

FIFTH DAY OF THE FAIR.

It Witnesses an Attendance Almost Equaling That of Thursday.

ATTRACTIONS AT THE COLISEUM.

Final Parade of the Omaha Flambéau Club—An Exhibition Run by the Fire Department—The Races.

The Fair.

Those who imagine that the curiosity and interest of the fair visitors were exhausted by the immense attendance at the fair grounds Thursday, were grievously in error. The attendance yesterday was a very fair imitation of Thursday's crush, and there are about twenty-four thousand people in existence who know what that means. At least that is the number which Treasurer H. G. Clark estimates the attendance Thursday. There were more than twenty-two thousand fair tickets in the box at the close of the day, and this was exclusive entirely of the drummers, the press, the exhibitors, horsemen, jockeys, attendants and judges in the various departments, and the holders of season tickets. When the army of this class is remembered, Treasurer Clark's estimate seems rather conservative. The number of the motor company reports that its cars yesterday yielded 34,000 fares, and the receipts of the cable company are but a trifle smaller than this amount, exclusive of the evening business to the Coliseum.

Yesterday's attendance was also very large. As on other days, the fair grounds were crowded. So many people seemed to have an idea that there would be a fall after Thursday's crush and that they would have a good chance to see the fair exhibits without crowding, that when the idea was fully set on foot, the fair grounds were too full for utterance. At 1 o'clock the crowd in attendance was estimated at 18,000 and was being augmented as rapidly as transportation facilities would admit.

There has been a great deal of coarse and vulgar talk by the visitors to the fair, and the association management have encouraged the amusement, at the gentlemen who have been announced with regularity each day to make a balloon ascension and descend from the clouds by the parachute route. Each day the balloon, which occupies a position of honor at the fair grounds, has been inflated along with the hopes of the country visitors who look upon a balloon ascension as the great attraction at a fair. But the balloon has become the subject of ridicule. The statement of C. T. Hull, who has been billed to make the ascension, rather shifts the responsibility for his failure on the shoulders of the fair association. Mr. Hull claims that his contract with the association calls for $2.50 for each ascension, and $10 for each day on which an ascension is prevented by the weather. He states that his performance was prevented by a tear in the balloon. On Wednesday he was prepared to make an ascent but the association would not allow him to do so as the attendance at the grounds was very light. "The fact is," said Prof. Hull, "the association could get out by paying me $10 on Wednesday and keeping me from making the ascension until they got a thousand dollars worth of advertising out of the attraction." Prof. Hull made two ascensions at Iowa City last week, dropping from the balloon at a height of 3,500 feet.

The judges for the horse exhibits made a number of awards yesterday morning. E. C. Miller, of Fullerton, captured the sweepstakes prize for Clydesdale stallions and mares. James Schuk, of Yuba, won the sweepstakes prize for Percheron stallions and M. M. Co. of Fremont, for Percheron mares.

The horse show this year is very fine indeed. O. O. Heffer, of Nebraska City, has thirty head of English shire and coaching horses that are beautiful specimens of that breed that attract unusual interest are from the Sherrill stock farm at Lexington. Five Clydesdale and one Percheron stallion are exhibited by Treder & Groff, of Atlantic, Ia. Another Atlantic man, John S. Barber, has a horse on the grounds that is a stunner. He is Peacock, a nineteen-year-old Cleveland bay stallion that took first prize at the continental in 1876. He has taken thirty-two premiums in all, most of them in Canada, that home of fine horses. M. M. Co. of Fremont, has twenty head of Percherons, and Fred Hagdorn, of Omaha, has twelve Percherons on exhibition. Joseph Watson & Co., of Heatrice, exhibit some fine shire and draft horses, and the Merchants' stock company shows a fine lot of Percherons and Clydesdales, also some fine race stock.

In the fine art department there are 1,100 entries.

There is no department in the field of art which is not represented in this hall. Here is the housewife's homestead and domestic wares, and the handwork of the needle in every line, while the miss under fifteen, and the lady over sixty years, have specimens of darning, patching, knitting, embroidery, hemstitching, etc.

The east end of the hall is occupied by a very valuable oriental collection, made by Mr. C. H. Dwyer, Omaha's greatest traveler, in his journeys around the world, through those kindness the fair association secured them.

These articles of rare merit both entertain and instruct. A very valuable book is that representing in tri-colored, every industry in human, and secured a great trade.

There are also in this collection some beautiful antiques, an elaborate "Intaglio Gem"—"Via Pompeii" and the "Atlantic List."

The Fair's Finances.

