MARRIAGE A FAILURE.

The Fact Exemplified in the Case of Mr. and Mrs. P. Woodmansce. It all arose over a simple game of dice throwing

Only a few weeks ago Peter Woodmansee, proprietor of the Exposition saloon, at Fifteenth and Capitol avenue, led to the altar a charming young bride, whose name was Jen-

For a month the couple was as happy and contented as two turtle doves. Then there came a change, Mrs. Woodmansce, who had previously been a waiter girl in a res-taurant, became aristocratic in her tastes. She was dissatisfied with the flat in which she and her husband were living and desired to move into a private residence. Their rooms were in the same block in which Mr. Woodmansee conducts his business. The husband remonstrated and told his wife that, in the spring, they would move out and for a few days afterwards the bride was apparently contented with her home. But it was only a few days. Two weeks ago Woodmansee was late in calling for his wife to go to lunch. In fact, it is said, he was in his saicon below shaking dice with friends. His wife sent for him three times and then called for him herself. He accompanied her to their room instanter. Woodmansee endeavored to explain that Woodmansee endeavored to explain that his delay was purely a matter of business. The apology, however, was not accepted. Mrs. Woodmansee had packed her trunk and asserted that she was going buck to her home in Iowa and would never live with him

Mrs. Woodmansee then left her husband and remained with friends on Nineteenth street, in the rear of the Swedish Lutheran church, until last Thursday, when she went to her home in Eckhart, Ia., where her par-

The lady was seen by a reporter for THE Beg and said: "I never did love Wood-mansee, but he was always so good and kind to me that I thought in time I should learn to love him. But it seems that I could not. I have no complaint to make of him except that he gave me rooms in quarters where my associations were anything but pleasant. I am going home and visit my parents, but nay return to Omahu.

Mr. Woodmansee will at once commence proceedings for a divorce on the grounds of

A BEARTY PIONEER.

General D. B. McKibben and His Early Washingtonian Experience.

General D. B. McKibben, a pioneer, 'and father of General Purchasing Agent McKibben, of the Union Pacific, is in Omaha, and will remain here the guest of his son for about three weeks.

"I have just returned from a trip to the Pacific coast," said the general, "after an absence of twenty-eight years. I was stationed in Washington territory from 1855 to 1861. In 1861 I left there to participate in the war of the rebeliion. When I left the territory no steamers disturbed the placid waters of Puget Sound, and there were but few indications of civilization. Imagine my surprise when I found on old Indian hunting grounds thriving cities. There is Seattle, Olympia, Portland and a dozen other thriving towns which now tower up from what was then a vast waste. And even in Nebraska the change has wiped out a then un-known and dangerous west." General McKloben is journeying along in the vicinity of his sixty-fifth mile-stone in life, but he is yet a robust and active man.

CHARACTER IN BUSINESS.

What Mr. Hopkins Said of it at Cleveland.

At the convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, held last week in Cleveland, several addresses were made by the delegates from the Trinity guild of this city. One of these was made by Mr. A. P. Hopkins, president of the Commercial National bank, who in speaking upon a higher standard of character in business,

I believe that it is right, for young men in starting out in business to have high hopes of success. The requisites are training and adaptability, but the most important is a high standard of character. It is to that the st and greatest success is due every form is destructive. Wherever it is a controlling force, there is decay. The young man who does a dishonest act, does houself an injury. One of the greatest evis in our business life is the intense desire to gain wealth rapidly. The result is failure to attain the desired end, or at least the sacrifice of a high moral character. The rapid accumulation of wealth in this country is bringing added responsibility. Unless the vast accumulations are administered as a trust from the divine giver of all things, there is danger that they may even cause the nation's downfail.

Sweeping Eighteenth Street. OMAHA, Sept. 29.—To the Editor of THE BEE: Sir, I would like our worthy mayor to give his reasons for vetoing a resolution for the sweeping of north Eighteenth street. As a tax-payer for twenty-one years in the Fifth ward, I think it proper, and indeed necessary that that street should be swept, and I can safely affirm that all, or nearly all of the residents feel as I do. The street has been paved for nearly one year, and no sweeping has been done. The mayor may have taken a drive on the street after a cy-clone had cleaned it, and then say it does not need sweeping, because the dust and dirt have been blown into our hall ways and parlors. The consequence is that our dutiful wives have got to do inside of our houses what we, as tax-payers are paying to be done outside. Let us have the street swept.

A large number of bids were received and the bonds reached the highest figure for which Omaha's debentures have ever sold and they have always sold for at least 2 per cent more than the bonds of any western city. The city hall bonds went to N. W. Harris & Co., of Chicago, who paid a premium thereon of 7 389-1000 per cent. The district paving bonds were awarded to S. A. Keane & Co., of Chicago, at 5 76-100 per

LAYS DOWN THE EAGLE,

Deputy Marshal Allen's Badge Goes to David Mercer.

Ed Allen ended his official career as deputy United States marshal yesterday. While he has quit the office and retired to private life, his successor, D. H. Mercer, cannot be sworn in until Judge Dundy returns to administer the oath.

Mr. Allen says he expects to remain in Omaha. He has two or three good offers to engage in business, but has not yet decided which he will accept. Mr. Allen entered the marshal's office under Ellis Bierbower, as chief of deputies nine years ago. He has had charge in that time of the court business and practically performed nearly all the active duties of the Speaking of the many big cases handled by him, Mr. Allen recites the excit-ing experience of a fifteen-days tustle with the Home Cattle company at Sidney. M. M. Coad neld mortgages on the property, which the deputy marshal was forced to fore-close; and, while getting out the necessary papers to levy and take possessing of the company's stock, one or two of the members got wind of what was coming and organized a scheme to defeat Mr. Coad's plans. The ranch of the company, consisting of 4,000 acres, was inclosed with a wire fence.

When Allen reached Sidney with the documents required, to seize every animal branded with the monogram of the concern, he discovered that the fence had been cut and not a hoof or horn could be found. The stock had been permitted to go at will and was scattered over forty miles of territory. He then organized a round-up force and proceeded to scour the country. It took him fifteen days to make his levies, but succeeded in a most satisfactory manner.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. We know of no remedy for dyspepsia more successful than Hood's Sarsaparilla. It acts gently, yet surely and efficiently, tones the stomach and other organs, removes the faint feeling, creates a good appetite, cures headache, and refreshes the burdened mind. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial. It will do you good.

An Erring Husband. Mrs. Anderson McQuarter sent from Lincoln yesterday to have her husband arrested for adultery.

The other woman in the case is Hattie Carter, who lives in the eastern part of Omaha.

Mrs. McQuarter is as black as a Rock Springs lump of coal. To a BEE reporter she stated that she had been married to her husband for eight years. August last, he left Lincoln, ostensibly to go to the Black Hills. Instead, however, he came to Omaha and began living with the Carter woman. Warrants have been issued for the accest of both McQuarter and Hattie Carter.

The William street Presbyterian church, Fifth and William streets, avas organized on Thursday last and the officers were installed Sunday night.

The church comprises fifteen members and a large congregation in full sympathy with it. The chapel is 30x36 feet in size and the finances are said to be in an excellent condition. Arrangements have been made for services every Sunday evening. With a large Sunday school, a young paople's society and a thickly settled community from which to draw, this church begins with bright prospects of rapid growth.
