IOWA REPUBLICANS.

The contest for the republican gubernatorial nomination in Iowa, which had been vigorously carried on for two months, culminated on the twenty-fifth ballot in the convention in favor of Hon. Joseph G. Hutchinson, of Ottumwa.

The successful candidate entered the convention far in the rear in the number of votes that were pledged to him, and he owes his nomination to the followers of Wheeler, the farmer candidate, for the supporters of Captain Hull having deserted him until the final ballot, before which he undoubtedly saw the hopelessness of their fight.

There was evidently a very strong feeling between the friends of Hull and Wheeler, and the nomination of either of these gentlemen might have created some disaffection, but all will doubtless unite in heartily supporting Mr. Hutchinson, whose nomination was received with great enthusiasm. The candidate is a man of large political experience, having served four terms as a state senator, and he is credited with being a judicious and skillful politician.

His course in the state senate regarding railroad legislation was somewhat conservative, but he is regarded as a clean, capable man, who would discharge the executive duties intelligently and acceptably. He will undoubtedly make an active and vigorous campaign. The other candidates are worthy and capable men, some of whom have already done the state acceptable service and had a claim to the endorsement given them.

The platform congratulates the country on the restoration of the republican party to power and endorses the administration; favors a liberal construction of the pension laws, and demands protection of American industry, including the products of the farm, when such protection does not foster trusts or trade conspiracies. The principle and policy of state railway regulation is reaffirmed, so no concerted effort to maintain equality among all localities and individuals. It is declared to be the duty of the state and the federal government to enact and execute laws to punish trade conspiracies, trusts and combines. The past utterances of the party upon prohibition are reaffirmed, and it is declared to have become the settled policy of the state regarding which there should be no backward step. The complete enforcement of the law is demanded, which may fairly be accepted as ample acknowledgment that it is not being enforced. A welcome is extended to the new states, courts of arbitration for the settlement of differences between corporations and organized labor are favored, sympathy is expressed for the bona fide settlers on the Des Moines river lands, and the platform concludes with an endorsement of the administration of Governor Larrabee.

The work of the convention will undoubtedly be satisfactory to the large majority of Iowa republicans, and there is every reason to suppose that the party will get together as it has always done and elect its candidates by at least the usual majority for an off year.

THIS YEAR'S ELECTIONS.

Of the fifteen state elections which give interest to politics this year, that of Kentucky has been held. The next to occur will be those of the four new states, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Washington, which will choose congressmen, state officers and legislators. Governors will be elected in Ohio, Virginia, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Iowa and Mississippi. In New York the highest officer to be chosen is a secretary of state, in Pennsylvania the state treasurer, in Nebraska a judge of the supreme court, and in Maryland the state comptroller. In all of these states vigorous campaigns will be in progress within a few weeks, and the trend of the political current in some of them will be watched with great interest by other than the local politicians.

Although what is termed an "off year," the results of these elections, or those at least in which governors are to be chosen, will have a certain significance. They will indicate to an extent the judgment of the voters on the course thus far of the national administration, and according as majorities shall vary from those of last year it will be possible to obtain some idea as to how far the voters are still in sympathy with the principles and policies upon which the last national campaign was fought. As the Kentucky election distinctly showed that the large majority of the voters of that state are still in line with the democratic policy enunciated in 1888, so the result of the elections in Ohio, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Iowa will indicate in a measure whether or not the popular sentiment in those states has undergone a change regarding national policies. Hence these elections will possess an interest not confined to the several states in which they will occur.

Regarding the four new states, only Montana is deemed to be doubtful, the democrats still professing to be hopeful of carrying that state, but the republican outlook there has improved. If no mistakes are made and a thorough organization is effected the republicans of Montana will be successful. Republican victories in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Nebraska are assured, probably by majorities that will show the relative strength of the party to be fully maintained. In Ohio the contest will be very vigorous and earnest, and while the chances of success certainly appear to be with the republicans, there is a prohibition movement to defeat the party that is likely to be formidable and will render the result uncertain. In New York the probabilities are about even, while it would be a matter of universal surprise if New Jersey should fall to go democratic, although there are political complications there affecting the democracy which should improve republican chances. Mississippi and Maryland will doubtless give their usual democratic majorities, and there is very little reason to expect that Virginia will fall out of the democratic line. The recently effected closing of the breach between the leaders of the factions in that state does not seem to have been

St. Louis is Cheerful.

Without canvassing, without any agitation, without any effort of any kind at securing subscriptions, St. Louis already has a large amount pledged to the world's fair guarantee fund that either New York or Chicago. Money talks, and in this language the eloquence of St. Louis drowns the puny voices of its rivals.

THE INDUSTRIAL FIELD.

Tacoma (W. T.) tin and cornice men now work nine hours at ten hours' pay. English metal works do not admit foreigners to their shops. New York claims the best diamond-cutters. They make $30 per week. The world's coal production in 1888: 430,000,000 tons; United States, 130,000,000; Pennsylvania, 71,000,000.

Mrs. Emma Durselberg will represent the Cincinnati cloakmakers at Paris. Two thousand bakers in Berlin have gone on strike against a reduction in wages. The first local assembly of the Knights of Labor in Australia with over one hundred charted members was held in Sydney.

During the past year over $100,000,000 were expended by English capitalists in the purchase of American industries. These industries are principally breweries, steel works and furnaces and lumber concerns. The council of the United Spinners in the cotton-spinning districts of England has passed a resolution stating that owing to the present state of trade all spinners in the union must reduce their productions by one-half.

An English trade journal characterizes the American machinery as clumsy and flimsy imitations of English models. The writer of the article probably never was in America. One of the largest weave-sheds in the country is being erected by Nightingale Bros., at Patterson, N. J. It contains 36,000 square feet of flooring and will be provided with the best machinery in the country. A large number of employees will be required when it is completed.

A Pittsburg (Pa.) potter just returned from Europe says the foreign potters are making a strong bid for American trade, and are prepared to break the prices. The granite for the new Congressional Library building at Washington will be cut at Concord, N. H. It will require 1,000 men four years to complete the work. The poverty of the working classes in the East Side of London is said to be appalling, and will soon become a social problem that must be considered by the government.

There are in the East End nearly 1,600,000 people, 10 per cent of whom never eat a regular home-baked loaf. There are over 200,000 people in families of which the head never earns more than $5 a week. When the rent is deducted from the earnings there is not enough left to buy any but the most wretched food, such as would cause indigestion if it were offered to convicts here. It is stated that the condition of these people has been growing steadily worse during the last ten years, as years ago their earnings were as much, while rent, clothing and necessities were a good deal cheaper.

General E. Burr Grubb is a candidate for the republican nomination for governor of New Jersey. Make your own plans. W. J. Arkel says that in London Russell Harrison has run across a new process that will revolutionize the present system of photo-engraving. Secretary Proctor is best known in Washington as the chief of the United States Patent Office. "Jerry" Rusk is the best known member and the most popular with the masses.

Ex-Secretary Bayard will not run for governor of Delaware. The Salisbury faction have knocked him out. Editor De Young of the San Francisco Chronicle is reported to have an eye on a seat in the United States senate. I. I. Clark, an architect from Brisbane, Queensland, Australia, has been visiting the principal cities in this country. He considers the city hall of Philadelphia the finest building in the United States.

Dr. W. B. Clark claims that the oldest man ever lived near Monterey, Cal. His name is Gabriel, and according to the doctor he is nearing his 150th year. Murat Halstead's avowed senatorial candidacy has considerably stirred up the brethren in Ohio on both sides of the political fence. The Dayton Journal says it "dangerously embarrasses the campaign." and the Columbus Journal pronounces it "bad politics."