"We are not yet out of the hole," said Treasurer Clark, speaking of the fair's receipts yesterday morning. "That is a good attendance to-day and to-morrow will put us out all right and leave a small margin."

The attendance at the fair this week has been about the same as that of last week. On Monday the attendance was just about the same as that of the same day last year. Tuesday's crowd was a trifle less, but on Wednesday and Thursday last year, but the paid tickets were about the same. The deadhead list has increased wonderfully. The expenses of the association are very large. It is estimated that $30,000 offered in premiums and about 50 percent of this amount will have to be paid, some of the claims are for $100,000. In addition, the preliminary expenses of the fair, advertising, etc., the daily expense of operating the show is very large. The pay roll has increased on its line. The twenty watchmen, twenty gatekeepers, eighteen ticket sellers and fifteen carpenters in addition to the clerks in the various offices, messengers, marshals and other employees.

The Hand Contest.

There were two contests for the hand contest, the Oretes and the West Point Juveniles. The contest has been announced to take place at the high school grounds, at the Coliseum and at the fair grounds in the afternoon. Consequently when the contest was held at the high school grounds, the audience at the fair grounds yesterday afternoon was very small, the people who were on the ground being scattered through the exhibit and not a large crowd of the contest.

The contests were Julius Meyer, Prof. A. Heats and Martin Cahn. The two bands rendered a grand march, the two of the party being to quick-steps, and were warmly applauded by the favored few who heard them. The judges will announce their decisions on the merits of the music-makers to-day.

THE RACES.

Result of Yesterday's Speed Events at the Driving Park.

There is no mistake about it, the races are the one grand attraction at the fair, and yesterday afternoon the masses were on hand at an early hour, completely filling the grand stand, and forming a solid phalanx along the stretches. The paddock presented an exhilarating picture, being crowded as it was, with stylish turnouts filled with brave men and beautiful women. The setting was livelier than on any previous day, and the pool sheds were filled with a jostling crowd of not the entire afternoon. The weather, barometer rather stiff breeze, was glorious, the track in perfect shape, and the contests exceedingly interesting.

The first event was the unfinished 2:30 stallion trot. Talavera, the champion, by reason of winning the last heat Thursday evening. Starter Wheeler gave the race a tolerably good send-off, with Talavera in the lead, Jennis Fatus, however, displaced him on the back stretch, and was never headed, Mambrino acting badly, and succeeded in getting the first place.

The fifth heat was quite exciting, Fatus and Talavera making a spirited contest for first honors. Fatus, however, showed a better bottom in the last lap, and came under the wire a winner by two lengths. Time—2:35.4.

Jennis Fatus, after being mulcted $10 for needless jockeying at the start, finally got away abreast with Talavera, but gradually pulling away won the heat and race. Time—2:35.5.

The trot for foals of 1885 was a walkover for Hettie, owned by J. P. Knobs, of Sioux City, Chi., who was the only entry, having been withdrawn. Time—2:50.4.

Childhood in Charlie McCormick's 10,000 station, and on Friday, when he was the time for calling the race, was seized with a hemorrhage, and is a very sick horse.

The first of the regular scheduled events on yesterday afternoon's card was the free-for-all pace, purse $500. The starters were as follows: Lorene, blk. m., Fort Sullivan, black, Calumet, Fred Arthur, b. g., Geo. Grimes, Chicago, and Turk Franklin, br. g., D. A. Hancock, Hackbarre, Mo. The horses drew their places in the order above named.

The first heat was a superb one, Fred Arthur and Charlie McCormick's little black mare were the only entries. The race was a head and neck, with Turk taking the dust several lengths behind. In swinging into the home stretch, McCormick's mare was on her wonderful way and he went by Lorene like a gust of wind. McCormick's mare was the only one that was approaching home, seeing that it was foolhardy to attempt to beat Arthur out. Time—2:35.4.

The second heat was a decided advantage in getting off, and at the half mile led by a good two lengths, with Turk second and McCormick's mare behind. On the third quarter, Turk did some handsome work, and not only pulled up alongside the fleet-footed Arthur, but was high in the race, and in the stretch at a cutting race, beating Grimes under the string by twenty yards. Time—2:35.4.

The judges immediately announced that they were very much dissatisfied with the way the heat was driven, and while they were in the mood, they decided to declare off. The horses were driven, and while they were in the mood, they decided to declare off.

A good start was made for the third heat, but the horses were so close together that the race was a head and neck, with Turk taking the dust several lengths behind. In swinging into the home stretch, McCormick's mare was on her wonderful way and he went by Lorene like a gust of wind. EXPOSITION MARVELS.

