SAVED BY PRESENCE OF MIND

The Terrible Midnight Experience of Mrs. Blachford.

A NEGRO'S ATROCIOUS DEED.

Two Persons Frostrated by the Heat -A Cabman Arrested on a Charge of Theft-A Missing Wonan.

A Villamous Negro.

Rare presence of mind saved the property and life of Mrs. Blachford, of 1919 Dodge street, early Monday morning. The facts were given to the police but kept from publication that the villain might not take alarm and fly from the city.

Dick Winfield, a burly, surly negro of about thirty years, has for four months past been employed as porter about the flats at the number indicated above. He was saucy, yet respectful; a drinking man yet trustworthy, at least so thought his employer, Mrs. Blachfork. She had good reason so to think. Two months ago a burglar broke into the house and Winfield caught him and held him until officers arrived. The burglar got five years at Lincoln for the job, and Winfield rose to great trust in his employer's house. Of late he has been drinking more heavily then usual and his mistress thought several times to discharge him, but refrained because afraid that he might return and do injury to herself and property. Her son is expected to arrive home on the 15th of August and she decided to allow Winfield to Temain until then. On Sunday evening one of the renters in the flat paid to Mrs. Blachford a considerable sum of money, the amount due from three boarders for the month. Winfield chanced boarders for the month. Winheld chanced to be standing by and saw the money taken. In that moment his resolve was taken. He disappeared from sight. Mrs. Blachford hid the money, intending to place it in the bank, as is her custom, on Monday morn-ing. At the usual hour she retired. About 4 o'clock the next morning she heard a knock at her door. Frightened, she waited. The knocking sounded arain touder than The knocking sounded again, louder than before, and when she made no response the door was burst open and a man's figure ap peared in view. The room was dark, and Mrs. Blachford could not distinguish the face or figure of the untimely visitor. But she kept her norve and called loudiy for Winfield, the negro who was presumed to be asicep in the house. The burglar, for such he seemed to be, approached the bed and made a mo-tion as though to choke the herave little door was burst open and a man's figure ap tion as though to choke the brave little woman. Then, with a low, muttered curse he retired, through fear that the men in the other part of the big house would be awak-ened and come to the rescue. A moment later the servant girl came hurrying up to her mistress' room and lighten a lamp. There on the table near at hand a lamp. There on the table near at hand was the long, keen carving knife used at the Buchford table. At sight of the terrible weapon Mrs. Biachford nearly fainted. A search was made and it was discovered that Winfield was gone. The matter was at once plain. He had brought the knife from the pantry, intending to murder if necessary to get the money, but weakening at the last minute, he fled.

As the pleasant, soft-voiced little lady recounted the story last evening she shud-dered and expressed the perfect horror which has possessed her since that terrible which has possessed her since that terrible morning. Brave she undoubtedly is, and quick-witted, but it was not thought best to leave the house unguarded, as the vindictive negro might return and wreak vengeance at any time.

Winfield got away with $4, which he found in a cupboard before entering Mrs. Blach-ford's room. A vigilant search for Winfield is being prosecuted

AN UNCERTAIN VOICE. The Civil Service Commission Makes A Vigorous Report. WASHINGTON, July 17 .- The civil service commission to-day made public its second report in the Milwaukee postoffice investigation. It is very voluminous, details at length the substantiation of the charges against Postmaster Paul and concludes as against Postmaster Paul and concludes as follows: "Mr_i Paul has grossly and habit-ually violated the civil service law, and has done it in a peculiarly underhand manner. His conduct merits the severest punishment. While he retains his position it is hopeless to expect an honest ad-ministration of the law. His further con-tinuance in office would be a great misfor-tune and we recommend his immediate re-moval."

moval. The report is signed by every member of the commission.

Harbor Improvements.

WASHINGTON, July 17 .- The improvements of the Chicago harbor and vicinity require the following appropriations, according to estimates of Captain Marshall, engineer in charge: Breakwater, etc., Chicago, $172,000; pier at Calumet, $78,000; dredging at Calumet, $35,000; dredging channel of Calumet river, $100,000. Captain Marshall reports that 4,750 feet of the Chicago breakwater need rebuilding, and 5,436 feet of new breakwater must be built. Calumet harbor ought to be deepened to 18 feet to accommodate the heavier built lake craft. The proposed morevements of the Calumet river channel include the dredging of a twelve-foot channel from One Hundred and Eighth street to Hammond, Ind., sixteen miles. It is recom-mended that the United States secure abso-ints including over the sizer for the top lute jurisdiction over the river for that ex-

Murshall says the route to the Mississippi river from near Chicago via the Illinois river, is the most favorable that exists for a water route, and that a 7-foot channel can be carried from the mouth of the Illinois river to La Salle, one hundred miles long, for $12,000. From La Salle to Joliet, where it will be less than forty miles from Chi-cago, the channel can be extended for $3,500,000.

