OCCULTATION OF JUPITER

How It Was Observed Last Night at Creighton College.

SHORT SESSION OF THE COUNCIL

The People of Druid and Walnut Hills Dis-atisfied With the Action of the Missouri Pacific-Military Notes.

The Sky Was Too Cloudy.

Jupiter and his satellites were on time for the occultation last night and so was the moon, but owing to the clouds and haze in the air very little could be seen. Up on the hill at Creighton college, Mr. W. F. Rigge, S. J., sat in the observatory with his eye the telescope, striving to catch a glimpse of the rare phenomenon about to take place, The first external contact was lost on ac count of bad definition, occasioned by the clouds. None of the satellites could be seen. The first internal contact was observed at So'clock, 12 minutes and 4.2 seconds, out this time is uncertain by about two seconds. A wait of an hour and nine minutes followed the disappearance of the planet before he again appeared from behind the moon. The emersion was well observed, owing to the clearing away of the clouds, but the moon's glare rendered it impossible to see the sat-tellites until they had attained to a certain distance and had got beyond her influence. The second internal contact was lost on account of the moon's glare. The last external contact, when Jupiter completely reappeared, was at 9 o'clock, 21 minutes and 38.90 seconds. Both the planet and his four

Mr. Rigge had calculated the time that the occuration would occur at the observatory, as published in last Sunday's Brg., and his deduction proved true within a few seconds.

Mr. Rigge is a brother of Father Rigge, the professor of extremely at the college. the professor of astronomy at the college and is taking a course in theological study a Woodstock, Md., a short distance from Bai timore. He has been visiting his brother for some time and remained to witness last night's stellar exhibition. He leaves to-day for Woodstock to resume his studies.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

It l'asses the Appropriation Ordinance and Adjourns.

The council met last night, passed the appropriation ordinance for August, and adtourned. There were a number of important matters hanging fire, one them being the preliminary steps for the appointment of supervisors of the registration, but a majority of the members decided to let everything but the pay roll go over until next week. The appropriation ordinance draws on the various funds a Abandoning Forts. The Washington dispatches in THE BEE tell of the ordered abandonment of Fort Laramie, in Wyoming; Fort Hayes, in Kansas, and Fort Lyon, in Colorado. The reason assigned far the abandonment is the fact that there is really no need of them in the localities mentioned, the daugers which suggested their creation having Indian Extermination.

Colonet George L. Shoup, governor of Idaho, was in the city yesterday on his return from the Grand Army encampment at Milwaukee, and lunched at the Omana club

The governor is one of the most popular gentlemen in the west. He is a large merchant, cattle-raiser and an extensive miner. He is a member of the republican national Twenty-five years ago Colonel Shoup was in the army and was stationed at Denver. The Sand Creek Indians were camped in the vicinity and were a menace to the inhabitants, shooting their arrows at every pack train and killing and robbing with impunity. The citizens of Denver became weary of it. Colonel Shuington was in command, who was then a captain, was detailed by him to stop the depredations.

The Indian camp was surrounded in the still hours of the night by the still hours of the night by a force of 400 men, mostly citizens of Denver. He ordered his men to fire on the Indians and spare none. Early in the morning the slaughter began and the Indians to their last man were killed.

A great cry was raised in the east and Shuington was cashiered—dismissed from the army for want of humanity. The price of provisions in Denver was lowered and Shoup was applauded by all the Denverites.

Want Better Train Service. The people of Druid and Walnut Hills are very much dissatisfied with the action of Superintendent Gilmore, of the Missouri Pacific, regarding his action relating to trains on the Belt Line during fair week. A committee of citizens waited on Mr. Gilmore and asked him to put on a train to leave Walnut Hill at 7:30 p. m. and arrive at 9:30 p. m. in order that they might attend the exposition. They met with an absolute reusal. This comes right in the face of a statement that the Belt line would run trains to suit the convenience of the people, and, considering the fact that the road is paying, seems to be unwarranted.

Struck By a Street Car. J. J. Bridges, a hotel man of Portland, Neb., alighted from a cable car at Fourteenth and Harney streets yesterday afternoon. He was struck by a passing train and dragged several yards, bruising him severely and tearing his clothes.