President Carnot of France is developing additional claims to popular respect. It now looks out that he has written a good deal of poetry and has persistently refused to permit its publication. Oliver Wendell Holmes says that he has taken more interest in surgery than in poetry, but he realizes that his fame will rest upon the efforts of his pen, not of his knife. Carl Schurz has gone to Europe on another business trip. His campaign has a large money of late, and goes over this time to bring back more German capital for investment. Senator Sherman is said to have become a skillful chess-player since he went to Europe, but it is doubtful whether he will be able on his return to checkmate his enemies in Ohio.

CAPITAL CITY MEN TAKEN IN

A Smooth Gentleman from Dakota Worked Them. McClellan, the Bigamist, Arrested—The Omaha Union Depot Company Incorporates—State House Jottings—News Brevities.

Lincoln Herald of the Omaha Bee, 1029 P STREET, LINCOLN, August 15. Charles Meisner, representing the "Building & Loan Association of Dakota," has skipped for parts unknown. The company in question is one of the foreign companies that domesticated under the amended incorporation laws of the state within the past few weeks. Ostensibly, Meisner came here to organize a local branch to pass upon applications for 8 per cent loans, it having been given out that the company would furnish all the money wanted at that rate on properly certified property. His representations were so far that he had no trouble in organizing a local board, which he did, as follows: Secretary, J. W. Stewart, treasurer; F. L. Rose, attorney, and C. Atkins, abstractor. It is said that Meisner had no money to induce some of these gentlemen to take stock in the concern. No sooner, however, had Meisner perfected the organization than he proceeded to obtain money from any class of realty, and his propositions were so extravagant that the local board became frightened, and Wycoff wrote the company demanding his removal as an agent or representative of the company upon the rights of a stockholder. This led to explanations, and a man became known as the one who had no authority whatever to dispose of stock. In some way, however, Meisner got word of the fact that he was under suspicion, and he fled to Lincoln, leaving the board in the lurch $400.

McClellan, the Bigamist. Tilly Trechal, the young German girl who had occasion to mention in connection with C. W. McClellan, the bigamist, who skipped the city between two seas and went to Denver a few weeks since, to-day acknowledged her grief and filed her information in the county court, charging McClellan with bigamy. She alleges that he contracted his first marriage in California, and that he subsequently proved that he had a wife living in Iowa from whom he had not been divorced. Still, the Trechal girlfiled a victim to his wiles, though she escaped the humiliation of living with him in crime. It turns out, further, that McClellan has two wives living in Lincoln, one of whom lies at the William hospital at the point of death. McClellan was telegraphed for at Denver a few days ago, and he came on Monday night. He is here, and he has filed the necessary information for his arrest, which took place to-day. It is said that there is enough evidence in hand to send McClellan to the penitentiary for a term of years. Besides answering to the charge of bigamy, he will also answer to that of bigamy.

Marriage a Failure. In the district court to-day Mrs. Jennie Woodward filed her petition praying a divorce from her husband, Hiram Woodward, alleging adultery and desertion. The records and history of the case are as follows: Mrs. Woodward, really a cross-petitioner, denying each and every allegation of the complainant and in turn charging adultery at divers times and places, giving names with whom, and fixing dates and places with startling precision. In connection with the petition, she filed, either show a very disgraceful state of past affairs at the Woodward home, and it is altogether probable that the trial will develop a breeziness in the court room rarely witnessed. At this stage the misadvised husband and wife are playing out at cross-purposes, but their legal literature would look very bad in print.

Question of Jurisdiction. The case of Charles B. Baily vs. the state of Nebraska, on error from the district court of Saline county, raises a question that has not been passed upon by the supreme court, and it is of no little interest. It is as to whether a justice of the peace has the jurisdiction to try and render judgment in a case like that of Baily, who is a citizen of Nebraska. In this case the attorneys for Baily contend that a justice has no jurisdiction, and that the case should be removed to the district court for a preliminary examination only. The question raised is a mooted one among lawyers, and it is widely and curiously discussed. It is understood that the attorney general thinks that the court will sustain the defendant and error, and that the opinion of the lower court will be affirmed. The case will be tried at the coming session of the supreme court.

