DIED IN THE TOWER.

The Unaccountable Suicide of an Exemplary Laborer. Yesterday afternoon, shortly after 3 o'clock, the lifeless body of James Gallagher, was found hanging in the tower of the American Water Works company's building at Florence. The discovery was made by a couple of men who had been engaged in putting in the system of electric light which is to illuminate the building. In the absence of Coroner Drexel, Deputy Sheriff Houck held the inquest, the jury, consisting of Messrs. Cowin, Wilkie, King, Walker, Baker and Grebe, returning a verdict that Gallagher had come to his death by hanging. There was little doubt of this fact, because the man was seen to climb the ladder to the tower was found with two coils around the unfortunate's neck and several coils of it around his arms. The body hung through a small aperture through which access was obtained to the interior of the highest compartment of the tower. The head was above the opening, and in endeavoring to ascend into the attic to cut down the remains, Mr. Baker, the coroner's representative, with difficulty forced his way beside the suicide's body. The neck was not broken; the victim had strangled, and the face, which was handsome and intelligent, was discolored. The deceased was thirty-seven years of age and had worked as a laborer at the waterworks since 1871, and as a cooper at South Omaha. He boarded at the house of J. F. Swamy, near the works. He was quiet and retiring in disposition and favorably impressed all who knew him. At midnight, he hid his own washing in the morning. He allowed himself to be shaved by a barber, later, and remarked that he felt that it was the first time he had allowed another razor to pass over his face. He ate dinner, blacked his boots and laid out, and no one suspected the man's death. It was not until it was later recalled that he had said he was prepared to die. On his person were found $2.00 in gold and a silver watch. There are $25.00 in the company's safe, which he had placed before he leaped. In the unfortunate's pockets were found a number of letters, one from Hannah Gallagher, of Highland, Kan., which was dated in 1884. Another was signed by Susie Gallagher, whose address was 3290 Lakewood. A third, probably from a sister, tells him to address 4234 Chappel Place, Chicago. A fourth is a sorrowful letter from a woman, and a fifth is a letter from a man, who were entirely dependent upon what they could receive from their children in this country. The remains lie at Drexel & Maul's.

Hughes, superintendent of the Black Hills division of the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley at Chadron, has been appointed general superintendent of the Elkhorn system, to succeed Halsey, resigned, the appointment taking effect to-day. Mr. Hughes is one of three superintendents from which THE BEE announced on Friday last the successor of Mr. Halsey would be chosen. It was at first decided to appoint Mahanna, of the Northwestern, to the general superintendency, but at a conference between General Superintendent of the Elkhorn system and the officials of the Northwestern held in Chicago Saturday, Mr. Hughes was decided upon.

Jolly Cigar Makers. The cigar makers' picnic at the Waterloo picnic grounds yesterday was a very gay affair, and the 300 persons who spent Sunday in the beautiful grove there, away from the heat of the city, had a very pleasant time. The train with the excursionists left the Union Pacific depot at 9:30 o'clock in the morning, and after an hour and a half's run arrived at Waterloo, where the day was spent in dancing and merry-making generally. Excellent music was furnished by members of the Omaha Guards' band. The return train left the picnic grounds at 7:00 o'clock in the evening, and made the trip to Omaha in one hour's time, landing its passengers safely without accident or mishap.

Home From the Convention. Dr. Dinsmore returned home Saturday night from St. Paul, where, after attending the trial of Hartigan, he took in the annual meeting of the American Institute of Homeopathy, held at the Lafayette hotel, Lake Minnetonka, as a delegate from Nebraska. Doctors W. H. Hanchett and Amelia Harbough, of Omaha; F. B. Richter, Lincoln, and A. L. Macomber, of Norfolk, were also there. Dr. Dinsmore says that it was the largest and most interesting meeting ever held by that society. There were nearly 800 delegates present, and most of them had their wives with them. In addition to business, they had an enjoyable time socially. On Thursday night the Manitoba railroad company gave them a magnificent banquet, and the people of both Minneapolis and St. Paul vied with each other to make the affair a pleasant one. In the election of officers for the ensuing year, Dr. A. L. Sawyer, of Michigan, was chosen president; C. G. Higby, of St. Paul, vice president; Pemberton Dudley, of Philadelphia, secretary, and E. M. Kellogg, of New York, treasurer. Dr. Dinsmore was elected to succeed Sawyer on the legislative committee, which is the first recognition Nebraska has ever received by that association.

Billed by an Employment Agent. One hundred and fifty Italians arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Chicago. They were put off the train by the conductor, and camped around the depot, not knowing where to go. Only a few of them speak English. They say they were hired by an employment agent in Chicago to go to Montana to work on a railroad. The agent collected $22 from each one, telling them that was the fare to Montana and back, and only had $16 or $17, which he accepted. The agent started from Chicago with the party, but soon disappeared. The depot policeman ordered them to move, and the entire party went out to the outskirts of town and went into camp.
