

THE DAILY BEE.

PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING. TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. Daily Morning Edition including Sunday...

CORRESPONDENCE. All communications relating to news and editorial matters should be addressed to the Editor of the Bee.

BUSINESS LETTERS. All business letters and remittances should be addressed to The Bee Publishing Company.

The Bee Publishing Company, Proprietors. E. ROSEWATER, Editor.

THE DAILY BEE. Sworn Statement of Circulation.

Table with columns for dates (Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday) and circulation numbers.

Average... 18,622. GEORGE B. TSCHUCK, sworn to before me and subscribed to in my presence this 30th day of June, A. D. 1889.

ROTTEN PAVEMENT JIM played a smooth confidence game on Mr. Lytle when he secured his signature to that protest. It was necessary to have an endorser to give it a flavor of honesty.

SIoux CITY is nothing if not ambitious. Reduced railroad rates are held out as inducements to visitors of the corn palace...

THE enforcement of the law giving the police the right to search any house suspected of selling liquor without a city license within the two mile limit is eminently proper in order to protect the saloon people of this city...

WOULD it not be wise for the chief of the fire department to inspect and condemn some of the large tinder boxes filled with inflammables and used as livery stables in thickly settled portions of the city?

THE report that Gerónimo and his band of Apaches were to be turned loose on the people of Arizona was without the slightest foundation of truth.

THE city council as a board of equalization, committed a serious blunder in raising assessed valuations without notifying property owners. It is a mistake to suppose that the council can exercise powers denied the county commissioners.

THE destinies of Omaha are closely bound up with the destiny of every town and city in Nebraska. Their growth and prosperity is Omaha's prosperity.

A COMBINATION of circumstances has lowered the pork packing record of Omaha for the month ending July 1 as compared with the corresponding time of last year.

REPUBLICAN PARTY PROSPECTS. Senator Justin S. Morrill, of Vermont, who has represented his state in the national senate for more than twenty years, takes an entirely hopeful view of the prospects of the republican party.

Senator Morrill finds that there are some perils in the front of the present administration. One is the administration of the civil service law, which he says must be administered with greater fidelity than by the last administration.

Another peril is the negro problem, which is regarded as of transcendent difficulty. "And not to be solved, perhaps, until a majority of the colored race become more thoroughly educated."

Another peril is the revenue and expenditure. Beyond doubt this will be done at an early day, and done wisely and temperately. The tariff will be so adjusted as to keep the great factory wheels in motion.

It appears from official records that the postal revenues of the government are larger now than ever before. It is estimated that for the fiscal year just closed they will exceed those of last year by about three million dollars.

Don't be uneasy. That census is still within reach. The footings show that the Republican delivers by carrier in the city of Omaha and South Omaha together 1,423 copies of the daily edition.

There is a chance for a delay of two years longer in the building of the city hall. There is a suit in the courts for fourteen thousand dollars by the Brennan Bros., which may last for this length of time if carried to the highest courts.

Some money is due the Brennans, certainly. It will be a good idea to settle on the amount and secure the withdrawal of the suit. If they will rebate interest on their claim it ought to be paid.

This is a brazen attempt to bolster up a claim which everybody in Omaha knows to be founded on fraud. The manifest object is to bleed the city under pretense that there is great danger of further delay in the erection of the city hall.

It is a transparent piece of juggling jobbery that should be nipped in the bud. The assertion that the city hall ruin must be preserved for several years just as Brennan & Co. have left them until the courts have reached a final decision upon their bogus claim is simply preposterous.

And why should any paper advise the council, with such absurd threats, to pay fourteen thousand dollars more to the Brennans? Is it not as plain as the nose on a man's face that Frank Johnson, who controls the utterances of the Republican, is behind the screen trying to work the city in the interest of the claimants?

Not one cent in behalf of this community against the attempt to create false public opinion detrimental to the interests of Omaha through the paper which he controls.

right of inquiring into its management, there is peril to the holders of these securities. Speculation in trust certificates, therefore, can mean but one thing. Not only would great industries and business in general be disturbed and unbalanced from the start, but ultimate collapse and ruin would overwhelm the speculator holding trust securities.

