What The Patrick Land Company Have Done.

RESULT OF THE FIRST YEAR'S WORK.

One year ago the present ownership and management assumed charge of The Patrick Land Company and began offering Dundee Place for sale, in lots. In that time the sales for ground have amounted to $361,300. We have spent in grading the streets and perfecting the drainage, nearly $70,000. We have induced one of the largest investment companies in Kansas City to open an office in Omaha, who have made building and other loans in Dundee Place amounting to about $200,000.

All of this money has gone into circulation in Omaha. Some for brick, some for lumber, some for hardware, some for slate and other building material, and a large portion has gone to mechanics and the laboring classes.

A large number of Carpenters, Bricklayers, Plasterers, Painters, Finishers, Slaters, Tinners and Graders, have found constant employment for the past year.

We have revolutionized the growth of the city to a considerable extent, eveything is going west to the beautiful hills, and Dundee Place has grown into great popularity, where one year ago there was not a sign of a house or a street. We feel great satisfaction in our efforts, because the results are far beyond what the most sanguine could have hoped for.

Many elegant homes have been built, costing from $3,000 to $10,000 apiece.

By the end of the season we expect to be able to count 100 beautiful homes in Dundee Place. They will be homes of such a class of people as to make any neighborhood desirable. Certainly no location in Omaha will equal Dundee Place. Residents there will soon have all the advantages of the city without the burden of city taxes.

Call and see us for any particulars. We will show the property at any time.

THE LABOR COMMISSIONERS.

Features of the National Convention at Hartford, Conn.

WELCOMED BY THE EMPLOYERS.

New England Manufacturers Think the Bureau's Work Beneficial—Irish National League—Lincoln News Notes.

LINCOLN BUREAU OF THE OMAHA BEE, 1029 P STREET, LINCOLN, July 1.

John J. Jenkins, deputy commissioner of the bureau of labor and statistics, returned home, last evening, from the national convention of labor commissioners, held at Hartford, Conn., and of its features of general interest he says:

"The seventh annual convention of the labor commissioners of the United States met in Hartford, Conn., on the 25th inst, in the senate chamber of the capitol. Eighteen out of the twenty-two bureaus were present. The work of the convention was conducted, by the express desire of the last convention, without the reading of papers, confining itself to practical work. The result of this course has been highly beneficial, bringing down statistics to a greater uniformity and insuring better results. The convention found itself encouraged by the presence of professors of political economy from various universities. The senators of Connecticut and Rhode Island gave us words of encouragement. One of the pleasing features of the convention was the invitation given to it by the proprietors of the Cheney Bros.' silk mills at South Massachusetts, the cotton thread mills of the Willimantic Linen company at Willimantic. The New York and New England railroad companies placed a special train at our disposition. It was with great pleasure that the members of the convention visited these mills, noticing among other things the attention paid to the sanitary condition and protection of the employes. The charge of white slavery in New England's manufacturing industries could not have met with a more complete refutation than the condition of these mills. These manufacturers hailed with pleasure the formation of labor bureaus. While at first they had a misgiving as to the actual benefits to be derived from them, they were now satisfied that they had done much by the collection of facts brought out by investigation, to bring a better understanding between employer and employers; that the relations of capital and labor were better understood by the working people, hence there was less of a disposition to listen to the sand-lot orator.

At Manchester the example set by the employers was noticeable. Everything that could be done toward making the home of the employe pleasant was done, and this great manufacturing town looks more like a park devoted to pleasure and rest than a great manufacturing center. With its 1,200 employes there is not a single policeman in the town and there is only one constable, who, during the past twelve months, made only two arrests, and this is not due to prohibition, for there you find intoxicants sold with the same restraints that exist in New York. The next annual convention will meet in Des Moines, when arrangements will be made to show the members of that convention the producing power of Nebraska to supply wholesome meats. It will be held some time during the month of May, less than a year hence."

Entertained by Church Howe.

Eight of the newspaper men of Lincoln were royally entertained and banquetted by Church Howe yesterday at his farm in Nemaha county, six miles south of Auburn. The party consisting of Al Fairbrother, editor of the Daily Call; Hugh G. McVicker of the State Journal; John M. Cotton of the Omaha Herald bureau; Fred Benzinger of the Capital City Courier; Harry Dobbins of Evening News; J. C. Seacrist of the Globe and Al E. Ewan, of THE OMAHA BEE bureau, left over the Missouri Pacific at 10:30 in the morning and arrived at Howe station, near the farm, about 2 o'clock. At Mr. Howe's request, he was wired before the party left Lincoln. The boys got there in prime condition for the feast of good things. Church and his son, Herbert, with hack and carry-all, were at the train. In a few minutes the party were in the Nemaha statesman's parlors, and as soon as toilets could be arranged surrounded his elegantly spread tables. It was loaded with every delicacy of the season. There was drink for the prohibs and drink for the antis. But, let imagination supply the details.