National Educators.

NASHVILLE, July 17 .- The second day's session of the National Educational association was called to order this morning. Henry A. Wise, of Baltimore, read a paper upon the introduction of manual training into the public schools. Bishop John J. Keane of Washington read a paper prepared by Cardinal Gibbons upon the question: "Should Americans educate their children in denominational schools!" Bishop Keane followed in a paper on the same subject tak-ing the position that Christianity should be inculcated during the period when children are attending school. Edwin D. Mead, of Boston, followed in a paper in opposition to educating children in parochial schools. Bishop Keane replied and denied Mead's as-sertion that the pope of the Roman Catholic church was seeking temporal power and the church was seeking temporal power and the control of the government.

Sherman at Leavenworth.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., July 17 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-General William T. Sherman arrived in this city at 12 o'clock last night from the west, where he has been making a tour of the military posts. He was met at the depot by General McCook and aken to his residence at Fort Leavenworth. He reviewed the troops stationed at the gar rison this morning, and this evening held a reception at General Merritts headquarters that was attended by all the officers at the the post and the promient citizens of this city. The general practiced law in this city in 1558 and 1859, and many old citizens who knew him then called on him to day. He left for New York to night,

William Brown, D. Davis, Charles Etter, John Smith and Lee Jones were hauled in Tuesday night, and booked for keeping dis-orderly houses. They had neglected to make the requisite monthly contribution to the city exchequer. They promptly came to time with the cash when landed in the cooler, and were released.

The recent rains have washed two large holes in the sidewalk at Nos. 152 and 154 Broadway, which, it seems, is nobody's busi-ness to repair. The cause of the walk washing away is that the sills and joists of those two buildings have rotted away. The open ings are bottomless, and if any one should slip into one of them he would slide into the much and water down into a deep dark cellar, where the carcasses of dead rats and the decayed portions of horses' bones hold high carnival. These buildings, it is said, are owned by William Robinson and Benedict Hagg, two of Pottawattamie county's wealthiest citizens, take place this week, and will undoubtedly be a savage one. The Omaha darkey killed a goat in a butting contest some time ago, and the local numbskull split a two mch plank in his practice last Sunday. The contestants are to seize each other by the ears and lambaste each other with their craniums until one is knocked out or gives up the fight. The contest is very dangerous, as an unlucky blow is liable to strike a vul-nerable spot and kill the recipient. It seems that Council Bluffs is bound to outdo the world, and will try to eclipse even the brutality of the recent contest in Mississippi.

The Prohibitionists Turn Their Attention to Manawa.

HOW TO KEEP THE SEWERS CLEAR

A Shell Man Comes to Grief-The Saloonkeepers Wrathy-A Butting Match+A Pleasant Ceremony.

A Prohibition Move at Manawa. Messrs Odell Bros. and Louie, the owner of the eighty acre tract on the south side o Lake Manawa, on which Manhattan beach is situated, are determined that there shall be no more saloon business carried on there. It was at their request that the recent move was made against the beer joints located there, which resulted in the closing of the places kept by George Drake, James Rose are contemplated against any of the other places at the lake, either at Wright's landing or on the north shore. The result of the move just made will be appreciated by all who have occasion to visit Manhattan beach. as it will effectually remove the odium that has been associated with the place, not from has been associated with the place, not from any mismanagement, but simply on account of a few disreputable characters that have been wont to assemble at these drinking places, between the beach and Wright's landing. Odell Bros. have worked hard and unceasingly to conduct a bathing resort that could offer every attraction, and it is no more than was to have been expected that they would remove the last trace of anything that would tend to make the beach unpopular and disagreeable for patrons. The patronage bestowed upon the bathing

The patronage bestowed upon the bathing establishments at the lake has increased so rapidly this season that the accommodations rapidly this season that the accommodations have been greatly increased to keep pace with it, and the work that has been done at both Manhattan and Manawa beaches is re-ally remarkable. At Manhattan beach the accommodations of last year have been just about doubled, and the buildings created are in every way superior. At Manawa beach, on the north side of the lake, Mr. Malowney has been constantly building and improve

has been constantly building and improving, and has at last completed a bath house that is not surpassed anywhere. His last improvement was completed yesterday, and consisted of putting a roof over the west bathing compartment, for the use of after-noon bathers. It will keep off the hot rays of the sun, and will tend to greatly increase the amount of bathing done during the day. Next week the election of the officials of the new town will be held, and it is stated that several important changes will then be inaugurated. The move to secure electric light for the lake is not meeting with as en-thusiastic encouragement by the council as was anticipated. That the extension of the electric circuit of the lake will prove a great thing for the suburban resort there is no question, and it is equally certain that it will eventually be built there, but the prospects in this direction for the near future are not particulariv brilliant.