A PROSPEROUS HALF YEAR. The business and building record of Omaha for the past six months is a gratifying exhibit of progress and prosperity. Few half years in the history of the city equal it in the amount of business done, the extension of the jobbing trade and in the variety, number and cost of buildings undertaken.

Nebraska has no reason to complain of the indifference of the administration in the distribution of positions of honor and trust. On the contrary, our delegation in congress has received recognition at the hands of Mr. Blaine far beyond the proportion to which this state is entitled.

The building line there is the same gratifying evidence of growth. A total of one thousand and nine permits for buildings were issued during the six months, involving an expenditure of fully two and a quarter million dollars.

There is a possibility that the political situation in Iowa, so far as the republicans are concerned, may be in one respect a repetition of that in Ohio Governor Larrabee has declined to again be a candidate, as did Governor Foraker, but the former has a following which appears to be as determined to renominate him as were the friends of the Ohio governor.

There are like conditions, also, in the relations which the two governors bear to the question of the senatorial succession in their respective states. If Foraker shall be re-elected and the next legislature of Ohio is republican, the chances will be very largely in favor of his being selected to succeed Henry B. Payne in the United States senate.

There are like conditions, also, in the relations which the two governors bear to the question of the senatorial succession in their respective states. If Foraker shall be re-elected and the next legislature of Ohio is republican, the chances will be very largely in favor of his being selected to succeed Henry B. Payne in the United States senate.

There are like conditions, also, in the relations which the two governors bear to the question of the senatorial succession in their respective states. If Foraker shall be re-elected and the next legislature of Ohio is republican, the chances will be very largely in favor of his being selected to succeed Henry B. Payne in the United States senate.

There are like conditions, also, in the relations which the two governors bear to the question of the senatorial succession in their respective states. If Foraker shall be re-elected and the next legislature of Ohio is republican, the chances will be very largely in favor of his being selected to succeed Henry B. Payne in the United States senate.

There are like conditions, also, in the relations which the two governors bear to the question of the senatorial succession in their respective states. If Foraker shall be re-elected and the next legislature of Ohio is republican, the chances will be very largely in favor of his being selected to succeed Henry B. Payne in the United States senate.

There are like conditions, also, in the relations which the two governors bear to the question of the senatorial succession in their respective states. If Foraker shall be re-elected and the next legislature of Ohio is republican, the chances will be very largely in favor of his being selected to succeed Henry B. Payne in the United States senate.

There are like conditions, also, in the relations which the two governors bear to the question of the senatorial succession in their respective states. If Foraker shall be re-elected and the next legislature of Ohio is republican, the chances will be very largely in favor of his being selected to succeed Henry B. Payne in the United States senate.

There are like conditions, also, in the relations which the two governors bear to the question of the senatorial succession in their respective states. If Foraker shall be re-elected and the next legislature of Ohio is republican, the chances will be very largely in favor of his being selected to succeed Henry B. Payne in the United States senate.

There are like conditions, also, in the relations which the two governors bear to the question of the senatorial succession in their respective states. If Foraker shall be re-elected and the next legislature of Ohio is republican, the chances will be very largely in favor of his being selected to succeed Henry B. Payne in the United States senate.

There are like conditions, also, in the relations which the two governors bear to the question of the senatorial succession in their respective states. If Foraker shall be re-elected and the next legislature of Ohio is republican, the chances will be very largely in favor of his being selected to succeed Henry B. Payne in the United States senate.

There are like conditions, also, in the relations which the two governors bear to the question of the senatorial succession in their respective states. If Foraker shall be re-elected and the next legislature of Ohio is republican, the chances will be very largely in favor of his being selected to succeed Henry B. Payne in the United States senate.

THE battle-scarred veterans of the last campaign have reason to rejoice. With Egan in Chili and Manatt in Athens, they must realize that the reward of eminent services always goes to the men who did the fighting.

THE news from the Black Hills is most encouraging. The mining interests show increased activity, and as a result the cities of the Hills are booming.

What High License Does. The number of saloons in Philadelphia has been reduced from nearly 6,000 to 1,200 by high license, but the city gave a majority of 93,000 against constitutional prohibition.

Save Us From the Shah. America has had her share of disasters this year, and the last is heavy with the proportions of calamities yet to come; but, thank heaven! a visit from the shah of Persia is not one of them.