Fine crops, fine horses, fine cattle and fine hogs were seen on every hand. There was four hundred odd head of porkers, eighty head of fat steers which would weigh 1700 pounds on an average, and 100 head of finely bred horses. His stud of horses is one of the very finest in the west. It is composed of draft, general utility and roadster stock, all finely bred. One trotter especially attracted attention. His recorded name is McClure, an inbred Wilkes, sired by Recorder, by Alcantara, by George Wilkes; dam by Emma Wilkes by Clay Wilkes by George Wilkes. He is a handsome dapple bay and weighs 1175 pounds. Besides McClure the magnificent National, an imported Percheron, weighing 1900 pounds, was the delight of the party. Hoxie, by Coronet and Thora Prince by Almatite were also beauties. But it would take pages to describe Chitthorn, Fred Hibberd, Lily Thorn, Nellie H. Verous, Dynamite, Mary Dye and the eighty odd others of the stud.

At 7 o'clock Church drove the party to Auburn, where all attended the evening service at the First Presbyterian church.

The party left Auburn at 2:30 a. m. and reached home at 6:15 Monday morning.

Notarial Appointments.

Governor Thayer to-day appointed the following Nebraska notaries public: Albert Joice, Syracuse, Otoe county; William N. Ward, Hemingford, Box Butte county; G. E. Austin, Corbin, Dawes county; Ora Richards, Hayes Center, Hayes county; A. McNamara, North Platte, Lincoln county; F. E. Shepherd, Lincoln, Lancaster county.

City News and Notes.

The music committee for the Fourth has engaged four of the leading local bands for that day.

Mrs. W. H. Coffin and daughter left to-day for a brief visit to Spirit Lake, Ia.

Senator Connor, of Kansas, is in the city, ostensibly to transact business before the supreme court.

State Treasurer J. E. Hill to-day received a receipt, signed by the governor of Pennsylvania, acknowledging receipt of $250.65 donated to the Johnstown sufferers by some of the churches of Nebraska.

The Rev. H. T. Davis, pastor of the Trinity M. E. church of this city, laid the corner stone of the African M. E. church on E street, between Tenth and Eleventh.

The various state officers were all at their posts to-day for the first time in several weeks, and were at work like nailers. The board of public lands and builds met and went through the monthly expense accounts of the various state institutions. They were O. K.

The interest in the meetings of the Lincoln branch of the Irish National league keeps up, notwithstanding the hot afternoons, and the one held yesterday was exceptionally interesting in the exercises. Vice President McGlave presided, and the programme was opened by Mesdames Kilroy and Halter in a beautiful duet, "Has Sorrow Thy Young Days Shaded." They were followed by Miss May Flanigan in "Kathaleen Aroon," Mr. J. D. Smith in "The Cricket on the Hearth," Miss Ethel Howe in "Oh, Hush Thee, My Baby," and on recall in "Comin' Thro' the Rye;" Miss Adelaide Roehrig in "Mary of Tioperary," by special request. The little singer was but six summers old, but she charmed the league with her beautiful voice. The subject of Governor Thayer's letter to the British American association on the Egan appointment was discussed, and the following was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the Lincoln branch of the Irish National league endorse the sentiments of Governor John M. Thayer, of Nebraska, in his response to the British American association, and that we condemn the unwarrantable conduct and insolence of any foreign body presuming to advise the government of the United States in matters pertaining to the interests of this republic—and that we thank Governor Thayer for his manly and American letter to these foreign busy bodies.

Page, Jessie Potwin, William Roach, Henry Mengedoht, Alice Craig, Eva Fuhn, Marion Schibsby, August N. Peterson, Eloise Clark, Dora Matthews, Ann Drake, Lynn E. Chaffee.

This number will doubtless be increased considerably by the addition of a number of pupils who failed to pass the examination, and who will have another trial in September. In former years the board employed a teacher for this class of delinquents, but it is not probable that it will do so this year. The superintendent is recommending all such to call on Miss Foos, principal of the Izard school, who is considered especially competent for this kind of work. Miss Foos resides at 1619 Capitol avenue. If enough students apply to her for instruction she will probably secure a room in the High school building and teach one class there.

CORPORAL TANNER.

The Noted Veteran Visits the G. A. R in Omaha.

United States Commissioner of Pensions Tanner arrived in the city yesterday, and last night went over to the Bluffs, accompanied by a large delegation of the Omaha members of the G. A. R. in carriages, to address the G. A. R. posts there. They returned about 11 p. m. The commissioner will be given a reception at the hall of Custer post on Douglas street to-day.

