DEATH OF SENATOR PAULSEN.

He Dies After a Varied and Successful Career. State Senator John T. Paulsen died yesterday morning at his residence, 2366 Lake street, after an illness of some weeks' duration, from what seemed to be a complication of diseases which baffled the best medical talent in Omaha.

The deceased had been a resident of this city since 1857, coming here from Sheboygan, Wis., where he had followed blacksmithing for a livelihood. He had located there to go into the coal business, having been born in Schleswig-Holstein, April 15, 1838.

For the first year of his residence here, he worked as a tanner, then moved to Florence, but remained there only a short time, returning to Omaha in 1859, and securing employment in the tin shop of John Black, on Douglas street. In 1861 Mr. Paulsen went into the milk business, which he followed for twenty years. When the real estate boom started in 1874, he opened an office and continued in that business until his death.

He, with William A. Paxton and W. H. Hume, was elected to the senate from Douglas county and served his constituents faithfully.

While Mr. Paulsen's death was not unexpected by the family and immediate friends, its announcement will be a surprise to many friends in the city and neighborhood. The funeral will take place from the residence of the deceased, Thursday, at 1 p. m.

JUGGLING FOR GOODMAN. The county commissioners held a short session yesterday, with members Mount, O'Keefe, Corrigan and Anderson present. They were, it was understood, going to settle the drug store matter, but either feared to take final action or wished more delay for log-rolling purposes.