Paucifere Posting Up. The new British minister at Washington spends a great part of his time in second hand book stores. He is trying to catch up on his blasted way of doing things, so as not to be played for a sucker like his predecessor.

Big Republican Rally in the South. There are twenty-two republican citizens of Alabama seeking the office of United States marshal for that state—the largest republican rally that has been known in the south for a good many years.

The Premises Are Wrong. If prohibition was a good thing for Kansas before the Pennsylvania election, it is a good thing after—Topska Capital. Granted; but prohibition never was a good thing for Kansas, either before or after. The argument fails in the premises.

Woodruff Beats Him. A Roman beggar recently confessed in court that in asking alms he had as many as fifty lies in daily use. Frank Woodruff, the champion "confessionist," has more than that number both for "daily" and "extra" use.

Resubmission in Kansas. The feeling in favor of a resubmission of the prohibitory law or the calling of a constitutional convention so that we can have high license instead of mock prohibition is growing all over the state. It is especially strong in the larger cities, not as many will claim, because the lawless elements predominate in them, but because the evils of the present law are there more glaring.

All in One Breath. Patrick Fitzpatrick, on Friday last, happened with a serious accident at Roland's quarry, just west of town, while pushing some cars, that came very near proving fatal, but in some way or near the awful fate that was intended for him by the cruel wheels, let him out fortunately with only having his back strained and some slight bruises, of which we did not learn the particulars, and from the last accounts we learn that he is progressing finely, and will be ready to resume his work again in a few days.

THE AFTERNOON TEA. Mrs. Henpeck—My dear, you will make a sad mistake if you marry Mr. Meek. He has no beard, and he wears a wig. Daughter—What difference does that make? "Huh! You try managing a husband with no hair of his own, and you'll find out.

The Greek colony is small but immensely rich, and its women are beyond all question the most beautiful brunettes in New York. They look like a group of odalisques when manifold paper by which the signature is hidden. Mordames Constantine, Enoch, Sachari, Ralli, Debonotti, and the rest—they are the rich and rare musk-roses of Gotham's bouquet of beauty.

AMERICAN capitalists anxious to invest their millions in African railroads will probably have their ardor cooled by the difficulties now involving English railroad builders with the Portuguese government, which controls important colonies on the east and west coasts of Africa. It appears that some years ago the Portuguese granted an English company valuable concessions to build a railroad through one of the colonies with its terminus at Delagoa Bay.

THE unusual and steady drain of gold from the United States to Europe, which exceeds thirty millions since the first of the year, is beginning to create a feeling of uneasiness in financial circles. Wall Street has taken alarm and wants to know how long this outflow will continue. The mysterious part of it all is that experts can not accurately account for this financial phenomenon.

THE efforts made by Senator Allison and other public men of Iowa to arrive at an equitable settlement of the Des Moines river lands controversy are commendable. There is little doubt but that the rights of the settlers will be full protected, and that the long and bitterly contested case will be amicably compromised.

THE battle-scarred veterans of the last campaign have reason to rejoice. With Egan in Chili and Manatt in Athens, they must realize that the reward of eminent services always goes to the men who did the fighting.

What High License Does. The number of saloons in Philadelphia has been reduced from nearly 6,000 to 1,200 by high license, but the city gave a majority of 93,000 against constitutional prohibition.

Save Us From the Shah. America has had her share of disasters this year, and the last is heavy with the proportions of calamities yet to come; but, thank heaven! a visit from the shah of Persia is not one of them.

Paucifere Posting Up. The new British minister at Washington spends a great part of his time in second hand book stores. He is trying to catch up on his blasted way of doing things, so as not to be played for a sucker like his predecessor.

Big Republican Rally in the South. There are twenty-two republican citizens of Alabama seeking the office of United States marshal for that state—the largest republican rally that has been known in the south for a good many years.

The Premises Are Wrong. If prohibition was a good thing for Kansas before the Pennsylvania election, it is a good thing after—Topska Capital. Granted; but prohibition never was a good thing for Kansas, either before or after. The argument fails in the premises.

Woodruff Beats Him. A Roman beggar recently confessed in court that in asking alms he had as many as fifty lies in daily use. Frank Woodruff, the champion "confessionist," has more than that number both for "daily" and "extra" use.

