

PREPARATIONS FOR LEAVING

The Commission Concludes Its Labors at Pine Ridge. A Kick Against Rations. Many Justifiable Complaints Made by the Indians of the Manner in Which Beef Contracts are Carried Out.

About Through With Pine Ridge. PINE RIDGE AGENCY, Dak. (via Rushville, Neb.) June 26.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The commission has concluded to leave here for the lower Brule agency as soon as their special car is returned from Niobrara, where it went to take Governor Foster to the Santos agency. This will be tomorrow, or certainly Friday. The commission feels that it has done all in its power here, and the few signatures now being obtained do not justify them to remain longer. It had been hoped to break the strong combination of Indians against the bill, but this now seems impossible. As stated in these dispatches, it is well known that a secret and powerful influence has been exercised upon these Indians, and while surmises can be given, it is impossible to get at the facts, although much patience and frankness has been used. General Crook frankly admits this to be one of the most unsatisfactory cases in his Indian experience.

Red Cloud, on his return from Washington, called a secret council and had the Indians pledge themselves in the most solemn manner to work against the bill after listening to his talk. He also wanted to leave $12,000 out of the $25,000 he is to receive for his services with Dr. Hland, of the council fire, as his share (helping to get the bill through and to pay for his efforts to defeat this land bill, and $2,000 to an attorney. The remaining $14,000 he wished to pay to W. J. Pollock to become attorney for all the Sioux, and wanted two couriers, with petitions, to be sent to the different agencies to obtain the signatures of the head men to this effect, and his own signature to the effect that the other Indians had not lost their ponies and the money was theirs and he had nothing to do with the land.

Pollock, in answer to a letter to Red Cloud, was to have been here yesterday. He has stated, as their attorney, that he could keep their money in safe custody, but failed to make his appearance. Up to the present time 500 have signed, about fifty over one-half of the three-fourths needed. It is fully admitted that nine-tenths of the 250 absent with Buffalo Bill and other shows would sign in favor of the bill.

Major Wagoner, who came to talk in the afternoon with Red Cloud to-day, but it was an unsatisfactory one. The wild old chief was very pleasant in his conversation, but would make no definite answers to anything concerning the bill.

To-day was to have been a big issue day, but the issue failed to take place owing to the absence of cattle. This being the last issue in the present fiscal year and many cattle had been taken to the reservation, it induces a shortage. The new contractors have not yet begun to put in the new supply. It is a great disappointment to a very large number of the Indians, and many of them who had come out to see the issue. American Horse bitterly scored the beef contracts, and would make no definite answers to anything concerning the bill.

Millionaire Corcoran's Heirs Selling the Beautiful Homestead. THE ARISTOCRACY SHOCKED. It Will Bring the Highest Price of Any Residence Property Ever Sold in Washington—Postmaster's Salaries Readjusted. WASHINGTON HERALD, THE OMAHA BEE, & SIA FOURTEENTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C. June 26.

The old aristocracy of Washington are considerably excited over the conduct of the heirs and trustees of the Corcoran estate in cutting up into building lots and advertising for sale the beautiful grounds that surround the mansion of the late philanthropist. Mr. Corcoran owned the finest house in Washington. It stands opposite the white house across Lafayette square, and is inclosed within a high brick wall. He had a park that covered nearly eight blocks—some of the largest blocks in the city. This ground was precious to him, and he greatly enjoyed it. The flowers and trees were his especial delight, and most of his mornings during mild weather were spent wandering about his grounds and sitting upon his lawn.

The property is inherited by his two granddaughters, Mrs. William C. and Miss Lulu Estlin, aged somewhere from twenty to twenty-five years. They do not appear to reverence the old mansion, as many of Mr. Corcoran's old friends and neighbors do, and within a few months after his death sold their circle of intimate acquaintances by advertising it for sale, but it is not a house easily rented. The rooms are few in number, but very large, and were arranged for the use of the childless old widower, who needed only rooms enough for himself and his attendants. Now the heirs have decided to convert the place into small lots and sell them on the market. Being situated in the most desirable portion of the city they will probably bring the highest price of any residence property ever sold here.

that such a plan would involve unnecessary delay and greatly discommodate the business of the country. It would be very desirable to carry out the proposition. It is learned that an understanding was arrived at whereby the mails will be continued as usual.
