

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Last Night's Meeting More Than Usually Interesting.

THE ELECTION OF TEACHERS.

Adoption of a Resolution Ordering an Investigation into the Reports Concerning Miss Harris - Other Business.

Selecting the Teachers.

The board of education met last night. Present, Messrs. McConnell, Kelley, Parmelee, Coburn, Spaulding, Wehring, Rees, Morrison, Millard, Sholes and President Clark.

The secretary was instructed to forward money to New York to pay interest on school bonds.

Superintendent James was called on for any report he might have to make. He replied that he only wished to suggest to the board a scheme for selecting teachers which he had seen in operation in Wooster, Mass., and Denver, Colo.

Several applications were received for the positions of janitors. Referred to the committee on heating and ventilation.

A proposition was received from H. H. Dodge, of Chicago, to put Venetian blinds in the school buildings. Referred to committee on building.

A letter was received from J. W. Connell concerning the right of private property for school purposes. He stated that in his opinion the board had no such power, as it was not conveyed by specific mention in the city charter.

Another communication was received from Mr. Connell, stating that owing to his continued absence from the city it would be impossible for him to act as attorney for the board in the future.

The bill of J. Webster for $100 for services rendered as attorney, in the matter of the issuance of bonds, was received and referred to the committee on finance.

The matter of the election of teachers was then taken up. On motion of Dr. Spaulding, the custom of having substitute teachers was discontinued.

It has been customary to have two teachers on duty at the secretary's office every day, and when a substitute was required one of these teachers would be sent out. Mr. Spaulding thinks a list may be prepared from the list of teachers who have passed the required examination, and when a substitute is required one of those on this list may be taken, thus saving the board the salary paid the teachers when they are not employed teaching.

In motion of Mr. Rees the matter of electing special teachers was laid over. In support of this motion Mr. Rees said he thought the board had no authority to bind the new board in any way.

A resolution adopted at the last meeting was then read, which provided that the secretary should prepare a list of all the teachers in the employ of the board and should furnish each member with a copy. That the secretary should read the list, and upon any objection which is required of any member thereon, it should be checked off. After the entire list had been read, those which had been checked off should be balloted for in regular order, and those which had not been checked off should be balloted for separately.

The reading of the list then proceeded under this resolution. The principals and assistants were read in the order of the high school were on a sheet by themselves. This list was read first. The principals and assistants were read in the order of the high school were on a sheet by themselves. This list was read first. The principals and assistants were read in the order of the high school were on a sheet by themselves.

Another list was then taken up, which contained the names of the teachers who were in the employ of the board during the year just past, with the following exceptions: At the high school, Mary Harris; Castellani, Emma E. Derker; Center, Anna; Weiler; Dodge, Fannie Blanchard; Farnam, Mary E. Thompson; Forest, Cora B. Smith; Hickory, Fannie E. Day; Kline, M. J.; Saratoga, Priscilla A. Ward; Minnie E. Hendry; Anna M. Bigler; Sherman, Cassie A. Utzer; West Omaha, Anna J. Faherty; DeWitt, Annie Neenan.

On motion of Mr. McConnell the name of Annie Noon was placed on the list. No other motion was made to add to or take from the list and the election proceeded. All the teachers on the list were declared elected.

Morris Morrison moved that the names of the teachers who were not on the list be set aside, and that the list furnished was not complete as it did not contain the names of all the teachers. Under a resolution of the meeting the members were to be furnished with a full list of teachers in the employ of the board, and each member was to make off such names as he had on his list. One name had been dropped from the high school list and he thought it was not fair to drop this teacher without giving her a hearing.

A chair decided that the ballot had been taken in regular form and must stand. The committee on buildings was authorized to make certain repairs in buildings during the summer.

EVIDENCE OF A COLLISION.

Floating Wreckage of Three Ocean Steamers Picked Up. VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., June 24.—For several days there have been evidences of some ocean disaster in the washing ashore on these islands of wreckage. To-day a bundle of women's clothing was picked up on the beach at Edgartown, and a life preserver that came from the City of Rome was also found. Considerable wreckage painted green and slate color is coming ashore on the island. Among that found at Smith Point to-day were gilt molding in considerable quantities, one large door with three ground glass circular top lights, one window sash, evidently belonging to some steamer, and also steamer Victoria bills of lading. Wine cards of the steamship Haytien Republic were washed ashore at Nantucket to-day. Everything pointing to a collision between the Victoria and the Haytien Republic, though the life preservers belonging to the City of Rome adds to the mystery enveloping the supposed disaster.

BYLER GOT SATISFACTION.

It Was Dealt Out to Him in Large Doses by a Bartender. "Don't give him a thing; not a thing." "I suppose I can buy a drink if I want to, can't I?" "Not in this house. You can not have anything."

All right. Then there was a pause. "Well, have something with me," said the man who first vetoed the order at the bar. It was John W. Byler, and he was under the influence, etc.

"This is a friend of mine," he continued, addressing the bartender at the Paxton hotel yesterday evening. The gentleman in the starched linen was Steve Crowe. He is a modest, unassuming man, but since he has been taken out of the city he has whipped a crowd of fourteen men in Chicago, people with pugilistic tendencies in Omaha have studiously left him alone.

"This man here," continued Byler, "but I used to know him in Pennsylvania." He spoke of the gentleman whom he first refused a lemonade.

Then the two renewed acquaintance and punished several large drinks. Finally Byler's funds ran out and they drank another bowl or two at his friend's expense.

"I've been full for three days," said Byler, who, by the way, figured in a scandal a few weeks ago in which a Iowa female stenographer was a party of the second part, "and I don't believe ever was drunk in my life as I was at Council Bluffs yesterday."

Well, yesterday he and his Pennsylvania friend from the mountains, continued Byler, "they drank, shook dice, etc., and finally he asked Steve Crowe for $5. It seems he had been doing some legal business for Crowe, but he didn't do it such a bingle, some way that Crowe remarked, 'If I were a lawyer I'd attend to my business in the day time, at least. If I wanted to get drunk, I'd do it at night, or when I got through work.'"

"What do you know about it, you ———— sucker? If you say anything to me I'll put a hole in your head." "You will?" asked Crowe, and he ran out from behind the bar.

"If you make any threats against my life again I'll kick the stumps out of you," said Crowe.

The two were separated and Crowe started to return behind the bar, when Byler made some other snuffing remark. Crowe returned and the two clinched. Byler was thrown against the bar and his head rested on the floor. Still no damage was done and no blood spilled. Then the two got on their feet again and Crowe struck Byler four times, when Byler pulled a derringer from his pocket and grabbed his hand; so did another spectator.

"Don't you shoot," said the only other spectator present, Byler's friend having escaped.

The men were then separated, and Byler, a little the worse for wear, was let out of the hotel.

After an hour later he returned, after taking another series of bowls. What then occurred is needless to particularize on. He had been relieved of his revolver, and returned for satisfaction. He got it. When he started around the bar after Crowe, the latter met him, and the blood stains on the floor and the blood on Byler's head were as fresh as when they got through with him. Dr. Lee devoted half an hour to the lawyer's case, and then he was taken to his home, where he is recovering from "satisfaction," resembling the railroad man of Nebraska.

Sam Small's Audience Too Small.

About a dozen persons turned out last evening to hear the well known temperance talker, Sam Small, and, as the lecturer himself expressed it, he "did not care to lecture merely to pay hall rent," so the talk was discontinued until the following week, when he decided to give all his lectures free hereafter in Omaha, and says that if he "can't make any money for the Open Door, he can at least do some good."

Three Firemen Appointed.

The fire and police commissioners held a meeting yesterday evening for the purpose of selecting three firemen to be added to the fire department's force at Saunders street. There were six applicants for the three positions. George Anderson, R. S. McCarty and L. W. Head were the successful applicants.

THE NEWS IN THE BLUFFS.

The Barbers' Sunday Closing Proclamation Postponed.

DOINGS IN THE DISTRICT COURT.

Another Chapter in the Gladwin Case.—Rain Can Not Dampen Chautauqua Enthusiasm—Pets of the Police.

The Barbers Postpone Prosecution. The barbers were all on hand yesterday morning when the appointed time for the trial of the Sunday cases rolled around. The court was present, but some of the attorneys were not present, and an adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Enthusiastic Chautauquans. Monday morning opened rather dimly for the Chautauqua grounds. A heavy rain descended on early in the morning, rendering it anything but pleasant getting about the grounds during the day.

The attention was very fair considering the fact that the program was carried through without a break, as originally planned. In the city many expressions of pity were heard for the "unfortunates" who were crowded out of the so-called fortunes were in no need of sympathy. They enjoyed their location and their general condition of things, and as the weather was so warm, the damage vanished to the wind.

The evening sermon, Sunday, preached by Rev. J. C. W. Cox, D. D., of Washington, D. C., was a most interesting and inspiring one. The speaker pursued the same course as his morning discourse, "What Think Ye of Christ?" was in nothing behind the effort of the bishop who preached in the morning.

the Northwestern yards have been continued until the August term, and the witnesses dismissed until that time. There are so many jail cases, where the parties indicted are confined in jail, that the court deemed it best to thus dispose of a few cases which would require at least a week for trial and where the defendants are out on bail.

Picked Up by the Police.

A more varied grist was ground out in the police court yesterday morning than for some time previously. In addition to the drunks and rags, of which there were several, there were a number who were charged with more serious offenses.

Fred Stone, a rapid young man from Gotham, paid $7.50 for disturbing the peace. Sadie Card, the excitable prostitute who created such a lively disturbance Sunday evening in the vicinity of the deaf and dumb institute, was fined $15.00, and D. Roberts, one of the men who was with her, was mulcted to the tune of $10.00 to pay for his experience.

J. H. Grade was let off with a fine of $7.00. Grade and Tom O'Brien were arrested for disturbing the peace Sunday night, and both were tried for the offense. The testimony was to the effect that O'Brien acted wholly on the defensive, and he was accordingly discharged.

Charles Hicks was another peace disturber, and he was given $20 worth of "Maggie Stewart," a cadaverous looking female, was charged with haunting houses of ill-fame, but she denied it and claimed to be a domestic. The court declared that her story would not wash, and let her down for $10.00. John Dempsey was charged with being unduly familiar with the festive Maggie, but as he denied that he had ever been in her matrimonial ties, the charge of adultery was deemed a little premature, and John's case was continued.

Charles Young was booked for stealing two rings from the person of a fast young woman, who swore out a warrant for his arrest. The case was heard by Squire Schurz, who bound the prisoner over to the grand jury for the sum of $500, which was too much for his pocketbook and he went to jail.

Constipation.

If not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.'s Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, and after having tried various remedies, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them. G. W. Bowman, 22 East Main St., Carlisle, Pa."

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills, with good results. I fully endorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."—T. Conners, M. D., Centre Bridge, Pa.