More of the Exhibits Which Adorn the Place.

Among the exhibits at the Coliseum not already published are the following:

McCord, Brady & Co.—A large tastefully arranged display of car goods, pickles, preserves and spices.

William Snyder—Large exhibit of costly vehicles, including an expensive phaeton to be presented to President Harrison at the close of the exposition.

McClure Cracker Company—An elaborate display of fancy crackers, cakes, biscuits and wafers.

The Century Company, of New York—A perfect library containing samples of their different publications. Engravings enlarged from illustrations which have appeared in their magazines.

H. H. Davis—An exhibit of hair goods and fine millinery.

The Woodman Lined Oil Company—Exhibit of lined oil in all states of its production from flax seed and oil cake to the oil itself.

Russell, Pratt & Co.—Gas fixtures, costly chandeliers, and elaborate stand lamps all tastefully arranged.

The exhibit of the Western Casket Company is excellently arranged and consists of coffins of all sizes, styles and materials.

William Barz—Magnificent silks from the Paris exposition, handsome gowns and hats and a large display of millinery.

J. J. Cushing—A huge pickle bottle made of smaller bottles and jars containing pickles, spices and sauces.

Omaha Mantel Manufacturing Company—Two different exhibits, each consisting of four costly mantels.

The Cent Store—A large display of toys and fancy articles artistically arranged, and attracting great attention.

Hayward Brothers—Shoes of all kinds, different kinds of shoes, leather and fancy tops.

Hill & Young—Large display of stoves, furniture, carpets and rugs.

C. B. Moore—Baskets of luscious fruits, spices and pickles.

William Darg—An exhibit that would make Whiskey Jack say "no" and die. It consists of a huge wheel made of bottles filled with everything from Pomeroy Seed to Old Crow whiskey.

FOR THE SECOND TIME.

The Omaha Flambéau Club Makes Its Final Display.

The second parade of the Omaha Flambéau club occurred last night and was a magnificent sight. The pyrotechnic display was far better than that of Wednesday evening and was exhibited in a much better light.

The club, headed by the Cretes corner band, left the armory of the Omaha Guards at 8:30 and marched direct to Fifteenth street, where the display proper began. As would be expected by the parade, the display was a magnificent one.

The Omaha guards, or a portion of them, armed with shot guns, fired a volley of fire, and from thence until the parade closed the city resembled the battle of Gettysburg as far as noise was concerned.

The line of march was down Capitol avenue from the armory to Fifteenth street, thence south to Jackson, east to Fifteenth, thence north to Cumming, west to Sixteenth, north to Cumming, west to Seventeenth, south to Capitol avenue, where the parade closed.

The Flambéau club has been one of the important features of the Merchants' week celebration, and it is to be regretted that the organization has no permanent character.

The uniforms and fireworks cost over $1,000, which was money well spent. It is due to President Chabour and Secretary Parmelee that the club was a success.

The Fire Department's Run.

The fire department added to the attractions of Merchants' week last night by making a run from Seventeenth street and Capitol avenue to Cumming street. An immense crowd gathered along the line to witness the event. The fire engine was driven by Van Duse and carried by Starter Wheeler.

The first heat was a decided advantage in getting off, and at the half mile led by a good two lengths, with Turk taking the dust several lengths behind. On the third quarter, Turk did some handsome work, and not only pulled up alongside the fleet-footed Arthur, but was high in the race, and in the stretch at a cutting race, beating Grimes under the string by twenty yards. CHARLIE DALY'S BENEFIT.

Lindsay's Open-Def Meet An Event.

The benefit tendered Charlie Daly, the St. Louis fighter, at the Gate City athletic club rooms, last evening, was well attended. The programme consisted of a number of exciting bouts between professionals and amateurs.

Paddy Murray and Jack Hoylo, South Omaha aspirants for "Rustic" renown, opened up the entertainment with a rattling four round go.

Arthur Rothery, of this city, and the old "Rusty" Evans, of St. Louis, followed. "Rusty" is one of the old school, which shows up lamely along side the style and tactics of the new. Young Rothery was as clever as usual, but the old man was a hard nut to crack, and he did him yet, despite the load of years he carries on his stooped shoulders.

Prof. Rothery, of South Omaha, and Dick Tompkins were the next to don the mits. Cranston was full of grand stand play, while Mr. Tompkins is what is called a "fencer," admitted by thousands, for all classes of boxing, and one of the best exponents to the nervous and debilitated is that BECHAM'S PILLS HAVE THE LARGEST SALE OF ANY PATENT MEDICINE IN THE WORLD.