The Weather Forecast. Nebraska and Dakota. Local rains, lower temperature, winds shifting to northerly. followed by cooler on Thursday, cast winds.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Haverly-Cleveland company played to as large and fine an audience at Boyd's opera house last night as ever attended a minstrel performance in Omaha. The seating capacity was sold long before 8 o'clock standing room went off a rapidly and standing room went off * rapidly and many turned away unable to gain admission. Only on rare occasions, and when the attraction is an extraordinary one, are such exciting throngs attracted in front of the theatre as congregated there iast evening at an early hour, waiting for the doors to be thrown open. The assertion can be safely ventured, also, that no better audience could be found anywhere. Mr. Cleveland's great promises of something unusual in the line of artistic innovation, as well as reflued advancement in this class of entertainment, had whetted the people's anticipation to a keen edge. Therefore, when well as remed advancement in this class of entertainment, had whetted the people's anticipation to a keen edge. Therefore, when they witnessed the realty of everything as it had been represented their unbounded appreciation exerted itself through the most pronounced demonstrations. It is enough to say, without going into generalities, that the show is first-class from beginning to end. Mr. Cleveland has surpassed all his competitors in putting up a first part that for spectacular beauty, taste and elegance is unequaled. His performers appear in the rich, gorgeous costumes of Venetian aristocracy, and the stage represents a scene in Venuce at night. As the curtain goes up, two little boys are revealed standing in front of elaborate red velvet portiers. These are gradually drawn uside, bringing to view the circle, back of which is a wall of blue. As another opening discovers the As another opening discovers the musicinus the color changes to orange, and then comes the perspective harbor and city. The effect produced by these various pictures, flashed upon an auditor's vision one after the other, cannot be imagined. The first part of the programme is made up bf good singing, funny stories, laughable jokes, and splendid dancing, with Willis P. Sweatnam and Billy Rice as kings of the carnival. Thereafter following usual bill of special y features, all which are worthy of mention and praise. family of Japanese artists close the entertainment, and their perform-ances are alone worth the price of admission. The balancing, acrobatic feats, and juggling done by them was marvelous. Sweatnam kept the sudience convulsed with his mimitable imitations and come sough

Live Stock Ex hange Meeting. The regular monthly meeting of the South Omaha Live Stock exchange was held in the exchange rooms Monday afternoon. The committee on telegraphic tolls and facilities was continued. The committee on bridge tolls and transportation facilities reported that the desired toll reduction had been made, not wholly the result of the work of the committee. W. H. Boyer was elected a member. Edward A. Cudady was elected a member of the board of directors, vice lames M. Doud resigned.

William Daily called attention of the committee on transportation to the discrimination of the Missouri Pacific railroad company against this city and in favor of Kansas City stating that there is a discrimination of $7 stating that there is a discrimination of $7 a car from Fails City, although the distance is just about equal from Fails City to Kansas City and South Omaha. This matter Mr. Daily suggested was of much importance at the present time, since the packing house at Nebraska City has closed down.

The judge promptly refused to grant the request, and advised the victims in the city across the river to follow his example and save themselves further

A large audience assembled at Dohany's last evening to enjoy "The Phoenix" as pre-sented by Milton Nobles and company. The four villian still continued his preambula-tions after the virtuous female, to the great edification of the audience, and the versatile comedian introduced several new features that could not fail to please. The play has lost little of its interest after a presentation of several years before the theatre-going public, and Milton Nobles has meantime greatly increased his popularity. A move is now on foot to secure the services of General Banks of Omaha, as drill master for the Dodge Light Guard, for the next few months, until Captain Mount can arrange to move to this city from Shenan-doah. If the plan can be carried into effect, it will be a grand thing for the Guards, as General Banks has the reputation of being one of the finest drill masters in this section of the country, and has scored many gratify-ing successes in that line. The Guards are now in splendid shape, are finely equipped, and are only in need of a captain.

The Court on His Muscle.

The chicken-stealing case against the Barrett boys, Ed and Frank, resulted in a disagreement of the jury, four of the jurors favoring acquittal and two stancing for conviction. The case will be tried again this morning. The defendants are still in jail and the prospects are fair for their remaining there. The only sensational feature in connection with the trial was the unmerclful "roasting" administered to the court by Emmett Tinlay, attorney for the defense Emmett Tinlay, attorney for the detense.
In the absence of an attorney for the prosecution, the court examined the witnesses, and the defendants' attorney made numerous objections, which were overruled. In arguing his case before the jury, the attorney trok occasion to censure the court very warmly, and cast several very unpleasant attackers. The acceptance warm sphase at warmly, and cast several very unpleasant reflections. The spectators were aghast at the tirade, and fully expected to see a fine of $50 or $100 inflicted on the attorney for contempt. The court, however, took another way of settling it. After standing the storm as long as he could, he jumped from his chair, and with a very suggestive gesture, informed the attorney that he would mop up the floor with him if he continued his abuse. After that both parties cooled off, and the case was submitted. In referring to the matter afterward, the court stated to the matter afterward, the court stated that he was willing that an attorney should that he was willing that an attorney should touch up the court to a reasonable degree, when he had no case, and it was his only show to get a hold on the jury, "but," he continued, "there is a limit which they must not pass. I don't propose to sit still and let any man abuse me beyond a certain point. It had reached that point, and I had to stop it, and that was all there was to it."