Omaha's Union Depot. Articles incorporating the Omaha Union Depot company, organized for the purpose of locating, constructing, maintaining and operating a union freight and passenger depot in the city of Omaha, were filed for record to-day in the office of the secretary of state. The authorized capital stock is fixed at $500,000. Incorporators: W. H. Holcomb, Thomas L. Kimball, E. Dickenson, G. W. Holdrege and J. G. Taylor.

Nebraska City Must Register. Frank McCarty, county clerk of Otoe county, writes the attorney-general for information regarding the new registration law. It appears that the law is divided there as to whether or not the law applies to Nebraska City, and the attorney-general was asked for a construction of the law. In the absence of General Lease, Deputy Stewart wrote an opinion stating that it does, even though they might have a population of 3,500 people. It seems possible, however, from the reading of section 1 of the act that it might not be applicable to some cities, even though they might have a population of over 2,500. It appears that the act is applicable only to such cities which shall include within its boundaries a portion of the water-front in which the city is situated. It is said that there are good grounds to raise this sort of a question, and some cities of nearly more than 2,500 people might be exempt.

State House Jottings. The governor to-day made the following notarial appointments: George M. Sullivan, Broken Bow, Custer county; W. B. Berry, South Omaha, Douglas county; August Brockman, Rushville, Sheridan county; Charles E. Clapp, Omaha, Douglas county; Douglas Combs, Pierce county. The prod the board of public lands and buildings secretly used to bury up indifferent contractors is having the desired effect. Contractor Lanham now has two men at work on the capitol grounds, and by increasing the force at this rate every day for a month it will be possible to finish there before snow flies.

Charles H. Emery filed his case on appeal against the latest to walk the golden lines of the court to-day. It comes up from Douglas county. The Champion Machine company's case against Fred Gordon on error from Cass county was also docketed for trial. Secretary Garber, of the state board of transportation, left to-day for Astwood, Hawkins county, Kansas, on a two weeks' hunting trip. He says he expects to enjoy a fine time in the wild and woody west. School district No. 31, of Scott's Bluff county, sent $300 worth of bonds to Auditor Beaton to-day, for registration.

City News and Notes. J. C. McBride won in the case brought against him by the First National bank. The jury thought with the general public that motive power created by mules was not electric power. The receding waters on the Salt creek bottoms show a distressing condition, yet not so bad as has been anticipated. It is said that corn is struggling up rapidly

WAKE UP, OMAHA!

The Corn Palace City Working a Scheme With the Union Pacific. COLUMBUS, Neb., August 15.—To the Editor of THE BEE: Omaha had better wake up. Sioux City commission men have lately been down in this vicinity and are making a strong pull to secure all the live stock shipments from the north Platte country, to which, it is stated, the Union Pacific railroad is a willing party. The Sioux City people represent to the farmers and heavy shippers that if they will send their cattle and hogs to that market they will get the benefit of competition, which can't be had if they ship to Omaha.

The plan is to induce shippers on the main line from the westland from the Cedar Rapids and Albia branches of the Union Pacific to send their live stock to Sioux City, via Norfolk, by making up fast freight trains at this place and Avoca. This the road is anxious to do, because it gives it a longer haul than it would have to Omaha, and relieves the line from the heavy traffic which it has to carry east of this city. The scheme is a well laid-out one, and it has the secret support of the Union Pacific railroad. It will badly damage Omaha, making her a second or even a third rate market, for with what the Chicago & North-western road directs from Omaha via Blair, but few cattle and hogs from the North Platte country will get into the hands of the South Omaha stock yards. The scheme has been in operation about two weeks, and it is reported that already heavy shipments have been made over the Union Pacific's Sioux City line.

