

MILES OF LIGHTED STREETS

Will illuminate Omaha during Carnival Week.

ST. LOUIS AS AN EXEMPLAR.

Two and a-half miles of her Velled-Propriet System of Illuminated Globes to be Erected in This City.

Illuminated Globes.

Joseph Garneau has just returned from a trip to the south. He learned on his arrival that he had been placed at the head of the committee on out-door entertainments of the Merchants' Association.

"The appointment was made while I was away," he said, "nevertheless I shall do all in my power to make the work of the committee most successful and satisfactory."

"What plan have you outlined for a series of entertainments?"

"Well, I have not as yet determined upon a plan because I have not had time. As a starter, however, I am in favor of starting a nightly illumination, such as they have in St. Louis, but, of course on a smaller scale. You have, of course, seen the gas illumination during fair week. There is nothing like it. Well, this year they are to have a somewhat different style of illumination that would give us a chance to jump in and buy some of their pipe."

"It would cost us about $50,000." "The sum is not a large one," he says. "Could that amount be raised?"

W. A. L. Gibson, who was present, said Mr. Garneau, several others and himself were in the city a few days ago and in a few hours had obtained twice the amount in subscriptions for the soldiers' reunion, a gathering which did not benefit the town a particle."

"How much of the city could you illuminate?"

"About two miles and a half." "What streets?"

"Farnam, Douglas, part of Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, could get four arches for Tenth and Farnam, Sixteenth and Farnam, Fifteenth and Douglas, and Thirtieth and Douglas. The gas for these streets would be furnished for nothing, and would likely do the same thing here. If it only cuts the price in two, that would be sufficient."

Mr. Garneau was directed to The Bee's suggestions as to how an attraction for every day and week of the fair could be gotten up, and said that such attractions with a certain amount of interest by energetic young folks, and business could be gotten up. They would be comparatively inexpensive, and would insure to the benefit of the city, because larger crowds than would be attracted to Omaha. They would be kept down town part of the time. They could then go to the coliseum exhibition, then to the fair grounds, and still find sufficient in the night attractions to keep them in town over night.

The committees of the merchants will meet to-day, when all these subjects will be discussed.

The Coliseum Exhibition.

The Merchants' and Manufacturers' exposition to be held at the Coliseum, September 2 to the 15th inclusive, is now an assured fact, and it is predicted with undoubted belief a great success. Of the 5,000 square feet of exhibiting space which can be furnished, the following firms have already subscribed for their allotment: S. P. Morse & Co., Kelley, Singer & Co., Hayden Bros., Midland Electric Light company, the Western Casket company, D. M. Steel, Richardson Drug company, Page Bros., Brandeis & Sons, G. W. & C. A. H. Perrygo, W. S. Baldwin, the Thornton Machine company, L. W. Wolfe & Co., E. Holm & Co., W. E. Bennett & Co., C. B. Moore & Co., F. A. Reinhardt, Kerck & Manning, A. D. Morse & Co., Thompson & Holden, Snelman & Co., and the photographer, Hardy Norton Co., Gladstone Bros., Kennard Glass and Paint Co., and scores of others.

This is just the beginning of the work, but is sufficient to guarantee an unqualified success. The exposition is to be conducted upon the same plan as St. Louis 25 cent position, where they had over 200,000 visitors. Manager Prince of the Coliseum is rushing for attractions, and is being assisted by a number of the city's best business men.

Nipped in the Bad.

Is it not better to nip consumption, the greatest scourge of humanity, in the bud, than to try to stay the painful and protracted agony of the grave. A few boxes of California's most useful production, Santa Ana, the king of consumption, will relieve, and a thorough treatment will cure. Nasal catarrh, too, often the forerunner of consumption, can be cured by California Cat-arrh Cure. These remedies are fully warranted by Goodman Drug Co., at $1, or three for $2.50.

BOULEVARDS.

They Are Being Considered by the Park Commissioners.

Dr. Miller, president of the board of park commissioners, and Mr. Cleveland, the landscape gardener, yesterday morning took a drive about the city, studying different courses for boulevards. They experienced considerable difficulty in selecting a suitable route for the proposed driveway from Hamilton park to Florence park, in the opinion of the doctor, it will take some time to work out such a route. What they considered to be a good course for the southern drive was selected, beginning at Griffin's grove, running through Sycamore and Hamilton parks, and the country grounds. The West park was also visited.

Mr. Frank, the member of the board whose absence compelled a delay in the selection of park plans, returned to the city yesterday morning, and in the afternoon the board considered the plans for Jefferson square.

BOYD FOR MAYOR.

He Will Accept, Conditionally, the Democratic Nomination.

Much speculation has been indulged in regarding the democratic nominee for mayor. Two names have been mentioned in this connection, namely, Hon. James E. Boyd and Charles Goodrich, the present city comptroller. Many of the democrats, who have taken a conservative stand, favor the nomination of Goodrich, for the reason, they claim, that it would have a tendency to harmonize the party. They also claim that he is the strongest man in the ranks, not excepting Mr. Boyd.

A WAYWARD DAUGHTER.

She Causes Her Mother Much Anxiety and Sorrow.

Della Hayes, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mary Hayes, living on South Fourth street, has been causing her mother a great deal of trouble. Two months ago the girl ran away with a commercial traveler, whose name has not been ascertained, and went to Lincoln, where she claims she was married to the partner of her escapade.

She returned home alone, however, on July 1, and reported that her husband had left her. Since her return she has been keeping company with a tough set of young fellows, and her mother finally appealed to the police to have her child brought home.

Last night the girl met a hip young bartender who works in Patsy Fallon's saloon, and accompanied him to his room over McClellan's saloon. Here the pair were found by Detective Dwyer and the girl was taken home. These remedies are fully warranted by Goodman Drug Co., at $1, or three for $2.50.

THAT JUDGMENT FOR $3,800.

A Sarpy County Man Said to Have Skipped—Kicked by a Horse—Struck by the Sun—Bass Ball.

The $3,800 Judgment.

In answer to the question why the council allowed part and rejected part of the N street grading claim, a leading member of the city council said: "The facts in the case are just these: When Contractor Hanson broke up and the city found it would have to complete the contract and hold Mr. Hanson's bondsmen, the estimates were that it would cost some $700 or $800, not to exceed $1,000, to complete the work. To our surprise, when the work was completed the bill came in for $3,800. The old council passed a resolution, voted for by every member present except myself, authorizing a judgment to be confessed for $3,000. Imagine our surprise when a statement of contractor Hanson's judgment for $3,800. This council simply gives that unjust $800.

Playing Picking House.

Wednesday afternoon a party of young boys whose parents reside in Brown Park, were playing "picking house," using knives, hatchets, and other cutting instruments.

While a fellow player, John Jensen, put his right hand on the cutting block to get something, when the hatchet came down, cutting the middle finger through the bone and nearly off and cutting each of the adjoining fingers. A surgeon dressed the wound.

An Ugly Rumor Afloat.

Word comes from Papillon that D. T. Bohner, familiarly called "Joe" Bohner, who went from Omaha to George W. Palmer to run the Sarpy hotel at Papillon, got up Wednesday and skipped. Nothing crooked is known and as Mr. Bohner has property and always bore a good reputation it is believed that the rumor is a mere invention. It was not a good one and that he just dropped what he had put in the business.

A Bad Squeeze.

Charles Taggart, while at work Thursday at the Star Union Lumber company's yards, got squeezed between a loaded wagon and a pile of lumber so badly that at first it was thought his chest was caved in or ribs broken. To-day it stands on a firm financial basis, and is one of the largest and most prosperous churches in the city. Through the efforts of Bishop Newman, the new church, which was decided to build a new church home and to sell the old one, with the ground on which it stands, a portion of the new structure will be finished by October of this year, and from that time forward the congregation will worship there until the completion of the whole, which will be on the 1st of June, 1890.

A very pretty thing was done after the completion of the new church. A little that not a title of those present observed the action. The corner stone had been swung into place, and Rev. Dr. Lemon's final prayer was read. The remainder of the service, as master of ceremonies, handed to Bishop Newman a beautiful trowel, remarking that it was a little token from his friends, then present. "Thank God I am a Master Mason," quickly replied the Bishop in taking the trowel.

The basement of the building, which is almost entirely above ground, is already completed, and is built of handsome red brick, with a granite base. The building will be constructed with Chicago Roman pressed brick. The windows and walls will be trimmed with terra cotta and ornamental brick. The gallery will be of horseshoe form, after the fashion of the opera house, and will be 140 feet long, 16 feet wide, and will contain a 10,000 pipe organ. The auditorium will be lighted with the incandescent electric light and heated with steam.

WESTERN UNION INJUNCTION.

Attorney General Miller Will Take the Matter Up.

Attorney General Miller has notified the Union Pacific and the Western Union companies that, in his opinion, the United States is a party to the injunction proceedings against the Western Union Telegraph company, and that the case will be disposed of as soon as he can give it his attention.

