OMAHA WON AN EASY VICTORY.

Omaha 11, Minneapolis 2.

A large and enthusiastic audience went out to the ball park yesterday afternoon to witness the coming champions and the Minneapolis team try conclusions again.

It was ladies' day, and there was a larger number of the dear creatures present than was ever seen upon the grounds before.

And they were not sorry that they turned out either, for they saw the white-hosed brier win an easy victory, and they clapped their tiny hands and waved the air with the music of their birdlike voices.

The day was just the sort for a ball game—hot, bright, breezy—and everybody, down to the players, was feeling their very best.

But the story of the battle. Omaha, of course, went first to the bat, and they found Mr. Morrison, the old grasshopper lightning wiper, first.

After Crooks had fled out to Hengle, Cleveland took the ball, only to be driven home on a lovely three-sacker by Strauss.

Crooks followed up this nice work with a rattling single, and a fairly skipped across the plate like a lamb at play.

The spectators applauded vociferously. The sweet sounds from the grand stand moved Mr. Crooks, who, after a couple of girls in the northeast corner, he made a daring blue-eyed steal of second.

"Hey! hey!" cried the delighted throng, and straightaway Jack stole third. Walsh then got his base on a muff of the thrower, and he went off like a bird.

Walsh was inconsequential, as Andrews struck out, and after Messitt had reached his base on four bad ones, Canavan did like a hero.

Then the Minnies came in. Their half was short and sweet. Driscoll got his base on a beautiful, canny dash to the left, for old Farmer Miller waded, and Deer-foot Foster was thrown out at first, and Henke also.

That wasn't very exciting and the spectators were quiet, but they let themselves loose when the Omahas again took a hand at the bat, for with a gasp they came down to medallity. Mr. Morrison presented Nichols, Cooney and Cleveland with first base in quick succession.

That was awful—for Minneapolis, and Morrison's face became redder than Hiram's curls.

He grew rozier still when Count Strauss crossed him for a single, which sent Nick home and still left the bases loaded.

At this critical juncture that lid with the silvery jaw happened, and he came down to medallity. Mr. Morrison presented Nichols, Cooney and Cleveland with first base in quick succession.

ran home on Minnehan's sacrifice, and the row of eggs was spoiled. Hanrahan waded. In the final bout, Jevne reached second on a drive against the old field fence, and scored on Mitchell's single.

DETECTIVE REILLY'S STORY

Chill and All Her People Conspire to Keep Bushnell.

Everybody, From the Prime Minister Down to the Rumbiest Citizen, Seemed to Be Plotting in His Behalf.

Was Ever Embellisher So Loved?

NEW YORK, August 14.—Sergeant Philip Reilly, the chief of his unsuccessive flock from Chill to this city with William H. Bushnell, the thief and forger, to get possession of whom he fought the Chilean authorities nine months, was submitted to the police board to-day.

The surrender, he said, was unwillingly and grudgingly made by the Chilean authorities, so much so that, apprehensive of trouble, he called upon the American legation to demand the Chilean minister some official document stating that the prisoner was surrendered to him by process of law.

But the minister refused to give such a paper as requested. Bushnell was given into his hands on July 19 without a scrap of writing to show any authority for holding him.

This was the origin of the treachery. A receipt for the surrender was obtained by Reilly, but nothing was given to him. They were on board the steamer Imperial, one of the largest South American coasters.

A great number of Bushnell's friends were on board. They seemed to be everywhere and made no concealment of openly advising Bushnell to escape. Reilly did not like the looks of the prisoner, and to the captain of the steamer with a request for protection and assistance in holding his prisoner.

The captain said flatly that he would not have Bushnell considered as a prisoner or treated as one for a moment. The captain also informed the prisoner that while on board his ship he could go where and do whatever he pleased.

Every officer on the ship was a friend of the prisoner, and the captain of the steamer, one Rieckman, who was apparently there for the express purpose of aiding Bushnell to escape.