He was quickly resuscitated, and felt none the worse for his temporary weakness. Not so with Lambert. For several hours he was unconscious, tossing about at in-tervals so violently that the strength of four several hours he of four men was hardly sufficient to hold him. At first his recovery was thought im-possible, but at midnight he was breathing freely and sleeping, with chances in favor of ultimate recovery. About 5 o'clock a lady fell upon the side-

She Banks on Sympathy.

That young woman so extensively written up during the past few days as having been confined a prisoner in a "mansion" in this city, and who subsequently came to light in police court in connection with a $6 prostitute's fine, was sent up to the county jail because she had no money to liquidate the official obligation. Her friends made arrangements to bail her out, and listened to a very sensational and very fishy story of how she had suffered in her innocence at the hands of the Philistines among whom she was stranded. Men who claim to mow her, but who wouldn't care to know her, have their names put into print, state freely their belief that the woman's story is without basis in fact, and she herself an adventuress banking wholly on sympathy. In-asmuch as the names given by this young women up to date have been far from cor-responding, she is nameless here.

On October 2 of last year Pat Kirby, proprietor of the saloon at Thirrat Kirby, proprior of the saidon at rain-teenth and Farnam, drove out to a road house with Armour. Kirby came out first, and chm sing into his carriage, fell asleep waiting for Armour. While he slept, parties unknown stole his watch and chain, valued at $120. He told the police of his loss, and carries the said that a day or the same search was instituted a day or two ago. Ormsby found the chain in Fred Mohle's pawnshop at Eleventh and Farnam. Kirby was called in and identified the property as his own. Moble snid Armour pawned the chain, hence his arrest.

Divorce and the English Court.

As everyone interested in such matters now knows, the queen recently abolished the rule which prevented the ladies who had divorced their husbands from appearing at court, says London Truth. A lady who has divorced her husband for his misconduct, there being nothing against herself, may now at tend a drawing room, provided that she receives special permission, which, however, is not granted until the queen has satisfied herself, by reading the re-port of the trial in which the applicant figured, that the aforesaid applicant's conduct has been free from blame. There has been quite a rush of ladies in this situation for leave to come to court, and some who desired to attend the last drawing room were unable to do so, as the queen had not found time to investigate their marital antecedents. Her majesty seems rather capricious in the matter, for she peremptorily re-fused the application of one lady whose conduct has been absolutely blameless although great interest was privately exerted in order to obtain a favorable answer.

The complaint of the traveler against the English system of "tips" waxes every year more bitter, says the Boston Courier. It has become impos-sible for persons of moderate means to visit at large establishments, no matter upon what footing they stand with the owners, because it costs so much to fee the servants.

"I came away from England without going to see my sister." a gentleman said recently, "because 1 will not submit to the tipping. of work done on the quiet, with the end in view of carrying on this work and cinching other saloon men to keep them company in their grief.

As nearly as can be ascertained, several of the unfortunates who have felt the weight of the strong arm of the law on their pocketbooks have secured the services of George Bolton, esq., to look after the matter and see that all are treated alike. Mr. Bolton was asked yesterday regarding the matter, and stated that nothing could be told as yet conover sixteen years' experience, and that I use only the very best dyes and chem-icals. I clean and dye everything but fur goods. I call special attention to my new cleaning process by which the garment is not ripped and which restores the original lustre cerning their plans, but would simply say that it was the intention to secure a fair and impartial administration of justice, and to to the goods. Ladies' and gentlemen's sumto look as good as new. Dresses, clothing, silks, shawls, laces and plumes dyed in susee that there was no more discrimination in favor of certain saloonkcepers.

A might naturally be supposed, the saloon men now in business are decidedly hot re-garding it, and denounce in unmeasured terms the actions of their less fortunate terms the actions of their less fortunate brothers. It is assorted that the recently developed prosecution proposes to make a levy against the saloon keepers that will make them squeal when the time comes. The saloonists charge that the move is made solely to secure revenue, and the others reply that it is hardly fair for one side to get all the fat things and leave them out in the cold. The developments will prove interesting.

Poor Prussians are much ad dicted to horseflesh, stewed in a savory sauce; nor do the well to do distain it as an occasional viand served under its own name. In Germany, Italy and even France the flesh of horses and asses is unquestionably "converted into sassengers," of one of Mr. Samuel Weiler's most grewsome anecdotes, in vast quantities, and imparts to them close texture, rich color and aromatic flavor, in particular to Brunswick "Wurst," "Metadella of Bologna" and "Saucisson de Lyon." The bulk of the substance to which these dainties owe their being, how ever, is pork, fresh or salted; and in al probability the 4,000 pigs that annually pay the debt of nature in tribute to Berlinese appetites find their way to the table in the shape of either sausage or ham; for the Prussians rarely eat roast pork or fried bacon, whereas they are never weary of smoked and cured preparations of pig. Besides devouring this porcine host, Berlin stands accountant yearly for the violent death of 127. 500 head of cattle, 181,500 calves and