This case grew out of the Union Pacific being ordered by the Western Union Telegraph company from operating a distinct and independent system of telegraph between Omaha and Denver and Kansas City and Cheyenne, a full account of which was published in The Bee about six months ago.

The case was called before Judge Brewer, of the United States circuit court at Omaha, Kan., and, upon suggestion by the court, the litigants agreed to submit the matter to arbitration. The arbitration was done, but it was during the closing of Cleveland's administration and Attorney-General Garland requested that the matter be held over until the next administration.

For a time it was doubted that the case would be taken up by the government but "generally known" as "the case of the burrowing animal of the genus Sciurus," a pouched rat common to the western plains or North America.

"There!" cried the rancho owner, "what did I tell you? I've known them all my life, and I guess no one ever saw a rat lay eggs. That's my mon—"

"Hold on," said the referee, "wait for the second definition," and he continued to read. "A species of burrowing tortoise—Xerobates Carolinus—habits of the southern parts of North America."

THE BILQUILA INDIANS.

An Interesting Account of Their Singular Marriage Ceremonies.

Ph. Jacobsen, in a letter to his well-known brother, Captain A. Jacobsen, gives the following description of the marriage ceremonies of the Bilgu Indians of British Columbia in a Savage.

An Indian who intends to marry calls upon his intended wife's parents and arranges with them how much he is to pay for permission to marry the girl.

After this the boy and the girl are considered engaged. When they come to be grown up the young man has to serve a year to his father-in-law. He must then hunt for the girl, and the hunt for the latter, during this time he is called Koo, which means "one who woo."

After a year has elapsed the marriage is celebrated. At this time great feasts are celebrated. Seven or eight men perform a dance. They wear dancing aprons and leggings, trimmed with pullin-bells; hoods of deers, copper plates and beads.

The groom presents the first dancer with a piece of money, which he divides into pieces, which he throws down in front of each house in the village, crying, "Ho!" in order to drive away evil spirits.

These pieces of calico which he throws down in front of the houses have a lucky meaning and at the same time express the idea that the groom, when he comes to be a wealthy man, will not forget the inhabitants of any house when giving a feast of good cheer.

blankets, generally double the number of those he had received from the groom, and gives them to his daughter. The bride orders a few blankets to be spread before the groom. She sits down and he puts his hand upon her head. Then the groom is given for each of the parts of his body one or more blankets. Finally he is given a new blanket. After the bride's father has given a blanket to each dancer and to the drummer, the villagers are invited to a great feast. At this time groom and bride eat for the first time together.

THEY CALLED THE BET A DRAW.

A Southerner and a Westerner Differ on the Gopher's Habits.

A southern colonel and a northwestern ranch owner formed part of a little table of men who were enjoying themselves around a table in the Hoffman house one of the other night, says the New York Tribune.

"Come, now, colonel," said the rancho owner, "draw it mild on us. Gopher eggs—eggs, you know. Ha! ha! That's 'don't understand you, sir,' said the colonel, rather nettled. 'You evidently take what I said for a joke.'"

"Well, that was natural, I am sure," said the rancho owner. "I would not offend you for the world; but gophers' eggs, you know—Ha! ha! Why, gophers don't lay eggs. You must be thinking of something else."

"I generally know what I am talking about, sir," snapped the southerner, "and I am not accustomed to being told that I do not. I'll bet you ten to one that gophers lay eggs, and that I have eaten them myself."

"Done with you," said the rancho owner, "in X's."

A stakeholder was appointed, and a dictionary sent for. The referee turned to the word "gopher." "Gopher, a little burrowing animal of the genus Sciurus—a pouched rat common to the western plains or North America."

"There!" cried the rancho owner, "what did I tell you? I've known them all my life, and I guess no one ever saw a rat lay eggs. That's my mon—"

Scratches His Back Artificially.

Mr. Harrison has an article of furniture to which he is very proud, and which is always to be found on his table in his library, says a Washington correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mr. Harrison is very weak on the subject of back scratching. This is well known in Indianapolis. He would frequently, while talking to a friend or a client in his little office out there, interrupt the conversation by getting up and requesting the one with whom he was talking, to scratch his back.

Mr. Harrison's back scratcher has an ivory handle. He uses it when no member of his family or close friend is near to run his finger nails over just the spot that yearns for the sensation of titillation. Otherwise he prefers to have the scratching done by hand.

If any gentleman who hankers greatly for an office will so far overvalue his natural reputation as to holdy go up and scratch gently and soothingly on Mr. Harrison's back he may consider himself as put on the pay roll.