At every point where the steamer stopped the men received telegrams from the friends of Bushnell, and the prisoner, at every port, to Bushnell's friends came aboard in droves.

They were friendly overboard the country, and were led to the shore by the captain of the steamer, and let the American detective go home alone. At Tallait, the last stopping place before the American coast, the steamer was boarded by others and extended the hospitality of the province to the thief, Bushnell.

Reilly, however, refused to accept the offer. At every port where the steamer stopped, he was boarded at once. By the next morning there were more than a hundred of them on board the vessel.

Reilly says there was from the first a regular conspiracy to rescue the prisoner, and that the plan was to make the steamer a hide-out for the prisoner. After the prisoner's escape the passenger Rieckman demanded that the steamer be arrested, and that he surrender it, but on the following day it was surrendered by order of the captain.

TOP HEAVY.

An Attempt to Do a Large Business on a Small Capital Falls.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., August 14.—[Special Telegram to THE BEAR.]—The firm of Hineston, Peak & Co., manufacturers and wholesale dealers in hardware, and who have their Delaware street, turned over their stock this morning to B. Abell, trustee, for its creditors, whose claims foot up to $103,500.

The firm's assets are $100,000. Mortgages on the stock and fixtures are held by the Merchants' National Bank of Kansas City; H. B. Abell, of Kansas City; the First National Bank of Philadelphia; the First National Bank of Fort Worth, Tex.; the Thompson National Bank of Thompson, Conn.; the Lawrence National Bank of Lawrence, Mass.; the First National Bank of New York; the Second National Bank of New York; the Mercantile National Bank of Calais, Me.; the Lee National Bank of Lee, Mass.; and the Mercantile National Bank of New York.

He assigns as the cause of the failure an attempt to do a large business on a small capital. The firm had secured a loan of $100,000 from the National Bank of Commerce, of this city, to secure a debt of $30,000, and a shorter mortgage to secure a debt of $10,000.

Both members of the firm are considered men of undoubted integrity, and they claim they will be able to pay every dollar of their indebtedness.

The theatrical managers all say they will not oppose the law.

MRS. MAYBRICK'S CASE.

The Movement For Commutation of Sentence Growing Stronger.

LONDON, August 14.—[New York Herald Cable—Special to THE BEAR.]—There were no new developments of importance in the Maybrick case. An army of letter-writers is still filling the newspaper offices with waste paper.

Home Secretary Matthews, in spite of the deluge of letters and petitions, keeps his own counsel. Fifty-two members of parliament have signed a memorial asking for the commutation of Mrs. Maybrick's sentence. The signers of the petition in Liverpool number 40,000.

Mrs. Briggs was about the only interesting feature of the case. Goaded by the Herald interview with Baroness Von Roque, Mrs. Briggs came to the front and denied she had worked up the case against Mrs. Maybrick, of whom she was a friend, she affirmed. Mrs. Briggs contradicted herself curiously.

In the first part of the interview she said she had first heard of the poison when she learned that her mistress was poisoning her master. Toward the finish she said the idea of poison never entered her head until the doctor refused a death certificate. All sorts of rumors touching Mrs. Maybrick's health are about. The latest statement says she has quick consumption.

THE TRIALS OF A CONSUL.

W. F. Grinnell Addresses the Union Club of Bradford.

BRADFORD, August 14.—[New York Herald Cable—Special to THE BEAR.]—President Arthur appointed W. F. Grinnell consul at Bradford. President Cleveland reappointed him. Now President Harrison has appointed Major Tibbitts, of Connecticut, to Grinnell's place and appointed Grinnell consul at Manchester, an easier berth, for the present.

The Union club of Bradford gave Grinnell a dinner two nights ago, and at the dinner he made a speech which contains matter of special interest to the woolen and worsted trade of the United States, and at the same time contains nothing that need discourage tariff reformers.

