now held by Arthur will involve more or less generaiship. The position has a salary of $5,000 per year, and all expenses incurred while adjudicating labor controversies by the chief are borne by the brotherhood. Chief Arthur has already placed his candidacy for a re-election on record, and has marshalled forces on which he may hope to rely. But, whatever strength he may obtain from the eastern members of the order, will avail but little as compared with the western element, which, it is said, will, in all probability to a man, oppose his reelection

Unlike Arthur, he is possessed, it is said, of a will-power which is always exer-cised and made felt when in the right. This fact was demonstrated recently in more ways than one. Vroman, like Arthur, is opposed to strikes, but will countenance this means when others fail. He believes that the rights of the engineers are paramount to those of the company; and, in case the rights and privileges of the engineer cannot be maintained by fair means, he would not hesitate to sanction a fight. This, however, is an ultimatum which he favors only when all other sources have failed. It has been quietly whispered for some time that Vroman would be in the race for the chiefship and among the engineers in this section he is the favorite. Prior to the recent eruption between the engi-neers and the officials of the Union Pacific, regarding the scale of wages on the Kansas Central, Vroman's chances are considered fairly good, but the manner in which he ac complished victory has given his stock an upward tendency and will be the founda-tion upon which his supporters will work their campaign.

There are other western men who will as pire to Chief Arthur's place. Michael Cav-ender, who was chairman of the famous "committee of nine" which effected a settle ment of the great Burlington strike, an event which is still fresh in the minds of railroad men, is one of them. Cavender is an engineer on the California Southern and is one of the men who left their posts when the Burlington strike was declared. He is rated as possessed of good judgment, but for some reason he has not the following that is identified in Vroman's case. When the settlement of the strike was reached, and the terms were made known, some of the engineers took the stand that they furnished the Burlington company an avenue of escape when it came down einstatement of the strikers. STRIKING PLUMBERS STILL OUT.

A Warrant for Ex-President Conway -The Alien Law in Illinois-News and Notes From Various Unions.

May Affect Omaha.

The alien law goes into effect in Illinois July 1, and the authorities of Chicago are preparing to enforce it. After that date the city cannot employ an alien on any contract or in any capacity. Contracts already made will not be affected, but bereafter no alien will be employed until he has taken out his first papers and if he fails to take out his second within three months of the specified time he will be discharged. This, it is thought, will undoubted ly send a large influx of foreign laborers to Omaha, and unless

On Tuesday the striking journeymen plumbers prevailed upon six non-union men employed by the bosses to quit work and join them in the strike. A few men are still at work and the employing plumbers are filling orders after a fashion, but the strike is having a telling effect. Council Bluffs firms are taking orders for work in Omaha right

The plumbers, bosses and journeymen are not the only ones affected by the strike. A representative of Dun's commercial agency esterday said that there was no doubt that yesterday said that there was no doubt that the strike was affecting building very ma-terially. There are certain men, according to his idea, who contemplated building this season and would have done so, but when this strike came on they became alarmed and determined to wait. There are now in Omaha many members of the building trades who are idle on account of lack of work. The national organ of the Carpenters' union has warned all members of that craft to keep away from Omaha on account of an over-supply. A creat many plastorers are over-supply. A great miny plasterers aro out of work, and a few bricklayers, lathers, and members of other building trades. From this it can be readily seen that the effect of this strike of from iifty to seventy-live men s widespread.

is widespread. "Something should be done," said this gentleman, "whereby the difficulties would be settled. Omaha cannot afford to have her building stopped at this time."

This is very true, but to all appearances a termination of the strike is as remote now as it was when it begun nearly two months

Labor Notes.

The single tax club will meet at 9:30 p. m. today at Gate City hall.

The local employment agencies are sending from 100 to 150 laborers to different sections daily.

The completion of the New York Life and BEE buildings will loave a large number of men employed in the building trades idle.

The agreement recently entered into be-tween the Union Pacific railroad company and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engi-neers and Firemen went into effect Monday. The Plumbers', Plasterers' and Bricklay ers' unions are making preparations to give a pienic at Calhoun two weeks from to-day. A committee of six has been appointed to make necessary arrangements.

Cigarmakers' union No. 93 will meet at Arcanum hall Wednesday night to elect a delegate to the national convention, which meets in New York in September.

In about three weeks the work of repairing the banks along the lowa side of the river opposite this city will be commenced by the government. A force of 200 men is required to do the work.

The utmost good feeling exists among the Foresters of South Omaha, and this mark of appreciation is fittingly due Mr. Seltzer. cinnati and Covington, and that they spent most of their time swapping lies in regard to their respective populations. This proved to be an error, for Council Bluffs is at least three miles from the Missouri river. It lies beautifully in the shadows of the green bluffs from whence it takes its name, and these are nothing more than solid mud hills. Then there is a long strip of river bottom only partially occupied before you come to the muddy Missouri itself, and directly into Omaha. An electric road connects the two eities. It runs as fast as a cable road and Seltzer.

Notes.

Harry Merriam has been printing em lematical cards for the boys.

Major General W. R. Carnahan was es-corted to the encampment by a division from Omaha and the Union Pacific band. He was received by the entire brigade drawn up in line, and welcomed by General Dayton in a short address.