Corporal Tanner will address Phil H. Sheridan past, G. A. R., at Goodrich hall, on Saunders street, to-night. The subject of his address will be "Army life—grave and gay." The post at South Omaha is trying to get Commissioner Tanner to go down there this morning and hold an informal reception in the exchange.

THE BEE'S HOUSE-WARMING.

Several Thousand People Enjoy Its Second Levee.

A PAPER'S MAGNIFICENT HOME.

What Leading Merchants and Professional Men of the City Have to Say About the Building and Its Equipments.

Guests By the Thousand.

The invitation to visit and inspect the new BEE building yesterday afternoon and evening was accepted by several thousand people. There were many visitors during the afternoon, while from 6 o'clock in the evening until 11 o'clock last night, they came in throngs and strolled through the wide and well lighted corridors of the building and visited the various departments of THE BEE establishment. There were throngs everywhere. While one group was standing in the entrance inspecting the marble stairways and the imposing central court, another was on the first floor expressing admiration of the matchless counting room of THE BEE, where, as an incidental feature, cooling refreshments were served to the guests. Others were being shown through the editorial and composing rooms of the paper, catching a glimpse of the actual inner work necessary to the production of a great news journal. An interested group of spectators crowded the stereotyping rooms, where the operators cast a plate and explained the method of preparing it for the press. The press room, too, was an object of special interest, and although the presses were not in operation, the employes in this department explained to the visitors the manner in which the white paper is taken by this marvel of mechanical ingenuity from an endless roll and turned out a complete paper ready for delivery, and this at the rate of 20,000 copies per hour. At this evening's inspection of the building, for which invitations have been issued, the presses will be in operation, and visitors will be given an opportunity to see them at work.

The roof was not forgotten by any means. Two fast running elevators were worked to their utmost speed and capacity to accommodate the hundreds who sought the roof for the pleasure of the wonderful view of the city obtained from it. And all of the time the corridors that terrace the noble court, rising from the street level to a height of 120 feet, were lined with interested and admiring spectators. This line of inspection was kept up until all of the visitors had examined the building in its beauty and thoroughness of detail and inspected the work in the various departments of the newspaper.

During the hours of inspection, the Musical union orchestra, numbering seventeen instruments, discoursed pleasing selections for the entertainment of the guests. A very liberal proportion of the visitors were ladies and their exclamations of rapture over the numerous complete and artistic appointments of the establishment were heard on all sides. All of the visitors in fact were profuse in their complimentary expressions touching upon the many notable features of the magnificent structure.

Following are a few expressions caught on the fly:

L. B. Williams—It is certainly a great and model building. It is an ornament to the city of Omaha and a credit to the west.

Max Meyer—It has no equal that I know of, and is a credit to the great west.

C. R. Scott—It is a beautiful structure and does Omaha proud.

T. M. Orr—We are all pround of THE BEE and its new home. The building surpasses anything I have seen.

A. W. McGill—The building is the result of untiring labor on the part of Mr. Rosewater, and we all should feel proud of such an elegant structure.

Thomas Swobe—It surpasses anything and everything I have seen in the line of newspaper buildings.

Charles Schliverick—It is a very handsome building. In such a place you can't do otherwise than get out a fine paper.

Justice Anderson—It is one of the best arranged and most substantial buildings I ever was in.

George Marks, of the Marks Saddlery company—It is one of the finest buildings in this country.

J. H. Gibson—I have seen a great many fine structures, but not one to surpass THE BEE building.

E. L. Stone—Well, I must say that this surprises me. I had not expected to see quite so grand a building. Its interior arrangement is most admirable. It is really the finest building I ever was in.

Fred W. Gray—There is no use denying the fact that this court surpasses anything of the kind in the country.

Dr. H. W. Hyde—It is the handsomest building I know of.

Hon. W. J. Connell—If I were Rosewater's worst enemy I could give him unstinted praise. This building is a perpetual monument to his pluck, energy and enterprise, and a great credit to the city of Omaha. The court, especially, I think, is one of the most imposing achitectural beauties in the country.

W. F. Gurley—There is but one thing to say—It is the finest building in town without any exception.

Judge Benecke—It is glorious. There is no newspaper building like it in the world.

Adolph Meyer—It's just beautiful. It is just what is claimed—the finest newspaper building in the country.

William Stadelmann—The building is perfect in every respect.

St. A. D. Balcombe—I spent two hours in the sub-basement and tired myself out reveling among the acre of machinery and in the press room, where the two marvelous machines roll off the papers. THE BEE building is a marvel.

George W. Lininger—I have traveled extensively, but I have never seen the magnificence of THE BEE building court excelled in any city of Europe.