Grinnell said: "The growth and importance of the districts, such as in exports to the United States during the last seven years, are significant. In 1883 the total exports to the United States in value just reached $1,000,000, while last year they were over $4,000,000. In May, 1882, the time of the commencement of my service here as consul, the exports were $191,000. The three largest items were: Stuffs, $188,000; worsted coatings, $23,500, and worsted yarns, $21,000, whereas in July just passed, my last month of service here, exports were $447,000 sterling and the three largest items were: Stuffs, $1,882,000; worsted coatings, $115,000; silk goods, $41,000. The total exports to the United States for the last seven years are: 1882, $1,077,000; 1883, $2,312,000; 1884, $2,673,000; 1885, $2,783,000; 1886, $3,673,000; 1887, $3,339,000; 1888, $4,183,000, and for 1889 in the proportion of the seven expired months the year's exports will reach nearly $5,000,000 sterling."

"The post of United States consul at Bradford is no sinecure. What renders the office of peculiar difficulty is that I might almost as well be in London as Bradford. The portion of merchandise passing through is subject to an intricate and distracting system of compound duties, specific and ad valorem, and these both at changing and varying rates with an advance or recession of the market price. No United States consulate in the world is so burdened with these duties as Bradford."

He then referred to the duties of the consul, and said that the duties of the consul are to protect the interests of American citizens in Bradford, and to protect Bradford against the interests of American citizens. He then referred to the duties of the consul, and said that the duties of the consul are to protect the interests of American citizens in Bradford, and to protect Bradford against the interests of American citizens.

TORIES TAKE A TUMBLE.

LONDON, August 14.—[Special Telegram to THE BEAR.]—The freight committee of the Central Traffic Association to-day decided that, beginning September 1, there shall be an all-round raise in iron and steel rates. The exact advances are left to the joint committee of the Central Traffic and trunk lines.

Milling in transit rates will be continued, except in the case of shelling corn in transit which was abridged.

That the Grand Trunk is growing restive toward the operation of the present rates is becoming more and more evident. In the recent flurry in grain rates, caused by the reduction to 20 cents by the Baltimore & Ohio on corn, and the subsequent reduction of the Grand Trunk to 25 cents on all other grain, these rates were adopted by the Grand Trunk in the month of August.

Several of the Central traffic roads think the Grand Trunk is making an active move, and that to "live up to its principles" it will lower all grain rates to the same basis or in some other way compel an advance in the corn rates.

WRITHING IN AGONY.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., August 14.—On Monday night D. M. Lichtenor, recently of New York, experimented on himself and a patient named L. D. May with the Brown-Squard elixir. Both are now writhing in mortal agony, the pain having begun several hours afterwards and increased ever since, nervous, a chilly feeling and symptoms of cholera, and a feeling of the throat becoming dangerous. The lamb had been dead one hour and forty minutes before the injection was made, and the patient was in a condition of a marvellous cure on Martin Hunter, who had been ill one year with chronic dysentery.

Ellixir Experiments.

PHILADELPHIA, August 14.—The physicians' room at the Medical-Chirurgical hospital was crowded to-day with patients who either had tried or were prepared to try the Brown-Squard elixir. Those who had tried it were not in any sense carried away with it. Twenty men, all the patients who had been treated, declined anything further.

A Threshing Machine Explosion.

ABERDEEN, Dak., August 14.—A threshing machine boiler exploded in New Hope township this afternoon, instantly killing Frank Arswell, engineer; William Snelzer, water tank man, and an unknown man who was acting as fireman, and seriously injuring a Russian named Lamak. The two killed were blown distances of twelve and seventeen rods.

CHICAGO, August 14.—The Burton building, at the corner of Clinton and Van Buren streets, which was gutted by fire some weeks ago, collapsed this morning, burying a number of workmen in the ruins. The work of digging out the debris was not done by the fire department. One man was killed and Nick Sever fatally injured.

A Lawyer Shoots a Judge.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., August 14.—Yesterday afternoon Judge W. L. Pierce, of the superior court, was shot and seriously wounded by W. G. Clendenin. A judicial opinion by Pierce unfavorable to Clendenin is understood to be the cause of the shooting.