The scheme is working so well it is reported that the stock commission men are contemplating extending the Union Pacific line from Fullerton, Nance county, on west to North Platte. This feeder would draw business from the main line all the way west from this place to North Platte for a distance of about two hundred miles, embracing some of the best stock country in Nebraska, and by reason of the conditions under which it would be built would be claimed by Sioux City, and according to the late reports of the Union Pacific, the stock yards are now in session at Chicago, and the members of the Trans-Missouri wish to make regulations to conform with the provisions of the act. It is said that the other words, the action of each society will be governed by that of the other, and the result will be a result of the combined judgment of the entire force.

Commercial Agent Warrack, of the B. & M., at Beatrice, is in the city. The meeting of the Nebraska Joint-rate association, which was to have been held in Omaha yesterday, has been indefinitely postponed. Division Freight Agent Warrack, of the Union Pacific, is on a trip over the road. He will meet Mrs. Warrack, who has been traveling in California. All B. & M. trains were on time yesterday, the tracks and bridges along the line which were damaged by water having been repaired. Arthur B. Smith, chief clerk in the office of the general passenger agent of the B. & M., is in Lincoln.

Major T. S. Hastings was elected marshal of the Merchants week association met yesterday morning. From all members came encouraging reports. Major Hastings was elected marshal of the great trades display, which is to be made on September 4. He will appoint his aides, divide the line into divisions and generally superintend the great affair. The committee, consisting of Joseph Garneau, Amos Field, Robert Eason and E. E. Bruce, has sent the following postal circular to the jobbers, manufacturers and other dealers in this city, which explains itself: "As a merchants and manufacturers' display is contemplated on Wednesday, September 4, in conjunction with the traveling men, military and firemen's parade, the committee on the part of the Merchants' week association in making the exhibit a grand success. The committee would suggest that you notify A. Field, secretary of the Richardson Drug company, on or before the 30th of your intention to be represented, and state the number of the display which you will require position in the parade. "Please report as early as possible." Many of the circulars have scarcely as yet reached the destination, but some of them had no sooner been received than the recipients responded immediately. From Omaha the responses are the following as selected: Farrell & Co., syrups, one wagon, Pacific Express company, sixty drilled men and 12 wagons; E. F. Seaman, B. G. H. Mack & Co., cigars; 5; Acme Iron and Wire works; J. Z. L. Lindsay, rubber goods; 3; Hill & Young, furniture; 2; Carter Lead company; 3; A. House, music and art; 2; Kennard Glass and Paint company; 3; William Barr, dry goods; 1; D. O. Clark, coal, 6.

Other responses are expected daily. The committee insist that every display shall be made with both taste and care. It holds that a merchant who is not in favor of making a creditable appearance ought to remain out of the line. It would do him no good. On the contrary, it would tend to injure because of the unfavorable comparison which would be made by the spectators. The intention is to have the grandest display of the kind which has ever been held in this part of the country.

Second Ward Democrats. The democrats of the Second ward will hold a meeting at the corner of Sixteenth and Williams streets on next Monday night. The call for this purpose has been issued by Hugh Murphy, the president of the association. The Bohemian democrats of the Second ward have organized a club which they intend to maintain throughout the approaching campaign. Messrs. Astor, Sinauer and John Neroda have been appointed a committee to draft a constitution and by-laws which they will report next Tuesday night at Meitz' new hall.

Another Wedding. At present there appears to be a mania among railroad employes for getting married. The latest to walk the golden lines of the matrimonial fetter about him is Mr. M. McGrath, the popular young stenographer in the general freight office of the Elkhorn, who on Tuesday last, at Fulton, Ill., wedded Miss Nettie E. Puffer, one of the sweetest little flowers that ever grew in the garden of love. The young couple are at home to their many friends at 3008 Ohio street.