John H. May, of the Porter & Coates company, Philadelphia—I have traveled all over the United States, and have been abroad, but I have seen nothing that will come anywhere near this building by comparison. We have in Philadelphia perhaps ten or twelve elegant insurance and office buildings, and there may be thirty in New York, but none is more perfect in construction and few equal THE BEE building in elegance and architectural design.

Hon. James E. Boyd—This is a grand building. It is something that the people of Omaha can not fail to be proud of and to boast of as the greatest newspaper building in America.

William Stadelmann—The building is perfect in every respect.

Mr. Fruchauff—I have lived in Venice and have seen the wonderful architecture of that city, but in my judgment there is nothing there that will equal the splendor of the court of THE BEE building.

Judge Hopewell—The building is a wonder.

Judge Wakeley—This great building would be a credit to any city on the globe.

F. E. Dacons, editor Sentinel, Lake City, Colo.—I am pleased indeed to note the prosperity of THE BEE, and to have seen the splendid and magnificent new structure it is to occupy.

Mr. Ed Dickinson, assistant general manager of the Union Pacific, owing to absence from the city, was obliged to send his regrets, because of his inability to be present.

RUGHES SUCCEEDS HALSEY.

And Establishes His Office of the Elkhorn in the City.

C. C. Hughes, superintendent of the Black Hills division of the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley at Chadron, has been appointed general superintendent of the Elkhorn system, to succeed Halsey, resigned, the appointment taking effect to-day. Mr. Hughes is one of three superintendents from whom THE BEE announced on Friday last the successor of Mr. Halsey would be chosen. It was all but decided at one time to appoint Mahanna, of the Northwestern, to the general superintendency, but at a conference between General Manager Burt and the officials of the Northwestern held in Chicago Saturday, Mr. Hughes was decided upon.

An important change in location accompanies the appointment of Mr. Hughes as general superintendent of the Elkhorn division For some time General Manager Burt has entertained the idea of establishing the office of the general superintendent at Omaha instead of at Missouri Valley. This he has now concluded to do and the circular announcing the appointment of Mr. Hughes also announces that the headquarters will be at Omaha.

The work of moving the effects of the general superintendent from Missouri Valley has been commenced and by Wednesday the change will be finished.

The car accountant and other departments of the Elkhorn system now at Missouri Valley will also be moved here. The car accountant's department was moved here some time ago, but owing to the department of general superintendent being at Missouri Valley it was retransferred.

The entire staff of the general office it is hought will be soon located here.

In the selection of C. C. Hughes it is said that a practical man is secured. Mr. Hughes has grown up in the service of the Elkhorn. He was formerly a passenger conductor, and was promoted from this to the position of train dispatcher. Later he was made superintendent of the Black Hills division which position he vacated to assume the general superintendency. His successor has not been named, but the name of J. J. Walsh, train dispatcher of the Black Hills division, is whispered in railway circles as the man.

Building Material.

The Union Pacific has received 6,000 tons of 60-pound steel rails which was purchased by General Purchasing Agent McKibben at Chicago, and will at once forward the material to points on the Oregon Railway & Navigation company's line.

It is stated that the company will soon commence the construction of its cut-off branch to Olympia thereby gaining an entrance to Puget Sound independent of the Northern Pacific.

Officially Installed.

W. N. Babcock yesterday vacated his position as general western agent of the Chicago & Northwestern and entered upon his duties as assistant to the president of the South Omaha stock yards.

R. R. Ritchie, his successor was duly installed.

J. E. Preston, constructing agent of the Northwestern formally entered upon his duties as city passenger agent of the Milwaukee.

An Excellent Feature.

The Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley has put on a local train daily between Omaha and York. The train arrives here at 10:15 a. m., and departs at 5:15 p. m. This is operated for the purpose of enabling merchants and individuals having business in Omaha to come to Omaha, complete their work and return the same day. In arranging the time card the management of the Elkhorn has allowed a lay over of over seven hours in which business may be transacted.

Railroad Notes.

Assistant General Manager Dickinson, Superintendent Resseguie and John Langtry, superintendent of bridges of the Union Pacific are out on a tour of inspection of the Omaha & Republican Valley system.

D. E. Thompson, superintendent of the Burlington at Lincoln, is in the city.

General Manager Burt, of the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley, has returned from Chicago.

B. G. Wheeler, stenographer in the office of General Passenger Agent Buchanan, of the Elkhorn, spent Sunday with friend at Ashland.

Riotous Strikers at Cardiff.

LONDON, July 1.—The striking tramway employes at Cardiff are engaged in rioting. The companies tried to run cars with new men under police escort. The strikers blockaded the tracks and threw stones, smashing windows and hitting the passengers, police and drivers. Several of the strikers have been arrested, but the police force is not large enough to cope with the mob.

Later—A dispatch says the dispute between the strikers and the tramway companies has been settled.
