A BRUTE FOILED. A Thirteen-Year-Old Girl Made the Victim of a Bestial Assault. Henry Payne, a rough-looking laborer employed by Kurtz, the dairy man, had a hearing before Justice Anderson yesterday afternoon on a charge of attempted rape.

The victim was present, accompanied by her father, who filed the information. Her name is Ellen Workinger. She is not more than thirteen years old, and rather under the average size for that age. Her father and herself are employed by Contractor Bell.

On Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock the little girl walked across the fields to get money from her father, and returned with a little boy by the same route. As the pair hastened along the narrow path the fellow Payne sprang out of the high grass and threw the girl to the ground, at the same time telling her companion to hurry out of sight.

The boy ran away a few yards and turned to look back. Payne held his victim down until she began to choke, but so desperately did she struggle that he failed to accomplish his purpose. Finally the boy began to yell for assistance and Payne fled.

The justice placed his bond at $1,000, in default of which he was sent to jail. The trial will be held on the 23rd inst.

THE FLAMBEAU CLUB. The Omaha Flambéau club, seventy-five in number, met Monday evening at the Collins Gun company's store. They formed in rank and marched to their drill ground on Capitol avenue.

The club presented a fine appearance in rank, and went through the evolutions with almost the precision of trained troops. They marched in open and close order, in column and obliquely to the right and left. Their oblique marching will be of great service in keeping back the large crowds that will line the streets, and, as is always the case, press forward into the procession. In the front of the column, as it marches obliquely across the street, will be stationed men in flambeaux. The flame flaring several feet in front of the advancing column will tend to discourage the spectators from crowding this division of the procession, at least. The club has about its full complement of men, and the drilling will be kept up assiduously until it attains a high degree of excellence in their maneuvering. It is intended to make the Omaha flambeaux the best drilled club in the country, and to compete with other clubs who think they can do better with firework's or in marching.

The uniforms will be ready about the last of the week, when the clubs intend to exhibit them in the streets in what may be called a dress rehearsal.

The order for $2,000 worth of fireworks went forward yesterday afternoon, and manufacturers a chance to send their best work for the money.

She Knew Her Chance. Employed to Cook, Mary Larsen Gathers in the Jewelry. Mary Larsen was arraigned in police court yesterday on the charge of larceny. She went to work Monday morning for D. W. Dolson, the express man at Twenty-fifth and Grant streets and had been in the house but a few hours when she was discovered to have a portion of the family jewelry in her possession. She had appropriated a valuable gold chain, a ring and $5 in money, all amounting to $25. In police court she waived examination and was placed under bonds of $50 to answer to the charge in the district court.

The Great Fair. Most of the advertising matter for the Omaha fair has been sent out, although the demand for more material continues to pour in. From letters received from various parts of Iowa and Nebraska, it is expected that Dr. Talmage will prove one of the most successful attractions of the early part of the week. The attractions in the city at night are not only a novelty in Omaha but sufficient to attract the large crowd expected to be present.

There has been a report in some of the papers that the coming event is given as the Douglas county fair. The Douglas county fair is simply a misapprehension of what will be seen at the fair grounds.

Notice of the cheap fares from all points within ninety miles of Omaha were sent out yesterday. Any person desiring to see the fair and Merchants' week (which means a grand exhibit and lots of enjoyment) will not regret having spent the week beginning September 2 in Omaha.

COBURN'S PROFITS. County Commissioners Making an Examination of His Accounts. The county commissioners are now preparing for an investigation into the financial conduct of Sheriff Coburn. They will sit next Friday as a committee of the whole to examine an itemized statement being prepared by Auditor Evans.

Three questions have been raised and will be considered, viz.: fees and salaries for deputy sheriffs and court bailiffs, keeping and transporting of convicts as well as insane patients to the penitentiary and asylum.

What are the sheriff's duties under the law? seems to be the point at issue. The claim is made that he draws fees for his deputies, as bailiffs in addition to their regular salary, and on this item for two years' services $1,700 stands against him. Can he do this without reporting such fees back to the county? Mr. Mahoney will probably be called on to decide.

Again it is claimed that Mr. Coburn gets too much money for feeding and sheltering city, Sary county, United States and transient prisoners not to divide his profits. The board contends for forty days' pay for twenty-five cents a day for each of such prisoners and still have a good margin left. The grounds on which this demand is made are that the county pays jail and not the fuel and leaves him no expense except what he pays for the food they eat. This, it is estimated, will not average over twenty cents a day for each man. If it is found that he should divy, and they make him put up for all the time he has been in office, Mr. Coburn will be compelled to disgorge about $1,700.

One member of the board opines, however, that he should not be held to account for any time previous to the date of his election to a certain resolution, about one year ago.

On the other hand, Mr. Coburn is entitled to 10 cents a mile traveling expenses, going and coming, when conveying prisoners or insane persons to the penitentiary and asylum, but for the past year he has not received anything for this service; therefore, unaccounted will about offset the other. Still, it is a system that the board desires to establish or rather to have an instrument which will list on the sheriff getting his pay for boarding city prisoners from the city instead of the county.
