-seeing, although the greater number of even the stragglers left on last evening's trains. The greater part of the decorations on the business houses were removed yesterday, but the bunting put up by the tournament committee, still flutters in the breeze, or hangs limp in the soaking rains and drips a gory looking fluid on the passers-by. Everybody is tired out and glad that it is over, more especially the business men of the city. They say that scarcely any money was spent in their places of business by the visitors, although it was expected that trade would be very materially increased during the tournament. In view of the wholesale and bare-faced robberies perpetrated at the park every day of the tournament, it is not at all surprising that the merchants should make this complaint. On the contrary, it would have been little less than a miracle had there been an increase in business, as the visitors were mercilessly and systematically robbed of everything they tically robbed of everything they possessed by the gang of thieves and confidence sharks operating at the park by the leave and good will of the authorities that be. The sentiment of the citizens at large regarding this feature of the tourna-ment is one of the strongest condemnation and the prevailing opinion expressed is that it was a terrible disgrace to the city, as well as one of the most shameless outrages ever perpetrated. The majority of the city and county officials, the judiciary, police and general public units in denouncing it in the most unmeasured terms. Why it was tolerated is something that no one can understand. Said Judge Aylesworth yesterday, in speaking of the matter: "I have heard for years that the park was not a paying institution, and I have often wondered why it was so. After seeing the shameful practices that have been carried on there uninterruptedly for the past three days I have been able to understand it, and I am now positive that the sole cause for it is the fact that the park is overrun by thieves and gamblers, and it will never be a paying enterprise so long as this continues to be the case. Respectable people should not and will not patronize it. As to the manner in which the affairs were conducted during the tournament, little need be said, as those in attendance could not help but notice it, and for the good of the city the matter should not be paraded be-fore outsiders. When I first visited the park on Wednesday and saw the course af-fairs were taking, I was disposed to take steps to put a stop to the proceedings, but on thinking the matter over carefully I con-cluded to let some one else make the move, as I was not an executive officer. Why it was allowed to go on as it did I can not un derstand, and I deeply regret, as must every good citizen, that the officials suffered it to continue unmolested.

"It made me think of early days here, the only thing lacking being a half dozen men hanging to the neighboring trees. Splendid material for harging was right there on the ground, but popular indignation was not roused to the proper pitch for it. Never in the history of Council Bluffs was a tougher crowd of blacklegs of all descriptions as-sembled here than plied their lawless business at the park, almost under the protection of the officials who should have prose cuted them. It is asserted that these offi-cials were decidedly interested in the result of these games, but of the truth of these allegations I know nothing. For some reason no arrests were made, and the crooks were not interfered with."

A weil-known gambler of the city ex-pressed himself as follows: "I have been all over this country, and in many a tough place and hard crowd, but in my whole life I never saw anything that would equal the There were between sixty and seventy games, and each one had from one to a dozen cappers, so that there were ut the least cappers. culation over 500 men engaged in the one work of robbing the people who visited the grounds. They were not ordinary gamblers, grounds. They were not ordinary gamblers, but all around crooks and hard men, among them being some of the most desperate crimmals in the country. I have no sympathy with those who played the games and lost their stuff, for they were every bit as bad as the fellows who run the games. They thought they saw a chance to roll the other follow, who pretended to be drunk, and they somealed when they were caucht, in the net. squealed when they were caught in the net. Each was trying to roll the other, and get Each was trying to roll the other, and get something for nothing. I acknowledge that I am a gambler, but am heartily ashamed of the doings at the park. I would not be a party to such robberies as were those perpetrated by consent of men who claim to be eminently respectable. The poor fools who lost their money are not deserving of any sympathy. They would not for the world tackle an ordinary gambling same where the chances are fairly even, for game where the chances are fairly even, for fear they would be skinned, but they could not get money down fast enough in these games which were dead sure to fleece them. They thought those fellows were foois and out for their health, but they probably changed their minds as they counted the ties on their way home, and thought the matter over. They sold the gambling privilege sim-ply to protect themselves. For this reason they ask the public to overlook their action in the matter. Whether or not the public will accept the explanation as a sufficient excuse for allowing the wholesale robbery of hundreds and thousands of the city's guests remains to be seen."

The Tournament Receipts. The financial result of the tournament has not been figured out yet, but the management states that those who took stock in it and pledged the required amount, will come out just about even. The receipts will pay all expenses, but will not pay a very large dividend. Several outside parties are of the opinion that there will be a nice little sum to be divided, basing their belief on the attendance at the park during the three days' races. The management vouchsafes the information that a very small number outside of those from this city and Omaha paid for admission. It is stated that the visitors from abroad managed to nearly all get in free. Members of visiting fire companies would give a badge, belt or cap to a friend, and that would take him in free. For this reason the recommendation is made by the committee that the proper way is to refuse admittance to all except firemen in full uniform, thus putting a stop to the samuggling at the gate, indulged in during the past week. It will undoubtedly during the past week. It will undoubtedly be a long time, however, before the sugges-tion can be carried out at another firemen's tournament in the Bluffs.