Acquitting Paws. On next Sunday there will be a meeting of the members of the Temple of Israel at 2 p. m., at which time there will be a consideration of the amended rules of the organization. At the same time the paws of the synagogue will be sold under a new name, and hereafter they will have been sold in perpetuity.

To preserve the richness of color or delicacy of tint of your summer dresses, make suds of hot water and IVORY SOAP, allow to cool until lukewarm, then wash your dresses in the solution. Ordinary soaps contain too much alkali, which in a short time bleaches the color and destroys its beauty. Prof. Silliman, of Yale College, says, "The Ivory Soap can not injure the most delicate fabric."

A WORD OF WARNING. There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the Ivory," they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

This feeder would draw business from the main line all the way west from this place to North Platte for a distance of about two hundred miles, embracing some of the best stock country in Nebraska, and by reason of the conditions under which it would be built would be claimed by Sioux City, and according to the late reports of the Union Pacific, the stock yards are now in session at Chicago, and the members of the Trans-Missouri wish to make regulations to conform with the provisions of the act.

It is said that the other words, the action of each society will be governed by that of the other, and the result will be a result of the combined judgment of the entire force. Commercial Agent Warrack, of the B. & M., at Beatrice, is in the city. The meeting of the Nebraska Joint-rate association, which was to have been held in Omaha yesterday, has been indefinitely postponed.

Division Freight Agent Warrack, of the Union Pacific, is on a trip over the road. He will meet Mrs. Warrack, who has been traveling in California. All B. & M. trains were on time yesterday, the tracks and bridges along the line which were damaged by water having been repaired.

Arthur B. Smith, chief clerk in the office of the general passenger agent of the B. & M., is in Lincoln. Major T. S. Hastings was elected marshal of the Merchants week association met yesterday morning. From all members came encouraging reports.

Major Hastings was elected marshal of the great trades display, which is to be made on September 4. He will appoint his aides, divide the line into divisions and generally superintend the great affair. The committee, consisting of Joseph Garneau, Amos Field, Robert Eason and E. E. Bruce, has sent the following postal circular to the jobbers, manufacturers and other dealers in this city, which explains itself:

"As a merchants and manufacturers' display is contemplated on Wednesday, September 4, in conjunction with the traveling men, military and firemen's parade, the committee on the part of the Merchants' week association in making the exhibit a grand success. The committee would suggest that you notify A. Field, secretary of the Richardson Drug company, on or before the 30th of your intention to be represented, and state the number of the display which you will require position in the parade. "Please report as early as possible."

Many of the circulars have scarcely as yet reached the destination, but some of them had no sooner been received than the recipients responded immediately. From Omaha the responses are the following as selected: Farrell & Co., syrups, one wagon, Pacific Express company, sixty drilled men and 12 wagons; E. F. Seaman, B. G. H. Mack & Co., cigars; 5; Acme Iron and Wire works; J. Z. L. Lindsay, rubber goods; 3; Hill & Young, furniture; 2; Carter Lead company; 3; A. House, music and art; 2; Kennard Glass and Paint company; 3; William Barr, dry goods; 1; D. O. Clark, coal, 6.

Other responses are expected daily. The committee insist that every display shall be made with both taste and care. It holds that a merchant who is not in favor of making a creditable appearance ought to remain out of the line. It would do him no good. On the contrary, it would tend to injure because of the unfavorable comparison which would be made by the spectators. The intention is to have the grandest display of the kind which has ever been held in this part of the country.

Second Ward Democrats. The democrats of the Second ward will hold a meeting at the corner of Sixteenth and Williams streets on next Monday night. The call for this purpose has been issued by Hugh Murphy, the president of the association. The Bohemian democrats of the Second ward have organized a club which they intend to maintain throughout the approaching campaign. Messrs. Astor, Sinauer and John Neroda have been appointed a committee to draft a constitution and by-laws which they will report next Tuesday night at Meitz' new hall.