Colonel George H. Crager, A. D. C., is in camp with his wife, occupying quarters with the Second regiment.

The speach of Judge D. D. Bowman turning over camp Dayton to the Nebraska brigade was a brilliant effusion. General Dayton's response was equally eloquent.

General J. C. Cowin was given the post of ionor in the procession of carriages on the fourth. The gallant old soldier attracted Fourth. many admiring glances.

Omaha was a revelation to me. To all ap-pearances it is as large as Kansas City, and I should certainly say that it is far more beautiful. The streets are wider, the baild-ings more imposing and the evidences of good taste are more plentiful and apparent, bad supposed that Council Buffer and

The Young Men's Christian Association of Omaha was organized January 20, 1868. Mr. W. B. Smith was its first president and Z. N. Hutchinson its first secretary. It was one of the oldest associations in the country, only New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and Washington and a few other cities having organizations formed earlier than the Y. M. C. A. of Omaha. The association, in its early days, undertook a number of differont things, which, at the time, were much needed and were evidently highly appreciated. Like many other associations it had quite a checkered career and more than once had to be reorganized. Mr. G. T. Howser, now the general secretary at Cincinnati, O., was the first general secretary. He was succeeded by Mr. George A. Joplin in the arduous duties that involved on the secretary. In 1886 the movement for the erection of the present building began. Mr. P. C. Himebaugh was then president of the institution and Mr. L. Burnham was chairman o tution and Mr. L. Burnham was chairman of the building committee. The structure was opened in December, 1888, and, since that date, the association has been steadily grow-ing until it now numbers 775 members. The work now being done is in the same order as that done in all large cities, and will compare very favorably with all others in proportion to population. At this time of the year, com-paratively little is being done in the building beyond the use of the bath rooms and reading rooms, but the athletic park on Harney and Twenty-third streets is being made the center of attraction. Plans are now being made for the next sos-sion's work. It is expected that the class lectures will open in the fall with a membership of 1,000 and that the work the coming winter will exceed anything done yet. Be-low is given statistics of some of the work done the past year: Average daily attendance to May 1, 800; evening classes in French, German, Spanisa, bookkeeping, elocution and stenography to May 1, 1,745; attendance at lectures to May 1, 2,076; attendance at receptions to May 1, 3,400; membership, 708; total attendance, 37,800; receipts for four months ending May 1, $7,077.27; expenditures for four months anding May 1, $5,842.49; balance on hand, $234.78.

Williamson, membership socretary; George C, Jenner, general secretary: H. W. Schaschke, as-sistant general secretary; James T. Gwathmey, physical director. The association has fitted up a fine gym.

haul four cars after one moter with appar-ent ease. The conductor told me they had haulod six cars crowded and it made no dif-ference with their speed. There are some heavy grades on this road, and many sharp curves, and yet the cars spin along with all the case and regularity of Mr. Kerper's or Mr. Martin's cables. This road has been running for more than a year and in that time it has had but one stoppage; that was on a sleety night, when the wire (it uses but a single trolley) was covered by a thick coating of ice. They were obliged to go along the road with long poles and knock off the ice before the cars could run. With this exception the road has been going day in and The association has fitted up a fine gym-nasium in its new building, which is well attended by many of the business men and students of this city, whose sedentary suits make such exercise a necessity. exception the road has been going day in and day out for a year, proving most conclusively that an electric road can be built and oper-Great pains are taken with the classes in the gym nasium, and much benefit is derived from the well directed exercises. On the whole, the Young Men's Christian ated successfully. It costs much loss per mile than a cable and has proved a paying investment. And in Omaha, I think, there is not a single horse car left; all the roads are rapid transit. What a contrast between

The Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley has taken commendable steps in the enlarg-ing of its suburban and local train service, and the accommodation is appreciated. It is only through good local train service that the merchants of Omaha and contiguous points are enabled to communicate with one conclusions on this, the officials of the Elkhorn have established a service that sur-passes that of any other road centering in Omaha. It has been so arranged that business men residing within a radius of 150 miles of Omaha, can come to the city, transact their business, and return the same day. "In doing this," said a wholesale grocer, "the Elkhorn has set an example that other men might do well in following. The action of the Elkhorn in this direction merits a wholesome patronage.

The officials of the Union Pacific, ranking below the president, have grown restless of late owing to the announcement in a press dispatch from the east that the graduating class of Harvard college numbered about statement but the mistery is cleared away when it is made known that official material (1) for the Union Pacific has been obtained from this college. As yet, however, nothing which would encourage the selection of me from that place has resulted, and it is whis pered that the experiment has worked inim ical to the exchequer and interests of the well-known transcontinental line.

Manager Baldwin, of the Leaven-worth, Topeka & Southwestern road, is "at home" to his engineers at present. He was in Omaha a few weeks ago basking in the sunshine of a new adventure -the reduction of engineers' wages. Old time railway officials stood back and winked at each other as Baldwin button-holed them, telling how he had taken a stand against an organization that had "held the club" over "big guns" for years. The old war-horses knew that the bubble would soon burst, and that the manager would be sat upon by the opposing faction to the tune of 4,000 pounds to the square inch. The result of the con-troversy landed like a thunderbolt on the manager, who retired under the sting of de-
