Standing of the Clubs.

Table showing standings of various baseball teams including Omaha, St. Joseph, and Des Moines.

Omaha 18, Des Moines 2. The White Sox were out dallying with the prohibitionists again yesterday afternoon, running away with them by a score of 15 to 7.

It was ladies' day, and as a consequence the attendance was good.

The game, however, was a bore. Hart was in the box for the visitors, and he received a fearful lambasting.

Sixteen hits with a total of twenty-seven bases, and eight bases on balls, is the size of his afternoon's performance.

And Captain Macmillan is a prevaricator of the deuce of days.

Willis opened up as Omaha's delivery end of the battery, and did fairly well, barring his wildness. He allowed the children from Iowa's capital but four hits and struck out seven.

But one run was scored of Dad—a questionable honor over the right field fence by the descendant of the man who discovered Virginia.

This made Clarke hot, and he told 'em that he was evincing the primary symptoms of decomposition.

Tim smiled blandly and cautioned Dad to keep busy or the grand stand might fall on him.

Then the game went on, Dad knocking them out as fast as they toed the scratch.

But the score will tell the story:
