Vermont Goes on Record in the Ceremonial Controversy—A Signal Case of Rebellious Knights and the Offense Committed.

Masonic. "The Scottish Rite is still the theme of talk among the masons," said one prominent master and sir knight.

There are numerous such expressions heard from those who do not belong to either of the contending Scottish Rite factions.

The United States, or several men, are firm and honest, and the sticking to do with their organization, as they in no way conflict with the grand lodge.

They claim the right to join any church or any society so long as they do not neglect their duties or violate their obligations to the blue lodge.

CUSSIDNESS OF THE MAN

The Main Cause for Desertion From the Army.

THE RECRUITING SYSTEM BAD.

Evil Effects of Making Soldiers Act as Mechanics—Local Recruitments—Col. Henry's Views, Etc., Etc.

Army Desertions. Colonel Guy V. Henry, formerly inspector of small-arms practice, department of the Platte, was asked lately for his opinion in regard to desertions from the army, the cause and remedy.

"Desertions are now the bane of the service, and largely on the increase," said the colonel. "By some they are attributed to the treatment of the enlisted man, or the menial service required of him. For this there is no foundation in fact, for at times the greatest numbers desert from the best-cared for commands; and, as to menial service, there is none. A soldier has to do a certain amount of police work, in order to keep the garrison clean, and, in doing this work, as required to be done, is not always agreeable, but necessary, such as work around stables; cleaning of vaults, kitchen work, tool and cleaning yards, parade grounds, etc. But this work is part of a soldier's duty. The cadets at West Point can be seen with wheelbarrows, picking up cigar stumps, cleaning the campus, sweeping out rooms, and making their beds. For a man to enlist, and suppose all he has to do is to put on a uniform, drill and listen to a band is a mistake, and a grave error which leads to many desertions. Drilling is a small part of a soldier's life.

Though treatment on the part of officers is a cause for desertion because no officer dare lay his hands on a soldier as the law provides for legal punishment for such conduct, and an application for redress of grievances is open to every man, the ration is not sufficient and supplemented by the proceeds of the canteen. They allow men to live as well as could be desired. You see complaints sometimes in the newspapers that soldiers have to wait on officers. What if they do, outside of their military duty? It is entirely voluntary and for which the man is paid and glad of the detail. It is generally the best men in the company and not the grumbler who is selected. The officers are envious of the soldier, robber soldier, whom they dub a dog robbler and striker.

"What then can be the cause of desertions? The answer is: the general discontent of the enlisted man, who is not physically qualified, and is not a sot, or drunk at the time, he is taken for the army and consigned generally to the worst element. Would a business man so choose his clerks or employees? Would he choose them without the slightest search into their character, or the requirements of references? The recruiting officer who is enjoying himself in a city says he has not time to look into these matters, and as his work is judged by quantity rather than quality, he is not to be blamed for this. He is getting, evidently, that obtaining one good man who will serve his term, is better for the service, and for economy, than to enlist ten men who will desert in six months time.

Officers travel around and look up good young men, farmers' sons who have families, or references for character, who, being known in the locality, have no such price to pay, and give him about one-fourth of what he would obtain in citizen life. He enlists to avoid this, and yet he has forced upon him an occupation for which he did not enlist, and for which he is not prepared. If congress should require that we have an army of soldiers, and to each troop, battery or company, authorize the enlistment of proportion of cooks, bakers, teamsters, carpenters, or, under the commissary and quartermaster departments let a corps of such be organized, enlisted and assigned to posts in regiments as required.

Let us see how things were formerly, these same men were taken from companies. What we need now is a corps of mechanics. One-fourth the number of such men, so enlisted for duties, well known to them, and property paid, would do more than four times the number under the present system of details from companies, which are thus depleted of those enlisted for a soldier's duty. A man cannot work a day as an enlisted man, and yet, we find citizen, shielding and harboring those who have thus disgraced themselves, and who, but for the advance in civilization, would be branded with the letter 'D' upon their forehead, and receive upon their initiation, a tattoo, well known with a cat o' nine tails."

SINGULARITIES. Lebanon, Penn., boasts of a cat that has raised a family of sixty-eight kittens. The bottom fell out of a well being dug at Rome, Ga., and opened the way into an immense cave.

The "fattest boy" in West Virginia lives in Wetzel county. His age is nine years and his weight 21 pounds.

The family of Richard Rockwell, of Clark county, Missouri, consists of seven children, three of them triplets and two of them twins. The triplets are ten years old.

Francis Robert, a well known miller of Carthage, Mo., died last week under peculiar circumstances. His death was the direct result of irritation from a beard from a head of wheat which lodged his throat.

An extraordinary phenomenon was witnessed in the city of St. Louis, Mo., on Saturday last. A man was seen walking down the street with a cat o' nine tails.

The Rev. E. D. Hammond, three years ago became pastor of a Baptist church in Pittsburg. Since then he has largely increased the membership of the church and has been a $25,000 edifier. But some of the members recently discovered that he was a snoker, and he was rapidly very unpopular.

Among the most active unionists are the Hebrew workers in the various industries. The United Hebrew Brotherhood, which claims a membership of over 3,000. The Hebrew Jewellers' union has established regular headquarters in Orchard street. The Hebrew program has been expanded, two members who took the places of strikers in a printing office.

The sixteenth convention of the National Western Association of the United States meets in Battery D, Chicago, November 8, and continues through the 12th, with meetings special interest on the Sabbath day. An extraordinary religious fraud is reported from Croatia. The whole population was wrought up to a great pitch of excitement by an announcement that the virgin had appeared in a forest. A shrine was built at once and branches and in its center a table was set into the ground, looking into which the virgin was said to be visible to all true believers, who forthwith laid down their offerings under the sacred spot.

Colonel Sinn says he did not purchase the American rights of Wilson Barrett's melodrama, "Good Old Times," for Cora Turner. That lady will continue to star in "Good Old Times" for the cologne.

It appears that the statement made in last week's issue of The Bee to the effect that the United States court at St. Louis had decided that counterfeiting the blue label of the Knights of Labor was not a crime and was not punishable by law, was an error which should be charged to the printer. The court has decided that the Bee from St. Louis denies the statement and asserts that it was the result of a misunderstanding of a ruling of the court on a motion made in the trial. But that does not change the determination of the court regarding the incorporation of the label on a trade mark, and the court has decided, registered a label only, and at the next annual meeting of the International, steps will be taken to have it registered as a trademark.

Speaking of labels recalls the circular issued by the cigarmakers' union to other unions of the city last week, regarding the decrease of 10 per cent in cigar makers in the city. This is due to the fact that union made cigars are not handled in sufficient quantities to be sold in the city. The cigarmakers have appealed to other organizations to assist them by refusing to purchase cigars unless the box bears the label of the union. The cigarmakers believe that in a short time their affairs will be in good condition.

John Rowe, one of the master steam and hot water fitters of the city, is in Chicago attending a meeting of the association, which is held in the city. It was a meeting of the kind which appeared in yesterday's Bee. The objects of the meeting are to formulate a scale by which manufacturers of steam and hot water supplies, the idea being to prevent those outside the trade from enjoying the liberal discounts which are given to the members of the association in general and which interfered with their business to a great extent. It is proposed to form a sort of gentlemen's agreement for mutual protection.

The feat performed by Jack Winston, the celebrated St. Louis shot, in his 1100 shot competition with the members of the club, has never been surpassed, or even equalled. One hundred straight blue rocks, sixteen yards from the target, were shot in 10 minutes, and the best record ever made.