The Coursing Club. The most successful and exciting chase yet had by the Coursing club was that of yesterday morning. The meet was at Green's packing house, just east of the city. It was surmised that the dumping ground, where the offal from the packing house is deposited, about a half mile east of the packing house, would be an excellent place to find wolves, and at that spot the hounds were uncoupled. Three scents were struck at almost the same instant, and away went the divided pack on three different trails.

For the next two hours the huntsmen had a very exciting time, as with three wolves running, one was in sight nearly all of the time. Several shots were fired, but none of them did any more than to cripple the quarry. About 7 o'clock two of the wolves, which were half grown timber wolves, were run down, and about two hours later, the third, a full grown and very large gray wolf, was pulled down. Dr. C. H. Pinney wolf, was pulled down. Dr. C. H. Pinney managed to get in a charge of heavy shot, which tore an ugly hole in the side of the ravenous brute, but with seemingly no other effect than to create a little momentary surprise, as it dashed on faster than ever. About fifteen minutes later the chase again passed the doughty doctor, but the leading passed the doughty doctor, but the leading hound was so close that he did not dare to fire again, and in a very short time it was over. The largest auimal was brought it and displayed during the day at the club's head-quarters at the Manhattan, but the smaller ones were scalped and left upon the hills.

The new hounds recently purchased by the club in Missouri are working in finely, and all matters pertaining tr the chase are progressing swimmingly. The club is just be-ginning to understand the location of the ground, and the most frequented runways, and the meets will continue to grow in interest and exciting features. will be held on Friday morning.

The Main Street Motor.

The electric motor company has already doubled the force at work on the Main street extension, and yesterday fifty men were at work. Superintendent Reynolds states that he will work as large a force as possible, and rush the work to completion as quickly as possible. He hopes to have electric cars running the whole length of Pearl and Main streets by the 15th of October. The line will be double track from Broadway to Tenth avenue, and a single track from that point to the Milwaukee local depot, at the foot of Main street. The poles will be set, and work on the overhead wire commenced, so that all will be in readiness to put the line in operation as soon as the track laving is completed. The street is now torn up from Broadway to Willow avenue, and one track is laid as far as First avenue. Work on the second track was commenced yesterday afternoon, and both will hereafter be kept along near together. Travel on the street is impeded, though not altogether impossible

Queer Elixir Result. Several elixir experiments have been made here, but the public interest in them has flagged. One patient, over seventy years of age, received a treatment, but as an apparent result an abscess was formed. For a time it was feared that the patient would die. The physician who gave the treatment is one who has had little faith in the Elixir. He has even less now. The patient was anxious to have the experiment tried, and because of her many importunities he at last consented. Her condition was such that it seemed she could not live long anyway, so that neither life nor health seemed jeoparthat neither life nor health seemed jeopar-dized. A Beautiful Home. The beautiful home of Judge James on Third avenue is receiving the finishing touches by that famous decorating artist, P. C. Miller. The house has been built under the personal supervision of the judge, and the builders have wrought out his ideas of a home, and Mr. Miller, with the instincts of a true artist, has put on the developing touches, and the result is an ideal home in comfort and beauty, where the judge can enjoy all the happiness to be found in a per-fect house. But the beauty of the home is due perhaps more to Mr. Miller's art than to all else. The parlor is a perfect gem of beauty. The ceiling is done in white and gold pressed paper, with a one-third frieze and wall in two shades of gray. The dec-orations are engraved, and all mouldings and decorations harmonize in general tint. The effect is subdued, mellow and very pleasing. The sitting room, which adjoins, is done in the same general design, but the combina-tion of color is white, blue and gold, with antique oak mouldings to match the wood work and the mantel. The dining room adjoining is a real atalier, where the artistic walls and mantel afford an endless pleasure to the artistic eye. The same general design is followed and the colors are a combination of terra cotta, bronze and olives. The hall has a picrusta ceiling with walls in the rough wi holive tint and hand printed freize in gold and gray. Th upper floor chambers are finished in white and gold, blue and gold and soft gray tints. The whole interior of the house is as perfect as a real artist can make it. It is difficult to determine which descrives the most praise, the home builder who planned it or the artist who made it a poem. It will be a monument to Mr. Miller and a cozy little palace where Judge James can dwell in the case and comfort he has so thoroughly earned.