Resubmission in Kansas. The feeling in favor of a resubmission of the prohibitory law or the calling of a constitutional convention so that we can have high license instead of mock prohibition is growing all over the state. It is especially strong in the larger cities, not as many will claim, because the lawless elements predominate in them, but because the evils of the present law are there more glaring.

All in One Breath. Patrick Fitzpatrick, on Friday last, happened with a serious accident at Roland's quarry, just west of town, while pushing some cars, that came very near proving fatal, but in some way or near the awful fate that was intended for him by the cruel wheels, let him out fortunately with only having his back strained and some slight bruises, of which we did not learn the particulars, and from the last accounts we learn that he is progressing finely, and will be ready to resume his work again in a few days.

THE AFTERNOON TEA. Mrs. Henpeck—My dear, you will make a sad mistake if you marry Mr. Meek. He has no beard, and he wears a wig. Daughter—What difference does that make? "Huh! You try managing a husband with no hair of his own, and you'll find out.

The Greek colony is small but immensely rich, and its women are beyond all question the most beautiful brunettes in New York. They look like a group of odalisques when manifold paper by which the signature is hidden. Mordames Constantine, Enoch, Sachari, Ralli, Debonotti, and the rest—they are the rich and rare musk-roses of Gotham's bouquet of beauty.

AMERICAN capitalists anxious to invest their millions in African railroads will probably have their ardor cooled by the difficulties now involving English railroad builders with the Portuguese government, which controls important colonies on the east and west coasts of Africa. It appears that some years ago the Portuguese granted an English company valuable concessions to build a railroad through one of the colonies with its terminus at Delagoa Bay.

THE unusual and steady drain of gold from the United States to Europe, which exceeds thirty millions since the first of the year, is beginning to create a feeling of uneasiness in financial circles. Wall Street has taken alarm and wants to know how long this outflow will continue. The mysterious part of it all is that experts can not accurately account for this financial phenomenon.

THE efforts made by Senator Allison and other public men of Iowa to arrive at an equitable settlement of the Des Moines river lands controversy are commendable. There is little doubt but that the rights of the settlers will be

STATE AND TERRITORY. Nebraska Jottings. A lodge of Modern Woodmen is to be established at Union. The Grand Island Canning company is about to increase its capital stock.

The Leigh World has changed hands and is now under the guidance of George T. Van dermeulen, who has greatly improved the appearance of the paper.

The Davenport glass works will build a $30,000 addition this season. There are more prairie chickens in Iowa this year than for a long time previously.

The Des Moines photographers are at war, and a person can have his picture taken for almost nothing. Dr. William Bray, of Dubuque, was presented with a $700 watch by the parents of a child he attended.

An irate Dubuque husband thrashed a daughter-in-law for her insolence. David McCargan, of Sioux City, went to bed the other night in apparently good condition, but a few minutes later the ligaments of his shoulder became loose and the arm dropped out of the socket.

It is rumored that ex-Senator M. P. Donohue is working a swindling scheme in this state, soliciting funds for foreign missions. Donors are requested to sign their names in a book which is arranged with manifold paper by which the signature is hidden.

A Dubuque butcher jumped out of his wagon and instead of being his lines around a hitching post, he was with the dog. The team ran away and of course the dog was compelled to follow. They were finally stopped without material damage to the horses or wagon, but it was different with the dog. One of its legs was broken and the valuable canine suffered the death penalty.

An exchange prints this warning: "A woman is working a swindling scheme in this state, soliciting funds for foreign missions. Donors are requested to sign their names in a book which is arranged with manifold paper by which the signature is hidden."

Beyond the Rockies. Tacoma's new chamber of commerce is to cost $150,000. The Pomona valley in California will produce 475 tons of apricots this season, which is 15 per cent larger than was ever raised in the valley before.

Bruce Norris found a burglar in his house at Santa Rosa, Cal. He slipped up behind the robber, knocked him down and tied him, and then sent for the police.

It is expected that about 120,000 acres of Nevada land which is now tied up under a charge of having been fraudulently surveyed will soon be released.

Horace Bacon, court clerk in the United States court at San Francisco for over twenty-three years, is dead, aged eighty-nine. He was a prominent figure in the early history of the state.

A gold nugget valued at $3,000 has been found in a gravel bed in Plumas county, California. In addition to the above $27,000 in gold dust and a batch of the same metal was taken from the same ground.

A number of cases of shortage in the accounts of young men, clerks at Fresno, Cal., have prompted the organization of business men in that town to ascertain the names of those who frequent gambling places.

The shores of Humboldt lake, in Nevada, are rapidly encroaching upon the water, and in what a few years ago was the bed of the lake covered by water to a depth of several feet, a ninety-acre patch of potatoes is now being grown.

Some time ago a man named Chamberlain was arrested in Los Angeles on a charge of receiving stolen goods. He was a little girl, then the charge was changed to indecent exposure, and after to simple battery. It appears that the only foundation for it was the vision of a smiling girl who told the girl's mother she had seen the assault in a trance. Yet the scandal has made a mania of Chamberlain's wife.

Seattle cannot get rid of the nineteen Chinamen who have been held in arrest for two years for attempting to smuggle themselves into the United States. Victoria, B. C., whence they came, won't receive them back unless $50 a head is paid, and the Seattle authorities cannot turn them loose. Washington officials have been frequently notified of the dilemma, but as yet no relief is suggested.

WHERE DID THE MONEY GO? Frank Johnson Reports the Sidney Bank as Husted. Frank B. Johnson and his attorney, have returned from Sidney.

They report that they found the bank, of which Chat Morgan was cashier, had completely collapsed. The only money on hand was what had been turned in by depositors the morning Morgan killed himself which amounted to about $100, and a few bills of credit. It is believed that something like $35,000 of individual deposits, all the negotiable securities and every thing else in possession of the bank will be lost in the wreck.

Mr. Johnson says that great injustice has been done him in reports to the effect that he was Morgan's partner in the business. The only connection he ever had with the bank was in loaning Morgan $5,000 when he started. Cavanaugh went to Sidney one year ago, prepared to incorporate the bank with Johnson and the Bouscaren of this city, as two of the stockholders, but Morgan was not prepared to put up his share of the capital, and they gave him up the time.

Fifteen suits have already been commenced against Mr. Johnson by depositors on the assumption that he was in a measure interested in the bank.

Pears' is the purest and best soap ever made. A COSTLY ACCOMMODATION. It Costs a Well-Known Merchant Just $60.

Charles A. Stonehill, the Sixteenth street dry goods man, contacted $60 to a slick forger on Saturday evening.

The sharper came out of Kennard's store, next door to Stonehill's, in his shirt sleeves, dressed like a clerk, and asked Mr. Stonehill if he could cash a $60 check. The check was drawn on the Merchants' National bank and was signed in a very clever imitation of the Kennard firm's signature. Mr. Stonehill cashed the check only to learn a few minutes later that the man presenting it had no connection whatever with the Kennard firm but had simply secured a blank check from it.

KID GLOVES can easily be cleaned by first putting the glove on the hand, then take a clean piece of flannel, some tepid water and a cake of IVORY SOAP, wet the flannel slightly and rub it lightly on the soap, then rub the soiled parts of the glove with the soaped flannel. After the dirt is removed, rub all parts of the glove with a damp piece of clean flannel; remove the glove, stretch it lengthways and lay aside to dry. Ordinary soap contains too much alkali, which will turn the color of the kid.

A WORD OF WARNING. There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the Ivory"; they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

STRANG & CLARK STEAM HEATING CO. Steam and Hot Water Heating and Ventilating Apparatus and Supplies. Engines, Boilers, Steam Pumps, Etc.

A. J. POPPLETON, President. J. J. BROWN, Vice-President. H. W. YATES, Treasurer. T. JOSEPHLYN, Secretary.

The Omaha Fire Insurance Co. OF OMAHA, NEB. Paid Up Capital, $100,000. Fire, - Lightning - and - Tornado - Insurance.

ETCHINGS, ENGRAVINGS, ARTIST SUPPLIES, MOULDINGS, FRAMES. ERBSON, HALLER & DAVIS, KIMBALL, PIANOS AND ORGANS, SHEET MUSIC. 1513 Douglas St. Omaha, Nebraska.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria. When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.